In case of breach or withdrawal of undertakings by any party to the undertaking, or in case of withdrawal of acceptance of the undertaking by the Commission, the acceptance of the undertaking must, after consultation, be withdrawn by Commission decision or regulation, as appropriate, and the provisional duty which has been imposed by the Commission⁴ or the definitive duty which has been imposed by the EC Council⁵ will automatically apply, provided that the exporter concerned has, except where he himself has withdrawn the undertaking, been given an opportunity to comment⁶. Any interested party or member state may submit information showing prima facie evidence of a breach of an undertaking⁷. The subsequent assessment of whether or not a breach of an undertaking has occurred must normally be concluded within six months, but in no case later than nine months following a duly substantiated request⁸. The Commission may request the assistance of the competent authorities of the member states in the monitoring of undertakings⁹.

A provisional anti-dumping duty may, after consultation¹⁰, be imposed¹¹ on the basis of the best information available where there is reason to believe that an undertaking is being breached, or in the case of breach or withdrawal of an undertaking where the investigation which led to the undertaking has not been concluded¹².

359. Imposition of definitive anti-dumping duty.

Where the facts as finally established show that there is dumping and injury¹ caused thereby, and the Community interest calls for intervention², a definitive anti-dumping duty must be imposed by the EC Council, acting on a proposal submitted by the Commission after consultation of the Advisory Committee³. The proposal must be adopted by the Council unless it decides by a simple majority to reject the proposal, within a period of one month after its submission by the Commission⁴. Where provisional duties⁵ are in force, a proposal for definitive action must be submitted not later than one month before the expiry of such duties⁶. The amount of the anti-dumping duty must not exceed the margin of dumping⁷ established but it should be less than the margin if such lesser duty would be adequate to remove the injury to the Community industry⁸.

An anti-dumping duty must be imposed in the appropriate amounts in each case, on a non-discriminatory basis on imports of a product from all sources found to be dumped and causing injury, except as to imports from those sources from which undertakings⁹ have been accepted¹⁰. The regulation imposing the duty¹¹ must specify the duty for each supplier or, if that is impracticable¹², the supplying country concerned¹³.

3 Ibid art 9(4) (substituted by EC Council Regulation 461/2004 (OJ L77, 13.3.2004, p 12) art 1(3)). The complainants, importers and exporters and their representative associations, and representatives of the exporting country, may request full disclosure of the essential facts and considerations on the basis of which it is intended to recommend the imposition of definitive measures, or the termination of an investigation or proceedings without the imposition of measures, particular attention being paid to the disclosure of any facts or considerations which are different from those used for provisional measures (see PARA 355 ante): EC Council Regulation 384/96 (OJ L56, 6.3.96, p 1) art 20(2). Requests for final disclosure must be addressed to the Commission in writing and be received, in cases where a provisional duty has been applied, not later than one month after publication of the imposition of that duty: art 20(3). Where a provisional duty has not been applied, parties must be provided with an opportunity to request final disclosure within time limits set by the Commission: art 20(3). As to the Advisory Committee see PARA 349 note 11 ante.

Final disclosure must be given in writing; and it must be made, due regard being had to the protection of confidential information, as soon as possible and normally not later than one month prior to a definitive decision or the submission by the Commission of any proposal for final action pursuant to art 9 (as amended): art 20(4). Where the Commission is not in a position to disclose certain facts or considerations at that time, these must be disclosed as soon as possible thereafter: art 20(4). Disclosure does not prejudice any subsequent decision which may be taken by the Commission or the Council; but where such decision is based on any different facts and considerations, these must be disclosed as soon as possible: art 20(4).

Representations made after final disclosure is given must be taken into consideration only if received within a period to be set by the Commission in each case, which must be at least ten days, due consideration being given to the urgency of the matter: art 20(5).

6 EC Council Regulation 384/96 (OJ L56, 6.3.96, p 1) art 9(4) (as substituted: see note 3 supra). Under art 9(4) (as substituted) and art 10(2) (see PARA 360 post) it is for the Council, in accordance with the procedure laid down therein, to decide on the imposition of definitive duties and, if need be, on the definitive collection of provisional duties. In conferring this power upon it, the Community legislature has left it to the Council to decide whether and to what extent it is necessary to follow the Commission's proposal and it is not, therefore, obliged prima facie to adopt it in any case. At this stage of the procedure the Council enjoys the broad discretion which the Community authorities have in deciding whether to adopt protective measures, after evaluating, in particular, the interests of the Community, which involves the appraisal of complex economical situations. Without it being necessary, in the interim proceedings, to determine the limits of that power of assessment of the Council, in particular in relation to the Commission's powers in undertaking the investigation, an order requiring the Council to adopt the Commission's proposal to impose definitive anti-dumping duties would, at first sight, involve an interference with that power, incompatible with the distribution of powers between the various Community institutions, and the grant of such an order cannot, therefore, be entertained: Case T-213/97R Committee of the Cotton and Allied Textile Industries of the European Union v EU Council [1997] ECR II-1609, CFI. When the institutions, acting under the basic regulations, adopt specific protective measures against dumping, they enjoy a wide discretion by reason of the complexity of the economic, political and legal situations they have to examine: Case C-69/89 Nakajima All Precision Co Ltd v EC Council [1991] ECR I-2069 at 2192, ECJ; Case C-26/96 Rotexchemie International Handels GmbH & Co v Hauptzollamt Hamburg-Waltershof [1997] ECR I-2817 at 2840, ECJ; Case T-164/94 Ferchimex SA v EU Council [1995] ECR II-2681 at 2726, CFI; Case T-162/94 NMB France SARL v EC Commission [1996] ECR II-427 at 456-457, [1997] 3 CMLR 164 at 186, CFI; Case T-155/94 Climax Paper Converters Ltd v EU Council [1996] ECR II-873 at 905-906, [1996] All ER (EC) 781 at 797, [1996] 3 CMLR 1031 at 1052, CFI; Case T-170/94 Shanghai Bicycle Corp v EU Council [1997] ECR II-1383 at 1407, CFI. It follows that review of such assessments by the Community judicature must be limited to verifying whether the relevant procedural rules have been complied with, whether the facts on which the contested choice is based have been accurately stated and whether there has been a manifest error of assessment of the facts or a misuse of power: Case 240/84 NTN Toyo Bearing Co Ltd v EC Council [1987] ECR 1809 at 1854, [1989] 2 CMLR 76 at 109, ECJ; Case 258/84 Nippon Seiko KK v EC Council [1987] ECR 1923 at 1964, ECJ; Case C-156/87 Gestetner Holdings plc v EC Council and EC Commission [1990] ECR I-781 at 824-825, ECJ; Case C-26/96 Rotexchemie International Handels GmbH & Co v Hauptzollamt Hamburg-Waltershof supra at 2840; Case T-155/94 Climax Paper Converters Ltd v EU Council supra at 905-906, at 1052 and at 797; Case T-170/94 Shanghai Bicycle v EU Council supra at 1408; Case T-118/96 Thai Bicycle Industry Co Ltd v EU Council (1998) Transcript 17 July, CFI.

11 Provisional or definitive anti-dumping duties are to be imposed by Regulation: EC Council Regulation 384/96 (OJ L56, 6.3.96, p 1) art 14(1). Regulations imposing provisional or definitive anti-dumping duties, and regulations or decisions accepting undertakings or terminating investigations or proceedings, are to be published in the Official Journal of the European Communities: art 14(2). Such regulations or decisions must contain in particular and with due regard to the protection of confidential information, the names of the exporters, if possible, or of the countries involved, a description of the product and a summary of the material facts and considerations relevant to the dumping and injury determinations: art 14(2). In each case, a copy of the regulation or decision must be sent to known interested parties: art 14(2). The provisions of art 14(2) apply mutatis mutandis to reviews: art 14(2).

12 And in general where ibid art 2(7)(a) (as substituted and amended) applies. Article 2(7)(a) (substituted by EC Council Regulation 905/98 (L128, 30.4.98, p 18) art 1; and amended by EC Council Regulation 2238/2000 (OJ L257, 11.10.2000, p 2) art 1) makes provision for the determination of normal value in the cases of imports from non-market economy countries (including Albania, Armenia, Azerbaijan, Belarus, Georgia, North Korea, Kyrgyzstan, Moldavia, Mongolia, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan and Uzbekistan) on the basis of the price or constructed value in a market economy third country, or the price from such a third country to other countries, including the Community, or where those are not possible, on any other reasonable basis, including the price actually paid or payable in the Community for the like product, duly adjusted if necessary to include a reasonable profit margin.

Where EC Council Regulation 384/96 (OJ L56, 6.3.96, p 1) art 2(7)(a) (as substituted and amended) applies, an individual duty must, however, be specified for the exporters which can demonstrate, on the basis of properly substantiated claims, that: (1) in the case of wholly or partly foreign-owned firms or joint ventures, exporters are free to repatriate capital and profits; (2) export prices and quantities, and conditions and terms of sale, are freely determined; (3) the majority of the shares belong to private persons; (4) exchange rate conversions are carried out at the market rate; and (5) state interference is not such as to permit circumvention of measures if individual exporters are given different rates of duty: art 9(5) (as substituted: see note 10 supra). For the purposes of head (3) supra, either state officials appearing on the board of directors or holding key management positions must be in a minority or it must be demonstrated that the company is nonetheless sufficiently independent from state interference: art 9(5) (as so substituted).

When the Commission has limited its examination in accordance with art 17 (sampling: see PARA 352 ante), any anti-dumping duty applied to imports from exporters or producers which have made themselves known in accordance with art 17 but were not included in the examination must not exceed the weighted average margin of dumping established for the parties in the sample: art 9(6). For the purpose of art 9(6), the Commission must disregard any zero and de minimis margins and margins established in the circumstances referred to in art 18 (non co-operation: see PARA 352 note 3 ante): art 9(6). Individual duties must be applied to imports from any exporter or producer which is granted individual treatment, as provided in art 17: art 9(6).

13 Ibid art 9(5) (as substituted: see note 10 supra).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/1. CUSTOMS DUTIES/(24) COMMON COMMERCIAL POLICY OF THE COMMUNITY/(ii) Anti-dumping Duties/360. Retroactivity of anti-dumping measures.

360. Retroactivity of anti-dumping measures.

Definitive anti-dumping duties must only be applied to products which enter free circulation after the time when the decision taken by the EC Council to impose such duty¹ enters into force². Where a provisional duty has been applied and the facts, as finally established, show that there is dumping and injury³, the Council must decide, irrespective of whether a definitive anti-dumping duty is to be imposed, what proportion of the provisional duty is to be definitively collected⁴.

If the definitive anti-dumping duty is higher than the provisional duty, the difference is not to be collected; if the definitive duty is lower than the provisional duty, the duty must be recalculated; and where the final determination is negative, the provisional duty is not to be confirmed⁵.

A definitive anti-dumping duty may be levied on products which were entered for consumption not more than 90 days prior to the date of the application of provisional measures but not prior to the initiation of the investigation⁶, provided that imports have been registered⁷, the Commission has allowed the importers concerned the opportunity to comment, and:

- 774 (1) there is, for the product in question, a history of dumping over an extended period, or the importer was aware of, or should have been aware of, the dumping as regards the extent of the dumping and the injury alleged or found; and
- 775 (2) in addition to the level of imports which caused injury during the investigation period, there is a further substantial rise in imports which, in the light of its timing and volume and other circumstances, is likely seriously to undermine the remedial effect of the definitive anti-dumping duty to be applied⁸.

1 le pursuant to EC Council Regulation 384/96 (OJ L56, 6.3.96, p 1) art 9(4) (as substituted): see PARA 359 ante.

2 Ibid art 10(1). Article 10(1) is subject to the exceptions in EC Council Regulation 384/96 (OJ L56, 6.3.96, p 1) (as amended): art 10(1).

3 For this purpose, 'injury' does not include material retardation of the establishment of a Community industry, nor threat of material injury, except where it is found that this would, in the absence of provisional measures, have developed into material injury: ibid art 10(2). In all other cases involving such threat or retardation, any provisional amounts must be released and definitive duties may only be imposed from the date that a final determination of threat or material retardation is made: art 10(2). For the usual meaning of 'injury' see PARA 354 note 1 ante; and for the meaning of 'Community industry' see PARA 350 ante.

4 Ibid art 10(2). As to the operation of art 9(4) (as substituted) (see PARA 359 ante) and art 10(2) see Case T-213/97R Committee of the Cotton and Allied Textile Industries of the European Union v EU Council [1997] ECR II-1609, CFI; and PARA 359 note 6 ante.

7 The Commission may, after consultation of the Advisory Committee, direct customs authorities to take the appropriate steps to register imports, so that measures may subsequently be applied against those imports from the date of registration: EC Council Regulation 384/96 (OJ L56, 6.3.96, p 1) art 14(5). Imports may be made subject to registration following a request from the Community industry which contains sufficient evidence to justify such action: art 14(5). Registration is to be introduced by regulation which must specify the purpose of the action and, if appropriate, the estimated amount of possible future liability: art 14(5). Imports must not be made subject to registration for a period longer than nine months: art 14(5). As to the Advisory Committee see PARA 349 note 11 ante.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/1. CUSTOMS DUTIES/(24) COMMON COMMERCIAL POLICY OF THE COMMUNITY/(ii) Anti-dumping Duties/361. Duration of anti-dumping measures.

361. Duration of anti-dumping measures.

An anti-dumping measure is to remain in force only for so long as, and to the extent that, it is necessary to counteract the dumping which is causing the injury¹. A definitive anti-dumping duty expires five years from its imposition or five years from the date of the conclusion of the most recent review which has covered both dumping and injury, unless it is determined in a review that the expiry would be likely to lead to a continuation or recurrence of dumping and injury; such an expiry review is to be initiated on the initiative of the Commission, or upon request made by or on behalf of Community producers, and the measure remains in force pending the outcome of the review². An expiry review is to be initiated where the request contains sufficient evidence that the expiry of the measures would be likely to result in a continuation or recurrence of dumping and injury³. In carrying out investigations for this purpose, the exporters, importers, the representatives of the exporting country and the Community producers must be provided with the opportunity to amplify, rebut or comment on the matters set out in the review request, and conclusions must be reached with due account taken of all relevant and duly documented evidence presented in relation to the question as to whether the expiry of measures would be likely, or unlikely, to lead to the continuation or recurrence of dumping and injury⁴.

The need for the continued imposition of measures may also be reviewed, where warranted, on the initiative of the Commission, or at the request of a member state, or, provided that a reasonable period of time of at least one year has elapsed since the imposition of the definitive measure, upon a request by any exporter or importer or by the Community producers which contains sufficient evidence substantiating the need for such an interim review⁵. An interim review must be initiated where the request contains sufficient evidence that the continued imposition of the measure is no longer necessary to offset dumping and/or that the injury would be unlikely to continue or recur if the measure were removed or varied, or that the existing measure is not, or is no longer, sufficient to counteract the dumping which is causing injury⁶.

A review must also be carried out for the purpose of determining individual margins of dumping⁷ for new exporters in the exporting country in question which have not exported the product during the period of investigation on which the measures were based⁸. The review must be initiated where a new exporter or producer can show that it is not related to any of the exporters or producers in the exporting country which are subject to the anti-dumping measures on the product, and that it has actually exported to the Community following the investigation period, or where it can demonstrate that it has entered into an irrevocable contractual obligation to export a significant quantity to the Community⁹.

In the Community interest, anti-dumping measures¹⁰ may, after consultation of the Advisory Committee, be suspended by a decision of the Commission for a period of nine months; and the suspension may be extended for a further period, not exceeding one year, if the EC Council so decides, acting by simple majority on a proposal from the Commission¹¹. Measures may only be suspended where market conditions have temporarily changed to an extent that injury would be unlikely to resume as a result of the suspension, and provided that the Community industry¹² has been given an opportunity to comment and those comments have been taken into account; and measures may, at any time and after consultation, be reinstated if the reason for suspension is no longer applicable¹³.

1 EC Council Regulation 384/96 (OJ L56, 6.3.96, p 1) art 11(1). For the meaning of 'injury' see PARA 354 note 1 ante. Article 11(1) is to be construed as allowing the EC Council a discretionary power to fix at less than five years the period of application of definitive anti-dumping duties adopted following a procedure for the review of the measures initially adopted if, owing to special circumstances, such a limitation best serves to protect the differing interests of the parties to the procedure and maintains the equilibrium between those interests which the basic regulation seeks to establish: Case T-232/95 Committee of European Copier Manufacturers v EU Council (1998) Transcript 8 July, CFI.

2 EC Council Regulation 384/96 (OJ L56, 6.3.96, p 1) art 11(2), 1st para. Reviews pursuant to art 11 (as amended) are to be initiated by the Commission after consultation of the Advisory Committee: art 11(6). Where warranted by reviews, measures are to be repealed or maintained pursuant to art 11(2), or repealed, maintained or amended pursuant to art 11(3), (4) (see the text and notes 5-9 infra), by the Community institution responsible for their introduction: art 11(6). Where measures are repealed for individual exporters, but not for the country as a whole, such exporters remain subject to the proceeding and may, automatically, be re-investigated in any subsequent review carried out for that country pursuant to art 11 (as amended): art 11(6).

In all review investigations carried out pursuant to art 11 (as amended), the Commission must, provided that circumstances have not changed, apply the same methodology as in the investigation which led to the duty, with due account being taken of art 2 (as amended) (see PARA 353 ante) (and, in particular, art 2(11), (12) (see PARA 355 note 6 ante)) and of art 17 (see PARA 352 ante): art 11(9). As to the Advisory Committee see PARA 349 note 11 ante.

In any investigation carried out pursuant to art 11 (as amended), the Commission must examine the reliability of export prices in accordance with art 2 (as amended): art 11(10). Where, however, it is decided to construct the export price in accordance with art 2(9) (see PARA 353 note 4 ante), it must calculate it with no deduction for the amount of anti-dumping duties paid when conclusive evidence is provided that the duty is duly reflected in resale prices and the subsequent selling prices in the Community: art 11(10).

A notice of impending expiry must be published in the Official Journal of the European Communities at an appropriate time in the final year of the period of application of the measures as defined in art 11(2): art 11(2), 4th para. Thereafter, the Community producers are, no later than three months before the end of the five-year period, entitled to lodge a review request: art 11(2), 3rd para. A notice announcing the actual expiry of measures pursuant to art 11(2) must also be published: art 11(2), 4th para.

The relevant provisions of EC Council Regulation 384/96 (OJ L56, 6.3.96, p 1) (as amended) with regard to procedures and the conduct of investigations, excluding those relating to time limits, apply to any review carried out pursuant to art 11(2) (and to art 11(3), (4) (see the text to notes 5-6, 7-9 infra): art 11(5), 1st para (art 11(5) substituted by EC Council Regulation 461/2004 (OJ L77, 13.3.2004, p 12) art 1(4)). Any review under EC Council Regulation 384/96 (OJ L56, 6.3.96, p 1) reg 11(2) must be carried out expeditiously and must normally be concluded within 12 months of the date of its initiation: art 11(5), 1st para (as so substituted). In any event, reviews pursuant to reg 11(2) and reg 11(3) must in all cases be concluded within 15 months of initiation: reg 11(5), 1st para (as so substituted). If a review carried out pursuant to reg 11(2) is initiated while a review under reg 11(3) is ongoing in the same proceeding, the review pursuant to reg 11(3) must be concluded at the same time as foreseen above for the review pursuant to reg 11(2): reg 11(5), 1st para (as so substituted).

The Commission must submit a proposal for action to the Council not later than one month before the expiry of the above deadlines: art 11(5), 2nd para (as so substituted). If the investigation is not completed within such deadlines, the measures: (1) expire in investigations pursuant to art 11(2); (2) expire in the case of investigations carried out pursuant to art 11(2), (3) in PARALLEL, where either the investigation pursuant to art 11(2) was initiated while a review under art 11(3) was ongoing in the same proceeding or where such reviews were initiated at the same time; or (3) remain unchanged in investigations pursuant to art 11(3), (4): art 11(5), 3rd para (as so substituted). A notice announcing the actual expiry or maintenance of the measures must then be published in the Official Journal: art 11(5), 4th para (as so substituted).

3 Ibid art 11(2), 2nd para. Such a likelihood may eg be indicated by evidence of continued dumping and injury or evidence that the removal of injury is partly or solely due to the existence of measures or evidence that the circumstances of the exporters, or market conditions, are such that they would indicate the likelihood of further injurious dumping: art 11(2), 2nd para.

4 Ibid art 11(2), 3rd para.

5 Ibid art 11(3), 1st para. See also note 2 supra. In carrying out investigations pursuant to art 11(3), the Commission is entitled (inter alia) to consider whether the circumstances with regard to dumping and injury have changed significantly, or whether existing measures are achieving the intended results in removing the injury previously established under art 3 (see PARA 354 ante): art 11(3), 3rd para. In these respects, account must be taken in the final determination of all relevant and duly documented evidence: art 11(3), 3rd para.

Where a review of measures pursuant to art 11(3) is in progress at the end of the period of application of measures, as defined in art 11(2) (see the text and notes 2-4 supra), such review must also cover the circumstances set out in art 11(2): art 11(7).

6 Ibid art 11(3), 2nd para. See also note 5 supra.

7 For the meaning of 'dumping margin' see PARA 355 note 6 ante.

8 EC Council Regulation 384/96 (OJ L56, 6.3.96, p 1) art 11(4), 1st para. See also note 2 supra. A review for a new exporter must be initiated, and carried out on an accelerated basis, after consultation of the Advisory Committee and after Community producers have been given an opportunity to comment: art 11(4), 3rd para. The Commission regulation initiating a review must repeal the duty in force with regard to the new exporter concerned by amending the regulation which has imposed such duty, and by making imports subject to registration in accordance with art 14(5) (see PARA 360 note 7 ante) in order to ensure that, should the review result in a determination of dumping in respect of such an exporter, anti-dumping duties can be levied retroactively to the date of the initiation of the review: art 11(4), 3rd para. The provisions of art 11(4) do not apply where duties have been imposed under art 9(6) (see PARA 359 note 12 ante): art 11(4), 4th para. Any such review must in all cases be concluded within nine months of the date of initiation: art 11(5), 1st para (as substituted: see note 2 supra). See also note 2 supra.

362. Reimbursement of duties.

Notwithstanding the provisions relating to the expiry of definitive anti-dumping duties¹, an importer may request reimbursement of duties collected where it is shown that the dumping margin², on the basis of which duties were paid, has been eliminated, or reduced to a level which is below the level of the duty in force; and in requesting a refund of anti-dumping duties, the importer must submit an application to the Commission³. The Commission must, after consultation of the Advisory Committee⁴, decide whether and to what extent the application should be granted, or it may decide at any time to initiate an interim review, whereupon the information and findings from such review carried out in accordance with the provisions applicable for such reviews is to be used to determine whether and to what extent a refund is justified⁵.

1 le notwithstanding EC Council Regulation 384/96 (OJ L56, 6.3.96, p 1) art 11(2): see PARA 361 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'dumping margin' see PARA 355 note 6 ante.

3 EC Council Regulation 384/96 (OJ L56, 6.3.96, p 1) art 11(8), 1st para. The application must be submitted via the member state of the territory in which the products were released for free circulation, within six months of the date on which the amount of the definitive duties to be levied was duly determined by the competent authorities or of the date on which a decision was made definitively to collect the amounts secured by way of provisional duty: art 11(8), 2nd para. Member states must forward the request to the Commission forthwith: art 11(8), 2nd para. An application for refund is only to be considered to be duly supported by evidence where it contains precise information on the amount of refund of anti-dumping duties claimed and all customs documentation relating to the calculation and payment of such amount: art 11(8), 3rd para. It is also to include evidence, for a representative period, of normal values and export prices to the Community for the exporter or producer to which the duty applies: art 11(8), 3rd para. In cases where the importer is not associated with the exporter or producer concerned and such information is not immediately available, or where the exporter or producer is unwilling to release it to the importer, the application must contain a statement from the exporter or producer that the dumping margin has been reduced or eliminated, as specified in art 11, and that the relevant supporting evidence will be provided to the Commission: art 11(8), 3rd para. Where such evidence is not forthcoming from the exporter or producer within a reasonable period of time, the application must be rejected: art 11(8), 3rd para.

4 As to the Advisory Committee see PARA 349 note 11 ante.

5 EC Council Regulation 384/96 (OJ L56, 6.3.96, p 1) art 11(8). In all refund investigations carried out pursuant to art 11, the Commission must, provided that circumstances have not changed, apply the same methodology as in the investigation which led to the duty, with due account being taken of art 2 (as amended) (see PARA 353 ante) (and, in particular, art 2(11), (12) (see PARA 355 note 6 ante)) and of art 17 (see PARA 352 ante): art 11(9).

In any investigation carried out pursuant to art 11 (as amended) the Commission must examine the reliability of export prices in accordance with art 2 (as amended): art 11(10). Where, however, it is decided to construct the export price in accordance with art 2(9) (see PARA 353 note 4 ante), it must calculate it with no deduction for the amount of anti-dumping duties paid when conclusive evidence is provided that the duty is duly reflected in resale prices and the subsequent selling prices in the Community: art 11(10).

Refunds of duties must normally take place within 12 months, and in no circumstances more than 18 months after the date on which a request for a refund, duly supported by evidence, has been made by an importer of the product subject to the anti-dumping duty: art 11(8), 4th para. The payment of any refund authorised should normally be made by member states within 90 days of the decision of the Commission: art 11(8), 4th para.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/1. CUSTOMS DUTIES/(24) COMMON COMMERCIAL POLICY OF THE COMMUNITY/(ii) Anti-dumping Duties/363. Re-opening of investigations.

363. Re-opening of investigations.

Where the Community industry¹ or any other interested party submits, normally within two years from the entry into force of the measures, sufficient information showing that, after the original investigation period and prior to or following the imposition of measures, export prices have decreased or that there has been no movement, or insufficient movement in the resale prices or subsequent selling prices of the imported product in the Community, the investigation may, after consultation, be reopened to examine whether the measure has had effects on such prices². The investigation may also be reopened, under the conditions set out above, at the initiative of the Commission or at the request of a member state³.

During such a re-investigation, exporters, importers and Community producers must be provided with an opportunity to clarify the situation with regard to resale prices and subsequent selling prices⁴. If it is concluded that the measure should have led to movements in such prices, then, in order to remove the injury previously established⁵, export prices must be reassessed⁶ and dumping margins⁷ must be recalculated to take account of the reassessed export prices⁸. Where it is considered that the conditions above are met owing to a fall in export prices which has occurred after the original investigation period and prior to or following the imposition of measures, dumping margins may be recalculated to take account of such lower export prices⁹.

Where a re-investigation shows increased dumping, the measures in force may, after consultation, be amended by the EC Council, acting on a proposal from the Commission in accordance with the new findings on export prices¹⁰. The proposal must be adopted by the Council unless it decides by a simple majority to reject the proposal, within a period of one month after its submission by the Commission¹¹. The amount of the anti-dumping duty imposed must not exceed twice the amount of the duty imposed initially by the Council¹².

1 For the meaning of 'Community industry' see PARA 350 ante.

2 EC Council Regulation 384/96 (OJ L56, 6.3.96, p 1) art 12(1), 1st para (art 12(1) substituted by EC Council Regulation 461/2004 (OJ L77, 13.3.2004, p 12) art 1(5)). The relevant provisions of EC Council Regulation 384/96 (OJ L56, 6.3.96, p 1) art 5 (see PARA 349 ante) and art 6 (see PARA 351 ante) apply to any re-investigation carried out pursuant to art 12 (as amended), except that such re-investigation must be carried out expeditiously and must normally be concluded within six months of the date of initiation of the re-investigation; in any event, such re-investigations must in all cases be concluded within nine months of initiation of the re-investigation: art 12(4), 1st para (art 12(4) substituted by EC Council Regulation 461/2004 (OJ L77, 13.3.2004, p 12) art 1(8)). The Commission must submit a proposal for action to the EC Council not later than one month before the expiry of the deadline: EC Council Regulation 384/96 (OJ L56, 6.3.96, p 1) art 12(4), 2nd para (as so substituted). If the re-investigation is not completed within the deadlines, measures must remain unchanged: art 12(4), 3rd para (as so substituted). A notice announcing the maintenance of the measures must be published in the Official Journal: art 12(4), 3rd para (as so substituted).

Where, in the context of the review of regulations imposing anti-dumping duties or of decisions accepting undertakings, a new investigation is necessary which, with regard to one or more undertakings, has the same scope as the initial investigation, the opening of the new investigation is conditional on there being sufficient evidence of the existence of dumping and resulting injury. The purpose of the relevant provisions, like that of the Agreement on the Implementation of Article VI of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (Geneva, 12 April 1979; Cmnd 7664; OJ L71, 17.3.80, p 90) ('the Anti-Dumping Code') art 5(1) which also makes the opening of any investigation subject to there being sufficient evidence, is to prevent exporters from being subjected to anti-dumping investigations which are not justified on objective grounds: Case C-216/91 Rima Eletrometalurgia SA v EC Council [1993] ECR I-6303, ECJ. It cannot, however, be inferred, from the statement in Case C-216/91

Rima Eletrometalurgia SA v EC Council supra that 'the existence of sufficient evidence of dumping and the injury resulting therefrom is always a prerequisite for the opening of an investigation, whether at the initiation of an anti-dumping proceeding or in the course of a review of a regulation imposing anti-dumping duties', that evidence of injury relating to a single application of a particular product must, in any event, be considered to be insufficient: Case T-97/95 Sinochem National Chemicals Import and Export Corp v EU Council [1998] ECR II-85, CFI.

3 EC Council Regulation 384/96 (OJ L56, 6.3.96, p 1) art 12(1), 2nd para (as substituted: see note 2 supra).

4 Ibid art 12(2). Alleged changes in normal value are only to be taken into account under art 12 where complete information on revised normal values, duly substantiated by evidence, is made available to the Commission within the time limits set out in the notice of initiation of an investigation: art 12(5). Where an investigation involves a re-examination of normal values, imports may be made subject to registration in accordance with art 14(5) (see PARA 360 note 7 ante) pending the outcome of the re-investigation: art 12(5).

364. Circumvention of anti-dumping measures.

Anti-dumping duties¹ may be extended to imports from third countries, of the like product², whether slightly modified or not, or to imports of the slightly modified like product from the country subject to measures, or parts thereof, when circumvention³ of the measures in force is taking place⁴. Anti-dumping duties not exceeding the residual anti-dumping duty⁵ may be extended to imports from companies benefiting from individual duties in the countries subject to measures when circumvention of the measures in force is taking place⁶.

An assembly operation in the Community or a third country is considered to circumvent the measures in force where:

- 776 (1) the operation started or substantially increased since, or just prior to, the initiation of the anti-dumping investigation and the parts concerned are from the country subject to measures;
- 777 (2) the parts constitute 60 per cent or more of the total value of the parts of the assembled product, except that in no case is circumvention to be considered to be taking place where the value added to the parts brought in, during the assembly or completion operation, is greater than 25 per cent of the manufacturing cost; and
- 778 (3) the remedial effects of the duty are being undermined in terms of the prices and/or quantities of the assembled like product and there is evidence of dumping in relation to the normal values previously established for the like or similar products⁷.

Investigations must be initiated on the initiative of the Commission or at the request of a member state or any interested party on the basis of sufficient evidence⁸ regarding the circumvention⁹. Initiations are to be made, after consultation of the Advisory Committee, by Commission regulation which may also instruct the customs authorities to make imports subject to registration¹⁰ or to request guarantees¹¹. Investigations must be carried out by the Commission, which may be assisted by customs authorities and must be concluded within nine months¹². When the facts as finally ascertained justify the extension of measures, this must be done by the EC Council, acting on a proposal submitted by the Commission, after consultation of the Advisory Committee¹³. The proposal must be adopted by the Council unless it decides by a simple majority to reject the proposal, within a period of one month after its submission by the Commission¹⁴. The extension takes effect from the date on which registration was imposed or on which guarantees were requested¹⁵. The relevant procedural provisions¹⁶ with regard to initiations and the conduct of investigations apply¹⁷.

2 For the meaning of 'like product' see PARA 348 note 4 ante.

3 For these purposes, 'circumvention' means a change in the pattern of trade between third countries and the Community or between individual companies in the country subject to measures and the Community, which stems from a practice, process or work for which there is insufficient due cause or economic justification other than the imposition of the duty, and where there is evidence of injury or that the remedial effects of the duty are being undermined in terms of the prices and/or quantities of the like product, and where there is evidence of dumping in relation to the normal values previously established for the like product, if necessary in accordance with the provisions of EC Council Regulation 384/96 (OJ L56, 6.3.96, p 1) art 2 (as amended): art

13(1), 1st para (art 13(1) substituted by EC Council Regulation 461/2004 (OJ L77, 13.3.2004, p 12) art 1(9)). The practice, process or work referred to above includes, inter alia, the slight modification of the product concerned to make it fall under customs codes which are normally not subject to the measures, provided that the modification does not alter its essential characteristics, the consignment of the product subject to measures via third countries, the reorganisation by exporters or producers of their patterns and channels of sales in the country subject to measures in order to eventually have their products exported to the Community through producers benefiting from an individual duty rate lower than that applicable to the products of the manufacturers and, in the circumstances indicated in EC Council Regulation 384/96 (OJ L56, 6.3.96, p 1) art 13(2), the assembly of parts by an assembly operation in the Community or a third country: art 13(1), 2nd para (as so substituted).

Imports are not subject to registration pursuant to art 14(5) or measures where they are traded by companies which benefit from exemptions: art 13(4), 1st para (art 13(4) substituted by EC Council Regulation 461/2004 (OJ L77, 13.3.2004, p 12) art 1(11)). Requests for exemptions duly supported by evidence must be submitted within the time limits established in the Commission regulation initiating the investigation: EC Council Regulation 384/96 (OJ L56, 6.3.96, p 1) art 13(4), 1st para (as so substituted). Where the circumventing practice, process or work takes place outside the Community, exemptions may be granted to producers of the product concerned that can show that they are not related to any producer subject to the measures and that are found not to be engaged in circumvention practices as defined in art 13(1) (as substituted), (2): art 13(4), 1st para (as so substituted). Where the circumventing practice, process or work takes place inside the Community, exemptions may be granted to importers which can show that they are not related to producers subject to the measures: art 13(4), 1st para (as so substituted). These exemptions are granted by decision of the Commission after consultation of the Advisory Committee or decision of the EC Council imposing measures and remain valid for the period and under the conditions set down therein: art 13(4), 2nd para (as so substituted). As to the Advisory Committee see PARA 349 note 11 ante. Provided that the conditions set in art 11(4) (see PARA 361 ante) are met, exemptions may also be granted after the conclusion of the investigation leading to the extension of the measures: art 13(4), 3rd para (as so substituted). Provided that at least one year has lapsed from the extension of the measures, and in case the number of parties requesting or potentially requesting an exemption is significant, the Commission may decide to initiate a review of the extension of the measures: art 13(4), 4th para (as so substituted). Any such review must be conducted in accordance with the provisions of art 11(5) (see PARA 361 ante) as applicable to reviews pursuant to art 11(3) (see PARA 361 ante): art 13(4), 4th para (as so substituted).

365. Verification visits.

The Commission must, where it considers it appropriate, carry out visits to examine the records of importers, exporters, traders, agents, producers, trade associations and organisations and to verify information provided on dumping and injury¹. In the absence of a proper and timely reply, a verification visit may not be carried out². The Commission may carry out investigations in third countries as required, provided that it obtains the agreement of the firms concerned, that it notifies the representatives of the government of the country in question and that the latter does not object to the investigation³.

Member states must report to the Commission every month on the import trade in products subject to investigations and to measures, and on the amount of duties collected¹ by them². (iii) Countervailing Duties

367. In general.

A countervailing duty may be imposed for the purpose of offsetting any subsidy¹ granted, directly or indirectly, for the manufacture, production, export or transport of any product whose release for free circulation² in the Community causes injury³. For this purpose, a product is considered to be subsidised if it benefits from a countervailable subsidy⁴. Such subsidy may be granted by the government⁵ of the country of origin of the imported product or by the government of an intermediate country from which the product is exported to the Community ('the country of export')⁶.

1 For the meaning of 'subsidy' see PARA 368 post.

2 As to release for free circulation see PARA 104 et seq ante.

3 EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) art 1(1). For the meaning of 'injury' see PARA 376 note 1 post. As to the determination of injury see PARA 376 post.

If an imported product is made subject to any counter-measures imposed following recourse to the disputes settlement procedures of the Uruguay Round Agreement on Subsidies and Countervailing Measures (Marrakesh, 15 April 1994; Cm 2572; Misc 26 (1994); OJ L336, 23.12.94, p 156), and such measures are appropriate to remove the injury caused by the countervailable subsidies, any countervailing duty imposed with regard to that product must immediately be suspended or repealed, as appropriate: EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) art 32.

Special provisions, in particular with regard to the common definition of the concept of origin, as contained in EC Council Regulation 2913/92 (OJ L302, 19.10.92, p 1) (the 'Community Customs Code') (amended by the Fourth Act of Accession (OJ C241, 29.8.94, p 1), as adjusted by EC Council Decision 95/1 (OJ L1, 1.1.95, p 1); European Parliament and EC Council Regulation 82/97 (OJ L17, 21.1.97, p 1)) (see PARA 22 et seq ante) may be adopted pursuant to EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1): art 24(3).

4 Ibid art 1(2). For the meaning of 'countervailable subsidy' see PARA 369 et seq post.

5 For these purposes, the term 'government' is defined as a government or any public body within the territory of the country of origin or export: ibid art 1(3), 2nd para.

6 Ibid art 1(3), 1st para. Notwithstanding art 1(1)-(3), where products are not directly imported from the country of origin but are exported to the Community from an intermediate country, the provisions of EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) are fully applicable and the transaction or transactions is or are, where appropriate, to be regarded as having taken place between the country of origin and the Community: art 1(4).

368. Existence of a subsidy.

A subsidy is deemed to exist if:

- 779 (1) there is a financial contribution by a government¹ in the country of origin or export²; or
- 780 (2) there is any form of income or price support³, and, in either case, a benefit is thereby conferred⁴.

There is a financial contribution by a government in the country of origin or export in the following cases, namely where:

- 781 (a) a government practice involves a direct transfer of funds⁵, potential direct transfers of funds or liabilities⁶;
- 782 (b) government revenue that is otherwise due is forgone or not collected⁷;
- 783 (c) a government provides goods or services other than general infrastructure, or purchases goods; or
- 784 (d) a government makes payments to a funding mechanism, or entrusts or directs a private body to carry out one or more of the type of functions illustrated in heads (a), (b) and (c) above which would normally be vested in the government, and the practice, in no real sense, differs from practices normally followed by governments⁸.

7 Eg fiscal incentives such as tax credits. In this regard, the exemption of an exported product from duties or taxes borne by the like product when destined for domestic consumption, or the remission of such duties or taxes in amounts not in excess of those which have been accrued, is not deemed to be a subsidy, provided that such an exemption is granted in accordance with the provisions of EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) Annex I (illustrative list of export subsidies), Annex II (guidelines on consumption of inputs in the production process) and Annex III (guidelines on the determination of substitution drawback systems as export subsidies): art 2(1)(a)(ii). For these purposes, the term 'like product' is to be interpreted to mean a product which is identical, ie alike in all respects, to the product under consideration, or, in the absence of such a product, another product which, although not alike in all respects, has characteristics closely resembling those of the product under consideration: art 1(5).

369. Countervailable subsidies.

Subsidies are subject to countervailing measures only if they are specific¹.

In order to determine whether a subsidy is specific to an enterprise or industry or group of enterprises or industries ('certain enterprises') within the jurisdiction of the granting authority, the following principles apply:

- 785 (1) where the granting authority, or the legislation pursuant to which the granting authority operates, explicitly limits access to a subsidy to certain enterprises, the subsidy is specific²;
- 786 (2) where the granting authority, or the legislation pursuant to which the granting authority operates, establishes objective criteria or conditions³ governing the eligibility for, and the amount of, a subsidy, specificity does not exist, provided that the eligibility is automatic and that such criteria and conditions are strictly adhered to⁴;
- 787 (3) if, notwithstanding any appearance of non-specificity resulting from the application of the principles laid down in heads (1) and (2) above, there are reasons to believe that the subsidy may in fact be specific, other factors may be considered⁵.

A subsidy which is limited to certain enterprises located within a designated geographical region within the jurisdiction of the granting authority is specific⁶.

The following subsidies are deemed to be specific:

- 788 (a) subsidies⁷ contingent, in law or in fact, whether solely or as one of several other conditions, upon export performance⁸; and
- 789 (b) subsidies contingent, whether solely or as one of several other conditions, upon the use of domestic over imported goods⁹.

Any determination of specificity under the above rules must be clearly substantiated on the basis of positive evidence¹⁰.

1 EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) art 3(1). For these purposes, 'specific' has the meaning given by art 3(2)-(4) (see the text and notes 2-9 infra): art 3(1).

2 Ibid art 3(2), 1st para (a). In applying art 3(2), 1st para, account is to be taken of the extent of diversification of economic activities within the jurisdiction of the granting authority, as well as of the length of time during which the subsidy programme has been in operation: art 3(2), 2nd para.

3 For these purposes, 'objective criteria or conditions' means criteria or conditions which are neutral, which do not favour certain enterprises over others, and which are economic in nature and horizontal in application, such as number of employees or size of enterprise: ibid art 3(2), 1st para (b). In addition, the criteria or conditions must be clearly set out by law, regulation, or other official document, so as to be capable of verification: art 3(2), 1st para (b).

4 Ibid art 3(2), 1st para (b). See also note 2 supra.

5 Ibid art 3(2), 1st para (c). See also note 2 supra. Such factors are: use of a subsidy programme by a limited number of certain enterprises; predominant use by certain enterprises; the granting of disproportionately large amounts of subsidy to certain enterprises; and the manner in which discretion has been exercised by the granting authority in the decision to grant a subsidy: art 3(2), 1st para (c). In this regard, information on the frequency with which applications for a subsidy are refused or approved and the reasons for such decisions must, in particular, be considered: art 3(2), 1st para (c).

6 Ibid art 3(3). The setting or changing of generally applicable tax rates by all levels of government entitled to do so is not to be deemed to be a specific subsidy for the purposes of EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1): art 3(3). For the meaning of 'government' see PARA 367 note 5 ante.

7 Ie including those illustrated in ibid art 3(4)(a), Annex I. Subsidies are considered to be contingent in fact upon export performance when the facts demonstrate that the granting of a subsidy, without having been made legally contingent upon export performance, is in fact tied to actual or anticipated exportation or export earnings: art 3(4)(a), 2nd para. The mere fact that a subsidy is accorded to enterprises which export is not for that reason alone to be considered to be an export subsidy within the meaning of art 3(4)(a): art 3(4)(a), 2nd para.

8 Ibid art 3(4)(a), 1st para.

9 Ibid art 3(4)(b).

10 Ibid art 3(5).

367-388 Countervailing duties

Regulation 2026/97 replaced: EC Council Regulation 597/2009 (OJ L188, 18.7.2009, p 93) on protection against subsidised imports from countries not members of the European Community.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/1. CUSTOMS DUTIES/(24) COMMON COMMERCIAL POLICY OF THE COMMUNITY/(iii) Countervailing Duties/371. Initiation of a subsidy investigation.

371. Initiation of a subsidy investigation.

As a general rule¹, an investigation to determine the existence, degree and effect of any alleged subsidy is to be initiated upon a written complaint² by any natural or legal person, or any association not having legal personality, acting on behalf of the Community industry³. However, where, in the absence of any complaint, a member state is in possession of sufficient evidence of subsidisation and of resultant injury⁴ to the Community industry, it must immediately communicate such evidence to the Commission⁵. The complaint must include evidence of the existence of countervailable subsidies (including, if possible, of their amount), injury and a causal link between the allegedly subsidised imports and the alleged injury⁶. The Commission must, as far as possible, examine the accuracy and adequacy of the evidence provided in the complaint to determine whether there is sufficient evidence to justify the initiation of an investigation⁷. An investigation must not be initiated unless it has been determined, on the basis of an examination as to the degree of support for, or opposition to, the complaint expressed by Community producers of the like product, that the complaint has been made by or on behalf of the Community industry⁸. The authorities must avoid, unless a decision has been made to initiate an investigation, any publicising of the complaint seeking the initiation of an investigation⁹. However, as soon as possible after receipt of a properly documented complaint and before proceeding to initiate an investigation, the Commission must notify the government¹⁰ of the country of origin and/or export concerned, which must be invited for consultations with the aim of clarifying the situation¹¹ and arriving at a mutually agreed solution¹². The evidence of both subsidies and injury are to be considered simultaneously in the decision on whether or not to initiate an investigation, and a complaint must be rejected where there is insufficient evidence of either countervailable subsidies or of injury to justify proceeding with the case; but proceedings must not be initiated against countries whose imports represent a market share of below 1 per cent, unless such countries collectively account for 3 per cent or more of Community consumption¹³.

The complaint may be withdrawn prior to initiation, in which case it is considered not to have been lodged¹⁴.

Where, after consultation, it is apparent that there is sufficient evidence to justify initiating a proceeding, the Commission must do so within 45 days of the lodging of the complaint and must publish a notice in the Official Journal of the European Communities; and where insufficient evidence has been presented, the complainant must, after consultation, so be informed within 45 days of the date on which the complaint is lodged with the Commission¹⁵.

An investigation may be initiated in order to determine whether or not the alleged subsidies are 'specific'¹⁶.

A countervailing duty investigation is not to hinder the procedures of customs clearance¹⁷.

1 In special circumstances the Commission may decide to initiate an investigation without a written complaint having been received by or on behalf of the Community industry: EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) art 10(10). If a decision to do so is made, it must be done on the basis of sufficient evidence of the existence of countervailable subsidies, injury and a causal link, as described in art 10(2) (see the text and note 6 infra) to justify such initiation: art 10(10). For the meaning of 'Community industry' see PARA 372 post.

2 The complaint may be submitted to the Commission, or to a member state, which must forward it to the Commission: ibid art 10(1), 2nd para. The Commission must send member states a copy of any complaint it receives: art 10(1), 2nd para. The complaint is deemed to have been lodged on the first working day following its delivery to the Commission by registered mail or the issuing of an acknowledgment of receipt by the Commission: art 10(1), 2nd para.

3 Ibid art 10(1), 1st para.

4 For the meaning of 'injury' see PARA 376 note 1 post. As to the determination of injury see PARA 376 post.

5 EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) art 10(1), 3rd para.

6 Ibid art 10(2). The complaint must also contain such information as is reasonably available to the complainant on the following matters: (1) identity of the complainant and a description of the volume and value of the Community production of the like product by the complainant; where a written complaint is made on behalf of the Community industry, the complaint must identify the industry on behalf of which the complaint is made by a list of all known Community producers of the like product (or associations of Community producers of the like product) and, to the extent possible, a description of the volume and value of Community production of the like product accounted for by such producers; (2) a complete description of the allegedly subsidised product, the names of the country or countries of origin or export in question, the identity of each known exporter or foreign producer and a list of known persons importing the product in question; (3) evidence with regard to the existence, amount, nature and countervailability of the subsidies in question; and (4) information on changes in the volume of the allegedly subsidised imports, the effect of those imports on prices of the like product on the Community market and the consequent impact of the imports on the Community industry, as demonstrated by relevant factors and indices having a bearing on the state of the Community industry, such as those listed in art 8(3), (5) (see PARA 376 post): art 10(2)(a)-(d). For the meaning of 'like product' see PARA 368 note 7 ante; and for the meaning of 'the country of export' see PARA 367 ante.

7 Ibid art 10(3).

8 Ibid art 10(8). The complaint is considered to have been made by or on behalf of the Community industry if it is supported by those Community producers whose collective output constitutes more than 50% of the total production of the like product produced by that portion of the Community industry expressing either support for or opposition to the complaint: art 10(8). No investigation is to be initiated, however, when Community producers expressly supporting the complaint account for less than 25% of total production of the like product produced by the Community industry: art 10(8).

9 Ibid art 10(9).

10 For the meaning of 'government' see PARA 367 note 5 ante.

11 Ie the matters referred to in EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) art 10(2): see the text and note 6 supra.

12 Ibid art 10(9). Article 25(1) (see PARA 377 note 5 post) does not apply for these purposes: art 25(1).

13 Ibid art 10(11).

14 Ibid art 10(12).

15 Ibid art 10(13). The notice of initiation of the proceedings must: (1) announce the initiation of an investigation, indicate the product and countries concerned, give a summary of the information received, and provide that all relevant information is to be communicated to the Commission; (2) state the periods within which interested parties may make themselves known, present their views in writing and submit information if such views and information are to be taken into account during the investigation; and (3) state the period within which interested parties may apply to be heard by the Commission in accordance with art 11(5) (see PARA 373 post): art 10(14).

The Commission must advise the exporters, importers and representative associations of importers or exporters known to it to be concerned, as well as representatives of the exporting country and the complainants, of the initiation of the proceedings and, with due regard to the protection of confidential information, provide the full text of the written complaint received pursuant to art 10(1) (see the text and notes 1-5 supra) to the known exporters and to the authorities of the exporting country, and make it available upon request to other interested parties involved: art 10(15). Where the number of exporters involved is particularly high, the full text of the written complaint may instead be provided only to the authorities of the exporting country or to the relevant trade association: art 10(15).

16 Ibid art 10(4). For these purposes, 'specific' has the meaning given by art 3(2), (3) (see PARA 369 ante): art 10(4).

17 Ibid art 10(16).

367-388 Countervailing duties

Regulation 2026/97 replaced: EC Council Regulation 597/2009 (OJ L188, 18.7.2009, p 93) on protection against subsidised imports from countries not members of the European Community.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/1. CUSTOMS DUTIES/(24) COMMON COMMERCIAL POLICY OF THE COMMUNITY/(iii) Countervailing Duties/372. Meaning of 'Community industry'.

372. Meaning of 'Community industry'.

The term 'Community industry' is to be interpreted as referring to the Community producers as a whole of the like products¹ or to those of them whose collective output of the products constitutes a major proportion² of the total Community production of those products, except that:

793 (1) when producers are related to the exporters or importers³ or are themselves importers of the allegedly subsidised product, the term 'Community industry' may be interpreted as referring to the rest of the producers;

794 (2) in exceptional circumstances the territory of the Community may, for the production in question, be divided into two or more competitive markets and the producers within each market may be regarded as a separate industry if:

74. (a) the producers within such a market sell all or almost all of their production of the product in question in that market; and

75. (b) the demand in that market is not to any substantial degree supplied by producers of the product in question located elsewhere in the Community⁴.

In such circumstances, injury⁵ may be found to exist even where a major portion of the total Community industry is not injured, provided that there is a concentration of subsidised imports into such an isolated market and provided further that the subsidised imports are causing injury to the producers of all or almost all of the production within such a market⁶.

2 I.e. as defined in EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) art 10(8): see PARA 371 ante.

3 For these purposes, producers are considered to be related to exporters or importers only if: (1) one of them directly or indirectly controls the other; or (2) both of them are directly or indirectly controlled by a third person; or (3) together they directly or indirectly control a third person, provided that there are grounds for believing or suspecting that the effect of the relationship is such as to cause the producer concerned to behave differently from non-related producers: ibid art 9(2), 1st para. For this purpose, one person is deemed to control another when the former is legally or operationally in a position to exercise restraint or direction over the latter: art 9(2), 2nd para.

4 Ibid art 9(1), 1st para. Where the Community industry has been interpreted as referring to the producers in a certain region, the exporters or the government granting countervailable subsidies are to be given an opportunity to offer undertakings pursuant to art 13 (see PARAS 378-379 post) in respect of the region concerned: art 9(3). In such cases, when evaluating the Community interest of the measures, special account is to be taken of the interest of the region: art 9(3). If an adequate undertaking is not offered promptly or if the situations set out in art 13(9), (10) (see PARA 379 post) apply, a provisional or definitive countervailing duty may be imposed in respect of the Community as a whole: art 9(3). In such cases, the duties may, if practicable, be limited to specific products or exporters: art 9(3).

5 The provisions of ibid art 8(8) (determination of injury: see PARA 376 post) apply to art 9: art 9(4).

6 Ibid art 9(1), 2nd para.

367-388 Countervailing duties

Regulation 2026/97 replaced: EC Council Regulation 597/2009 (OJ L188, 18.7.2009, p 93) on protection against subsidised imports from countries not members of the European Community.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/1. CUSTOMS DUTIES/(24) COMMON COMMERCIAL POLICY OF THE COMMUNITY/(iii) Countervailing Duties/373. The countervailing duty investigation.

373. The countervailing duty investigation.

Following the initiation of the proceeding, the Commission, acting in co-operation with the member states, must commence an investigation¹ at Community level, covering both subsidisation and injury² and investigating these simultaneously³. For the purpose of a representative finding, an investigation period is to be selected which, in the case of subsidisation, must normally cover the most recent accounting period of the beneficiary⁴ but may be any other period of at least six months prior to the initiation of the investigation; but information relating to a period subsequent to the investigation period is not normally to be taken into account⁵.

The Commission may request member states to supply information, and member states must take whatever steps are necessary in order to give effect to such requests⁶. They must send to the Commission the information⁷ requested together with the results of all inspections, checks or investigations carried out⁸. The Commission may request member states to carry out all necessary checks and inspections, particularly amongst importers, traders and Community producers, and to carry out investigations in third countries, provided that the firms concerned give their consent and that the government⁹ of the country in question has been officially notified and raises no objection, and member states must take whatever steps are necessary in order to give effect to such requests from the Commission; and officials of the Commission are to be authorised, if the Commission or a member state so requests, to assist the officials of member states in carrying out their duties¹⁰.

The interested parties which have made themselves known in accordance with the prescribed procedure¹¹ must be heard if they have, within the period prescribed in the notice published in the Official Journal of the European Communities, made a written request for a hearing showing that they are an interested party likely to be affected by the result of the proceeding and that there are particular reasons why they should be heard¹². Opportunities are, on request, to be provided for the importers, exporters, representatives of the government of the exporting country and the complainants, which have made themselves known in accordance with the prescribed procedure¹³, to meet those parties with adverse interests, so that opposing views may be presented and rebuttal arguments offered¹⁴. As a general rule¹⁵, the information which is supplied by interested parties and upon which findings are based must be examined for accuracy as far as possible¹⁶.

For proceedings initiated after consultation¹⁷, an investigation must, whenever possible, be concluded within one year¹⁸. In any event, such investigations must in all cases be concluded within 13 months of initiation, in accordance with the findings made for undertakings¹⁹ or in accordance with the findings made²⁰ for definitive action²¹.

Throughout the investigation, the Commission must afford the country of origin and/or export²² a reasonable opportunity to continue consultations with a view to clarifying the factual situation and arriving at a mutually agreed solution²³.

1 Parties receiving questionnaires used in a countervailing duty investigation are to be given at least 30 days to reply: EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) art 11(2). The time limit for exporters is counted from the date of receipt of the questionnaire, which for this purpose is deemed to have been received one week from the day on which it was sent to the respondent or transmitted to the appropriate diplomatic representative of the country of origin and/or export: art 11(2). An extension to the 30-day period may be granted, due account being taken of the time limits of the investigation, provided that the party shows due cause for such extension, in terms of its particular circumstances: art 11(2).

8 Ibid art 11(3).

9 For the meaning of 'government' see PARA 367 note 5 ante.

14 EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) art 11(6). Provision of such opportunities must take account of the need to preserve confidentiality and of the convenience to the parties: art 11(6). There is no obligation on any party to attend a meeting, and failure to do so is not to be prejudicial to that party's case: art 11(6). Oral information provided under art 11(6) is to be taken into account, in so far as it is subsequently confirmed in writing: art 11(6). The complainants, importers and exporters and their representative associations, users and consumer organisations, which have made themselves known in accordance with art 10(14), as well as the representatives of the exporting country may, upon written request, inspect all information made available by any party to an investigation, as distinct from internal documents prepared by the authorities of the Community or its member states, which is relevant to the presentation of their cases and not confidential within the meaning of art 29 (as amended), and that it is used in the investigation: art 11(7). Such parties may respond to such information and their comments must be taken into consideration, wherever they are sufficiently substantiated in the response: art 11(7).

Any information which is by nature confidential, eg because its disclosure would be of significant competitive advantage to a competitor or would have a significantly adverse effect upon a person supplying the information or upon a person from whom he has acquired the information, or which is provided on a confidential basis by parties to an investigation, is to be treated, if good cause is shown, as such by the authorities: art 29(1). Interested parties providing confidential information are to be required to furnish non-confidential summaries thereof, which must be in sufficient detail to permit a reasonable understanding of the substance of the information submitted in confidence: art 29(2). In exceptional circumstances such parties may indicate that such information is not susceptible of summary, and, in such exceptional circumstances, a statement of the reasons why summarisation is not possible must be provided: art 29(2). If it is considered that a request for confidentiality is not warranted and if the supplier of the information is either unwilling to make the information available or to authorise its disclosure in generalised or summary form, such information may be disregarded unless it can be satisfactorily demonstrated from appropriate sources that the information is correct: art 29(3). Requests for confidentiality must not be arbitrarily rejected: art 29(3).

Information received pursuant to EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) must be used only for the purpose for which it was requested; but this does not preclude the use of information received in the context of one investigation for the purpose of initiating other investigations within the same proceeding concerning the same like product: art 29(6) (substituted by EC Council Regulation 461/2004 (OJ L77, 13.3.2004, p 12) art 2(11)).

EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) art 29 (as amended) does not preclude the disclosure of general information by the Community authorities and, in particular, of reasons on which decisions taken pursuant to EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) are based, or disclosure of the evidence relied on by the Community authorities, in so far as is necessary to explain those reasons in court proceedings: art 29(4). Such disclosure must take into account the legitimate interests of the parties concerned that their business secrets should not be divulged: art 29(4).

The EC Council, the Commission and member states, or the officials of any of these, must not reveal any information received pursuant to EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) for which confidential treatment has been requested by its supplier, without specific permission from the supplier: art 29(5).

Exchanges of information between the Commission and member states, or any information relating to consultations made pursuant to art 25 (see PARA 377 note 5 post), or consultations described in art 10(9) (see PARA 371 ante) and art 11(10) (see the text and notes 22-23 infra), or any internal documents prepared by the authorities of the Community or its member states, must not be divulged except as specifically provided for in EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1): art 29(5).

15 Ie except in the circumstances provided for in ibid art 28: see PARA 374 note 3 post.

UPDATE

367-388 Countervailing duties

Regulation 2026/97 replaced: EC Council Regulation 597/2009 (OJ L188, 18.7.2009, p 93) on protection against subsidised imports from countries not members of the European Community.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/1. CUSTOMS DUTIES/(24) COMMON COMMERCIAL POLICY OF THE COMMUNITY/(iii) Countervailing Duties/374. Sampling.

374. Sampling.

In cases where the number of complainants, exporters or importers, types of product or transactions is large, the investigation may be limited to a reasonable number of parties, products or transactions by using samples which are statistically valid on the basis of information available at the time of the selection, or to the largest representative volume of production, sales or exports which can reasonably be investigated within the time available¹. The selection of parties, types of products or transactions so made is to rest with the Commission, although preference must be given to choosing a sample in consultation with, and with the consent of, the parties concerned, provided that such parties make themselves known and make sufficient information available, within three weeks of initiation of the investigation, to enable a representative sample to be chosen².

Where it is decided to sample and there is a degree of non co-operation by some or all of the parties selected which is likely materially to affect the outcome of the investigation, a new sample may be selected³.

1 EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) art 27(1).

2 Ibid art 27(2). In cases where the examination has been limited in accordance with art 27, an individual amount of countervailable subsidisation must nevertheless be calculated for any exporter or producer not initially selected who submits the necessary information within the time limits provided for in EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1), except where the number of exporters or producers is so large that individual examinations would be unduly burdensome and would prevent completion of the investigation in good time: art 27(3).

3 Ibid art 27(4). If, however, a material degree of non co-operation persists or there is insufficient time to select a new sample, the relevant provisions of art 28 (as amended) apply: art 27(4).

In cases in which any interested party refuses access to, or otherwise does not provide, necessary information within the time limits provided in EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1), or significantly impedes the investigation, provisional or final findings, whether affirmative or negative, may be made on the basis of the facts available: art 28(1), 1st para. Furthermore, where it is found that any interested party has supplied false or misleading information, the information is to be disregarded and use may be made of facts available: art 28(1), 2nd para. Interested parties are to be made aware of the consequences of non co-operation: art 28(1), 3rd para.

Failure to give a computerised response is not deemed to constitute non co-operation, provided that the interested party shows that presenting the response as requested would result in an unreasonable extra burden or unreasonable additional cost: art 28(2).

Where the information submitted by an interested party is not ideal in all respects, it should nevertheless not be disregarded, provided that any deficiencies are not such as to cause undue difficulty in arriving at a reasonably accurate finding and that the information is appropriately submitted in good time and is verifiable, and that the party has acted to the best of its ability: art 28(3).

If evidence or information is not accepted, the supplying party is to be informed forthwith of the reasons therefor and is to be granted an opportunity to provide further explanations within the time limit specified; if the explanations are considered unsatisfactory, the reasons for rejection of such evidence or information must be disclosed and given in published findings: art 28(4).

If determinations, including those regarding the amount of countervailable subsidies, are based on the provisions of art 28(1), including the information supplied in the complaint, it must, where practicable and with due regard to the time limits of the investigation, be checked by reference to information from other independent sources which may be available, such as published price lists, official import statistics and customs returns, or information obtained from other interested parties during the investigation: art 28(5). Such information may include relevant data pertaining to the world market or other representative markets where appropriate: art 28(5) (amended by EC Council Regulation 1973/2002 (OJ L305, 7.11.2002, p 4) art 1(3)).

If an interested party does not co-operate, or co-operates only partially, so that the relevant information is thereby withheld, the result may be less favourable to the party than if it had co-operated: EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) art 28(6).

367-388 Countervailing duties

Regulation 2026/97 replaced: EC Council Regulation 597/2009 (OJ L188, 18.7.2009, p 93) on protection against subsidised imports from countries not members of the European Community.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/1. CUSTOMS DUTIES/(24) COMMON COMMERCIAL POLICY OF THE COMMUNITY/(iii) Countervailing Duties/375. Calculation of the amount of the countervailable subsidy and of the benefit to the recipient.

375. Calculation of the amount of the countervailable subsidy and of the benefit to the recipient.

A product is considered to be subsidised if it benefits from a countervailable subsidy¹. The amount of countervailable subsidies is to be calculated in terms of the benefit conferred on the recipient which is found to exist during the investigation period for subsidisation; normally this period is taken as the most recent accounting year of the beneficiary, but may be any other period of at least six months prior to the initiation of the investigation for which reliable financial and other relevant data are available².

In calculating the benefit to the recipient, the following rules are to be applied:

- 795 (1) government³ provision of equity capital is not considered to confer a benefit, unless the investment can be regarded as inconsistent with the usual investment practice (including for the provision of risk capital) of private investors in the territory of the country of origin and/or export⁴;
- 796 (2) a loan by a government is not considered to confer a benefit, unless there is a difference between the amount that the firm receiving the loan pays on the government loan and the amount that the firm would pay for a comparable commercial loan which the firm could actually obtain on the market⁵;
- 797 (3) a loan guarantee by a government is not considered to confer a benefit, unless there is a difference between the amount that the firm receiving the guarantee pays on a loan guaranteed by the government and the amount that the firm would pay for a comparable commercial loan in the absence of the government guarantee⁶;
- 798 (4) the provision of goods or services or purchase of goods by a government is not considered to confer a benefit, unless the provision is made for less than adequate remuneration or the purchase is made for more than adequate remuneration⁷.

The amount of the countervailable subsidies is to be determined per unit of the subsidised product exported to the Community⁸. Where, however, the subsidy is not granted by reference to the quantities manufactured, produced, exported or transported, the amount of countervailable subsidy is to be determined by allocating the value of the total subsidy, as appropriate, over the level of production, sales or exports of the products concerned during the investigation period for subsidisation⁹. Where the subsidy can be linked to the acquisition or future acquisition of fixed assets, the amount of the countervailable subsidy is to be calculated by spreading the subsidy across a period which reflects the normal depreciation of such assets in the industry concerned¹⁰. Where a subsidy cannot be linked to the acquisition of fixed assets, the amount of the benefit received during the investigation period is in principle to be attributed to that period unless special circumstances arise justifying attribution over a different period¹¹.

1 EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) art 1(2). For these purposes, 'countervailable subsidy' has the meaning given by arts 2, 3 (see PARAS 368-369 ante): art 1(2).

2 Ibid art 5.

3 For the meaning of 'government' see PARA 367 note 5 ante.

4 EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) art 6(a).

5 Ibid art 6(b). In that event the benefit is the difference between these two amounts: art 6(b).

6 Ibid art 6(c). In this case the benefit is the difference between these two amounts, adjusted for any differences in fees: art 6(c).

7 Ibid art 6(d). The adequacy of remuneration is to be determined in relation to prevailing market conditions for the product or service in question in the country of provision or purchase (including price, quality, availability, marketability, transportation and other conditions of purchase or sale): art 6(d). If there are no prevailing market conditions for the product or service in question in the country of provision or purchase which can be used as appropriate benchmarks, the conditions prevailing in the country concerned must be adjusted, on the basis of actual costs, prices and other factors available in that country, by an appropriate amount that reflects normal market conditions or, when appropriate, the conditions prevailing in the market of another country or on the world market which are available to the recipient must be used: art 6(d) (amended by EC Council Regulation 1973/2002 (OJ L305, 7.11.2002, p 4) art 1(1)).

8 EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) art 7(1), 1st para. In establishing this amount the following elements may be deducted from the total subsidy: (1) any application fee, or other costs necessarily incurred in order to qualify for, or to obtain, the subsidy; and (2) export taxes, duties or other charges levied on the export of the product to the Community specifically intended to offset the subsidy: art 7(1), 2nd para. Where an interested party claims a deduction, it must prove that the claim is justified: art 7(1), 3rd para.

9 Ibid art 7(2).

10 Ibid art 7(3), 1st para. The amount so calculated which is attributable to the investigation period, including that which derives from fixed assets acquired before this period, is to be allocated as described in art 7(2) (see the text and note 9 supra): art 7(3), 1st para. Where the assets are non-depreciating, the subsidy is to be valued as an interest-free loan, and is to be treated in accordance with art 6(b) (see head (2) in the text): art 7(3), 2nd para.

11 Ibid art 7(4). In this case, the benefit is to be allocated as described in art 7(2) (see the text and note 9 supra): art 7(4).

367-388 Countervailing duties

Regulation 2026/97 replaced: EC Council Regulation 597/2009 (OJ L188, 18.7.2009, p 93) on protection against subsidised imports from countries not members of the European Community.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/1. CUSTOMS DUTIES/(24) COMMON COMMERCIAL POLICY OF THE COMMUNITY/(iii) Countervailing Duties/376. Determination of injury.

376. Determination of injury.

A determination of injury¹ must be based on positive evidence and involve an objective examination of both the volume of the subsidised imports and the effect of the subsidised imports on prices in the Community market for like products² and the consequent impact³ of those imports on the Community industry⁴. It must be demonstrated, from all the relevant evidence presented⁵, that the subsidised imports are causing injury⁶. Specifically, this entails a demonstration that the volume and/or price levels identified⁷ are responsible for an impact on the Community industry⁸ and that this impact exists to a degree which enables it to be classified as material⁹. Known factors other than the subsidised imports which at the same time are injuring the Community industry must also be examined to ensure that injury caused by these other factors is not attributed¹⁰ to the subsidised imports¹¹.

With regard to the volume of the subsidised imports, consideration is to be given to whether there has been a significant increase in subsidised imports¹², either in absolute terms or relative to production or consumption in the Community; and, with regard to the effect of the subsidised imports on prices, consideration is to be given to whether there has been significant price undercutting by the subsidised imports as compared with the price of a like product of the Community industry, or whether the effect of such imports is otherwise to depress prices to a significant degree or prevent price increases, which would otherwise have occurred, to a significant degree; but no one or more of these factors necessarily gives decisive guidance¹³.

A determination of a threat¹⁴ of material injury must be based on facts and not merely on allegation, conjecture or remote possibility; and the change in circumstances which would create a situation in which the subsidy would cause injury must be clearly foreseen and imminent¹⁵.

1 For these purposes, 'injury' to be taken, unless otherwise specified, to mean material injury to the Community industry, threat of material injury to the Community industry or material retardation of the establishment of such an industry: EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) art 8(1). For the meaning of 'Community industry' see PARA 372 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'like product' see PARA 368 note 7 ante.

3 The examination of the impact of the subsidised imports on the Community industry concerned includes an evaluation of all relevant economic factors and indices having a bearing on the state of the industry, including the fact that an industry is still in the process of recovering from the effects of past subsidisation or dumping, the magnitude of the amount of countervailable subsidies, actual and potential decline in sales, profits, output, market share, productivity, return on investments, utilisation of capacity; factors affecting Community prices; and actual and potential negative effects on cash flow, inventories, employment, wages, growth, ability to raise capital or investments and, in cases of agriculture, whether there has been an increased burden on government support programmes: EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) art 8(5). This list is not exhaustive, nor can any one or more of these factors necessarily give decisive guidance: art 8(5).

4 Ibid art 8(2).

5 Ie in relation to ibid art 8(2): see the text and notes 1-4 supra.

6 Ibid art 8(6). For these purposes, 'injury' means injury within the meaning of art 8(1) (see note 1 supra): art 8(6).

7 Ie pursuant to ibid art 8(3): see the text and notes 12-13 infra.

8 le as provided for in ibid art 8(5): see note 3 supra.

9 Ibid art 8(6). The effect of the subsidised imports is to be assessed in relation to the production of the Community industry of the like product when available data permit the separate identification of that production on the basis of such criteria as the production process, producers' sales and profits: art 8(8). If such separate identification of that production is not possible, the effects of the subsidised imports are to be assessed by examination of the production of the narrowest group or range of products, which includes the like product, for which the necessary information can be provided: art 8(8).

11 Ibid art 8(7). Factors which may be considered in this respect include the volume and prices of non-subsidised imports, contraction in demand or changes in the patterns of consumption, restrictive trade practices of, and competition between, third country and Community producers, developments in technology and the export performance and productivity of the Community industry: art 8(7).

12 Where imports of a product from more than one country are simultaneously subject to countervailing duty investigations, the effects of such imports are to be cumulatively assessed only if it is determined that: (1) the amount of countervailable subsidies established in relation to the imports from each country is more than de minimis (as defined in ibid art 14(5): see PARA 380 note 5 post) and that the volume of imports from each country is not negligible; and (2) a cumulative assessment of the effects of the imports is appropriate in light of the conditions of competition between imported products and the conditions of competition between the imported products and the like Community product: art 8(4).

13 Ibid art 8(3).

14 In making a determination regarding the existence of a threat of material injury, consideration should be given to such factors as: (1) the nature of the subsidy or subsidies in question and the trade effects likely to arise therefrom; (2) a significant rate of increase of subsidised imports into the Community market indicating the likelihood of substantially increased imports; (3) sufficient freely disposable capacity of the exporter or an imminent and substantial increase in such capacity indicating the likelihood of substantially increased subsidised exports to the Community, account being taken of the availability of other export markets to absorb any additional exports; (4) whether imports are entering at prices that would, to a significant degree, depress prices or prevent price increases which otherwise would have occurred, and would probably increase demand for further imports; and (5) inventories of the product being investigated: art 8(9), 2nd para. No one of the factors listed by itself can necessarily give decisive guidance; but the totality of the factors considered must lead to the conclusion that further subsidised exports are imminent and that, unless protective action is taken, material injury will occur: art 8(9), 3rd para.

15 Ibid art 8(9), 1st para.

367-388 Countervailing duties

Regulation 2026/97 replaced: EC Council Regulation 597/2009 (OJ L188, 18.7.2009, p 93) on protection against subsidised imports from countries not members of the European Community.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/1. CUSTOMS DUTIES/(24) COMMON COMMERCIAL POLICY OF THE COMMUNITY/(iii) Countervailing Duties/377. Provisional measures.

377. Provisional measures.

Provisional duties may be imposed if:

- 799 (1) proceedings have been initiated¹;
- 800 (2) a notice has been given to that effect and interested parties have been given adequate opportunities to submit information and make comments²;
- 801 (3) a provisional affirmative determination has been made that the imported product benefits from countervailable subsidies³ and of consequent injury to the Community industry⁴; and
- 802 (4) the Community interest calls for intervention to prevent such injury⁵.

The provisional duties must be imposed no earlier than 60 days from the initiation of the proceedings but not later than nine months from the initiation of the proceedings⁶.

The amount of the provisional countervailing duty must not exceed the total amount of countervailable subsidies as provisionally established, but it should be less than this amount if such lesser duty would be adequate to remove the injury to the Community industry⁷. Provisional duties are to be secured by a guarantee, and the release of the products concerned for free circulation in the Community is conditional upon the provision of such guarantee⁸.

Provisional duties may be imposed for a maximum period of four months⁹. Provisional measures must only be applied to products which enter free circulation after the time when the decision to impose such a duty¹⁰ has entered into force¹¹.

5 Ibid art 12(1), 1st para. The Commission is to take provisional action after consultation or, in cases of extreme urgency, after informing the member states: art 12(3). In this latter case, consultations must take place ten days, at the latest, after notification to the member states of the action taken by the Commission: art 12(3). Where a member state requests immediate intervention by the Commission and where the conditions in art 12(1) are met, the Commission must, within a maximum of five working days of receipt of the request, decide whether a provisional countervailing duty is to be imposed: art 12(4). The Commission must forthwith inform the EC Council and the member states of any decision taken under art 12(1)-(4): art 12(5). The Council, acting by a qualified majority, may decide differently: art 12(5).

Any consultations provided for in EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1), except those referred to in art 10(9) (see PARA 371 ante) and art 11(10) (see PARA 373 ante) are to take place within an Advisory Committee, which is to consist of representatives of each member state, with a representative of the Commission as chairman: art 25(1). Consultations are to be held immediately at the request of a member state or on the initiative of the Commission and in any event within a period of time which allows the time limits set by EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) to be adhered to: art 25(1). The Advisory Committee must meet when convened by its chairman, who must provide the member states, as promptly as possible, but no later than 10 working days before the meeting, with all relevant information: art 25(2) (substituted by EC Council Regulation 461/2004 (OJ L77, 13.3.2004, p 12) art 1(1)). Where necessary, consultation may be in writing only; in that event, the Commission must notify the member states and must specify a period within which they are entitled to express their opinions or to request an oral consultation which the chairman must arrange, provided that such oral consultation can be held within a period of time which allows the time limits set by EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) to be adhered to: art 25(3). Consultation is to cover, in particular: (1) the existence of countervailable subsidies and the methods of establishing their amount; (2) the existence and extent of injury; (3) the causal link between the subsidised imports and injury; (4) the measures which, in the circumstances, are appropriate to prevent or remedy the injury caused by the countervailable subsidies and the ways and means of putting such measures into effect: art 25(4).

The complainants, importers and exporters and their representative associations, and representatives of the exporting country, may request disclosure of the details underlying the essential facts and considerations on the basis of which provisional measures have been imposed: art 20(1). Requests for such disclosure must be made in writing immediately following the imposition of provisional measures, and the disclosure must be made in writing as soon as possible thereafter: art 30(1). 367-388 Countervailing duties

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/1. CUSTOMS DUTIES/(24) COMMON COMMERCIAL POLICY OF THE COMMUNITY/(iii) Countervailing Duties/378. Voluntary undertakings in lieu of countervailing measures.

378. Voluntary undertakings in lieu of countervailing measures.

Upon condition that a provisional¹ affirmative determination of subsidisation and injury has been made, the Commission may accept satisfactory voluntary undertakings² offers under which:

- 803 (1) the country of origin and/or export³ agrees to eliminate or limit the subsidy or take other measures concerning its effects; or
- 804 (2) any exporter undertakes to revise its prices or to cease exports to the area in question as long as such exports benefit from countervailable subsidies, so that the Commission, after specific consultation of the Advisory Committee⁴, is satisfied that the injurious effect of the subsidies is thereby eliminated⁵.

In such a case and as long as such undertakings are in force, the provisional duties imposed by the Commission⁶ and the definitive duties imposed by the EC Council⁷ do not apply to the relevant imports of the product concerned manufactured by the companies referred to in the Commission decision accepting undertakings and in any subsequent amendment of such decision⁸. Price increases under such undertakings must not be higher than is necessary to offset the amount of countervailable subsidies, and should be less than the amount of countervailable subsidies if such increases would be adequate to remove the injury to the Community industry⁹.

Undertakings may be suggested by the Commission, but no country or exporter is to be obliged to enter into such an undertaking¹⁰. The fact that countries or exporters do not offer such undertakings, or do not accept an invitation to do so, in no way prejudices consideration of the case¹¹. It may, however, be determined that a threat of injury¹² is more likely to be realised if the subsidised imports continue¹³. Undertakings are not to be sought or accepted from countries or exporters unless a provisional affirmative determination of subsidisation and injury caused by such subsidisation has been made¹⁴. Save in exceptional circumstances, undertakings may not be offered later than the end of the period during which representations may be made¹⁵ after final disclosure¹⁶. Undertakings offered need not be accepted if their acceptance is considered impractical, such as where the number of actual or potential exporters is too great, or for other reasons, including reasons of general policy¹⁷. The exporter concerned may be provided with the reasons for which it is proposed to reject the offer of an undertaking and may be given an opportunity to make comments thereon¹⁸. The reasons for rejection must be set out in the definitive decision¹⁹.

Where undertakings are, after consultation²⁰, accepted and where there is no objection raised within the Advisory Committee, the investigation is terminated²¹. If the undertakings are accepted, the investigation of subsidisation and injury is normally to be completed²². In such a case, if a negative determination of subsidisation or injury is made, the undertaking automatically lapses, except in cases where such a determination is due in large part to the existence of an undertaking²³. In such cases, it may be required that an undertaking be maintained for a reasonable period²⁴. In the event that an affirmative determination of subsidisation and injury is made, the undertaking is to continue, consistent with its terms and the relevant Community provisions²⁵.

Regulation 2026/97 replaced: EC Council Regulation 597/2009 (OJ L188, 18.7.2009, p 93) on protection against subsidised imports from countries not members of the European Community.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/1. CUSTOMS DUTIES/(24) COMMON COMMERCIAL POLICY OF THE COMMUNITY/(iii) Countervailing Duties/379. Breach of a voluntary undertaking.

379. Breach of a voluntary undertaking.

The Commission is to require any country or exporter from whom undertakings¹ have been accepted to provide, periodically, information relevant to the fulfilment of such undertaking, and to permit verification of pertinent data². Non-compliance with such requirements is to be construed as a breach of the undertaking³.

In case of breach or withdrawal of undertakings by any party to the undertaking, or in case of withdrawal of acceptance of the undertaking by the Commission, the acceptance of the undertaking must, after consultation, be withdrawn by Commission decision or regulation, as appropriate, and the provisional duty which has been imposed by the Commission⁴ or the definitive duty which has been imposed by the EC Council⁵, will apply, provided that the exporter concerned, or the country of origin and/or export has, except in the case of withdrawal of the undertaking by the exporter or such country, been given an opportunity to comment⁶.

Any interested party or member state may submit information, showing prima facie evidence of a breach of an undertaking⁷. The subsequent assessment of whether or not a breach of an undertaking has occurred must normally be concluded within six months, but in no case later than nine months following a duly substantiated request⁸. The Commission may request the assistance of the competent authorities of the member states in the monitoring of undertakings⁹.

A provisional countervailing duty may, after consultation¹⁰, be imposed¹¹ on the basis of the best information available where there is reason to believe that an undertaking is being breached, or in the case of breach or withdrawal of an undertaking where the investigation which led to the undertaking has not been concluded¹².

380. Termination without measures.

Where the complaint is withdrawn, the proceeding may be terminated unless such termination would not be in the Community interest¹. Where, after consultation², protective measures are unnecessary and there is no objection raised within the Advisory Committee³, the investigation or proceeding must be terminated; in all other cases, the Commission must submit to the EC Council forthwith a report on the results of the consultation, together with a proposal that the proceeding be terminated, and the proceeding is deemed terminated if, within one month, the Council, acting by a qualified majority, has not decided otherwise⁴.

There must be an immediate termination of the proceeding where it is determined that the amount of countervailable subsidies is de minimis⁵, or where the volume of subsidised imports, actual or potential, or the injury, is negligible⁶.

1 EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) art 14(1).

2 As to consultation see PARA 377 note 5 ante.

3 As to the Advisory Committee see PARA 377 note 5 ante.

4 EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) art 14(2).

5 Whether the amount of the countervailable subsidies is to be considered de minimis is determined in accordance with ibid art 14(5): art 14(3). The amount of the countervailable subsidies is considered to be de minimis if such amount is less than 1% ad valorem, except that: (1) as regards investigations concerning imports from developing countries, the de minimis threshold is 2% ad valorem; and (2) for those developing countries members of the World Trade Organisation referred to in the Uruguay Round Agreement on Subsidies and Countervailing Measures (Marrakesh, 15 April 1994; Cm 2572; Misc 26 (1994); OJ L336, 23.12.94, p 156) Annex VII, as well as for developing countries members of the World Trade Organisation which have completely eliminated export subsidies as defined in EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) art 3(4)(a) (see PARA 369 note 7 ante), the de minimis subsidy threshold is 3% ad valorem: art 14(5). Where the application of art 14(5)(b) (see head (2) supra) depends on the elimination of export subsidies, it is to apply from the date on which the elimination of export subsidies is notified to the World Trade Organisation Committee on Subsidies and Countervailing Measures; and, for so long as export subsidies are not granted by the developing country concerned, art 14(5)(b) expires eight years from the date of entry into force of the Agreement establishing the World Trade Organisation (Marrakesh, 15 April 1994; OJ L336, 23.12.94, p 3): EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) art 14(5). It is only the investigation which is terminated where the amount of the countervailable subsidies is below the relevant de minimis level for individual exporters, who remain subject to the proceedings and may be re-investigated in any subsequent review carried out for the country concerned pursuant to arts 18, 19 (as amended) (see PARA 384 post): art 14(5).

6 Ibid art 14(3). For a proceeding initiated pursuant to art 10(13) (see PARA 371 ante), injury is normally to be regarded as negligible where the market share of the imports is less than the amounts set out in art 10(11) (see PARA 371 ante): art 14(4). With regard to investigations concerning imports from developing countries, the volume of subsidised imports is also to be considered negligible if it represents less than 4% of the total imports of the like product in the Community, unless imports from developing countries whose individual shares of total imports represent less than 4% collectively account for more than 9% of the total imports of the like product in the Community: art 9(4). For the meaning of 'like product' see PARA 368 note 7 ante.

367-388 Countervailing duties

Regulation 2026/97 replaced: EC Council Regulation 597/2009 (OJ L188, 18.7.2009, p 93) on protection against subsidised imports from countries not members of the European Community.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/1. CUSTOMS DUTIES/(24) COMMON COMMERCIAL POLICY OF THE COMMUNITY/(iii) Countervailing Duties/381. Imposition of definitive countervailing duties.

381. Imposition of definitive countervailing duties.

Where the facts as finally established show the existence of countervailable subsidies and injury¹ caused thereby, and the Community interest calls for intervention², a definitive countervailing duty must be imposed by the EC Council, acting on a proposal submitted by the Commission after consultation of the Advisory Committee³. The proposal must be adopted by the Council unless it decides by a simple majority to reject the proposal, within a period of one month after its submission by the Commission⁴. Where provisional duties⁵ are in force, a proposal regarding definitive action must be submitted not later than one month before the expiry of such duties⁶. No measures may be imposed if the subsidy or subsidies are withdrawn or it has been demonstrated that the subsidies no longer confer any benefit on the exporters involved⁷. The amount of the countervailing duty must not exceed the amount of countervailable subsidies⁸ established but it should be less than the total amount of countervailable subsidies if such lesser duty would be adequate to remove the injury to the Community industry⁹.

A countervailing duty must be imposed in the appropriate amounts in each case, on a non-discriminatory basis, on imports of a product from all sources found to benefit from countervailable subsidies and causing injury, except as to imports from those sources from which prescribed undertakings¹⁰ have been accepted¹¹. The regulation imposing the duty¹² must specify the duty for each supplier, or, if that is impracticable¹³, the supplying country concerned¹⁴.

1 For the meaning of 'injury' see PARA 376 note 1 ante.

2 Ie in accordance with EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) art 31: see PARA 382 post.

The complainants, importers and exporters and their representative associations, and representatives of the exporting country, may request full disclosure of the essential facts and considerations on the basis of which it is intended to recommend the imposition of definitive measures, or the termination of an investigation or proceedings without the imposition of measures, particular attention being paid to the disclosure of any facts or considerations which are different from those used for provisional measures (see PARA 355 ante): EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) art 30(2). Requests for final disclosure must be addressed to the Commission in writing and must be received, in cases where a provisional duty has been applied, not later than one month after publication of the imposition of that duty: art 30(3). Where a provisional duty has not been applied, parties must be provided with an opportunity to request final disclosure within time limits set by the Commission: art 30(3).

Final disclosure must be given in writing; and it must be made, due regard being had to the protection of confidential information, as soon as possible and normally not later than one month prior to a definitive decision or the submission by the Commission of any proposal for final action pursuant to art 14 (see PARA 380 ante) and art 15 (as amended): art 30(4). Where the Commission is not in a position to disclose certain facts or considerations at that time, these must be disclosed as soon as possible thereafter: art 30(4). Disclosure does not prejudice any subsequent decision which may be taken by the Commission or the Council; but where such decision is based on any different facts and considerations, these must be disclosed as soon as possible: art 30(4).

Representations made after final disclosure is given must be taken into consideration only if received within a period to be set by the Commission in each case, which must be at least ten days, due consideration being given to the urgency of the matter: art 30(5).

12 Provisional or definitive countervailing duties are to be imposed by regulation, and collected by member states in the form, at the rate specified, and according to the other criteria laid down in the regulation imposing such duties: ibid art 24(1). Such duties are to be collected independently of the customs duties, taxes and other charges normally imposed on imports: art 24(1). No product is, however, to be subject to both anti-dumping and countervailing duties for the purposes of dealing with one and the same situation arising from dumping or export subsidisation: art 24(1). Regulations imposing provisional or definitive countervailing duties, and regulations or decisions accepting undertakings or terminating investigations or proceedings, are to be published in the Official Journal of the European Communities: art 24(2). Such regulations or decisions must contain, in particular, and with due regard to the protection of confidential information, the names of the exporters, if possible, or of the countries involved, a description of the product and a summary of the material facts and considerations relevant to the subsidy and injury determinations: art 24(2). In each case, a copy of the regulation or decision must be sent to known interested parties: art 24(2). The provisions of art 24(2) apply mutatis mutandis to reviews: art 24(2).

13 When the Commission has limited its examination in accordance with ibid art 27 (sampling: see PARA 374 ante), any countervailing duty applied to imports from exporters or producers which have made themselves known in accordance with art 27 but were not included in the examination must not exceed the weighted average amount of countervailable subsidies established for the parties in the sample: art 15(3). For the purpose of art 15(3), the Commission must disregard any zero and de minimis amounts of countervailable subsidies and amounts of countervailable subsidies established in the circumstances referred to in art 28 (non co-operation: see PARA 374 note 3 ante): art 15(3). Individual duties must be applied to imports from any exporter or producer for which an individual amount of subsidisation has been calculated as provided for in art 27: art 15(3).

382. Community interest.

A determination as to whether the Community interest calls for intervention is to be based on an appreciation of all the various interests taken as a whole, including the interests of the domestic industry and users and consumers; such a determination is only to be made where all parties have been given the opportunity¹ to make their views known; and in such an examination the need to eliminate the trade-distorting effects of injurious subsidisation and to restore effective competition are to be given special consideration². However, measures, as determined on the basis of subsidisation and injury³ found, may not be applied where the authorities, on the basis of all the information submitted, can clearly conclude that it is not in the Community interest to apply such measures⁴.

In order to provide a sound basis on which the authorities can take account of all views and information in the decision as to whether or not the imposition of measures is in the Community interest, the complainants, importers and their representative associations, representative users and representative consumer organisations may, within the time limits specified in the notice of initiation of the countervailing duty investigation, make themselves known and provide information to the Commission; and such information, or appropriate summaries thereof, must be made available to the other parties specified above, and they are entitled to respond to such information⁵.

The parties which have acted in conformity with the above requirements⁶ may request a hearing⁷. Such requests must be granted when they are submitted within the time limits specified above⁸, and when they set out the reasons, in terms of the Community interest, why the parties should be heard⁹.

The parties which have so acted in conformity with the above provisions may provide comments on the application of any provisional duties imposed; and such comments must be received within one month of the application of such measures if they are to be taken into account, and they, or appropriate summaries thereof, must be made available to other parties who are entitled to respond to such comments¹⁰.

The Commission must examine the information which is properly submitted and the extent to which it is representative and the results of such analysis, together with an opinion on its merits, must be transmitted to the Advisory Committee¹¹.

The parties which have so acted in conformity with the above provisions may request the facts and considerations on which final decisions are likely to be taken to be made available to them; and such information must be made available to the extent possible and without prejudice to any subsequent decision taken by the Commission or the EC Council¹².

Information may only be taken into account where it is supported by actual evidence which substantiates its validity¹³.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/1. CUSTOMS DUTIES/(24) COMMON COMMERCIAL POLICY OF THE COMMUNITY/(iii) Countervailing Duties/383. Retroactivity of measures.

383. Retroactivity of measures.

Definitive countervailing duties must only be applied to products which enter free circulation after the time when the decision taken by the EC Council to impose such duty¹ enters into force². Where a provisional duty has been applied and the facts as finally established show the existence of countervailable subsidies and injury³, the Council must decide, irrespective of whether a definitive countervailing duty is to be imposed, what proportion of the provisional duty is definitively to be collected⁴.

If the definitive countervailing duty is higher than the provisional duty, the difference is not to be collected⁵. If the definitive duty is lower than the provisional duty, the duty must be recalculated⁶.

A definitive countervailing duty may be levied on products which were entered for consumption not more than 90 days prior to the date of the application of provisional measures but not prior to the initiation of the investigation⁷, provided that imports have been registered⁸, the Commission has allowed the importers concerned the opportunity to comment, and there are critical circumstances where for the subsidised product in question injury which is difficult to repair is caused by massive imports in a relatively short period of a product benefiting from countervailable subsidies and it is deemed necessary in order to preclude the recurrence of such injury to assess countervailing duties retroactively on those imports⁹.

3 For this purpose, 'injury' does not include material retardation of the establishment of a Community industry, nor threat of material injury, except where it is found that this would, in the absence of provisional measures, have developed into material injury: ibid art 16(2). In all other cases involving such threat or retardation, any provisional amounts must be released and definitive duties may only be imposed from the date that a final determination of threat or material retardation is made: art 16(2). For the meaning of 'injury' generally see PARA 376 note 1 ante.

The Commission may, after consultation of the Advisory Committee, direct customs authorities to take the appropriate steps to register imports, so that measures may subsequently be applied against those imports from the date of registration: art 24(5). Imports may be made subject to registration following a request from the Community industry which contains sufficient evidence to justify such action: art 24(5). Registration is to be introduced by regulation which must specify the purpose of the action and, if appropriate, the estimated amount of possible future liability: art 24(5). Imports must not be made subject to registration for a period longer than nine months: art 24(5). For the meaning of 'Community industry' see PARA 372 ante. 367-388 Countervailing duties

Regulation 2026/97 replaced: EC Council Regulation 597/2009 (OJ L188, 18.7.2009, p 93) on protection against subsidised imports from countries not members of the European Community.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/1. CUSTOMS DUTIES/(24) COMMON COMMERCIAL POLICY OF THE COMMUNITY/(iii) Countervailing Duties/384. Duration of countervailing measures.

384. Duration of countervailing measures.

A countervailing measure is to remain in force only for so long as, and to the extent that, it is necessary to counteract the countervailable subsidies which are causing the injury¹.

A definitive countervailing duty expires five years from its imposition or five years from the date of the conclusion of the most recent review which has covered both subsidisation and injury, unless it is determined in a review that the expiry would be likely to lead to a continuation or recurrence of subsidisation and injury; such an expiry review is to be initiated on the initiative of the Commission, or upon request made by or on behalf of Community producers, and the measure remains in force pending the outcome of the review². An expiry review is to be initiated where the request contains sufficient evidence that the expiry of the measures would be likely to result in a continuation or recurrence of subsidisation and injury³. In carrying out investigations for this purpose, the exporters, importers, representatives of the exporting country and Community producers must be provided with the opportunity to amplify, rebut or comment on the matters set out in the review request, and conclusions must be reached with due account taken of all relevant and duly documented evidence presented in relation to the question as to whether the expiry of measures would be likely, or unlikely, to lead to the continuation or recurrence of subsidisation and injury⁴.

The need for the continued imposition of measures may also be reviewed, where warranted, on the initiative of the Commission, or at the request of a member state, or, provided that a reasonable period of time of at least one year has elapsed since the imposition of the definitive measure, upon a request by any exporter or importer or by the Community producers or the country of origin and/or export which contains sufficient evidence substantiating the need for such an interim review⁵. An interim review must be initiated where the request contains sufficient evidence that the continued imposition of the measure is no longer necessary to offset the countervailable subsidy and/or that the injury would be unlikely to continue or recur if the measure were removed or varied, or that the existing measure is not, or is no longer, sufficient to counteract the countervailable subsidy which is causing injury⁶.

Where the countervailing duties imposed are less than the amount of countervailable subsidies found, an interim review may be initiated if the Community producers submit or any other interested party submits, normally within two years from the entry into force of the measures, sufficient evidence that, after the original investigation period and prior to or following the imposition of measures, export prices have decreased or that there has been no movement, or insufficient movement of resale prices of the imported product in the Community⁷. If the investigation proves the allegations to be correct, countervailing duties may be increased to achieve the price increase required to remove injury; however, the increased duty level must not exceed the amount of the countervailable subsidies⁸. The interim review may also be initiated, under the conditions set out above, at the initiative of the Commission or at the request of a member state⁹.

Any exporter whose exports are subject to a definitive countervailing duty, but who was not individually investigated during the original investigation for reasons other than a refusal to co-operate with the Commission, is entitled, upon request, to an accelerated review in order that the Commission may promptly establish an individual countervailing duty rate for that exporter¹⁰. Such a review must be initiated after consultation of the Advisory Committee and after Community producers have been given an opportunity to comment¹¹.

In the Community interest, countervailing measures¹² may, after consultation of the Advisory Committee, be suspended by a decision of the Commission for a period of nine months¹³. The suspension may be extended for a further period, not exceeding one year, if the EC Council so decides, acting on a proposal from the Commission¹⁴. The proposal must be adopted by the Council unless it decides by a simple majority to reject the proposal, within a period of one month after its submission by the Commission¹⁵. Measures may only be suspended where market conditions have temporarily changed to an extent that injury would be unlikely to resume as a result of the suspension, and provided that the Community industry¹⁶ has been given an opportunity to comment and these comments have been taken into account¹⁷. Measures may, at any time and after consultation, be reinstated if the reason for suspension is no longer applicable¹⁸.

1 EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) art 17.

2 Ibid art 18(1). A notice of impending expiry must be published in the Official Journal of the European Communities at an appropriate time in the final year of the period of application of the measures as defined in art 18: art 18(4). Thereafter, the Community producers are, no later than three months before the end of the five-year period, entitled to lodge a review request in accordance with art 18(2) (review where expiry of measures would be likely to result in a continuation or recurrence of subsidisation and injury): art 18(4). A notice announcing the actual expiry of measures pursuant to art 18 must also be published: art 18(4).

3 Such a likelihood may eg be indicated by evidence of continued subsidisation and injury or evidence that the removal of injury is partly or solely due to the existence of measures or evidence that the circumstances of the exporters, or market conditions, are such that they would indicate the likelihood of further injurious subsidisation: ibid art 18(1).

4 Ibid art 18(3). The relevant provisions of EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) (as amended) with regard to procedures and the conduct of investigations, excluding those relating to time limits, apply to any review carried out pursuant to art 18, art 19 (as amended) (see the text and notes 5-9 infra) and 20 (see the text and note 10 infra): art 22(1), 1st para (art 22(1) substituted by EC Council Regulation 461/2004 (OJ L77, 13.3.2004, p 12) art 2(5)). Reviews carried out pursuant to EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) arts 18, 19 must be carried out expeditiously and must normally be concluded within 12 months of the date of initiation of the review; in any event, such reviews must in all cases be concluded within 15 months of initiation: art 22(1), 1st para (as so substituted). If a review carried out pursuant to art 18 is initiated while a review under art 19 (as amended) is ongoing in the same proceeding, the review pursuant to art 19 (as amended) must be concluded at the same time as foreseen above for the review pursuant to art 18: art 22(1), 1st para (as so substituted). The Commission must submit a proposal for action to the EC Council not later than one month before the expiry of the above deadlines: art 22(1), 2nd para (as so substituted). If the investigation is not completed within the deadlines, the measures must: (1) expire in investigations pursuant to art 18; (2) expire in the case of investigations carried out pursuant to arts 18, 19 (as amended) in parallel, where either the investigation pursuant to art 18 was initiated while a review under art 19 (as amended) was ongoing in the same proceeding or where such reviews were initiated at the same time; or (3) remain unchanged in investigations pursuant to art 19 (as amended) and art 20: art 22(1), 3rd para (as so substituted). A notice announcing the actual expiry or maintenance of the measures must be published in the Official Journal: art 22(1), 4th para (as so substituted).

Reviews pursuant to arts 18-20 (as amended) are to be initiated by the Commission after consultation of the Advisory Committee: art 22(2). Where warranted by reviews, measures are to be repealed or maintained pursuant to art 18, or repealed, maintained or amended pursuant to art 19 (as amended) and art 20, by the Community institution responsible for their introduction: art 22(2). Where measures are repealed for individual exporters, but not for the country as a whole, such exporters remain subject to the proceeding and may be re-investigated in any subsequent review carried out for that country pursuant to art 22 (as amended): art 22(2). In all review investigations carried out pursuant to arts 18-20, the Commission must, provided that circumstances have not changed, apply the same methodology as in the investigation which led to the duty, with due account being taken of arts 5-7 (see PARA 375 ante) and art 27 (see PARA 374 ante): art 22(4). As to the Advisory Committee see PARA 377 note 5 ante.

5 Ibid art 19(1). In carrying out investigations pursuant to art 19 (as amended), the Commission may (inter alia) consider whether the circumstances with regard to subsidisation and injury have changed significantly, or whether existing measures are achieving the intended results in removing the injury previously established under art 8 (see PARA 376 ante): art 19(4). In these respects, account must be taken in the final determination of all relevant and duly documented evidence: art 19(4). Where a review of measures pursuant to art 19 is in progress at the end of the period of application of measures as defined in art 18 (see the text and notes 2-4 supra), the measures must also be investigated under the provisions of art 18: art 22(3).

Regulation 2026/97 replaced: EC Council Regulation 597/2009 (OJ L188, 18.7.2009, p 93) on protection against subsidised imports from countries not members of the European Community.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/1. CUSTOMS DUTIES/(24) COMMON COMMERCIAL POLICY OF THE COMMUNITY/(iii) Countervailing Duties/385. Refunds.

385. Refunds.

Notwithstanding the provisions relating to the expiry of definitive countervailing duties¹, an importer may request reimbursement of duties collected where it is shown that the amount of the countervailable subsidies, on the basis of which duties were paid, has been eliminated, or reduced to a level which is below the level of the duty in force². In requesting a refund of countervailing duties, the importer must submit an application to the Commission³. The Commission must, after consultation of the Advisory Committee⁴, decide whether and to what extent the application should be granted, or it may decide at any time to initiate an interim review, whereupon the information and findings from such review carried out in accordance with the provisions applicable for such reviews are to be used to determine whether and to what extent a refund is justified⁵.

1 Ibid notwithstanding EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) art 18: see PARA 384 ante.

2 Ibid art 21(1). In all refund investigations carried out pursuant to art 21 the Commission must, provided that circumstances have not changed, apply the same methodology as in the investigation which led to the duty, with due account being taken of arts 5-7 (see PARA 375 ante) and art 27 (see PARA 374 ante): art 22(4).

3 Ibid art 21(2). The application must be submitted via the member state of the territory in which the products were released for free circulation, within six months of the date on which the amount of the definitive duties to be levied was duly determined by the competent authorities or of the date on which a decision was made definitively to collect the amounts secured by way of provisional duty: art 21(2). Member states must forward the request to the Commission forthwith: art 21(2). An application for refund is to be considered to be duly supported by evidence only where it contains precise information on the amount of refund of countervailing duties claimed and all customs documentation relating to the calculation and payment of such amount: art 21(3). It must also include evidence, for a representative period, of the amount of countervailable subsidies for the exporter or producer to which the duty applies: art 21(3). In cases where the importer is not associated with the exporter or producer concerned and such information is not immediately available, or where the exporter or producer is unwilling to release it to the importer, the application must contain a statement from the exporter or producer that the amount of countervailable subsidies has been reduced or eliminated, as specified in art 21, and that the relevant supporting evidence will be provided to the Commission: art 21(3). Where such evidence is not forthcoming from the exporter or producer within a reasonable period of time, the application must be rejected: art 21(3).

4 As to the Advisory Committee see PARA 377 note 5 ante.

5 EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) art 21(4). Refunds of duties must normally take place within 12 months, and in no circumstances more than 18 months after the date on which a request for a refund, duly supported by evidence, has been made by an importer of the product subject to the countervailing duty: art 21(4). The payment of any refund authorised should normally be made by member states within 90 days of the Commission's decision: art 21(4).

367-388 Countervailing duties

Regulation 2026/97 replaced: EC Council Regulation 597/2009 (OJ L188, 18.7.2009, p 93) on protection against subsidised imports from countries not members of the European Community.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/1. CUSTOMS DUTIES/(24) COMMON COMMERCIAL POLICY OF THE COMMUNITY/(iii) Countervailing Duties/386. Circumvention of countervailing measures.

386. Circumvention of countervailing measures.

Countervailing duties may be extended to imports from third countries of the like product¹, whether slightly modified or not, or to imports of the slightly modified like product from the country subject to measures, or to parts thereof, when circumvention² of the measures in force is taking place³. Countervailing duties not exceeding the residual countervailing duty⁴ may be extended to imports from companies benefiting from individual duties in the countries subject to measures when circumvention of the measures in force is taking place⁵.

Investigations must be initiated on the initiative of the Commission or at the request of a member state or of any interested party on the basis of sufficient evidence⁶ regarding circumventions⁷. Initiations must be made, after consultation of the Advisory Committee⁸, by Commission regulation which may also instruct the customs authorities to make imports subject to registration or to request guarantees⁹. Investigations are to be carried out by the Commission, which may be assisted by customs authorities and must be concluded within nine months¹⁰. When the facts as finally ascertained justify the extension of measures, this must be done by the EC Council, acting on a proposal submitted by the Commission after consultation of the Advisory Committee¹¹. The proposal must be adopted by the Council unless it decides by a simple majority to reject the proposal, within a period of one month after its submission by the Commission¹². The extension takes effect from the date on which registration was imposed¹³ or on which guarantees were requested¹⁴. The relevant procedural provisions¹⁵ with regard to initiations and the conduct of investigations apply¹⁶.

1 For the meaning of 'like product' see PARA 368 note 7 ante.

2 For these purposes, 'circumvention' means a change in the pattern of trade between third countries and the Community or between individual companies in the country subject to measures and the Community, which stems from a practice, process or work for which there is insufficient due cause or economic justification other than the imposition of the duty, and where there is evidence of injury or that the remedial effects of the duty are being undermined in terms of the prices and/or quantities of the like product and that the imported like product and/or parts thereof still benefit from the subsidy: EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) art 23(1), 1st para (art 23(1) substituted by EC Council Regulation 461/2004 (OJ L77, 13.3.2004, p 12) art 2(6)). The practice, process or work referred to above includes, inter alia, the slight modification of the product concerned to make it fall under customs codes which are normally not subject to the measures, provided that the modification does not alter its essential characteristics; the consignment of the product subject to measures via third countries; and the reorganisation by exporters or producers of their patterns and channels of sales in the country subject to measures in order to eventually have their products exported to the Community through producers benefiting from an individual duty rate lower than that applicable to the products of the manufacturers: EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) art 23(1), 2nd para (as so substituted).

3 Ibid art 23(1), 1st para (as substituted: see note 2 supra). Nothing in art 23 (as substituted) precludes the normal application of the provisions in force concerning customs duties: art 23(4).

4 I.e. imposed in accordance with ibid art 15(2): see PARA 381 ante.

5 Ibid art 23(1), 1st para (as substituted: see note 2 supra).

6 I.e. sufficient evidence regarding the factors mentioned in ibid art 23(1) (as substituted): see the text and notes 1-5 supra.

7 Ibid art 23(2) (substituted by EC Council Regulation 461/2004 (OJ L77, 13.3.2004, p 12) art 2(7)).

8 As to the Advisory Committee see PARA 377 note 5 ante.

9 EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) art 23(2) (as substituted: see note 7 supra). The text refers to registration in accordance with art 24(5): see PARA 383 note 8 ante. Imports are not subject to registration pursuant to art 24(5) or measures where they are traded by companies which benefit from exemptions: art 23(3), 1st para (art 23(3) substituted by EC Council Regulation 461/2004 (OJ L77, 13.3.2004, p 12) art 2(7)). Requests for exemptions duly supported by evidence must be submitted within the time limits established in the Commission regulation initiating the investigation: EC Council Regulation 2026/97 (OJ L288, 21.10.97, p 1) art 23(3), 1st para. Where the circumventing practice, process or work takes place outside the Community, exemptions may be granted to producers of the product concerned that can show that they are not related to any producer subject to the measures and that are found not to be engaged in circumvention practices as defined in art 23(1) (as substituted): art 23(3), 1st para (as so substituted). Where the circumventing practice, process or work takes place inside the Community, exemptions may be granted to importers that can show that they are not related to producers subject to the measures: art 23(3), 1st para (as so substituted). These exemptions are granted by decision of the Commission after consultation of the Advisory Committee or decision of the EC Council imposing measures and remain valid for the period and under the conditions set down therein: art 23(3), 2nd para (as so substituted).

Provided that the conditions set in art 20 (see PARA 377 ante) are met, exemptions may also be granted after the conclusion of the investigation leading to the extension of the measures: art 23(3), 3rd para (as so substituted). Provided that at least one year has lapsed from the extension of the measures, and in case the number of parties requesting or potentially requesting an exemption is significant, the Commission may decide to initiate a review of the extension of the measures: art 23(3), 4th para (as so substituted). Any such review must be conducted in accordance with the provisions of art 22(1) (as substituted) as applicable to reviews under art 19 (as amended) (see PARA 384 notes 4, 5 ante): art 23(3), 4th para (as so substituted).

10 Ibid art 23(2) (as substituted: see note 7 supra).

In the absence of a proper and timely reply, a verification visit may not be carried out². The Commission may carry out investigations in third countries as required, provided that it obtains the agreement of the firms concerned, that it notifies the representatives of the government³ of the country in question, and that the latter does not object to the investigation⁴.

2. EXCISE DUTIES

(1) INTRODUCTION

389. Nature of excise duties.

Excise duties fall under three main headings:

- 805 (1) those charged on articles or commodities imported into, or produced or manufactured in, the United Kingdom¹;
- 806 (2) those charged on betting and gaming activities²; and
- 807 (3) those charged on excise licences, which are called excise licence duties³.

1 At the date at which this volume states the law such duties are imposed on alcohol and alcoholic beverages (see PARA 398 et seq post), hydrocarbon oils (see PARA 508 et seq post) and tobacco products (see PARA 585 et seq post). There is also an aggregates levy, charged on aggregate (as defined) subjected to commercial exploitation in the United Kingdom (see PARA 834 post).

390. United Kingdom legislation on excise duties.

Excise duty in the United Kingdom is imposed on three categories of goods:

- 808 (1) alcoholic liquors¹;
- 809 (2) hydrocarbon oil²; and
- 810 (3) tobacco products³,

all three categories of goods being subject to the provisions of the EC Council Directive on the General Arrangements for Products subject to Excise Duty and on the Holding, Movement and Monitoring of such Products⁴ and the EC Council Directives made in pursuance of that Directive⁵, with the exception, in the case of tobacco products, of chewing tobacco which, whilst liable to excise duty in the United Kingdom, is not within the scope of the EC Directive on Taxes other than Turnover Taxes which affects the consumption of manufactured tobacco⁶.

Excise duty is also chargeable on:

- 811 (a) betting and gaming activities⁷;
- 812 (b) licences for mechanically propelled vehicles used or kept on a public road in the United Kingdom⁸;
- 813 (c) the carriage on a chargeable aircraft of a chargeable passenger⁹; and
- 814 (d) game licences¹⁰.

Excise licence duty is no longer chargeable on the grant of excise licences under any provisions of the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979¹¹.

There are also some other taxes, levies and charges which share some of the characteristics of excise duties and which are under the care and management of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs¹². These include: the aggregates levy, which is charged on aggregate (as defined) subjected to commercial exploitation in the United Kingdom¹³; the lorry road user charge¹⁴; the climate change levy¹⁵; landfill tax¹⁶; and insurance premium tax¹⁷.

390 United Kingdom legislation on excise duties

NOTE 10--1860 Act repealed: SI 2007/2007.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(2) EXCISE DUTIES AT COMMUNITY LEVEL/(i) In general/391. The European background to excise duty.

(2) EXCISE DUTIES AT COMMUNITY LEVEL

(i) In general

391. The European background to excise duty.

Excise duties are not entirely a matter of domestic law. The imposition of certain excise duties is governed by Community law. However, unlike customs duties, which are imposed by EC Council Regulation¹ and are, therefore, directly applicable without implementing legislation in the United Kingdom, the Community legislation relating to excise duties is imposed by instruments such as the EC Council Directive on the General Arrangements for Products subject to Excise Duty and on the Holding, Movement and Monitoring of such Products² which lays down the arrangements for products subject to excise duties and other indirect taxes which are levied directly or indirectly on the consumption of such products, other than VAT and taxes established by the Community. Although some provisions of these instruments have direct effect, much of the Community legislation relating to excise duties must be implemented by each member state before taking effect³.

Community regulation of excise duties was expressed to have been made (inter alia) because:

- 815 (1) the establishment and functioning of the internal market required the free movement of goods, including those subject to excise duties;
- 816 (2) provision needed to be made to define the territory on which the Community legislation⁴ was to be applied;
- 817 (3) the concept of products subject to excise duty required to be defined, having regard to the fact that only goods which are treated as subject to such duties in all the member states could be the subject of Community provisions and that such products could be subject to other indirect taxes for specific purposes;
- 818 (4) it was considered that the maintenance or introduction of other indirect taxes ought not give rise to border-crossing formalities; and
- 819 (5) in order to ensure the establishment and functioning of the internal market, chargeability of excise duties required to be identical in all the member states⁵.

The EC Council Directive on the General Arrangements for Products subject to Excise Duty and on the Holding, Movement and Monitoring of such Products¹ applies at Community level to the following products:

- 820 (1) mineral oils;
- 821 (2) alcohol and alcoholic beverages; and
- 822 (3) manufactured tobacco².

Those products may be subject to other indirect taxes for specific purposes, provided that those taxes comply with the tax rules applicable for excise duty and VAT purposes as far as determination of the tax base, calculation of the tax, chargeability and monitoring of the tax are concerned³.

Member states retain the right:

- 823 (a) to introduce or maintain taxes which are levied on other products other than those listed in heads (1) to (3) above;
- 824 (b) to levy taxes on the supply of services which cannot be characterised as turnover taxes, including those relating to products subject to excise duty, provided that those taxes do not give rise to border-crossing formalities in trade between member states⁴.

393. Imposition of excise duty.

Goods subject to the EC Council Directive on the General Arrangements for Products subject to Excise Duty and on the Holding, Movement and Monitoring of such Products¹ are to be subject to excise duty at the time of their production within the territory of the Community² or of their importation into that territory³. Where, however, the product is placed under a Community customs procedure on entry into the territory of the Community, importation is deemed to take place when it leaves the Community customs procedure⁴. When products subject to excise duty are coming from, or going to, third countries or other prescribed territories⁵ or the Channel Islands and are placed under one of the customs suspensive procedures⁶ or in a free zone⁷ or a free warehouse⁸, or are dispatched between member states via EFTA countries⁹ or between a member state and an EFTA country under the internal Community transit procedure or via one or more non-EFTA third countries under cover of a TIR or ATA carnet¹⁰, the excise duty on them is deemed¹¹ to be suspended¹².

394. Excise duty on goods moving from member state to another.

The EC Council Directive on the General Arrangements for Products subject to Excise Duty and on the Holding, Movement and Monitoring of such Products¹ draws a distinction between the imposition of excise duties on goods which have been transported from one member state to another by an individual for private purposes and goods so moved for commercial purposes.

In the event of products subject to excise duty and already released for consumption in one member state being held for commercial purposes in another member state, excise duty is to be levied in the member state in which those products are held². To that end³, where products already released for consumption⁴ in one member state are delivered, or intended for delivery, in another member state or used in another member state for the purposes of a trader carrying out an economic activity independently or for the purposes of a body governed by public law, excise duty becomes chargeable in that other member state⁵. Depending on all the circumstances, the duty is due from the person making the delivery or holding the products intended for delivery or from the person receiving the products for use in a member state other than the one where the products have already been released for consumption, or from the relevant trader or body governed by public law⁶. The excise duty paid in the first member state is then to be reimbursed⁷.

As regards products acquired by private individuals for their own use and transported by them, the principle governing the internal market lays down that excise duty is to be charged in the member state in which they are acquired⁸.

Without prejudice to the above provisions, excise duty is to be chargeable where products for consumption in a member state are held for commercial purposes in another member state; and, in this case, the duty is due in the member state in whose territory the products are and become chargeable to the holder of the goods⁹.

1 Ie EC Council Directive 92/12 (OJ L76, 23.2.92, p 1) (as amended): see PARA 391 ante.

2 Ibid art 7(1).

3 Ie without prejudice to ibid art 6. Excise duty becomes chargeable at the time of release for consumption (see note 4 infra) or when shortages are recorded which must be subject to excise duty in accordance with art 14(3): art 6(1), 1st para. The chargeability conditions and rate of excise duty to be adopted are to be those in force on the date on which duty becomes chargeable in the member state where release for consumption takes place or shortages are recorded; and excise duty is to be levied and collected according to the procedure laid down by each member state, it being understood that member states must apply the same procedures for levying and collection to national products and to those from other member states: art 6(2).

Article 6 does not prevent the subsequent levy of duty in another member state pursuant to (inter alia) art 7 and art 10 (see PARA 395 post). Where goods are carried from one member state to another on the instructions of a trader acting in return for payment who has previously solicited customers and arranged the importation, duty is chargeable in the second state under both art 7 and art 10, so that EC Council Directive 92/12 (OJ L76, 23.2.92, p 1) (as amended) does not preclude the levying of excise duties in one member state on goods already released in another where the goods were acquired for the use of private individuals residing in the former state and were transported there by an agent acting in return for payment: Case C-296/95 R v Customs and Excise Comrs, ex p EMU Tabac SARL (Imperial Tobacco Ltd intervening) [1998] ECR I-1605, [1998] All ER (EC) 402, ECJ.

4 For these purposes, 'release for consumption' means: (1) any departure, including irregular departure, from a suspension arrangement; (2) any manufacture, including irregular manufacture, of those products outside a suspension arrangement; and (3) any importation of those products, including irregular importation, where those products have not been placed under a suspension arrangement: EC Council Directive 92/12 (OJ L76, 23.2.92, p 1) art 6(1), 2nd para. 'Suspension arrangement' means a tax arrangement applied to the production, processing, holding and movement of products, excise duty being suspended: art 4(c).

5 Ibid art 7(2) (amended by EC Council Directive 92/108 art 1(2)).

7 Ibid art 7(6). Reimbursement is to be made in accordance with art 22(3): art 7(6).

8 Ibid art 8. See also Case C-5/05 Staatssecretaris van Financiën v Joustra [2006] All ER (D) 311 (Nov). To establish that the products referred to in art 8 are intended for commercial purposes, member states must take account of (inter alia) the following: (1) the commercial status of the holder of the products and his reasons for holding them; (2) the place where the products are located or, if appropriate, the mode of transport used; (3) any document relating to the products; (4) the nature of the products; (5) the quantity of the products: EC Council Directive 92/12 (OJ L76, 23.2.92, p 1) art 9(2), 1st para. For the purposes of applying the content of head (5) supra, member states may lay down guide levels, solely as a form of evidence, which may not be lower than: (a) in relation to tobacco products: (i) cigarettes (800 items); (ii) cigarillos, ie cigars weighing not more than 3 grams each (400 items); (iii) cigars (200 items); and (iv) smoking tobacco (1 kilogram); (b) in relation to alcoholic beverages: (i) spirit drinks (10 litres); (ii) intermediate products (20 litres); (iii) wines, including a maximum of 60 litres of sparkling wines (90 litres); and (iv) beers (110 litres): art 9(2), 2nd para.

Article 8 applies only to goods subject to duty held by individuals for strictly personal purposes and does not apply where the purchase or transportation is effected through an agent: Case C-296/95 R v Customs and Excise Comrs, ex p EMU Tabac SARL (Imperial Tobacco Ltd intervening) [1998] ECR I-1605, [1998] All ER (EC) 402, ECJ; and see Case C-5/05 Staatssecretaris van Financiën v Joustra supra.

UPDATE

394 Excise duty on goods moving from member state to another

NOTE 8--Case C-5/05, cited, reported at [2008] STC 2226.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(2) EXCISE DUTIES AT COMMUNITY LEVEL/(i) In general/395. Products subject to excise duty dispatched to consumers in another member state.

395. Products subject to excise duty dispatched to consumers in another member state.

The EC Council Directive on the General Arrangements for Products subject to Excise Duty and on the Holding, Movement and Monitoring of such Products¹ requires that products subject to excise duty purchased by persons who are not authorised warehousekeepers² or registered³ or non-registered⁴ traders and which are dispatched or transported directly or indirectly by the vendor or on his behalf are liable to excise duty in the member state of destination⁵. To that end, the delivery of products subject to excise duty already released for consumption in a member state⁶ and giving rise to the dispatch or transport of those products to a prescribed person⁷ established in another member state, and which are dispatched or transported directly or indirectly by the vendor or on his behalf, causes excise duty to be chargeable on those products in the member state of destination⁸.

The duty of the member state of destination is chargeable to the vendor at the time of delivery; but member states are permitted to adopt provisions stipulating that the excise duty is to be payable by a tax representative, other than the consignee of the products, who must be established in the member state of destination and approved by the tax authorities of that member state⁹. The member state in which the vendor is established must ensure that he complies with the following requirements:

- 825 (1) that he guarantees payment of excise duty under the conditions set by the member state of destination prior to dispatch of the products and ensures that the excise duty is paid following arrival of the products; and
- 826 (2) that he keeps accounts of deliveries of products¹⁰.

1 le EC Council Directive 92/12 (OJ L76, 23.2.92, p 1) (as amended): see PARA 391 ante.

2 For these purposes, 'authorised warehousekeeper' means a natural or legal person authorised by the competent authorities of a member state to produce, process, hold, receive and dispatch products subject to excise duty in the course of his business, excise duty being suspended under a tax-warehousing arrangement: ibid art 4(a). 'Tax warehouse' means a place where goods subject to excise duty are produced, processed, held, received or dispatched under duty-suspension arrangements by an authorised warehousekeeper in the course of his business, subject to certain conditions laid down by the competent authorities of the member state where the tax warehouse is located: art 4(b). For the meaning of 'suspension arrangement' see PARA 394 note 4 ante.

3 For these purposes, 'registered trader' means a natural or legal person without authorised warehousekeeper status, authorised by the competent authorities of a member state to receive, in the course of his business, products subject to excise duty from another member state under duty-suspension arrangements; but this type of trader may neither hold nor dispatch such products under excise duty-suspension arrangements: ibid art 4(d).

4 For these purposes, 'non-registered trader' means a natural or legal person without authorised warehousekeeper status, who is entitled, in the course of his business, to receive occasionally products subject to excise duty from another member state under duty-suspension arrangements; but this type of a trader may neither hold nor dispatch products under excise duty suspension arrangements: ibid art 4(e). A non-registered trader must guarantee payment of excise duty to the tax authorities of the member states of destination prior to the dispatch of the goods: art 4(e).

5 Ibid art 10(1). For these purposes, 'member state of destination' means the member state of arrival of the dispatch or transport: art 10(1). See also Case C-296/95 R v Customs and Excise Comrs, ex p EMU Tabac SARL

(ii) Implementation in the United Kingdom of the EC Council Directive on Excise Duty

396. In general.

In order to comply with Community obligations under the EC Council Directive on the General Arrangements for Products subject to Excise Duty and on the Holding, Movement and Monitoring of such Products¹, United Kingdom legislation imposes special rules in relation to Community excise goods, that is to say excise goods imported into the United Kingdom from another member state and which have been produced or are in free circulation in the Community at that importation². In addition, power is given to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs, by regulations, to fix the time when the requirement to pay any duty with which goods become chargeable is to take effect ('the excise duty point')³ and, in relation to any duties of excise, by regulations to make provision conferring an entitlement to drawback of duty in prescribed cases where the Commissioners are satisfied that goods chargeable with duty have not been, and will not be, consumed in the United Kingdom⁴. Provision is also made for the exercise of enforcement powers for purposes connected with:

- 827 (1) securing the collection of any Community customs duty or giving effect to any Community legislation relating to any such duty;
- 828 (2) the enforcement of any prohibition or restriction for the time being in force by virtue of any Community legislation with respect to the movement of goods into or out of the member states; or
- 829 (3) the enforcement of any prohibition or restriction for the time being in force by virtue of any enactment with respect to the importation or exportation of goods into or out of the United Kingdom⁵.

Any expression used in the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 or in any instrument made thereunder to which a meaning is given by any other Act included in the Customs and Excise Acts 1979 has, except where the context otherwise requires, the same meaning in the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 or in any such instrument as in that Act: s 4(3). Any provision of the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 relating to anything done or required or authorised to be done under or by reference to that provision or any other provision of that Act has effect as if any reference to that provision, or that other provision, as the case may be, included a reference to the corresponding provision of the enactments repealed by that Act: s 92(3). Nothing in s 92(3) is to be taken as prejudicing the operation of the Interpretation Act 1978 ss 15-17 (effect of repeals: see STATUTES vol 44(1) (Reissue) PARAS 1303, 1306-1309): Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 92(8).

Subject to any exceptions which may be prescribed¹, retail containers of specified alcoholic liquors must be stamped², in such cases and circumstances, and with a duty stamp³ of such a type, as may be prescribed⁴. A 'retail container', in relation to an alcoholic liquor, is a container of a capacity of 35 centilitres or more, and in which, or from which, the liquor is intended to be sold by retail⁵. The specified alcoholic liquors are spirits and wine or made-wine of a strength of 30 per cent or more⁶.

Except in such cases as may be prescribed, a person commits an offence if he is in possession of, transports or displays, or sells, offers for sale, or otherwise deals in, unstamped retail containers containing alcoholic liquor to which these provisions apply⁷. A manager⁸ of premises commits an offence if he suffers them to be used for the sale of liquor which is within these provisions in an unstamped retail container, or for the sale of such liquor that is from such a container⁹.

Where a person alters a type A stamp, otherwise than in accordance with regulations under these provisions, after it has been issued, or so alters a type B stamp after the label in which it is incorporated has been produced, he is liable to a penalty¹⁰ and the stamp, or the label in which it is incorporated, is liable to forfeiture¹¹. Where a person affixes to a retail container that is required to be stamped any of the items listed below, he is liable to a similar penalty and the container is liable to forfeiture (together with its contents)¹². The items are:

- 842 (1) a type A stamp, or a label incorporating a type B stamp, if the stamp is not a correct stamp for that container in accordance with regulations under these provisions;
- 843 (2) a type A stamp that has been altered, otherwise than in accordance with such regulations, after it has been issued, or a label incorporating a type B stamp if the stamp has been so altered after the label has been produced;
- 844 (3) an item that purports to be, but is not, a type A stamp or a label incorporating a type B stamp;
- 845 (4) any label or other item affixed in such a way as to cover up all or part of a type A stamp affixed to the container, or a type B stamp incorporated in a label so affixed, except where the label or other item is so affixed in accordance with such regulations¹³.

If a person fails to comply with a requirement imposed by or under regulations made under these provisions, he is liable to a penalty¹⁴, and any article in respect of which he so fails to comply is liable to forfeiture (including, in the case of a container, its contents)¹⁵.

1 In regulations made by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs: Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 64A, Sch 2A para 12 (s 64A added by the Finance Act 2004 s 4(1); and the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 Sch 2A added by the Finance Act 2004 s 4(2), Sch 1). As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

2 A retail container is 'stamped' for this purpose if: (1) it carries a duty stamp of a type mentioned in note 3 head (1) infra which has been affixed to the container in a way that complies with the requirements of regulations under the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 Sch 2A (as added); or (2) it carries a label which has been so affixed to the container and the label incorporates a duty stamp of a type mentioned in note 3 head (2) infra: Sch 2A paras 1(4), 12 (as added: see note 1 supra).

3 'Duty stamp' means any of the following: (1) a document (a 'type A stamp') issued by or on behalf of the Commissioners which: (a) is designed to be affixed to a retail container of alcoholic liquor; and (b) indicates that the appropriate duty, or an amount representing some or all of the appropriate duty, has been (or is to be) paid; (2) a part of a label for a retail container of alcoholic liquor (a 'type B stamp') which: (a) is incorporated in a label under the authority of the Commissioners; and (b) indicates that the appropriate duty, or an amount representing some or all of the appropriate duty, has been (or is to be) paid: ibid Sch 2A paras 1(5), 12 (as added: see note 1 supra). 'The appropriate duty' means the duty chargeable on the quantity and description of alcoholic liquor contained, or to be contained, in the retail container to which the stamp, or the label incorporating the stamp, is, or is to be, affixed: Sch 2A para 1(6) (as so added).

The Commissioners may by regulations make provision as to the terms and conditions on which a person may obtain: (i) a type A stamp; (ii) authority to incorporate in a label a type B stamp; (iii) authority to obtain a label incorporating a type B stamp; (iv) authority to affix such a label to a retail container of alcoholic liquor: Sch 2A para 3(1) (as so added). Such regulations may, in particular, make provision for or in connection with requiring a person in prescribed cases or circumstances: (A) to pay, or agree to pay, the prescribed amount to the Commissioners or to a person authorised by the Commissioners for this purpose; (B) to provide to the Commissioners such security as they may require in respect of payment of the appropriate duty: Sch 2A para 3(2) (as so added). However, an amount prescribed for the purposes of head (A) supra must not exceed the aggregate of an amount representing the appropriate duty and, in the case of a type A stamp, the cost of issuing the stamp: Sch 2A para 3(3) (as so added). 'The appropriate duty' means the duty chargeable on the quantity and description of alcoholic liquor contained, or to be contained, in the retail container to which the stamp, or the label incorporating the stamp, is to be affixed: Sch 2A para 3(6) (as so added). Such regulations may also make provision for or in connection with requiring or enabling the Commissioners to bear, in prescribed circumstances, in the case of a type B stamp, all or part of so much of the cost of producing the label as is attributable to the incorporation of the stamp: Sch 2A para 3(4) (as so added). The whole of an amount payable for a duty stamp is treated for the purposes of the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 as an amount due by way of excise duty: Sch 2A para 3(5) (as so added). As to regulations made under these provisions see the Duty Stamps Regulations 2006, SI 2006/202.

4 Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 Sch 2A para 1(1) (as added: see note 1 supra). These provisions came into force on 22 February 2006: Finance Act 2004 (Duty Stamps) (Appointed Day) Order 2006, SI 2006/201.

5 Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 Sch 2A paras 1(2), 12 (Sch 2A as added: see note 1 supra). The Treasury may by order made by statutory instrument amend Sch 2A para 1(2) (as added) for the purpose of varying the capacity from time to time specified in that provision: Sch 2A para 2(1) (as so added). See also note 6 infra. As to the Treasury see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARAS 512-517.

6 Ibid Sch 2A para 1(3) (as added (see note 1 supra); and amended by the Duty Stamps (Amendment of paragraph 1(3) of Schedule 2A to the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979) Order 2006, SI 2006/144, art 2). As to spirits see PARAS 400 ante, 410 et seq post. As to wine and made-wine see PARAS 402-403 ante, 470 et seq post. The Treasury may by order made by statutory instrument amend the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 Sch 2A para 1(3) (as added) for the purpose of causing Sch 2A (as added) to apply to any description of alcoholic liquor to which it does not apply, or to cease to apply to any description of alcoholic liquor to which it does apply: Sch 2A para 2(2) (as so added). A statutory instrument containing an order under Sch 2A para 2 (as added) may not be made unless a draft thereof has been laid before and approved by a resolution of the House of Commons: Sch 2A para 2(3) (as so added).

The Commissioners may by regulations make provision as to such matters relating to duty stamps as appear to them to be necessary or expedient; and such regulations may, in particular, make provision about: (1) the times at which a retail container must bear a duty stamp; (2) the type of duty stamp with which a retail container is to be stamped in any particular case or circumstances; (3) the design and appearance of a duty stamp (including the production of a label incorporating a type B stamp); (4) the information that is to appear on a duty stamp; (5) the cost of issuing a type A stamp; (6) the procedure for obtaining: (a) a type A stamp; (b) authority to incorporate such a stamp in a label; (c) authority to obtain a label incorporating such a stamp; (d) authority to affix such a label to a retail container of alcoholic liquor (including in each case provision setting periods of notice); (7) where on the container a type A stamp, or a label incorporating a type B stamp, is to be affixed; (8) repayment of, or credit for, in prescribed circumstances and subject to such conditions as may be prescribed, all or part of a payment made under or by virtue of these provisions to the Commissioners or a person authorised by the Commissioners; (9) liability to forfeiture, in prescribed circumstances, of some or all of a payment made, or security provided, under or by virtue of these provisions to the Commissioners or to a person authorised by them: Sch 2A para 4(1), (2) (as so added). Such regulations may also make provision: (i) for or in connection with preventing a type A stamp from being used by a person other than the person to or for whom the stamp was issued or a person authorised by that person to affix the stamp to a retail container of alcoholic liquor; (ii) for or in connection with preventing a label incorporating a type B stamp from being used by a person other than the person to or for whom authority to obtain the label incorporating the stamp, or to affix that label to a retail container of alcoholic liquor, was given by the Commissioners; (iii) for or in connection with requiring a person who is not established, and does not have any fixed establishment, in the United Kingdom, in prescribed circumstances, to appoint another person (a 'duty stamps representative') to act on his behalf in relation to duty stamps; and (iv) as to the rights, duties and obligations of duty stamps representatives: Sch 2A para 4(3), (4) (as so added). For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 note 6 ante. Such regulations may make different provision for different cases: Sch 2A para 4(6) (as so added). The Commissioners may, with a view to the protection of the revenue, make regulations for securing and collecting duty payable in accordance with these provisions: Sch 2A para 4(5) (as so added).

7 Ibid Sch 2A para 5(1) (as added: see note 1 supra). It is a defence for a person charged with such an offence to prove that the retail container in question was not required to be stamped: Sch 2A para 5(2) (as so added). A person who commits such an offence is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding level 5 on the standard scale; and a retail container in relation to which such an offence is committed is liable to forfeiture (together with its contents): Sch 2A para 5(3), (4) (as so added). As to the standard scale see PARA 79 note 3 ante.

8 A person is a 'manager' of premises if he is entitled to control their use, he is entrusted with their management, or he is in charge thereof: ibid Sch 2A para 6(5) (as added: see note 1 supra).

9 Ibid Sch 2A para 6(1) (as added: see note 1 supra). It is a defence for a person charged with such an offence to prove that the retail container in question was not required to be stamped: Sch 2A para 6(2) (as so added). A person who commits such an offence is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding level 5 on the standard scale; and all unstamped retail containers of alcoholic liquor to which these provisions apply that are on the premises at the time of the offence are liable to forfeiture (together with their contents): Sch 2A para 6(3), (4) (as so added). A court by or before which a person is convicted of such an offence may make an order prohibiting the use of the premises in question for the sale of alcoholic liquors during a period specified in the order: Sch 2A para 7(1) (as so added). Such a period may not exceed six months, and the first day of the period must be the day specified as such in the order: Sch 2A para 7(2) (as so added). If a manager of premises causes them to be used in breach of such an order, he commits an offence and is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding level 5 on the standard scale: Sch 2A para 7(3) (as so added).

A repayment of duty may not be so made in respect of any liquor except to a person who:

- 852 (i) is the person who used the liquor as an ingredient in a product falling within heads (1)(a) to (1)(c) above or, as the case may be, converted it into vinegar;
- 853 (ii) carries on a business as a wholesale supplier of products of the applicable description falling within heads (1)(a) to (1)(c) above or, as the case may be, of vinegar;
- 854 (iii) produced or manufactured the product or vinegar for the purposes of that business;
- 855 (iv) makes a claim for the repayment in accordance with the following provisions; and
- 856 (v) satisfies the Commissioners as to the matters mentioned in heads (i) to (iii) above and that the repayment does not relate to any duty which has been repaid or drawn back prior to the making of the claim⁷.

Such a claim for repayment of duty must take such form and be made in such manner, and must contain such particulars, as the Commissioners may direct, either generally or in a particular case⁸.

Except as the Commissioners otherwise allow, a person must not make such a claim for repayment of duty unless the claim relates to duty paid on liquor used as an ingredient or, as the case may be, converted into vinegar in the course of a period of three months ending not more than one month before the making of the claim and the amount of the repayment which is claimed is not less than £250⁹.

There may be remitted by the Commissioners any duty charged either:

- 857 (A) on any dutiable alcoholic liquor imported into the United Kingdom at a time when it is contained as an ingredient in any chocolates or food falling within head (1)(b) or head (1)(c) above; or
- 858 (B) on any dutiable alcoholic liquor used as an ingredient in the manufacture or production in an excise warehouse¹⁰ of any such chocolates or food¹¹.

Ascertainment of strength, volume and weight of alcohol liquors.

D. STRENGTH, VOLUME, WEIGHT AND GRAVITY

408. Ascertainment of strength, volume and weight of alcohol liquors.

The following provisions apply¹ to spirits², anything that would be spirits if it were of a strength exceeding 1.2 per cent, and any fermented liquor other than wash³; and 'liquor' is to be construed accordingly⁴.

For all purposes of the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979:

- 859 (1) except where some other measure of quantity is specified, any computation of the quantity of any liquor or of the alcohol contained in any liquor must be made in terms of the volume of the liquor or alcohol, as the case may be;
- 860 (2) any computation of the volume of any liquor or of the alcohol contained in any liquor must be made in litres as at 20°C; and
- 861 (3) the alcoholic strength of any liquor is the ratio of the volume of the alcohol contained in the liquor to the volume of the liquor (inclusive of the alcohol contained in it), and in the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979, unless the context otherwise requires, 'alcohol' means ethyl alcohol and 'strength', in relation to any liquor, means its alcoholic strength computed in accordance with the above provisions, the ratio referred to in head (3) above being expressed as a percentage⁵.

The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may make regulations prescribing the means to be used for ascertaining for any purpose the strength, weight or volume of any liquor; and any such regulations may provide that, in computing for any purpose the strength of any liquor, any substance contained therein which is not alcohol or distilled water may be treated as if it were⁶. Such regulations may provide⁷ that, for the purpose of charging duty⁸ on any spirits, beer⁹, cider¹⁰, wine¹¹ or made-wine¹² contained in any bottle or other container¹³, the strength, weight or volume of the liquor in that bottle or other container may be ascertained by reference to any information given on the bottle or other container by means of a label or otherwise or to any documents relating to the bottle or other container¹⁴. Different regulations may be so made for different purposes¹⁵.

Nothing in the above provisions prevents the strength, weight or volume of beer, wine, made-wine or cider from being computed for the purpose of charging duty thereon by methods other than that provided in those provisions¹⁶.

Where the quantity of alcohol contained in any spirits falls to be computed in accordance with the above provisions on or after 1 January 1980 and the quantity of those spirits was last computed in accordance with the above provisions before that date, the following conversion factor must be applied in making the first-mentioned computation, that is to say, one gallon of spirits at proof is to be taken to be equivalent to 2.595 litres of alcohol¹⁷. However, the Commissioners may, if they think fit in any particular case, require the quantity of alcohol contained in any spirits¹⁸ to be computed in accordance with the above provisions without applying the conversion factor specified¹⁹ above²⁰.

3 The expression 'wash' is not defined in the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979; but wash may be described as fermented liquor from which spirits can be produced by distillation. In the Spirits Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2564 (as amended), 'wash' means wort in which fermentation has begun: reg 3.

409. Meaning of, and method of ascertaining, gravity of liquids.

For the purposes of the Customs and Excise Acts 1979¹:

- 862 (1) 'gravity', in relation to any liquid, means the ratio of the weight of a volume of the liquid to the weight of an equal volume of distilled water, the volume of each liquid being computed as at 20°C;
- 863 (2) where the gravity of any liquid is expressed as a number of degrees, that number is the said ratio multiplied by 1,000; and
- 864 (3) 'original gravity', in relation to any liquid in which fermentation has taken place, means its gravity before fermentation².

The gravity of any liquid at any time must be ascertained by such means as the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may approve; and the gravity so ascertained is deemed to be the true gravity of the liquid³.

Where, for any purposes of the Customs and Excise Acts 1979, it is necessary to ascertain the original gravity of worts⁴ in which fermentation has commenced or of any liquid produced from such worts, that gravity must be determined in such manner as the Commissioners may by regulations prescribe⁵; and different regulations may be made in relation to different liquids⁶.

413. Imported goods not fit for human consumption.

On the importation of goods¹ not for human consumption containing spirits² as a part or ingredient thereof, the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs³ may, subject to such conditions as they may think fit to impose, direct the goods to be treated for the purposes of the charge of duty on spirits⁴, and in particular the charge of duty on manufactured or composite imported articles under the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979⁵, as not containing spirits⁶.

If the Commissioners so make a direction⁷, but it turns out that the goods were for human consumption, the Commissioners:

- 865 (1) may assess as being excise duty due from the relevant person⁸ an amount equal to the duty that would have been chargeable on the goods if the direction had not been made; and
- 866 (2) may notify him or his representative accordingly⁹.

1 For these purposes, unless the context otherwise requires, 'goods' includes stores and baggage: Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 1(1); applied by the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 4(3). Unless the context otherwise requires, 'stores' means, subject to the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 1(4), goods for use in a ship or aircraft and includes fuel and spare parts and other articles of equipment, whether or not for immediate fitting: s 1(1); applied by the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 4(3). Goods for use in a ship or aircraft as merchandise for sale to persons carried in that ship or aircraft are treated for the purposes of the customs and excise Acts as stores if, and only if: (1) the goods are to be sold by retail either in the course of a relevant journey (ie any journey beginning in the United Kingdom and having an immediate destination outside the member states) or for consumption on board; and (2) the goods are not treated as exported by virtue of regulations under the Customs and Excise Duties (General Reliefs) Act 1979 s 12 (see PARA 873 post): Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 1(4), (4A) (s 1(4) substituted, and s 1(4A) added, by the Finance Act 1999 s 10); applied by the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 4(3). C. REMISSION OF DUTY

414. Spirits used for medical or scientific purposes.

Where a person proposes to use spirits¹:

867 (1) in the manufacture or preparation of any article recognised by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs² as being an article used for medical purposes; or the Commissioners may, if they think fit and subject to such conditions as they see fit to impose, authorise that person to receive, and permit the delivery from warehouse³ to that person of, spirits for that use without payment of the duty chargeable thereon⁴.

868 (2) for scientific purposes,

If any person contravenes or fails to comply with any condition imposed under the above provisions, his contravention or failure to comply attracts a civil penalty⁵ under the Finance Act 1994⁶.

If spirits are received and delivered in accordance with the above provisions⁷, they are not used as proposed and it is not shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioners that they can be accounted for by natural waste or other legitimate cause, the Commissioners:

869 (a) may assess as being excise duty due from the person concerned an amount equal to the duty that would have been chargeable on the spirits if, at the time of delivery from warehouse, they had been delivered for home use and otherwise than in accordance with the above provisions; and 870 (b) may notify him or his representative accordingly⁸.

415. Alcohol for denaturing.

The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may, subject to such conditions as they see fit to impose¹, permit alcohol² to be delivered from an excise warehouse³ to the entered premises⁴ of a producer for denaturing⁵ without payment of excise duty⁶.

1 The power to impose conditions includes power to require such security for excise duty as the Commissioners think fit: Denatured Alcohol Regulations 2005, SI 2005/1524, reg 10(2). As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

416. Spirits for use in art or manufacture.

Where, in the case of any art or manufacture carried on by any person in which the use of spirits¹ is required, it is proved to the satisfaction of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs that the use of denatured alcohol² is unsuitable or detrimental, the Commissioners may, if they think fit and subject to such conditions as they see fit to impose, authorise that person to receive, and permit the delivery from warehouse³ to that person of, spirits for use in that art or manufacture without payment of the duty⁴ chargeable thereon⁵.

If any person contravenes or fails to comply with any condition imposed under the above provisions, his contravention or failure to comply attracts a civil penalty⁶ under the Finance Act 1994⁷.

If spirits which are received and delivered in accordance with the above provisions⁸ are not used as proposed and it is not shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioners that they can be accounted for by natural waste or other legitimate cause, the Commissioners:

- 871 (1) may assess as being excise duty due from the person concerned an amount equal to the duty that would have been chargeable on the spirits if, at the time of delivery from warehouse, they had been delivered for home use and otherwise than in accordance with the above provisions⁹; and

D. MANUFACTURE OF SPIRITS

(A) REGULATIONS

417. Power to make regulations relating to manufacture of spirits.

The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may, with a view to the protection of the revenue, make regulations:

- 873 (1) regulating the manufacture of spirits¹, whether by distillation of a fermented liquor or by any other process;
- 874 (2) for securing and collecting the duty on spirits manufactured in the United Kingdom²; and
- 875 (3) regulating the removal of spirits from a distillery³, and different regulations may be made in respect of manufacture for different purposes or by different processes⁴.

Such regulations may⁵:

- 876 (a) provide for the imposition under the regulations of conditions and restrictions relating to the matters mentioned in heads (1) to (3) above; and
- 877 (b) impose or provide for the imposition of requirements on a manufacturer of spirits to keep and preserve records relating to his business as such a manufacturer and to produce them to an officer⁶ when required to do so for the purpose of allowing him to inspect them, to copy or take extracts from them or to remove them at a reasonable time and for a reasonable period⁷.

Where any documents removed under the powers conferred by head (b) above are lost or damaged, the Commissioners are liable to compensate their owner for any expenses reasonably incurred by him in replacing or repairing the documents⁸.

If⁹ any person contravenes or fails to comply with any regulation made under the above provisions or with any condition, restriction or requirement imposed under such a regulation, his contravention or failure to comply attracts a civil penalty under the Finance Act 1994¹⁰; and any spirits, and any vessels, utensils and materials used for distilling or otherwise manufacturing or for preparing spirits, in respect of which any person contravenes any such regulation, or fails to comply with any such regulation, condition, restriction or requirement, are liable to forfeiture¹¹.

Where:

- 878 (i) the Commissioners are satisfied that any process of manufacture carried on by any person involving the manufacture of spirits is primarily directed to the production of some article other than spirits; or
- 879 (ii) the Commissioners see fit in the case of any person manufacturing spirits by any process other than distillation of a fermented liquor, they may direct that, subject to compliance with such conditions as they think proper to impose, such of the provisions of the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 relating to the manufacture of, or manufacturers of, spirits or such of any regulations made under the above provisions as may be specified in the direction are not to apply in the case of that person¹². If the Commissioners so direct, spirits manufactured by a process to which such a direction applies are to be treated as not being within the charge of duty¹³ on spirits¹⁴. If any person in whose case a direction is so given by the Commissioners acts in contravention of, or fails to comply with, any condition duly imposed which is applicable in his case, his contravention or failure to comply attracts a civil penalty under the Finance Act 1994¹⁵; and any spirits in respect of which any person contravenes or fails to comply with any such condition are liable to forfeiture¹⁶.

2 For the meaning of 'duty' see PARA 399 ante. As to the duty on spirits see PARA 410 ante. For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 note 6 ante.

3 For these purposes, 'distillery' means premises where spirits are manufactured, whether by distillation of a fermented liquor or by any other process: Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 4(1).

4 Ibid s 13(1). As to the regulations made in exercise of the power so conferred see the Spirits Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2564 (see PARA 418 et seq post), which apply to the manufacture of spirits by any process, except where, by their nature or context, they apply only to the manufacture of spirits by distillation of a fermented liquor (reg 2); and the Beer, Cider and Perry, Spirits, and Wine and Made-wine (Amendment) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/1058. As to the making of regulations see PARA 408 note 6 ante. As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

Any decision which is made under or for the purposes of any regulations made under the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 13 (as amended) and which is a decision as to whether or not any premises, plant or process is to be, or is to continue to be, approved for any purpose, or as to the conditions subject to which any premises, plant or process is so approved, is subject to review and to appeal to a VAT and duties tribunal: see the Finance Act 1994 ss 14(1)(d), (2)-(7), 15, 16 (as amended), Sch 5 para 3(2); and PARAS 1240, 1243, 1252 et seq post.

5 Ie without prejudice to the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 13(1): see the text and notes 1-4 supra.

6 For these purposes, unless the context otherwise requires, 'officer' means, subject to the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 8(2) (see PARA 904 post), a person commissioned by the Commissioners: s 1(1); applied by the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 4(3). 417 Power to make regulations relating to manufacture of spirits

NOTE 4--SI 2006/1058 amended: SI 2010/593.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/ (3) ALCOHOLIC LIQUOR DUTY/(ii) Spirits/D. MANUFACTURE OF SPIRITS/ (B) Licences to manufacture Spirits/418. Licence to manufacture spirits.

(B) LICENCES TO MANUFACTURE SPIRITS

418. Licence to manufacture spirits.

No person is to manufacture spirits¹, whether by distillation of a fermented liquor or by any other process, unless he holds an excise licence for that purpose (a 'distiller's licence')².

Where the largest still to be used on any premises in respect of which a distiller's licence is sought for the manufacture of spirits by distillation of a fermented liquor is of less than 18 hectolitres capacity, the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may refuse to grant the licence or may grant it only subject to such conditions as they see fit to impose; and, where the largest still so used on any premises in respect of which a licence is held is of less than that capacity, the Commissioners may revoke the licence or attach to it such conditions as they see fit to impose³.

Any decision for the purposes of the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 12 (as amended) as to whether or not a licence under s 12 (as amended) is to be granted, or as to the suspension or revocation of such a licence, or as to the conditions subject to which such a licence is granted, is subject to review and to appeal to a VAT and duties tribunal: see the Finance Act 1994 ss 14(1)(d), (2)-(7), 15, 16 (as amended), Sch 5 para 3(1)(f); and PARAS 1240, 1243, 1252 et seq post. (C) WAREHOUSING

419. Distiller's warehouse.

A distiller¹ may provide in association with his distillery² a place of security for the deposit of spirits³ manufactured at that distillery and, if that place is approved by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs⁴ and entry is made thereof by the distiller, he may deposit therein without payment of duty any spirits so manufactured⁵. The Commissioners may approve such a place of security for such periods and subject to such conditions as they think fit⁶. A place of security for the time being so approved by the Commissioners is referred to in the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 as a 'distiller's warehouse'⁷.

Where, after the approval of a distiller's warehouse, the distiller by whom it is provided makes, without the previous consent of the Commissioners, an alteration in or addition to that warehouse, the making of the alteration or addition attracts a civil penalty⁸ under the Finance Act 1994⁹.

The Commissioners may make regulations:

- 880 (1) regulating the warehousing of spirits in a distiller's warehouse;
- 881 (2) permitting, in so far as it appears to them necessary in order to meet the circumstances of any special case and subject to such conditions as they see fit to impose, the deposit by a distiller in his distiller's warehouse without payment of duty of spirits other than spirits manufactured at the distillery associated with that warehouse;
- 882 (3) for securing the duties on spirits so warehoused¹⁰.

If any person contravenes or fails to comply with any regulation so made or with any condition imposed under such a regulation, his contravention or failure to comply attracts a civil penalty under the Finance Act 1994¹¹; and any spirits in respect of which any person contravenes any such regulation, or fails to comply with any such regulation or condition, are liable to forfeiture¹².

The Commissioners may at any time for reasonable cause revoke or vary the terms of their approval of a distiller's warehouse¹³.

420. Warehousing of spirits.

A distiller¹ must not warehouse² any spirits³ until he has taken account of them in such manner and to such extent as the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may require⁴.

Save as the Commissioners may otherwise allow, when spirits of which account has been taken are contained in a spirit receiver which is not also approved as a warehouse vat⁵, the distiller must remove them to a warehouse immediately⁶.

When spirits of which account has been taken are contained in a spirit receiver which is also approved as a warehouse vat, those spirits are deemed to be warehoused as soon as account of them has been taken⁷.

Where spirits remain in a warehouse vat which is also approved as a spirit receiver, the distiller must take account of such spirits before the warehouse vat is used as a spirit receiver⁸.

1 For these purposes, 'distiller' means a person holding a distiller's licence under the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 12 (as amended) (see PARA 418 ante): Spirits Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2564, reg 3.

2 For these purposes, 'warehouse' means a place of security approved by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs under the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 92(1) (as amended) (see PARA 670 post), whether or not it is also approved under s 92(2) (as substituted) (see PARA 695 post), and also includes a distiller's warehouse: Spirits Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2564, reg 3 (amended by virtue of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs Act 2005 s 50(1), (7)). 'Distiller's warehouse' has the meaning given by the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 4(1) (see PARA 419 ante): Spirits Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2564, reg 3. (D) DISTILLATION PERIODS

421. Distillation periods.

A distiller¹ must conduct his operations in separate distillation periods² for each class of spirits³. A distiller may conduct his operations so that more than one distillation period is in progress at any one time⁴.

In respect of each batch of wort⁵ which he makes, the distiller must specify to which distillation period it belongs; and a distillation period commences at the date when production of the earliest of the wort included in it commences⁶.

Each distillation period ends when all the wort specified to belong to it has been distilled and the feints⁷ and spirits produced therefrom have been conveyed into their receivers and account has been taken of them⁸.

Save as the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may otherwise allow, a distiller must conduct his operations so that no distillation period exceeds one month in length⁹.

1 For the meaning of 'distiller' see PARA 419 note 1 ante.

2 For these purposes, 'distillation period' means the period prescribed by the Spirits Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2564, reg 10 (as amended) in respect of each class of spirits (see note 3 infra): reg 3.

3 Ibid reg 10(1) (amended by SI 2006/1058). For these purposes, 'class of spirits' means one of the classes of spirits specified from time to time for the purposes of the Spirits Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2564 (as amended), in a notice published by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs: reg 3 (amended by virtue of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs Act 2005 s 50(1), (7)). (E) RACKING OF DUTY-PAID SPIRITS

422. Racking of duty-paid spirits at distillery.

The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs¹ may, with a view to the protection of the revenue, make regulations regulating the racking at a distillery² of duty-paid spirits³.

If any person contravenes or fails to comply with any regulation so made, his contravention or failure to comply attracts a civil penalty under the Finance Act 1994⁴; and any spirits in respect of which any person contravenes or fails to comply with any such regulation are liable to forfeiture⁵.

If, on an officer's⁶ taking stock of duty-paid spirits racked at a distillery, a greater quantity of alcohol⁷ is found at the place of racking than ought to be there according to any accounts required by regulations so made to be kept thereof, then:

- 883 (1) duty⁸ is chargeable on the excess⁹; and
- 884 (2) if the excess amounts to more than 1 per cent of the quantity of alcohol lawfully brought into the place of racking since stock was last taken, such quantity of spirits as contains an amount of alcohol equal to that excess is liable to forfeiture, and there is deemed to have been conduct by the distiller attracting a civil penalty¹⁰ under the Finance Act 1994¹¹.

- 886 (2) knowingly buys or receives any wort, wash, low wines, feints or spirits so concealed or removed; or
- 887 (3) knowingly buys or receives or has in his possession any spirits which have been removed from the place where they ought to have been charged with duty⁸ before the duty payable thereon has been charged and either paid or secured, not being spirits which have been condemned or are deemed to have been condemned as forfeited,

E. RECTIFYING AND COMPOUNDING OF SPIRITS

425. Rectifier's and compounder's licences.

No person is to rectify or compound spirits¹ and keep a still for that purpose unless he holds an excise licence under the following provisions as a rectifier².

Except as permitted by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs and subject to such conditions as they see fit to impose, no other person is to compound spirits unless he holds an excise licence under the following provisions as a compounder³.

If any person rectifies or compounds spirits otherwise than under and in accordance with an excise licence under the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 so authorising him, his doing so attracts⁴ a civil penalty under the Finance Act 1994⁵.

1 For the meaning of 'spirits' see PARA 400 ante.

2 Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 18(1). For these purposes, 'rectifier' means a person holding a licence as a rectifier under s 18 (as amended): s 4(1). No excise licence duty is chargeable on the grant after 18 March 1986 of an excise licence under s 18 (as amended): Finance Act 1986 s 8(1). The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may at any time revoke a licence granted in respect of any premises under the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 18 (as amended) if it appears to them that the holder of the licence has ceased to carry on at those premises the activity in respect of which the licence was granted: Finance Act 1986 s 8(4), (5)(b). As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

Any decision of the Commissioners for the purposes of the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 18 (as amended) as to whether or not any person is to be granted a licence as a rectifier or compounder or granted permission to compound spirits without a licence, as to the conditions subject to which any such licence or permission is granted, or as to the revocation or withdrawal of any such licence or permission, is subject to review and to appeal to a VAT and duties tribunal: see the Finance Act 1994 ss 14(1)(d), (2)-(7), 15, 16 (as amended), Sch 5 para 3(1)(h); and PARAS 1240, 1243, 1252 et seq post. As to the restriction on the carrying on of other trades by a rectifier see the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 24 (as amended); and INTOXICATING LIQUOR vol 26 (2004 Reissue) PARA 428. As to the penalty for the unlawful manufacture of spirits etc see s 25 (as amended); and INTOXICATING LIQUOR vol 26 (2004 Reissue) PARA 429.

Persons authorised to receive duty-free spirits under s 8 (as substituted and amended) (see PARA 414 ante) or s 10 (as amended) (see PARA 416 ante) may recover spirits by distillation, provided that a licence to rectify is taken out under s 18(1). The requirements of the Spirits (Rectifying, Compounding and Drawback) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/1760, Pt II (regs 4-8) (see INTOXICATING LIQUOR vol 26 (2004 Reissue) PARA 425 et seq) will be waived: HM Revenue and Customs Notice 48 Extra-statutory Concessions (March 2002) PARA 6.5.

3 Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 18(2). For these purposes, 'compounder' means a person holding a licence as a compounder under s 18 (as amended): s 4(1). Thus the Commissioners may permit certain persons who technically compound spirits, eg manufacturers of medicines, to do so without holding a licence.

426. Regulation of rectifying and compounding.

The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs¹ may, with a view to the protection of the revenue, make regulations:

- 888 (1) regulating the rectifying and compounding of spirits²;
- 889 (2) regulating the receipt, storage, removal and delivery of spirits by rectifiers and compounders³, and different regulations may be so made for rectifiers and compounders⁴.

Such regulations may⁵:

- 890 (a) provide for the imposition under the regulations of conditions and restrictions relating to the matters mentioned in heads (1) and (2) above; and
- 891 (b) impose or provide for the imposition under the regulations of requirements on rectifiers and compounders of spirits to keep and preserve records relating to their business as such and to produce them to an officer when required to do so for the purpose of allowing him to inspect them, to copy or take extracts from them or to remove them at a reasonable time and for a reasonable period⁶.

Where any documents removed under the powers conferred by head (b) above are lost or damaged, the Commissioners are liable to compensate their owner for any expenses reasonably incurred by him in replacing or repairing the documents⁷.

If any person contravenes or fails to comply with any regulation so made or with any condition, restriction or requirement imposed under any such regulation, his contravention or failure to comply attracts a civil penalty under the Finance Act 1994⁸; and any spirits and any other article in respect of which any person contravenes any such regulation, or fails to comply with any such regulation, condition, requirement or restriction, are liable to forfeiture⁹.

427. Penalty for excess or deficiency in rectifier's stock.

If, at any time when an account is taken by an officer¹ and a balance struck of the spirits² in the stock of a rectifier³, any excess of alcohol⁴ is found, such a quantity of spirits as contains an amount of alcohol equal to the excess is liable to forfeiture; and there is deemed to have been conduct by the rectifier attracting a civil penalty under the Finance Act 1994⁵.

If, at any time when an account is taken and a balance so struck, any deficiency of alcohol is found which cannot be accounted for to the satisfaction of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs⁶ and which exceeds 5 per cent of the aggregate of:

892 (1) the quantity of alcohol in the balance of spirits struck when an account was last taken; and

893 (2) the quantity of alcohol contained in any spirits since lawfully received by the rectifier, there is deemed to have been conduct by the rectifier attracting a civil penalty⁷ under the Finance Act 1994⁸.

For the purposes of any such account and of the above provisions:

894 (a) spirits used by a rectifier in warehouse⁹ in pursuance of warehousing regulations¹⁰ are deemed not to be spirits in his stock as a rectifier; and

895 (b) where a rectifier also carries on the trade of a wholesaler¹¹ of spirits on the same premises, all spirits in his possession, other than spirits so used, are deemed to be spirits in his stock as a rectifier¹².

11 For these purposes, 'wholesaler' means a person who deals wholesale in dutiable alcoholic liquor: ibid s 4(1) (amended by the Finance Act 1981 s 11(1), Sch 8 para 11). 'Wholesale', in relation to dealing in dutiable alcoholic liquor, means the sale at any one time to any one person of quantities not less than the following, namely: (1) in the case of spirits, wine or made-wine, nine litres or one case; or (2) in the case of beer or cider, 20 litres or two cases: Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 4(1) (as so amended). 'Case', in relation to dutiable alcoholic liquor, means one dozen units each consisting of a container holding not less than 65 nor more than 80 centilitres, or the equivalent of that number of such units made up wholly or partly of containers of a larger or small size: s 4(1) (amended by the Alcoholic Liquors (Amendment of Enactments Relating to Strength and to Units of Measurement) Order 1979, SI 1979/241, art 8(a)). 428. Drawback on British compounds and spirits of wine.

Subject to the following provisions and to such conditions and restrictions as the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs¹ may by regulations impose, a rectifier or compounder² may warehouse³ in an excise warehouse⁴ on drawback⁵ any British compounded spirits⁶ or spirits of wine⁷ rectified or compounded by him from duty-paid⁸ spirits and not containing any methyl alcohol or any wine⁹, made-wine¹⁰ or other fermented liquor¹¹.

British compounded spirits may be warehoused under these provisions for exportation or removal to the Isle of Man, for use in any permitted operation in warehouse, for use as stores¹² or, except in the case of tinctures¹³ other than perfumed spirits, for home use¹⁴.

Spirits of wine may be warehoused under these provisions:

- 896 (1) for exportation or removal to the Isle of Man, for use in any permitted operation in warehouse, or for use as stores; or
- 897 (2) if of a strength¹⁵ of not less than 85 per cent, for delivery for use in art or manufacture¹⁶; or
- 898 (3) if of a strength of not less than 99 per cent, for home use¹⁷.

The Commissioners may, subject to such conditions and restrictions as they may by regulations impose, allow drawback to any person on any British compounded spirits or spirits of wine rectified or compounded by him from duty-paid spirits and not containing any methyl alcohol or any wine, made-wine or other fermented liquor if they are exported direct from his premises¹⁸.

The Commissioners may, subject to such conditions and restrictions as they may by regulations impose, allow drawback on tinctures or spirits of wine exported or, except in the case of spirits of wine, shipped¹⁹ as stores by a rectifier or compounder direct from his premises²⁰.

The amount of any drawback payable under these provisions must be calculated by reference to the quantity of alcohol²¹ contained in the British compounded spirits or spirits of wine and must be an amount equal to the duty at the appropriate rate chargeable on spirits containing an equal quantity of alcohol and so chargeable at the date when duty was paid on the spirits from which the British compounded spirits or spirits of wine were rectified or compounded²².

British compounded spirits warehoused under these provisions for home use are, upon delivery from warehouse for that purpose, chargeable with the same rate of duty as spirits warehoused by a distiller²³.

If any person contravenes or fails to comply with any regulation made under the above provisions, his contravention or failure to comply attracts a civil penalty under the Finance Act 1994²⁴; and any article in respect of which any person contravenes or fails to comply with any such regulation is liable to forfeiture²⁵.

429. Record-keeping; claims for drawback and samples.

A rectifier¹ or compounder² must, in respect of his business as such:

- 899 (1) keep such records as the officer³ may require, and preserve all records for not less than two years at his trade premises or such other premises as the officer may approve;
- 900 (2) produce the records to the officer at such place and time as the officer may reasonably require, and allow the officer to inspect, copy or take extracts from the records, and to remove the records at a reasonable time and for a reasonable period⁴.

A rectifier or compounder intending to warehouse, export, ship as stores, or remove to the Isle of Man, any British compounded spirits⁵ or spirits of wine⁶ on drawback must:

- 901 (a) give to the officer 24 hours' notice in writing, specifying the place and time at which he intends to pack the goods;
- 902 (b) produce them for examination by an officer at the place and time specified in the notice before they are packed; and
- 903 (c) ensure that the vessels and containers in which the goods are packed are secured and marked in such manner as the officer may require⁷.

Before a sample is taken by an officer from any vessel containing British compounded spirits or spirits of wine, the rectifier or compounder must be given an opportunity to stir up and mix the contents of that vessel⁸.

Where drawback is allowed on any British compounded spirits or spirits of wine, it must be on condition that:

- 904 (i) if requested to do so by the officer, the rectifier or compounder is to provide proof of the warehousing, exportation, shipment as stores or removal to the Isle of Man of the goods in respect of which drawback has been claimed; and
- 905 (ii) where it appears to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs that the amount of drawback paid in response to a claim was greater than the amount payable, the rectifier or compounder is to repay on demand the amount which appears to the Commissioners to have been overpaid⁹.

1 For these purposes, 'rectifier' means a person holding a licence as a rectifier under the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 18 (as amended) (see PARA 425 ante): Spirits (Rectifying, Compounding and Drawback) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/1760, reg 1(2).

2 For these purposes, 'compounder' means a person holding a licence as a rectifier under the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 18 (as amended) (see PARA 425 ante): Spirits (Rectifying, Compounding and Drawback) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/1760, reg 1(2).

3 For these purposes, 'officer' means the proper officer of Revenue and Customs: ibid reg 1(2) (amended by virtue of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs Act 2005 s 50(2), (7)). For the meaning of 'proper officer' see PARA 417 note 6 ante.

F. PROHIBITIONS AND RESTRICTIONS

430. Restrictions on use of certain goods relieved from spirits duty.

If any person uses otherwise than for a medical or scientific purpose:

- 906 (1) any mixture¹ which has on importation been relieved to any extent of the duty chargeable in respect of the spirits² contained in it or used in its preparation or manufacture by reason of being a mixture which is recognised by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs³ as being used for medical purposes; or
- 907 (2) any article containing spirits which were exempted from duty⁴; or
- 908 (3) any article manufactured or prepared from spirits in respect of which remission of duty has been obtained⁵, then, unless he has complied with the requirements specified below, his doing so attracts a civil penalty under the Finance Act 1994⁶; and any article in his possession in the preparation or manufacture of which the mixture or the article has been used is liable to forfeiture⁷.

The requirements with which a person must comply to avoid incurring liability under the above provisions are that:

- 909 (a) he must obtain the consent of the Commissioners in writing to the use of the mixture or article otherwise than for a medical or scientific purpose; and
- 910 (b) he must pay to the Commissioners an amount equal to the difference between the duty charged on the mixture and the duty which would have been chargeable if it had not been a mixture recognised as mentioned above, or to the amount of the duty remitted, as the case may be⁸.

The Commissioners may make regulations for the purpose of enforcing the above requirements⁹; and such regulations may in particular require any person carrying on any trade in which spirits, or mixtures or articles containing or prepared or manufactured with spirits, are in the opinion of the Commissioners likely to be or to have been used:

- 911 (i) to give and verify particulars of the materials which he is using or has used and of any such mixtures or articles which he has sold; and
- 912 (ii) to produce any books of account or other documents of whatever nature relating to any such materials, mixtures or articles¹⁰.

If any person contravenes or fails to comply with any regulation so made, his contravention or failure to comply attracts a civil penalty¹¹ under the Finance Act 1994¹².

¹ For these purposes, 'mixture' includes a preparation and a compound; and any reference to a mixture or article includes a reference to any part thereof: Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 33(6).

(iii) Beer

A. CHARGE TO DUTY

(A) IN GENERAL

431. Charge to duty.

A duty of excise is chargeable on beer¹ imported into the United Kingdom² or produced in the United Kingdom at the following rates:

- 913 (1) in the case of beer that is not small brewery beer³, £13.26 per hectolitre per cent of alcohol in the beer;
- 914 (2) in the case of small brewery beer produced in a singleton brewery⁴, the rate per hectolitre per cent of alcohol in the beer that is given by the relevant statutory formula⁵;
- 915 (3) in the case of small brewery beer produced in a co-operated brewery⁶, the rate per hectolitre per cent of alcohol in the beer that is given by the relevant statutory formula⁷.

No duty is, however, so chargeable on beer which is of a strength of 1.2 per cent or less; but any such beer is in all other respects to be treated as if it were chargeable with a duty of excise⁸.

Subject to the provisions of the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979:

- 916 (a) the duty on beer produced in, or imported into, the United Kingdom is chargeable and must be paid; and
- 917 (b) the amount chargeable in respect of any such duty must be determined and becomes due, in accordance with regulations made⁹ by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs¹⁰.

431 Charge to duty

TEXT AND NOTE 4--Head (1). Now £16•47 per hectolitre per cent of alcohol: Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 36(1AA) (amended by Finance Act 2009 s 11(3)).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/ (3) ALCOHOLIC LIQUOR DUTY/(iii) Beer/A. CHARGE TO DUTY/(A) In general/432. The duty point.

432. The duty point.

Save in the case of beer acquired by a person in another member state¹ for his own use² and transported by him to the United Kingdom³ or where any duty suspension arrangements apply to the beer⁴, the duty point (that is, the time when the duty is payable by a person)⁵ is the time when the beer is charged with the duty⁶, that is to say, the time when it is imported into the United Kingdom or, as the case may be, produced in the United Kingdom⁷. In the case of beer acquired by a person in another member state for his own use and transported by him to the United Kingdom, the duty point is the time when that beer is held or used for a commercial purpose⁸ by any person⁹.

If any duty suspension arrangements apply to the beer, the duty point is the earlier of:

- 918 (1) the time when the duty ceases to be suspended in accordance with those arrangements;
- 919 (2) the time when there is any contravention¹⁰ of any requirement relating to those arrangements; and
- 920 (3) the time when the duty ceases¹¹ to be suspended¹².

The duty ceases to be suspended when: (a) the premises on which the beer is held cease to be¹³ registered premises¹⁴; (b) the person holding the beer ceases to be registered¹⁵; (c) the beer is consumed; or (d) the beer leaves any registered premises, unless the beer is consigned to other registered premises or an excise warehouse¹⁶ or the beer is delivered for export, shipment as stores or removal to the Isle of Man¹⁷.

1 For these purposes, 'member state' includes the Principality of Monaco and San Marino and the United Kingdom Sovereign Base Areas of Akrotiri and Dhekelia, but does not include the Island of Heligoland and the territory of Büsingen in the Federal Republic of Germany, Livigno, Campione d'Italia and the waters of Lake Lugano in the Italian Republic, Ceuta, Melilla and the Canary Islands in the Kingdom of Spain, or the overseas departments of the French Republic: Beer Regulations 1993, SI 1993/1228, reg 15(1B)(a) (added by SI 2002/2692; and amended by SI 2004/1003).

2 'Own use' includes use as a personal gift: Beer Regulations 1993, SI 1993/1228, reg 15(1B)(b) (reg 15(1B) added by SI 2002/2692). If the beer in question is transferred to another person for money or money's worth, including any reimbursement of expenses incurred in connection with obtaining them, or the person holding it intends to make such a transfer, the beer is to be regarded as being held for a commercial purpose: Beer Regulations 1993, SI 1993/1228, reg 15(1B)(c) (as so added). If the beer is not duty and tax paid in the member state at the time of acquisition, or the duty and tax that was paid will be or has been reimbursed, refunded or otherwise dispensed with, that beer is to be regarded as being held for a commercial purpose: reg 15(1B)(d) (as so added). Without prejudice to reg 15(1B)(c), (d) (as added), in determining whether beer is held or used for a commercial purpose by any person regard must be taken of: (1) that person's reasons for having possession or control of that beer; (2) whether or not that person is a revenue trader, as defined by the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 1(1) (see PARA 631 note 3 post); (3) that person's conduct, including his intended use of that beer or any refusal to disclose his intended use of that beer; (4) the location of that beer; (5) the mode of transport used to convey that beer; (6) any document or other information whatsoever relating to that beer; (7) the nature of that beer including the nature and condition of any package or container; (8) the quantity of that beer, and in particular, whether the quantity exceeds 110 litres; (9) whether that person personally financed the purchase of that beer; (10) any other circumstance that appears to be relevant: Beer Regulations 1993, SI 1993/1228, reg 15(1B)(e) (as so added).

3 For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 note 6 ante.

4 For these purposes, 'beer' has the meaning given by the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 1(3) (as amended) (see PARA 401 ante), but subject to s 1(10) (as added) (see PARA 401 ante): Beer Regulations 1993, SI 1993/1228, reg 4. References to suspension arrangements are references to the provisions made by Pt V (regs 12-14) (see PARAS 449-451 post) or to any provision made by or under the customs and excise Acts for enabling goods to be held or moved without payment of duty or any provisions made by or under the customs and excise Acts for enabling goods to be held or moved without payment of duty or any provisions made by or under those Acts in connection with any provision enabling goods to be so held or moved: Beer Regulations 1993, SI 1993/1228, reg 4. 'Duty', except in reg 15(1B)(d) (as added) (see note 2 supra) means the duty of excise charged on any beer under the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 36(1) (as substituted and amended) (see PARA 431 ante): Beer Regulations 1993, SI 1993/1228, reg 4 (amended by SI 2002/2692). For the meaning of 'the customs and excise Acts' see PARA 413 note 1 ante.

5 'Duty point' means the time when the duty is payable by a person, whether or not payment may be deferred: Beer Regulations 1993, SI 1993/1228, reg 4.

6 le by the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 36(1) (as substituted and amended): see PARA 431 ante.

9 Beer Regulations 1993, SI 1993/1228, reg 15(1A) (added by SI 2002/2692).

14 For these purposes, 'registered premises' means any premises registered under the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 41A (as added and amended) (see PARA 445 post) on which a registered holder may hold beer without payment of duty: Beer Regulations 1993, SI 1993/1228, reg 4. 'Registered holder' means a packager of beer or a registered brewer registered under the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 41A (as added and amended) in relation to any registered premises: Beer Regulations 1993, SI 1993/1228, reg 4. 'Packager' has the meaning given by the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 4(1) (as amended) (see PARA 445 note 7 post); and 'registered brewer' has the meaning given by s 47(1) (as substituted) (see PARA 465 note 3 post): Beer Regulations 1993, SI 1993/1228, reg 4.

15 See note 13 supra.

16 le in accordance with requirements prescribed in the Beer Regulations 1993, SI 1993/1228, Pt VI (regs 15-18) (as amended) (see PARAS 433-436 post) and the Excise Goods (Holding, Movement, Warehousing and REDS) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/3135, Pt IV (regs 7-11) (as amended) (see PARAS 658-662 post). For these purposes, 'excise warehouse' means a place of security for the keeping of beer approved by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs under the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 92(1) (as amended) (see PARA 670 post), whether or not it is also approved for the keeping of other goods: Beer Regulations 1993, SI 1993/1228, reg 4. 433. Constructive removal.

Where beer¹ is held on any registered premises² where the records relating to removal are kept by means approved for this purpose by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs³, it is deemed to have left those premises at the time of its constructive removal⁴ or, if earlier, the time it actually left them⁵.

The registered holder⁶ from whose registered premises constructive removal may take place must keep such records as may be specified in a notice published by the Commissioners and not withdrawn by a further notice⁷.

An entry showing the constructive removal of any beer must not be cancelled, amended or altered⁸.

1 As to the meaning of 'beer' see PARA 432 note 4 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'registered premises' see PARA 432 note 14 ante.

3 The Commissioners may at any time revoke such approval upon giving 14 days' notice in writing: Beer Regulations 1993, SI 1993/1228, reg 15A(2) (reg 15A added by SI 1995/3059). As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

4 For these purposes, 'constructive removal' means the making of an entry in the records specified in accordance with the Beer Regulations 1993, SI 1993/1228, reg 15A(3) (as added) (see the text and notes 6-7 infra) which identifies the beer that is the subject of that entry as having left the registered premises (so that duty ceases to be suspended) notwithstanding that it remains on those premises: reg 15A(4) (as added: see note 3 supra).

435. Amount of beer in any container.

Except in the case of beer¹ in a large pack², the amount of beer in any container is deemed to be the greater of:

- 921 (1) the amount determined in accordance with the statutory provisions relating to strength³, volume and weight⁴;
- 922 (2) the amount ascertained by reference to information on the label of the container of the beer; and
- 923 (3) the amount ascertained by reference to information on any invoice, delivery note or similar document issued in relation to the beer⁵.

The amount of beer in a large pack may be ascertained by reference to any information on the label of that pack or any information in any invoice, delivery note or similar document indicating the amount of beer in that pack and, except in a case where the tolerance requirements⁶ are not met, any beer in excess of that amount is relieved from duty at the duty point⁷. If a large pack is filled with a metered or weighed amount of beer, the amount of beer in the pack must not exceed the amount ascertained by reference to any information on the label of that pack or any information in any invoice, delivery note or similar document indicating the amount of beer in that pack by more than: (1) in the case of a pack intended to contain a volume exceeding 100 litres, 0.5 per cent of that volume; or (2) in any other case, 0.5 litres⁸. 436. Strength of beer.

Save as the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs otherwise allow, the strength of beer¹ is deemed to be the greater of:

924 (1) the strength determined using the following procedure:

6. (a) a representative sample is to be taken and, after first being cleared of sediment and gas by filtration in an approved² manner, a definite quantity thereof by measure at the temperature of 20°C must be distilled;
7. (b) the distillate must be made up at the temperature of 20°C with distilled water to the original measure of the quantity before distillation;
8. (c) the strength of the distillate made up in accordance with head (1)(b) above must be ascertained by determining its density in air at the temperature of 20°C by means of an approved pycnometer used in an approved manner; and
9. (d) the strength of beer must be taken to be the percentage of alcohol by volume in the table entitled 'Laboratory Alcohol Table'³ which corresponds to the density determined in accordance with head (1)(c) above except that, where the density so determined is between two consecutive numbers in that Table, the strength must be determined by linear interpolation⁴;

925 (2) the strength ascertained by reference to information on the label of the container of the beer⁵;

926 (3) the strength ascertained by reference to information on any invoice, delivery note or similar document issued in relation to the beer⁶; and

927 (4) the strength which any cask or bottle conditioned beer or any other unfinished⁷ beer is reasonably expected to have when sold by way of retail or otherwise supplied for consumption⁸.

2 For these purposes, 'approved' means approved by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs: see the Beer Regulations 1993, SI 1993/1228, reg 18(a), Sch 4 para 2. As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

3 For these purposes, 'Laboratory Alcohol Table' means a table of which a copy, signed by the Chairman of the Commissioners and identifying it as relating to the Spirits Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2564 (as amended), has been deposited in the office of the Queen's Remembrancer at the Royal Courts of Justice: Beer Regulations 1993, SI 1993/1228, Sch 4 para 2.

7 For these purposes, 'unfinished', in relation to any beer, means beer in any stage of production before it has reached that state of maturity at which it is fit for consumption: ibid reg 4.

(B) BEER FROM SMALL BREWERIES

437. Singleton breweries.

The rate of duty ('the brewery rate') in the case of small brewery beer¹ produced in a brewery² at a time in a calendar year ('the current year') when the brewery is a singleton brewery³ is determined as follows:

- 928 (1) if beer was produced in the brewery in the previous calendar year ('the previous year') and the amount produced in the brewery in that year was not more than 5,000 hectolitres, or no beer was produced in the brewery in the previous year and the grossed-up amount of the estimate of the brewery's production in the current year is not more than 5,000 hectolitres, the brewery rate is 50 per cent of the standard beer duty rate⁴ at the time concerned;
- 929 (2) if beer was produced in the brewery in the previous year and the amount produced in the brewery in that year was more than 5,000 hectolitres but not more than 30,000 hectolitres, or no beer was produced in the brewery in the previous year and the grossed-up amount of the estimate of the brewery's production in the current year is more than 5,000 hectolitres but not more than 30,000 hectolitres, the brewery rate is given by:

- 930 multiplied by the standard beer duty at the time concerned, where P is either the amount, in hectolitres, of beer produced in the brewery in the previous year, or the grossed-up amount (expressed in hectolitres) of the estimate of the brewery's production in the current year;
- 931 (3) if beer was produced in the brewery in the previous year and the amount produced in the brewery in that year was more than 30,000 hectolitres but not more than 60,000 hectolitres, or no beer was produced in the brewery in the previous year and the grossed-up amount of the estimate of the brewery's production in the current year is more than 30,000 hectolitres but not more than 60,000 hectolitres, the brewery rate is given by:

- 932 multiplied by the standard beer duty at the time concerned, where P is either the amount, in hectolitres, of beer produced in the brewery in the previous year, or the grossed-up amount (expressed in hectolitres) of the estimate of the brewery's production in the current year⁵.

Where a rate given under head (1), (2) or (3) above would otherwise not be a whole number of pennies, the rate so given is rounded up to the nearest penny⁶.

1 Beer is 'small brewery beer' for this purpose if: (1) no beer was produced in the brewery in the previous calendar year ('the previous year'), or the amount of beer produced in the brewery in the previous year was not more than 60,000 hectolitres; (2) the amount of the estimate of the brewery's production in the current year is not more than 60,000 hectolitres; (3) if the brewery begins to be used as beer-production premises part-way through the current year, the grossed-up equivalent of that estimate is not more than 60,000 hectolitres; (4) less than half of the beer produced in the brewery in the previous year was produced under licence; and (5) the beer is not produced under licence: Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 36C(1)-(3), (5)-(8) (ss 36A-36D added by the Finance Act 2002 s 4(1), Sch 1 para 2; and the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 36C(3), (5), (6), (10) amended by the Beer from Small Breweries (Extension of Reduced Rates of Excise Duty) Order 2004, SI 2004/1296, art 3(1), (2)). For the purposes of head (1) supra, where the brewery was in use as beer-production premises during part only of the previous year, the amount of beer produced in the previous year in the brewery is taken to have been:

$$\frac{A}{D} \times 365$$

where A is the amount of beer actually produced in the previous year in the brewery, and D is the number of days in that part of the previous year: Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 36C(4) (as so added). Beer produced in the brewery in the current year before the person who first produces beer at the brewery in that year has made a reasonable estimate of the amount of beer that will be so produced in that year is not small brewery beer; and beer produced in the brewery in the current year after the amount of beer so produced has reached 60,000 hectolitres is not small brewery beer (but this provision is without prejudice to the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 167(4): see PARA 1176 post): Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 36C(9)-(11) (as so added and amended).

References to a brewery being used as beer-production premises are, in the case of a brewery in the United Kingdom, references to there being at least one person who is required to be registered under s 47 (see PARA 465 post) in respect of the brewery; and references to 'the grossed-up amount' of an estimate of the amount of a brewery's production in the calendar year are references to the amount given by:

where E is the amount of the estimate and N is the number of days (if any) in the calendar year before the brewery begins to be used as beer-production premises: s 36B(6), (7) (as so added). For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 note 6 ante.

Beer is not small brewery beer if it is produced by a person on any premises in circumstances in which he is required to be, but is not, registered under s 47 in respect of those premises: s 36A(2) (as so added).

2 'Brewery' means premises (whether or not in the United Kingdom) on which beer is produced and that are situated physically apart from any other premises on which beer is produced: ibid s 36B(4) (as added: see note 1 supra).

3 A brewery is a 'singleton brewery' at any particular time in a calendar year if it is not a co-operated brewery at that time: ibid s 36B(2) (as added: see note 1 supra). For the meaning of 'co-operated brewery' see PARA 438 note 3 post.

4 The 'standard beer duty rate' means the rate of duty specified by ibid s 36(1AA)(a) (as added and amended) (see PARA 431 ante): s 36B(5) (as added: see note 1 supra).

5 Ibid s 36D(1)-(6B) (s 36D as added (see note 1 supra); and s 36D(6A), (6B) added by the Beer from Small Breweries (Extension of Reduced Rates of Excise Duty) Order 2004, SI 2004/1296, art 3(3)). Where the brewery was in use as beer-production premises during part only of the previous year, the amount of beer produced in the brewery in the previous year is taken for these purposes to have been:

$$\frac{A}{D} \times 365$$

where A is the amount of beer actually produced in the previous year in the brewery, and D is the number of days in that part of the previous year: Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 36D(8) (s 36D as so added; and s 36D(8) amended by the Beer from Small Breweries (Extension of Reduced Rates of Excise Duty) Order 2004, SI 2004/1296, art 3(5)).

6 Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 36D(7) (added (see note 1 supra); and amended by the Beer from Small Breweries (Extension of Reduced Rates of Excise Duty) Order 2004, SI 2004/1296, art 3(4)).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/ (3) ALCOHOLIC LIQUOR DUTY/(iii) Beer/A. CHARGE TO DUTY/(B) Beer from Small Breweries/438. Co-operated breweries.

438. Co-operated breweries.

The rate of duty ('the brewery rate') in the case of small brewery beer¹ produced in a brewery² at a time in a calendar year ('the current year') when the brewery is a co-operated brewery³ is determined as follows:

- 933 (1) if beer was produced in at least one group brewery⁴ in the previous year and the notional previous year's production⁵ is not more than 5,000 hectolitres, or no beer was produced in the group⁶ in the previous year and the aggregate of each estimate that is made not later than the time in the calendar year when the brewery is a co-operated brewery is not more than 5,000 hectolitres, the brewery rate is 50 per cent of the standard beer duty rate⁷ at the time concerned;
- 934 (2) if beer was produced in at least one group brewery in the previous year and the notional previous year's production is more than 5,000 hectolitres but not more than 30,000 hectolitres, or no beer was produced in the group in the previous year and the aggregate of each estimate that is made not later than the time in the calendar year when the brewery is a co-operated brewery is more than 5,000 hectolitres but not more than 30,000 hectolitres, the brewery rate is given by:

- 935 multiplied by the standard beer duty rate at the time concerned, where P is the previous year's notional production or, as the case may be, the amount (expressed in hectolitres) of the aggregate of each estimate;
- 936 (3) if beer was produced in at least one group brewery in the previous year and the notional previous year's production is more than 30,000 hectolitres but not more than 60,000 hectolitres, or no beer was produced in the group in the previous year and the aggregate of each estimate that is made not later than the time in the calendar year when the brewery is a co-operated brewery is more than 30,000 hectolitres but not more than 60,000 hectolitres, the brewery rate is given by:

- 937 multiplied by the standard beer duty rate at the time concerned, where P is the previous year's notional production or, as the case may be, the amount (expressed in hectolitres) of the aggregate of each estimate⁸.

Where a rate given under head (1), (2) or (3) above would otherwise not be a whole number of pennies, the rate so given is rounded up to the nearest penny⁹.

1 Beer is 'small brewery beer' at a time in a calendar year ('the current year') when the brewery is a co-operated brewery if: (1) either (a) no beer was produced in the previous year in the group, or (b) the amount given by PY minus GE is not more than 60,000 hectolitres, where PY is the amount of beer produced in the previous year in the group, and GE is the aggregate of the grossed-up amount of each estimate of the amount of the production in the current year in a group brewery in which no beer was produced in the previous year, and is made no later than the time in the calendar year when the brewery is a co-operated brewery; (2) the aggregate of each estimate of the amount of a group brewery's production in the current year, and made not later than the time referred to in head (1) supra is not more than 60,000 hectolitres; (3) if any group brewery begins to be used as beer-production premises part-way through the current year, the aggregate of the grossed-up amount of each such estimate is not more than 60,000 hectolitres; (4) less than half of the beer produced in the previous year in each group brewery was produced under licence; and (5) the beer is not produced under licence: Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 36E(1), (2), (4), (6)-(9) (ss 36B, 36E, 36F added by the Finance Act 2002 s 4(1), Sch 1 para 2; and the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 36E(4), (6), (7) amended by the Beer from Small Breweries (Extension of Reduced Rates of Excise Duty) Order 2004, SI 2004/1296, art 3(1), (6)). For the purposes of head (1) supra, where a group brewery was in use as beer-production premises during part only of the previous year, the amount of beer produced in the previous year in the brewery is taken to have been:

$$\frac{A}{D} \times 365$$

where A is the amount of beer actually produced in the previous year in the brewery, and D is the number of days in that part of the previous year: Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 36E(5) (as so added). Beer produced in the co-operated brewery at an unestimated time is not small brewery beer, and 'unestimated time' means a time in the current year when there exists a group brewery for which there does not exist a reasonable estimate, made by the person who first produces beer in that brewery in that year, of the amount of beer that will be produced in that brewery in that year; and beer produced in the co-operated brewery in the current year after the amount of beer produced by the group in the current year has reached 60,000 hectolitres is not small brewery beer (but this provision is without prejudice to the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 167(4) (see PARA 1176 post)): Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 36E(10)-(12) (as so added; and s 36E(11) amended by the Beer from Small Breweries (Extension of Reduced Rates of Excise Duty) Order 2004, SI 2004/1296, art 3(6)).

2 For the meaning of 'brewery' see PARA 437 note 2 ante.

3 A brewery is a 'co-operated brewery' at any particular time in a calendar year if: (1) a person who produces beer in the brewery at that time or any earlier time in that year; or (2) a person connected with such a person, also produces beer in any other brewery at that time or at any earlier time in that year: Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 36B(3) (as added: see note 1 supra).

4 'Group brewery' means a brewery that is in the group (see note 6 infra): ibid ss 36E(3), 36F(3) (as added: see note 1 supra).

5 The 'notional previous year's production' means the amount, in hectolitres, given by PY plus GE, where PY is the amount of beer produced in the group in the previous year, and GE is the aggregate of each estimate that is made not later than the time in the calendar year when the brewery is a co-operated brewery: ibid s 36F(3), (4) (as added: see note 1 supra). Where a group brewery was in use as beer-production premises during part only of the previous year, in calculating PY for this purpose, the amount of beer produced in that brewery in the previous year is taken to have been:

where A is the amount of beer actually produced in the previous year in that brewery, and D is the number of days in that part of the previous year: s 36F(5) (as so added). 'Previous year' means the calendar year immediately preceding the current year: ss 36E(3), 36F(3) (as so added).

6 The 'group' means the group of breweries consisting of: (1) the co-operated brewery; and (2) every brewery (other than the co-operated brewery) in which beer is produced at the time in the calendar year when the co-operated brewery is a co-operated brewery, or at any earlier time in the current year, by a person who produces beer in the co-operated brewery at that time, or at any such earlier time, or a person connected with such a person: ibid ss 36E(3), 36F(3) (as added: see note 1 supra). Any question whether a person is connected with another must be determined in accordance with the Income and Corporation Taxes Act 1988 s 839 (as amended) (see INCOME TAXATION vol 23(2) (Reissue) PARA 1258).

7 For the meaning of 'standard beer duty rate' see PARA 437 note 4 ante.

8 Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 36F(6)-(9B) (s 36F as added (see note 1 supra); and s 36F(9A), (9B) added by the Beer from Small Breweries (Extension of Reduced Rates of Excise Duty) Order 2004, SI 2004/1296, art 3(8)).

9 Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 36F(10) (as added (see note 1 supra); and amended by the Beer from Small Breweries (Extension of Reduced Rates of Excise Duty) Order 2004, SI 2004/1296, art 3(8)).

439. Power to vary reduced rate provisions.

The Treasury¹ may by order made by statutory instrument make provision amending the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 for the purpose of causing excise duty to be charged on a description of beer: (1) at a reduced rate² instead of the standard rate³; (2) at the standard rate instead of at a reduced rate; or (3) at a different reduced rate⁴.

4 Ibid s 36H(1), (2) (s 36H added by the Finance Act 2002 s 4(1), Sch 1 para 2). Such an order may: (1) make different provision for different cases; (2) make such consequential amendments to the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 and other enactments as appear to the Treasury to be necessary or expedient; (3) make such other consequential provision, and such incidental and transitional provision, as appears to the Treasury to be necessary or expedient: Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 36H(3) (as so added).

A statutory instrument by which such an order is made must be laid before the House of Commons after being made, and unless it is approved by the House before the expiration of 28 days beginning with the date on which the instrument was made, the order ceases to have effect on the expiration of that period, but without prejudice to anything previously done under the order, or the making of a new order: s 36H(4) (as so added). In reckoning any such period of 28 days, no account is to be taken of any time during which Parliament is dissolved or prorogued or during which the House of Commons is adjourned for more than four days: s 36H(4) (as so added).

The Beer from Small Breweries (Extension of Reduced Rates of Excise Duty) Order 2004, SI 2004/1296, has been made in exercise of this power.

440. Assessments where incorrectly low rate of duty applied.

If:

938 (1) duty is charged¹ on any beer, and it appears at the excise duty point² that the beer is small brewery beer³, but it turns out that the beer was not small brewery beer (because, for example, circumstances were not as they appeared at that point or they subsequently changed); or

939 (2) duty is so charged on any beer that is small brewery beer, and the rate of duty that at the excise duty point appeared to be the correct rate turns out to have been lower than the correct rate (because, for example, circumstances were not as they appeared at that point or they subsequently changed), the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs⁴:

940 (a) may assess the amount that is the difference between the actual amount of the duty so charged on the beer and the lower amount that, at the excise duty point, appeared to be the amount charged, as being excise duty due from the person liable to pay the duty so charged; and 941 (b) may notify that person or his representative accordingly⁵.

B. PAYMENT OF THE DUTY AND RETURNS

441. Persons liable to pay the duty.

The person liable to pay the duty¹ is the person holding the beer² at the duty point³.

Any person, not being the person holding the beer at the duty point⁴, who imported the beer, who produced the beer or who held the beer under duty suspension arrangements⁵ at any time before the duty point and who does not hold a certificate of receipt for the beer with respect to every holding of the beer by him is jointly and severally liable to pay the duty with the person holding the beer at the duty point⁶, provided that:

942 (1) no person is so liable before the thirtieth day following the day of dispatch of the beer in question; and

943 (2) a person ceases to be so liable upon his receiving the certificate of receipt⁷ in question or upon his satisfying the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs⁸ that the beer in question was received by the consignee in circumstances where a valid certificate of receipt could and should have been issued⁹.

Remission of duty¹ charged or repayment of duty paid in respect of beer² which has been removed from any registered brewery³ and which has become spoilt or otherwise unfit for use is subject to compliance with the prescribed conditions⁴.

Where any beer has been removed from the registered store⁵ of a registered holder⁶ and the beer has become spoilt or otherwise unfit for use and the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs⁷ are satisfied that the beer has not been, and will not be, consumed in the United Kingdom⁸, the registered holder is entitled to drawback⁹ of duty in respect of the beer subject to compliance with the prescribed conditions¹⁰.

The claimant¹¹ must, save as the Commissioners may otherwise allow, satisfy the Commissioners that he was the person who actually paid the duty in respect of the spoilt beer which is the subject of his claim¹².

Only one claim for remission or repayment of duty or drawback of duty may be made in respect of any spoilt beer¹³.

A claim for remission or repayment of duty or drawback of duty must not be made in respect of any spoilt beer which has been adulterated or diluted, except that such a claim may be made in respect of spoilt beer which was diluted before the duty point¹⁴.

Subject to such conditions as the Commissioners may impose in a notice published by them and not withdrawn by a further notice, a registered brewer may remove spoilt beer from a registered brewery without payment of duty for the purpose of destruction, but if it is applied to some purpose other than destruction, the time of that occurrence is the duty point; and the registered brewer is jointly and severally liable to pay the duty with the person holding the beer at the duty point: SI 1993/1228 reg 33A (regs 33A, 33B added by SI 2008/1885; reg 33A amended by SI 2010/593). - 987 (6) for charging the duty, in such circumstances as may be prescribed in the regulations, by reference to a strength which the beer might reasonably be expected to have, or the rate of duty in force, at a time other than that at which the beer becomes chargeable;
- 988 (7) for relieving beer from the duty in such circumstances and to such extent as may be prescribed in the regulations;
- 989 (8) regulating and, in such circumstances as may be prescribed in the regulations, prohibiting the addition of substances to, the mixing of, or the carrying out of other operations on or in relation to, beer;
- 990 (9) regulating the transportation of beer in such circumstances as may be prescribed in the regulations;
- 991 (10) requiring the production of certificates as to matters relating to beer imported into the United Kingdom and the beer's production and producer, whether as alternative conditions for charging the duty on the beer at a rate lower than the standard rate⁵ or as evidence that conditions for charging the duty at such a rate are satisfied⁶.

Such regulations may make different provision for persons, premises or beer of different classes or descriptions, for different circumstances and for different cases⁷.

Where any person contravenes or fails to comply with any regulation so made, his contravention or failure to comply attracts a civil penalty under the Finance Act 1994⁸; and any article or substance in respect of which any person contravenes or fails to comply with any such regulation is liable to forfeiture⁹.

464 Beer regulations

NOTE 6--See the Excise Goods (Holding, Movement and Duty Point) Regulations 2010, SI 2010/593.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/ (3) ALCOHOLIC LIQUOR DUTY/(iii) Beer/E. PRODUCTION OF BEER/ (B) Registration of Beer Producers/465. Registration of producers of beer.

(B) REGISTRATION OF BEER PRODUCERS

465. Registration of producers of beer.

A person who produces beer¹ on any premises in the United Kingdom² must be registered with the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs under the following provisions in respect of those premises³.

A person who produces beer on any premises is not required to be registered under the following provisions in respect of those premises if the beer is produced solely for his own domestic use or solely for the purposes of research or experiments in the production of beer⁴.

An application for the registration of any person required to be so registered in respect of any premises:

- 992 (1) must be made at least 14 days before the day on which he begins production of beer⁵ on those premises; and
- 993 (2) must be in such form and manner as the Commissioners may by or under regulations prescribe⁶.

If any person fails so to apply for registration in circumstances where he is required by head (1) above to do so, his failure attracts a civil penalty under the Finance Act 1994⁷; and any beer or worts⁸ produced in contravention of that provision are liable to forfeiture⁹.

If any person produces beer on any premises in circumstances in which he is required to be, but is not, registered under the above provisions in respect of those premises, his doing so attracts a civil penalty under the Finance Act 1994¹⁰ which must be calculated by reference to the amount of duty charged on the beer produced; and the beer produced and any worts found on those premises are liable to forfeiture¹¹.

1 For these purposes, beer is deemed to have been produced at the time determined in accordance with any direction given by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs or in the absence of any such direction at the earlier of: (1) the time when the beer is put into any package; (2) the time when the beer is removed from the brewery; (3) the time when the beer is consumed; (4) the time when the beer is lost; (5) the time when the beer reaches that state of maturity at which it is fit for consumption: Beer Regulations 1993, SI 1993/1228, reg 8(2). 'Beer' includes unfinished beer (reg 8(3)); and 'brewery' includes any premises on which the production of beer is begun (reg 4). 'Unfinished', in relation to any beer, means beer in any stage of production before it has reached that state of maturity at which it is fit for consumption: reg 4. As to the meaning of 'beer' generally see PARA 401 ante. As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

2 For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 note 6 ante.

3 Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 47(1) (substituted by the Finance Act 1991 s 7(3)). In the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979, 'registered brewer' means a person registered under s 47 (as substituted and amended) in respect of any premises: see s 4(1) (amended by the Finance Act 1991 ss 7, 123, Sch 2 para 5, Sch 19 Pt II); and the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 47(1) (as so substituted). No excise licence duty is chargeable on the grant after 18 March 1986 of an excise licence under s 47 (as substituted and amended): Finance Act 1986 s 8(1). The Commissioners may at any time revoke a licence granted in respect of any premises under the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 47 (as substituted and amended) if it appears to them that the holder of the licence has ceased to carry on at those premises the activity in respect of which the licence was granted: Finance Act 1986 s 8(4), (5)(c).

4 Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 47(2) (substituted by the Finance Act 1991 s 7(3)).

5 For these purposes, the production of beer begins when the mash is made: Beer Regulations 1993, SI 1993/1228, reg 8(1).

F. OPERATIONS ON BEER

466. Mixing.

Beer¹ to which any suspension arrangements² apply must not be mixed with any beer to which no such arrangements apply³.

Unless and until it is sold by way of retail or otherwise supplied for consumption, beer⁴ must not be mixed with any beer of a different strength⁵ unless the mixing takes place before the duty point⁶ and at a registered store⁷ or a registered brewery⁸.

Beer to which any duty suspension arrangements apply must not be mixed with any beer that would, had the duty been charged immediately before the time of mixing, have been charged with a different rate of duty unless the resulting mixture is charged with the standard rate⁹ of duty¹⁰.

467. Addition of substances.

Save as the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs¹ otherwise allow, unless and until the beer² is sold by way of retail or otherwise supplied for consumption, no relevant operation³ with respect to any beer may be carried out by any person, except by a registered brewer⁴ at a registered brewery⁵ or by a registered holder⁶ at a registered store⁷.

Every registered brewer and registered holder must keep a record containing the following particulars:

- 994 (1) the place where the operation took place;
- 995 (2) the date and time of the operation;
- 996 (3) the class and description of the beer used in the operation;
- 997 (4) the quantity and strength of the beer used in the operation;
- 998 (5) the description of the substance added to the beer;
- 999 (6) the quantity of the substance added to the beer;
- 1000 (7) the quantity and strength of the resultant product, in relation to all relevant operations carried out by him⁸.

1 As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

2 As to the meaning of 'beer' see PARA 432 note 4 ante.

3 For these purposes, 'relevant operation' means the addition of any substance to any beer which causes or is likely to cause the beer to be chargeable with a greater amount of duty than would be chargeable if the operation had not taken place: Beer Regulations 1993, SI 1993/1228, reg 23(3). 468. Dilution of beer.

After small brewery beer¹ has left the brewery where its production began water must not be added to it before the duty point². This does not, however, prohibit any operation that is reasonably necessary to make small brewery beer fit for packaging in a package that is not a large pack³.

Save as the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs otherwise allow, no water must be added to any beer after the duty point with respect to the beer unless and until the time that the beer is sold by way of retail or otherwise supplied for consumption⁴.

Unless and until the beer¹ is sold by way of retail or otherwise supplied for consumption, after the duty point² no person may carry out any operation on, or in relation to, beer of any description if that operation would, had it been carried out before the duty point, have resulted in a greater amount of duty³ being payable than was actually payable at the duty point⁴.

(iv) Wine and Made-wine

A. CHARGE TO DUTY

470. Wine chargeable to duty.

A duty of excise at the specified rates¹ is chargeable on wine²:

- 1001 (1) imported into the United Kingdom³; or
- 1002 (2) produced in the United Kingdom by a person who is required⁴ to be licensed to produce wine for sale⁵.

The duty must, in so far as it is chargeable on wine produced in the United Kingdom, be charged and paid in accordance with regulations made⁶ by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs⁷.

5 Ibid s 54(1)(b). Section 54(1)(a) (see head (1) in the text) and s 54(1)(b) are mutually exclusive and wine is produced when it is obtained from the alcoholic fermentation of fresh grapes and is not again produced when two wines so obtained are subsequently blended to make a single wine: Cinzano (UK) Ltd v Customs and Excise Comrs [1985] 1 WLR 484, HL.

6 le under the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 56 (as amended) (see PARA 483 post) or the Finance (No 2) Act 1992 s 1 (see PARA 650 post).

7 Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 54(1) (amended by the Finance (No 2) Act 1992 s 1(5), Sch 1 para 12). The duty charged under the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 54(1) (as amended), and any right to a drawback, rebate or allowance in connection with that duty, may be increased or decreased by up to 10% by order made in accordance with the Excise Duties (Surcharges or Rebates) Act 1979 ss 1, 2 (as amended): see PARAS 620-621 post.

Where the Commissioners are satisfied that excise duty was paid or deferred on constituent wines contained in blended wine, ie wine produced in the United Kingdom before 1 July 1985 by the blending or otherwise mixing of two or more wines on which excise duty has been paid or deferred, an amount equal to the duty so paid or deferred may be deducted from the duty payable in respect of the charge imposed by the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 54(1)(b) (see head (2) in the text): Excise Duty (Wine) (Temporary Relief) Regulations 1985, SI 1985/403, reg 4. As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

471. Blended and mixed wines.

For the purposes of the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979, the process of blending or otherwise mixing two or more wines¹ ('the constituent wines') constitutes the production of wine if:

- 1003 (1) the rate of duty applicable to one of the constituent wines is different from that applicable to the other or, as the case may be, at least one of the others; and
- 1004 (2) the rate of duty applicable to the wine which is the product of the blending or other mixing is higher than that which is applicable to at least one of the constituent wines; and
- 1005 (3) the blending or other mixing is with a view to dealing wholesale in the wine which is the product thereof, and, for these purposes, the rate of duty applicable to any wine is that which is or would be chargeable² on its importation into the United Kingdom or, as the case may be, on its production as mentioned in head (2) above³.

Where wine is so produced⁴ in the United Kingdom, duty is chargeable on that wine by virtue of head (2) above whether or not duty was previously charged on all or any of the constituent wines by virtue of head (1) or head (2) above; but nothing in this provision affects the operation of any regulations made⁵ by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs giving relief from duty on wine so produced by reference to duty charged on all or any of the constituent wines⁶.

472. Made-wine chargeable to duty.

A duty of excise at the prescribed rates¹ is chargeable on made-wine²:

- 1006 (1) imported into the United Kingdom³; or
- 1007 (2) produced in the United Kingdom by a person who is required⁴ to be licensed to produce made-wine for sale, and the duty must, in so far as it is chargeable on made-wine produced in the United Kingdom, be charged and paid in accordance with regulations made⁵ by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs⁶.

The duty charged under the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 55(1) (as amended), and any right to a drawback, rebate or allowance in connection with that duty, may be increased or decreased by up to 10% by order made in accordance with the Excise Duties (Surcharges or Rebates) Act 1979 ss 1, 2 (as amended): see PARAS 620-621 post. 473. Cider labelled as made-wine.

For the purposes of the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979, any liquor which would otherwise be cider¹ and which:

- 1008 (1) is in an up-labelled² container; or
- 1009 (2) has, at any time after 31 December 1996 when it was in the United Kingdom³, been in an up-labelled container, is deemed to be made-wine⁴, and not cider⁵.

Accordingly, references in the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 to producing made-wine include references to:

- 1010 (a) putting cider in an up-labelled container; or
- 1011 (b) causing a container in which there is cider to be up-labelled⁶.

For the purposes of the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979, where any liquor is so deemed to be made-wine, it is deemed:

- 1012 (i) if it is in an up-labelled container, to be made-wine of the strength that the labelling for the container states or tends to suggest⁷; and
- 1013 (ii) if it is no longer in an up-labelled container, to be made-wine of the strength stated or suggested by the labelling for the up-labelled container in which it was contained when it was first so deemed to be made-wine⁸.

Where, by virtue of the above provisions, any duty⁹ is charged¹⁰ on any liquor, a rebate must be allowed in respect of the amount of any duty charged¹¹ on that liquor¹².

1 For the meaning of 'cider' see PARA 404 ante.

2 For these purposes, a container is up-labelled if the labelling for the container states or tends to suggest that the strength of any liquor in that container is or exceeds 8.5%: Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 55B(6) (s 55B added by the Finance Act 1997 s 5(1), (5)). References to the labelling for any container are references to anything on: (1) the container itself; (2) a label or leaflet attached to or used with the container; or (3) any packaging used for or in association with the container: Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 55B(7) (as so added). 474. Rates of duty.

Wine¹ or made-wine² of a strength³ not exceeding 22 per cent is chargeable to duty⁴ at the following rates:

- 1014 (1) wine or made-wine of a strength not exceeding 4 per cent, at the rate of £53.06 per hectolitre;
- 1015 (2) wine or made-wine of a strength exceeding 4 per cent but not exceeding 5.5 per cent, at the rate of £72.95 per hectolitre;
- 1016 (3) wine or made-wine of a strength exceeding 5.5 per cent but not exceeding 15 per cent and not being sparkling⁵, at the rate of £172.17 per hectolitre;

- 1019 (6) wine or made-wine of a strength exceeding 15 per cent but not exceeding 22 per cent, at the rate of £229.55 per hectolitre⁶.

Wine or made-wine of a strength exceeding 22 per cent is chargeable to duty at the rate of £19.65 per litre⁷.

A person who, on any premises in the United Kingdom¹, produces wine² for sale must hold an excise licence in respect of those premises for that purpose³.

A person who, in warehouse⁴, produces wine for sale by rendering it sparkling⁵ in accordance with warehousing regulations⁶ need not hold an excise licence⁷ in respect of those premises⁸.

A person who, on any premises, produces wine of a strength not exceeding 5.5 per cent by rendering it sparkling, need not on that account hold an excise licence⁹ in respect of those premises¹⁰.

A producer¹¹ must not begin to produce wine on any premises in respect of which he is licensed¹² until he has made entry of all rooms, places and vessels intended to be used by him thereon for that purpose¹³; and, save as the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may otherwise allow, a producer must not withdraw his entry in respect of a winery¹⁴ while there remains in any place specified therein any wine on which duty has not been paid or remitted or any materials for making wine¹⁵.

A. CHARGE TO DUTY

491. Excise duty on cider.

A duty of excise at the rates shown below is chargeable on cider¹ imported into the United Kingdom or made in the United Kingdom² by a person who is required³ to be registered as a maker of cider⁴.

The rates at which the duty is so chargeable are:

- 1051 (1) £166.70 per hectolitre in the case of sparkling⁵ cider of a strength⁶ exceeding 5.5 per cent;
- 1052 (2) £38.43 per hectolitre in the case of cider of a strength exceeding 7.5 per cent, which is not sparkling cider; and
- 1053 (3) £25.61 per hectolitre in any other case⁷.

1 For the meaning of 'cider' see PARA 404 ante.

2 For these purposes, references to making cider are to be construed as including references to producing sparkling cider by rendering cider sparkling (see note 5 infra); and references to cider made in the United Kingdom, to makers of cider and to making cider for sale are to be construed accordingly: Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 62(7) (added by the Finance Act 1997 s 3(2), (5)). 5 Cider which is for the time being in a closed bottle is sparkling if, due to the presence of carbon dioxide, the pressure in the bottle, measured at a temperature of 20°C, is not less than 3 bars in excess of atmospheric pressure: Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 62A(1), (2) (s 62A added by the Finance Act 1997 s 3(3), (5)). Cider which is for the time being in a closed bottle is sparkling regardless of the pressure in the bottle if the bottle has a mushroom-shaped stopper (whether solid or hollow) held in place by a tie or fastening: Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 62A(1), (3) (as so added). 491 Excise duty on cider

TEXT AND NOTES 5-7--Head (1) now £207•20; head (2) now £47•77; head (3) now £31•83: Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 62(1A) (amended by Finance Act 2009 s 11(4)).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/ (3) ALCOHOLIC LIQUOR DUTY/ (v) Cider/A. CHARGE TO DUTY/492. Cider labelled as strong cider.

492. Cider labelled as strong cider.

For the purposes of the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979, any liquor which would otherwise be standard cider¹ and which:

- 1054 (1) is in an up-labelled container²; or
- 1055 (2) has, at any time after 31 December 1996 when it was in the United Kingdom³, been in an up-labelled container, is deemed to be strong cider⁴, and not standard cider⁵.

Accordingly, references in the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 to making cider include references to:

- 1056 (a) putting standard cider in an up-labelled container; or
- 1057 (b) causing a container in which there is standard cider to be up-labelled⁶.

Where, by virtue of these provisions, any duty is charged⁶ on any cider, a rebate must be allowed in respect of the amount of any duty charged⁷ on that cider otherwise than by virtue of these provisions⁸.

1 For these purposes, 'standard cider' means cider which is not sparkling and is of a strength not exceeding 7.5%: Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 62B(4)(a) (s 62B added by the Finance Act 1997 s 4). For the meaning of 'cider' see PARA 404 ante; for the meaning of 'sparkling' see PARA 491 note 5 ante; and for the meaning of 'strength' see PARA 408 ante.

2 For these purposes, a container is up-labelled if there is anything on: (1) the container itself; (2) a label or leaflet attached to or used with the container; or (3) any packaging used for or in association with the container, which states or tends to suggest that the strength of any liquor in that container falls within the strong cider strength range: Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 62B(5) (as added: see note 1 supra). A strength falls within the strong cider strength range if it exceeds 7.5% but is less than 8.5%: s 62B(6) (as so added). As to the meaning of 'container' see PARA 408 note 13 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 note 6 ante.

4 For these purposes, 'strong cider' means cider which is not sparkling and is of a strength exceeding 7.5%: Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 62B(4)(b) (as added: see note 1 supra).

B. DETERMINATION OF DUTY AND THE RATES THEREOF

493. Charge to duty.

Cider¹ in cider premises² is chargeable³ with duty⁴ at the time it is made; and the excise duty point is the earlier of the following times:

- 1058 (1) the time it is consumed at those premises; or
- 1059 (2) the time it is sent out from those premises, provided that:

- 1060 (a) where any cider is sent out to other cider premises⁵, those other cider premises are to be treated as being the cider premises in which the cider was made and the maker registered in respect of those other cider premises is to be treated accordingly;
- 1061 (b) where any cider is sent out of cider premises at a strength⁶ not exceeding 1.2 per cent, the duty charged thereon must be remitted;
- 1062 (c) where the time of consumption of cider at cider premises cannot be established to the satisfaction of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs⁷ (for the purposes of determining the appropriate rate of duty in relation to the excise duty point specified by head (1) above), the rate of duty is to be taken to be the highest rate in force during the preceding 12 calendar months ending on the day before the time when the Commissioners can, for the first time, make an assessment of the excise duty due⁸ in respect of that consumption⁹.

Duty so charged¹⁰ must be accounted for and paid in accordance with the provisions¹¹ relating to payment of duty¹².

1 For these purposes, 'cider' has the meaning given by the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 1(6) (as amended) (see PARA 404 ante), but subject to s 1(10) (as added) (see PARA 401 ante): Cider and Perry Regulations 1989, SI 1989/1355, reg 4.

2 For these purposes, 'cider premises' means the premises, rooms, places and vessels entered by a registered maker for use by him in his trade as a maker: ibid reg 4. 'Maker' means a maker of cider who is or is required to be registered: reg 4. 'Registered' means registered as a maker of cider under the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 62(2) (see PARA 505 post); and 'registration' is to be construed accordingly: Cider and Perry Regulations 1989, SI 1989/1355, reg 4.

5 le in accordance with ibid reg 12(c)(i): see PARA 495 head (3)(a) post.

6 For these purposes, 'strength', in relation to any liquor, means its alcoholic strength computed in accordance with the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 2 (as substituted and amended) (see PARA 408 ante): Cider and Perry Regulations 1989, SI 1989/1355, reg 4.

494. Cider in large packs.

The amount of cider¹ in a large pack² may be ascertained by reference to any information on the label of that pack or any information in any invoice, delivery note or similar document indicating the amount of cider in that pack and, except in a case where the tolerance requirements³ are not met, any cider in excess of that amount is relieved from duty⁴ at the excise duty point⁵. These provisions apply to imported cider as well as to cider produced in the United Kingdom for sale⁶.

1 For the meaning of 'cider' see PARA 493 note 1 ante.

3 If the requirements set out in the Cider and Perry Regulations 1989, SI 1989/1355, Schedule (as added). If a large pack is filled with a metered or weighed amount of cider the amount of cider in the pack must not exceed the amount ascertained by reference to any information on the label of that pack or any information in any invoice, delivery note or similar document indicating the amount of cider in that pack by more than: (1) in the case of a pack intended to contain a volume exceeding 100 litres, 0.5 per cent of that volume; or (2) in any other case, 0.5 litres: Schedule para 1 (Schedule added by SI 2000/3213). 495. Removal without payment of duty.

Subject to such conditions as the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs¹ may impose, including any condition that security is to be given to their satisfaction, a maker² may send cider chargeable with duty³ out from cider premises⁴ without payment of the duty for any of the following purposes:

- 1063 (1) exportation, shipment as stores, or removal to the Isle of Man;
- 1064 (2) deposit in an excise warehouse⁵ for:

505. Need for a licence to produce cider.

A person who, on any premises in the United Kingdom¹, makes cider² for sale must be registered with the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs in respect of those premises³; but the Treasury may by order made by statutory instrument provide for exempting from that requirement makers of cider whose production does not exceed such limit as is specified in the order and who comply with such other conditions as may be so specified⁴.

A maker⁵ must not begin to make cider on any premises in respect of which he is registered⁶ until he has made entry of all rooms, places and vessels intended to be used by him thereon for that purpose⁷; and, save as the Commissioners may otherwise allow, a maker must not withdraw his entry in respect of cider premises⁸ while there remains in any place specified therein any cider on which duty⁹ has not been paid or remitted or any materials for making cider¹⁰.

If any person who is required to be so registered in respect of any premises makes cider on those premises without being registered in respect of them, his doing so attracts a civil penalty under the Finance Act 1994¹¹ which must be calculated by reference to the amount of duty charged on the cider made; and the cider and all vessels, utensils and materials for making cider found in his possession are liable to forfeiture¹².

A person who makes cider or perry for sale whose production does not exceed 70 hectolitres in a period of 12 consecutive months is exempt from the requirement of the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 62(3) in respect of the premises on which such production takes place: Cider and Perry (Exemption from Registration) Order 1976, SI 1976/1206, arts 1(2), 2(1) (amended by SI 1979/1218). Every maker of cider or perry so claiming exemption must notify the officer of Revenue and Customs for the area in which are situate the premises on which cider or perry is made in writing of such claim and must specify the premises in respect of which he claims exemption: arts 1(2), 3 (amended by virtue of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs Act 2005 s 50(2), (7)). (vi) Denatured Alcohol

506. In general.

The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may, with a view to the protection of the revenue, make regulations relating to the manufacture, storage and transfer of denatured alcohol¹.

The Commissioners may authorise any distiller², rectifier³ or compounder⁴ to denature dutiable alcoholic liquor; and any person so authorised is referred to in the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 as an 'authorised denaturer'⁵.

No person other than an authorised denaturer is to denature dutiable alcoholic liquor or deal wholesale⁶ in denatured alcohol unless he holds an excise licence as a denaturer⁷.

Where any person, not being an authorised denaturer, denatures dutiable alcoholic liquor otherwise than under and in accordance with such a licence, his doing so attracts a civil penalty⁸ under the Finance Act 1994⁹.

The Commissioners may at any time revoke or suspend any authorisation or licence so granted¹⁰.

Any decision as to whether or not an authorisation or licence for the purposes of the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 75 (as amended) is to be granted to any person, or as to the revocation or suspension of any such authorisation or licence, is subject to review and to appeal to a VAT and duties tribunal: see the Finance Act 1994 ss 14(1)(d), (2)-(7), 15, 16 (as amended), Sch 5 para 3(1)(o); and PARAS 1240, 1243, 1252 et seq post.

6 For these purposes, 'dealing wholesale' means the sale at any one time to any one person of a quantity of denatured alcohol of not less than 20 litres or such smaller quantity as the Commissioners may by regulations specify: Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 75(7) (amended by the Finance Act 1995 Sch 2 para 5; and the Alcoholic Liquors (Amendment of Enactments Relating to Strength and to Units of Measurement) Order 1979, SI 1979/241, art 33). 507. General exemption from duty.

The liquors on which duty¹ is charged under the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 do not include any denatured alcohol²; and any duty so charged on liquor which has become denatured alcohol before the requirement to pay the duty takes effect will thenceforth be remitted³.

1 For the meaning of 'duty' see PARA 399 ante.

2 For these purposes, 'denatured alcohol' means any dutiable alcoholic liquor which has been subjected to the process of being mixed in the prescribed manner with a prescribed substance: Finance Act 1995 s 5(2). 'Prescribed' means prescribed by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs by regulations made by statutory instrument: s 5(2). In exercise of this power the Commissioners have made the Denatured Alcohol Regulations 2005, SI 2005/1524. The power of the Commissioners to make regulations defining denatured alcohol for these purposes includes:

- 73 (1) power, in prescribing any substance or any manner of mixing a substance with a liquor, to do so by reference to such circumstances or other factors, or to the approval or opinion of such persons, including the authorities of another member state, as they may consider appropriate;
- 74 (2) power to make different provision for different cases; and
- 75 (3) power to make such supplemental, incidental, consequential and transitional provision as the Commissioners think fit, and a statutory instrument containing any such regulations is subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: Finance Act 1995 s 5(3). The Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 consolidated (inter alia) the enactments relating to the excise duties on hydrocarbon oil and road fuel gas¹. The Act should be read with the EC Council Directive restructuring the Community framework for the taxation of energy products and electricity², and implements certain other European legislation³.

The Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 and the other Acts included in the Customs and Excise Acts 1979⁴ are to be construed as one Act; but, where a provision of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 refers to that Act, that reference is not to be construed as including a reference to any of the others⁵.

No proceedings may be brought under the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 in respect of anything done in connection with a decommissioning scheme under the Northern Ireland Arms Decommissioning Act 1997⁶.

¹ See the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 preamble. The Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 came into operation on 1 April 1979: s 29(2). As to the collection of excise duties see PARA 650 et seq post.

Any expression used in the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 or in any instrument made thereunder to which a meaning is given by any other Act included in the Customs and Excise Acts 1979 has, except where the context otherwise requires, the same meaning in the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 or in any such instrument as in that Act: s 27(3). Any provision of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 relating to anything done or required or authorised to be done under or by reference to that provision or any other provision of that Act has effect as if any reference to that provision, or that other provision, as the case may be, included a reference to the corresponding provision of the enactments repealed by that Act: s 28(3). Nothing in s 28(3) is to be taken as prejudicing the operation of the Interpretation Act 1978 ss 15-17 (effect of repeals: see STATUTES vol 44(1) (Reissue) PARAS 1303, 1306-1309): Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 28(6).

A duty of excise at the rates of:

- 1082 (1) £0.4835 a litre in the case of ultra low sulphur petrol¹;
- 1083 (2) £0.4835 a litre in the case of sulphur-free petrol;
- 1084 (3) £0.5768 a litre in the case of light oil² other than ultra low sulphur petrol and sulphur-free petrol;
- 1085 (4) £0.4835 a litre in the case of ultra low sulphur diesel³;
- 1086 (5) £0.4835 a litre in the case of sulphur-free diesel⁴; and
- 1087 (6) £0.5468 a litre in the case of heavy oil⁵ other than ultra low sulphur diesel and sulphur-free diesel, is chargeable on hydrocarbon oil⁶ imported into the United Kingdom⁷ or produced⁸ in the United Kingdom and delivered for home use from a refinery⁹ or from other premises used for the production of hydrocarbon oil or from any bonded storage for hydrocarbon oil, not being hydrocarbon oil chargeable with duty on import¹⁰.

Where imported hydrocarbon oil is removed to a refinery, the duty chargeable under the provisions above is, instead of being charged at the time of the importation of that oil, to be charged on the delivery of any goods from the refinery for home use and is to be the same as that which would be payable on the importation of like goods¹¹.

In the case of aviation gasoline¹², the duty of excise so charged¹³ is to be at one-half of the rate specified in head (3) above in relation to light oil¹⁴.

Where imported goods¹⁵ contain hydrocarbon oil as a part or ingredient thereof, the oil must be disregarded in the application to the goods of the charge of duty on manufactured or composite imported articles¹⁶ unless in the opinion of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs the goods should, according to their use, be classed with hydrocarbon oil¹⁷.

1 'Ultra low sulphur petrol' means unleaded petrol (see PARA 540 post): (1) the sulphur content of which does not exceed 0.005% by weight; (2) the aromatics content of which does not exceed 35% by volume; and (3) is not sulphur-free petrol: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 1(3A) (added by the Finance Act 2000 s 5(1); and substituted by the Finance Act 2004 s 7(1)). 'Sulphur-free petrol' means unleaded petrol the sulphur content of which does not exceed 0.001% by weight (or is nil): Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 1(3B) (added by the Finance Act 2000 s 5(1); and substituted by the Finance Act 2004 s 7(1)). These definitions may be varied by the Treasury by order made by statutory instrument laid before and approved by a resolution of the House of Commons: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 2A (added by the Finance Act 2000 s 7; and amended by the Finance Act 2004 s 7(4)). 8 For the purposes of the Customs and Excise Acts 1979, the production of hydrocarbon oil includes: (1) the obtaining of one description of hydrocarbon oil from another description of hydrocarbon oil; and (2) the subjecting of hydrocarbon oil to any process of purification or blending, as well as the obtaining of hydrocarbon oil from other substances or from any natural source: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 2(4). For the meaning of 'the Customs and Excise Acts 1979' see PARA 398 note 2 ante.

9 'Refinery' means any premises which:

76 (1) are approved by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs for the treatment of hydrocarbon oil; or

77 (2) are approved by them for the production of energy for use in the treatment of hydrocarbon oil at premises approved under head (1) supra or in the production of hydrocarbon oil at other premises used for the production of such oil, and the Commissioners may approve any premises under head (2) supra if it appears to them that more than one-third of the energy will be produced for such use as is mentioned therein: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 27(1) (amended by the Finance Act 1981 s 5(1), (3)). If, in the case of any premises which the Commissioners can approve under head (2) supra, it appears to them appropriate to do so, they may direct that the provisions of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979, other than the definition of 'refinery', are to apply to them as if, instead of being a refinery, they were other premises used for the production of hydrocarbon oil: s 27(1A) (added by the Finance Act 1981 s 5(1), (4)). As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

Directions given under any provision of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 may make different provision for different circumstances and may be varied or revoked by subsequent directions thereunder: s 26.

10 Ibid s 6(1) (amended by the Finance Act 1981 s 4(1), (3); the Finance Act 1982 s 4(1), (2)(a), (7); the Finance Act 1989 s 1(1), (4); the Finance Act 1990 s 132, Sch 19 Pt I; and the Finance Act 1997 s 7(2)); Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6(1A) (added by the Finance Act 1997 s 7(3); substituted by the Finance Act 2000 s 5(3); and amended by the Finance Act 2006 s 7). As from a day to be appointed, the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6(1) (as amended) is further amended so as to remove the qualification and refer simply to hydrocarbon oil produced in the United Kingdom: see s 6(1) (as so amended; and prospectively amended by the Finance Act 1998 ss 6(1), (3), 165, Sch 27 Pt I(2)). At the date at which this volume states the law, no such day had been appointed.

As to the classification of oil see PARA 515 post. The duty charged under the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6 (as amended), and any right to a drawback, rebate or allowance in connection with that duty, may be increased or decreased by up to 10% by order made in accordance with the Excise Duties (Surcharges or Rebates) Act 1979 ss 1, 2 (as amended): see PARAS 620-621 post.

11 Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6(2). As from a day to be appointed, this provision is substituted so as to provide that where:

78 (1) imported hydrocarbon oil is removed to relevant premises;

79 (2) the oil undergoes a production process at those premises or any other relevant premises; and

80 (3) any duty charged on the importation of the oil has not become payable at any time before the production time, the duty charged on importation is not to become payable at any time after the production time: see s 6(2) (prospectively substituted by the Finance Act 1998 s 6(2), (3)). For these purposes, 'relevant premises' means a refinery, other premises used for the production of hydrocarbon oil or premises of such other description as may be specified in regulations made by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs; and 'the production time' means the time at which the oil undergoes the production process: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6(2AA) (prospectively added by the Finance Act 1998 s 6(2), (3)). For these purposes, oil undergoes a production process if hydrocarbon oil of another description is obtained from it or it is subjected to any process of purification or blending: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6(2AB) (prospectively added by the Finance Act 1998 s 6(2), (3)). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed, and no such regulations had been made.

Any power to make regulations under the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 is exercisable by statutory instrument; and any statutory instrument by which the power is exercised is subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: s 25.

12 For these purposes, 'aviation gasoline' means light oil which: (1) is specially produced as fuel for aircraft; and (2) is not normally used in road vehicles; and (3) is delivered for use solely as fuel for aircraft: ibid ss 6(4), 27(1) (s 6(4) added by the Finance Act 1982 s 4(1), (2)(b), (7); and the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 27(1) amended by the Finance Act 1982 s 4(1), (4), (7)). For the meaning of 'road vehicle' see PARA 530 post. As to the Treasury's power by order to provide, in relation to any substance which, by virtue of the Finance Act 1993 s 10(1), is to be treated for the purposes of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 as the equivalent of hydrocarbon oil, for that substance to be treated for the purposes of such of the provisions of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 as may be specified in the order as if it fell within the description of aviation gasoline see the Finance Act 1993 s 10(2); and PARA 532 post.

13 Ie under the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6(1) (as amended): see the text and notes 1-10 supra.

15 For these purposes, 'goods', except where the context otherwise requires, has the same meaning as in the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 (see PARA 413 note 1 ante): Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 27(3).

16 Ie the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 126: see PARA 1096 post.

UPDATE

514 Meaning of 'ultra low sulphur diesel' and 'sulphur-free diesel'

TEXT AND NOTES--Repealed: Finance Act 2008 s 13(2)(c).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(4) HYDROCARBON OIL DUTY/(ii) Charge to Duty/A. HYDROCARBON OIL, BIODIESEL AND BIOETHANOL/(A) Hydrocarbon Oil/515. Method of classification.

515. Method of classification.

The method of testing oil for the purpose of ascertaining its classification¹ is such as the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may direct².

The Treasury may from time to time direct that, for the purposes of any duty of excise for the time being chargeable on hydrocarbon oil³, any specified description of light oil⁴ is to be treated as being heavy oil⁵. The Treasury must not, however, give such a direction in relation to any description of oil unless it is satisfied that the description is one which should, according to its use, be classed with heavy oil⁶.

1 In accordance with the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 1 (as amended): see PARAS 510-514 ante.

2 Ibid s 2(1). Section 2(1) is subject to s 1(3)(b) (see PARA 511 head (2) ante): s 2(1). As to the giving of directions see PARA 509 note 9 ante. As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

3 For the meaning of 'hydrocarbon oil' see PARA 510 ante. As to the duty chargeable on hydrocarbon oil see PARA 509 ante.

4 For the meaning of 'light oil' see PARA 511 ante.

5 Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 2(2). As to the Treasury see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARAS 512-517.

6 Ibid s 2(3).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(4) HYDROCARBON OIL DUTY/(ii) Charge to Duty/A. HYDROCARBON OIL, BIODIESEL AND BIOETHANOL/(B) Biodiesel/516. Excise duty on biodiesel and on blends of biodiesel and heavy oils.

(B) BIODIESEL

516. Excise duty on biodiesel and on blends of biodiesel and heavy oils.

A duty of excise is charged at the rate of £0.2835 per litre on the setting aside for a chargeable use by any person, or (where it has not already been so charged) on the chargeable use by any person, of biodiesel¹.

'Biodiesel' means diesel quality² liquid³ fuel that is produced from biomass⁴ or waste cooking oil, the ester content of which is not less than 96.5 per cent by weight, and the sulphur content of which does not exceed 0.005 per cent by weight or is nil⁵. 'Chargeable use' means use as fuel for any engine, motor or other machinery, use as an additive or extender in any substance so used, or use for the production of bioblend⁶.

A duty of excise is charged on bioblend imported into the United Kingdom⁷, or produced in the United Kingdom and delivered for home use from a refinery or from other premises used for the production of hydrocarbon oil or from any bonded storage for hydrocarbon oil, not being bioblend so imported and chargeable⁸. The rate at which duty is so chargeable is a composite rate representing: (1) in respect of the proportion of the bioblend that is hydrocarbon oil, the rate that would be applicable to the bioblend if it consisted entirely of heavy oil of the description that went into producing the bioblend; and (2) in respect of the proportion of the bioblend that is biodiesel, the rate that would be applicable to the bioblend if it consisted entirely of biodiesel⁹.

1 Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6AA(1), (3) (ss 6AA, 6AB added by the Finance Act 2002 s 5(4); and the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6AA(3) amended by the Finance Act 2006 s 7(1), (3)).

2 'Diesel quality' means capable of being used for the same purpose as heavy oil: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 2AA(2)(a) (s 2AA added by the Finance Act 2002 s 5(2)).

3 'Liquid' does not include any substance that is gaseous at a temperature of 150C and under a pressure of 1013.25 millibars: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 2AA(2)(b) (as added: see note 2 supra).

4 'Biomass' means vegetable and animal substances constituting the biodegradable fraction of: (1) products, wastes and residues from agriculture, forestry and related activities; or (2) industrial and municipal waste: ibid s 2AA(2)(c) (as added: see note 2 supra).

5 Ibid ss 2AA(1), 27(1) (s 2AA as added (see note 2 supra); and s 27(1) amended by the Finance Act 2002 s 5(5), Sch 2 paras 1, 6). The Treasury may by order made by statutory instrument amend the definition of 'biodiesel' for the purposes of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979: s 2A(1A) (added by the Finance Act 2002 s 5(3)). As to the making of such an order see PARA 509 ante. As to the Treasury see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARAS 512-517.

6 Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6AA(2) (s 6AA as added (see note 1 supra); and s 6AA(2) amended by the Finance Act 2004 s 11, Sch 42 Pt 1(1)). 'Bioblend' means any mixture that is produced by mixing biodiesel and heavy oil not charged with the excise duty on hydrocarbon oil: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 ss 6AB(2), 27(1) (s 6AB added by the Finance Act 2002 s 5(4); and the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 27(1) amended by the Finance Act 2002 Sch 2 para 6). For the meaning of 'heavy oil' see PARA 512 ante; and for the meaning of 'hydrocarbon oil' see PARA 510 ante.

7 For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 note 6 ante.

8 Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6AB(1) (as added: see note 6 supra). However, where imported bioblend is removed to a refinery, the duty chargeable under these provisions, instead of being charged at the time of importation, must be charged on the delivery of any goods from the refinery for home use and is the same as that which would be payable on the importation of like goods: s 6AB(6) (as so added).

As from a day to be appointed, s 6AB(1) (as added) is amended so as to remove the qualification and refer simply to bioblend produced in the United Kingdom (see s 6AB(1) (as so added; and prospectively amended by the Finance Act 2002 Sch 2 para 7)); and the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6AB(6) (as added) is substituted so as to provide that where: (1) imported bioblend is removed to relevant premises; (2) the bioblend undergoes a production process at those premises or any other relevant premises; and (3) any duty chargeable on the importation of the bioblend has not become payable at any time before the production time, the duty charged on importation does not become payable at any time after the production time (s 6AB(6) (as so added; and prospectively substituted by the Finance Act 2002 Sch 2 para 7)). The 'production time' means the time at which the bioblend undergoes the production process; and 'relevant premises' means: (a) a refinery; (b) other premises used for the production of hydrocarbon oil; or (c) premises of such description as may be specified in regulations made by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6AB(7) (prospectively added by the Finance Act 2002 Sch 2 para 7). Bioblend undergoes a production process if hydrocarbon oil, or bioblend, of any description, or biodiesel, is obtained from it, or it is subjected to any process of purification or blending: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6AB(8) (prospectively added by the Finance Act 2002 Sch 2 para 7). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed. As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

9 Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6AB(3) (as added: see note 6 supra). Each proportion is reckoned by volume to the nearest 0.001%, but if the Commissioners are not satisfied as to the proportion of biodiesel in any bioblend, the rate of duty chargeable is the rate that would be applicable to the bioblend if it consisted entirely of heavy oil of the description that went into producing the bioblend: s 6AB(4), (5) (as so added).

Where the effect of provision made under these provisions is to extend any power to make regulations, provision made in exercise of the power as extended may be contained in the same statutory instrument as the provision extending the power: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6AC(2) (as so added). Such regulations may make different provision for different cases: s 6AC(4) (as so added).

The power to make such regulations has effect in relation: (1) to biodiesel that is set aside for chargeable use after 25 July 2002 or, not having been so set aside, is the subject of such chargeable use after that date and has not been set aside for chargeable use under s 6A (as added and amended) (see PARA 520 ante) on or before that date; and (2) in relation to bioblend that is imported into the United Kingdom after the date appointed under head (1) supra or, not having been so imported, is produced in the United Kingdom and delivered for home use before that date and has not been set aside for chargeable use on or before that date: Finance Act 2002 s 5(6), (7); Finance Act 2002, section 5(6), (Appointed Date) Order 2002, SI 2002/1926. For the meaning of 'chargeable use' see PARA 516 ante. For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 note 6 ante.

HYDROCARBON OIL, BIODIESEL AND BIOETHANOL/(C) Bioethanol/518. Excise duty on bioethanol and on blends of bioethanol and hydrocarbon oil.

(C) BIOETHANOL

518. Excise duty on bioethanol and on blends of bioethanol and hydrocarbon oil.

A duty of excise is charged at the rate of £0.2835 per litre, on the setting aside for a chargeable use by a person (or, where it has not already been so charged) on the chargeable use by any person, of bioethanol¹. 'Bioethanol' means a liquid² fuel: (1) consisting of ethanol produced from biomass³; and (2) capable of being used for the same purposes as light oil⁴. 'Chargeable use' means use: (a) as fuel for any engine, motor or other machinery; (b) as an additive or extender in any substance so used; or (c) for the production of bioethanol blend⁵.

A duty of excise is also charged on bioethanol blend: (i) imported into the United Kingdom; or (ii) produced in the United Kingdom and delivered for home use from a refinery or other premises used for the production of hydrocarbon oil or from any bonded storage for hydrocarbon oil, not being bioethanol blend chargeable with duty under head (i) above⁶. 'Bioethanol blend' means any mixture that is produced by mixing bioethanol and hydrocarbon oil not charged with excise duty⁷. The rate at which the duty is charged is a composite rate representing:

- 1099 (A) in respect of the proportion of the blend that is hydrocarbon oil, the rate that would be applicable to the blend if it consisted entirely of hydrocarbon oil of the description that went into producing the blend; and
- 1100 (B) in respect of the proportion of the blend that is bioethanol, the rate that would be applicable to the blend if it consisted entirely of bioethanol⁸.

2 'Liquid' does not include any substance that is gaseous at a temperature of 150°C and under a pressure of 1013.25 millibars: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 2AB(2)(a) (s 2AB added by the Finance Act 2004 s 10(1)).

3 'Biomass' means vegetable and animal substances constituting the biodegradable fraction of: (1) products, wastes and residues from agriculture, forestry and related activities; or (2) industrial and municipal waste: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 2AB(2)(b) (as added: see note 2 supra).

4 Ibid ss 2AB(1), 27(1) (s 2AB as added (see note 2 supra); and s 27(1) amended by the Finance Act 2004 s 10(9)). A substance is treated as falling within head (1) in the text if it: (1) is denatured alcohol for the purposes of the Finance Act 1995 s 5 (see PARA 507 ante); and (2) would fall within head (1) in the text (without reliance on this provision) but for the presence of a component introduced: (a) for the purpose of rendering the substance denatured alcohol; and (b) in the minimum proportion necessary for that purpose: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 2AB(3) (as so added). The Treasury may by order made by statutory instrument amend the definition of 'bioethanol': s 2A(1B) (added by the Finance Act 2004 s 10(2)). As to the Treasury see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARAS 512-517. For the meaning of 'light oil' see PARA 511 ante.

5 Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6AD(2) (as added: see note 1 supra).

6 Ibid s 6AE(1) (s 6AE added by the Finance Act 2004 s 10(3)). Where imported bioethanol blend is removed to a refinery, the duty so chargeable, instead of being charged at the time of importation, is charged on the delivery of any goods from the refinery for home use and is to be the same as that which would be payable on the importation of like goods: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6AE(6) (as so added). For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 note 6 ante.

7 Ibid ss 6AE(2), 27(1) (s 6AE as added (see note 6 supra); and s 27(1) as amended (see note 4 supra)). For the meaning of 'hydrocarbon oil' see PARA 510 ante.

8 Ibid s 6AE(3) (as added: see note 6 supra). The reference to a 'proportion' is to a proportion by volume to the nearest 0.001%: s 6AE(4) (as so added). If the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs are not satisfied as to the proportion of bioethanol in any bioethanol blend, the rate of duty chargeable is the rate that would be applicable to the blend if it consisted entirely of hydrocarbon oil of the description that went into producing the blend: s 6AE(5) (as so added). See also note 6 supra. As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs¹ may by regulations provide for:

- 1101 (1) references in the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 (or specified references therein) to hydrocarbon oil, to be construed as including references to: (a) bioethanol; (b) bioethanol blend²;
- 1102 (2) references in the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 (or specified references therein) to duty on hydrocarbon oil to be construed as including references to duty on (a) bioethanol³; (b) bioethanol blend⁴ (but this power is without prejudice to the generality of that conferred by head (1) above);
- 1103 (3) bioethanol, or bioethanol blend, to be treated for the purposes of such provisions as may be specified⁵ by such regulations as if it fell within a specified description of hydrocarbon oil⁶.

Where the effect of provision made under these provisions is to extend any power to make regulations, provision made in exercise of the power as extended may be contained in the same statutory instrument as the provision extending the power: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6AF(2) (as so added). Such regulations may make different provision for different cases: s 6AF(4) (as so added).

B. FUEL SUBSTITUTES

(A) IN GENERAL

520. Fuel substitutes.

A duty of excise is chargeable on the setting aside for a chargeable use by any person, or (where it has not already been so charged) on the chargeable use by any person, of any liquid¹ which is not hydrocarbon oil², biodiesel³, bioblend⁴, bioethanol⁵ or bioethanol blend⁶.

For these purposes, 'chargeable use', in relation to any substance, means the use of that substance:

- 1104 (1) as fuel for any engine, motor or other machinery; or
- 1105 (2) as an additive or extender in any substance so used⁷.

The rate of the duty to be so charged is to be prescribed by order made by the Treasury⁸.

The Treasury may by order provide for any substance on which duty is so charged to be treated for the purposes of such of the provisions of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 as may be specified in the order as if it fell within such description of hydrocarbon oil as may be so specified⁹.

In so exercising its powers, the Treasury must, so far as practicable, secure:

- 1106 (a) that a substance set aside for use or used as mentioned in head (1) above is charged with duty at the same rate as, and otherwise treated¹⁰ as if it were, hydrocarbon oil of the description to which, when put to that use, it is most closely equivalent; and
- 1107 (b) that a substance set aside for use or used as an additive or extender in any substance is charged with duty at the same rate as, and otherwise treated as if it were, the substance in which it is an additive or extender¹¹.

The power of the Treasury to make an order under the above provisions is exercisable by statutory instrument subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of the House of Commons¹². Such an order:

- 1108 (i) may make different provision for different cases and for different substances;
- 1109 (ii) may prescribe the rate of duty under the above provisions in respect of any substance by reference to the rate of duty under the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 in respect of any other substance; and
- 1110 (iii) in making different provision for different substances, may define a substance by reference to the use for which it is set aside or the use to which it is put¹³.

1 For these purposes, 'liquid' does not include any substance which is gaseous at a temperature of 15°C and under a pressure of 1013.25 millibars: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6A(7) (s 6A added by the Finance Act 1993 s 11(1), (5)).

2 For the meaning of 'hydrocarbon oil' generally see PARA 510 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'biodiesel' see PARA 516 ante.

4 For the meaning of 'bioblend' see PARA 516 note 6 ante.

5 For the meaning of 'bioethanol' see PARA 518 ante.

6 Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6A(1) (as added (see note 1 supra); and amended by the Finance Act 2004 s 10(4)). For the meaning of 'bioethanol blend' see PARA 518 ante. It is an offence to use petrol substitutes on which duty so charged has not been paid and is not lawfully deferred: see PARA 573 post.

In the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 ss 8-29 (as amended) (see PARA 528 et seq post) references to hydrocarbon oil are to be construed as including references to any substance on which duty is charged under s 6A (as added and amended); and, accordingly, references to duty on hydrocarbon oil is to be construed, where a substance is to be treated as such oil, as including references to duty under s 6A (as added and amended): s 6A(4) (as added: see note 1 supra).

7 Ibid s 6A(2) (as added (see note 1 supra); and amended by the Finance Act 2004 s 12(1)). The use of water is not a chargeable use if the water is comprised in an emulsion of water in gas oil, and the emulsion is stabilised by additives: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6A(2A) (added by the Finance Act 2000 s 11).

8 Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6A(3) (as added: see note 1 supra). In exercise of the power so conferred the Treasury has made the Other Fuel Substitutes (Rates of Excise Duty etc) Order 1995, SI 1995/2716 (amended by SI 2002/3042; SI 2004/2062): see PARA 522 et seq post. As to the Treasury see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARAS 512-517.

9 Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6A(5) (as added (see note 1 supra); and amended by the Finance Act 2002 s 7(1)(a)).

10 Ibid for the purposes of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 ss 8-29 (as amended).

11 Ibid s 6A(6) (as added (see note 1 supra); and amended by the Finance Act 2002 s 7(1)(b)).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(4) HYDROCARBON OIL DUTY/(ii) Charge to Duty/B. FUEL SUBSTITUTES/(A) In general/521. Measurement of volume.

521. Measurement of volume.

In ascertaining for the purposes of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979:

- 1111 (1) the amount of any duty of excise chargeable on any liquid¹ by virtue of that Act; or
- 1112 (2) the amount of any rebate allowable on any such liquid by virtue of that Act, the volume of that liquid is to be taken, if it would not otherwise be so taken, to be what would be its volume, calculated in accordance with regulations made by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs², at a temperature of 15°C³.

Where the volume of any liquid is to be so calculated, its volume must be calculated in the following manner:

- 1113 (a) subject to any requirement as to the use of a particular method of measurement made⁴ by the authorised person⁵, its volume, density and temperature must be measured; and
- 1114 (b) its volume in standard litres⁶ must then be determined by means of reference to such internationally recognised conversion tables as, in the opinion of the Commissioners, are suitable for this purpose⁷.

In ascertaining for the purposes of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 the amount of any duty of excise chargeable on any liquid by virtue of that Act, or the amount of any rebate allowable on any such liquid by virtue of that Act, except as otherwise set out in the above provisions, the volume of that liquid is to be taken, if it would not otherwise be so taken, to be what would be its volume in standard litres⁸.

Where any hydrocarbon oil is imported or removed for home use in a quantity or in circumstances where, in the opinion of the authorised person, it is inexpedient to measure the temperature of that oil, the temperature is to be assumed to be 15°C⁹.

1 For these purposes, 'liquid' does not include any substance which is gaseous at a temperature of 15°C and under a pressure of 1013.25 millibars: Finance Act 1993 s 12(6).

2 The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may by regulations make such provision as they think fit as to the method by which, in ascertaining any amount mentioned in ibid s 12(1), the volume of any liquid is to be measured or the volume as at a temperature of 15°C of any amount of a liquid is to be determined; and that provision may include provision made by reference to any internationally recognised conversion tables: s 12(2). The power to make such regulations is exercisable by statutory instrument subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament; and any such regulations may make different provision for different cases or for different substances and may contain such transitional, supplemental and incidental provision as the Commissioners think fit: s 12(4). Provision made under s 12 by any regulations may provide for any determination or measurement under the regulations to be made, or any description of a case or substance to be framed, by reference to such circumstances or other factors, or to the opinion of such persons, as the Commissioners think fit: s 12(5). As to the regulations made in exercise of the power so conferred see the Hydrocarbon Oil (Amendment) Regulations 1993, SI 1993/2267. As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

3 Finance Act 1993 s 12(1).

4 le in accordance with the Hydrocarbon Oil Regulations 1973, SI 1973/1311, reg 14: see PARA 582 post.

5 For these purposes, 'authorised person' means a person authorised by the Commissioners: ibid reg 2.

6 For these purposes, 'standard litre' means a litre of any liquid at a temperature of 15°C: ibid reg 2 (amended by SI 1993/2267). 'Liquid' does not include any substance which is gaseous at a temperature of 15°C and under a pressure of 1013.25 millibars: Hydrocarbon Oil Regulations 1973, SI 1973/1311, reg 2 (as so amended).

7 Ibid reg 51(1) (added by SI 1993/2267).

(B) RATES OF DUTY

522. Rates of duty for fuel substitutes.

The rate of the duty charged¹ on the setting aside or on the use of a liquid² as fuel for any engine³ must be determined as follows⁴.

Where⁵ a liquid as a fuel is set aside for a chargeable use with the consequence that a duty of excise is charged on it⁶, then:

1115 (1) where a liquid is entered in the record⁷ as being suitable only as fuel for:

- 38. (a) a diesel engine⁸, or an engine, other than a piston engine, of an aircraft, the rate of duty is that specified⁹ for sulphur-free diesel¹⁰;
- 39. (b) a petrol engine¹¹ powered by leaded petrol, the rate of duty is that specified¹² for light oil other than ultra low sulphur petrol and sulphur-free petrol; and
- 40. (c) a petrol engine powered by unleaded petrol, the rate of duty is that specified¹³ for sulphur-free petrol¹⁴;

1116 (2) where a liquid is not entered in the record as being suitable only as fuel for one of the categories described in head (1) above, the rate of duty is the rate specified¹⁵ for light oil other than ultra low sulphur petrol and sulphur-free petrol, unless in respect of that liquid head (3) below applies¹⁶;

1117 (3) where the liquid mentioned at the end of head (2) above is entered in the record as being specially produced as fuel for the piston engine of an aircraft and is delivered for use solely as fuel for the piston engine of an aircraft, the rate of duty is the rate specified¹⁷ for aviation gasoline¹⁸.

Where¹⁹ a liquid as a fuel is put to a chargeable use, not already having been charged²⁰ with a duty of excise, with the consequence that a duty of excise is charged on that use²¹, then, where that liquid is used as fuel in an engine described in head (1)(a), (1)(b) or (1)(c) above, the rate of duty is that which is specified in those heads; and, if the liquid is used in the piston engine of an aircraft, the rate of duty is that which is specified in head (3) above²².

1 le by virtue of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6A (as added and amended): see PARA 520 ante. For these purposes, 'duty' means excise duty (Other Fuel Substitutes (Rates of Excise Duty etc) Order 1995, SI 1995/2716, art 2(1)(e)); and 'the charge to duty' means the charge to duty imposed by the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6A (as added and amended) (Other Fuel Substitutes (Rates of Excise Duty etc) Order 1995, SI 1995/2716, art 2(1)(c)).

2 For these purposes, 'liquid' means a liquid or substance comprised in the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6A (as added and amended): Other Fuel Substitutes (Rates of Excise Duty etc) Order 1995, SI 1995/2716, art 2(1)(i).

3 For these purposes, 'engine' means an engine, motor or other machinery comprised in the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6A (as added and amended); and, in relation to an aircraft, which is designed or adapted to be a part of an aircraft and to give it motive power: Other Fuel Substitutes (Rates of Excise Duty etc) Order 1995, SI 1995/2716, art 2(1)(f).

4 Ibid art 3(a). In any case not provided for by the Other Fuel Substitutes (Rates of Excise Duty etc) Order 1995, SI 1995/2716, the rate of duty in respect of a liquid which is the subject of the charge to duty is that which is specified by the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6 (as amended) (see PARA 509 ante) for light oil other than ultra low sulphur petrol and sulphur-free petrol: Other Fuel Substitutes (Rates of Excise Duty etc) Order 1995, SI 1995/2716, art 3 proviso (amended by SI 2002/3042; SI 2004/2062). For the meanings of 'ultra low sulphur petrol' and 'sulphur-free petrol' see PARA 509 note 1 ante.

Where a rate of duty or a rebate is described as a rate or rebate specified in or by a provision of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979, that rate or rebate is the rate or rebate specified or having statutory effect for the time being when the liquid became the subject of the charge to duty by virtue of s 6A (as added and amended): Other Fuel Substitutes (Rates of Excise Duty etc) Order 1995, SI 1995/2716, art 2(2).

Where⁵ a liquid is set aside for a chargeable use as an additive or extender with the consequence that a duty of excise is charged on it⁶, then:

1118 (1) where a liquid is entered in the record⁷ as being suitable only as an additive or extender in fuel for one of the following categories⁸:

(C) MANAGEMENT OF DUTY

524. Entry of premises.

Every producer¹ of biofuel must:

- 1124 (1) before he sends out from any premises a consignment of biofuel that is charged with biofuels duty² because it is set aside for chargeable use³ when on those premises; or
- 1125 (2) within the period of 30 days beginning with the day that he makes a chargeable use of biofuel at any premises with the consequence that biofuels duty is charged,

TEXT AND NOTES--Replaced. Subject to SI 2004/2065 regs 8B, 8C, a producer of biofuel (1) who, at the end of any calendar month, has produced 2,500 litres or more of biofuel in the previous 12 months; or (2) with respect to whom at any time there are reasonable grounds to believe will produce 2,500 litres or more of biofuel in the following 12 months, is liable to make entry, not later than the specified day, of all premises at which he has produced or will produce biofuel, and he must not send out from any premises a consignment of biofuel, which is charged with biofuels duty because it is set aside for chargeable use, before he makes entry of those premises: regs 8, 8A, 8D (regs 8-8F substituted by SI 2007/1640). Liability ceases if a producer satisfies the Commissioners for Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs that future production will be less than a specified amount: SI 2004/2065 regs 8B, 8C. Similar corresponding provision is made in relation to two or more producers producing biofuel in the same premises or sets of premises: reg 8E. 526. Returns and payment of duty.

A producer¹ must, in relation to each of his entered premises, no later than the fifteenth day² of each month:

- 1133 (1) furnish a return of the quantities of biodiesel³, bioethanol⁴ and fuel substitute; and
- 1134 (2) pay the biofuels duty⁵, in respect of which there was an excise duty point⁶ in the preceding month⁷.

The return must be made on forms provided by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs for the purpose⁸, and the return must be furnished, and the payment made, to the Commissioners at such address as is specified in directions made⁹ by the Commissioners¹⁰.

1 For the meaning of 'producer' see PARA 524 note 1 ante.

2 Where the fifteenth day of the month would fall on a day that is not a business day, the requirements of the Biofuels and Other Fuel Substitutes (Payment of Excise Duties etc) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/2065, reg 19(1) must be complied with no later than the last business day before that fifteenth day: reg 19(4). For these purposes, 'business day' means a day which is a business day within the meaning of the Bills of Exchange Act 1882 s 92 (as amended) (see FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 49 (2008) PARA 1437): Biofuels and Other Fuel Substitutes (Payment of Excise Duties etc) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/2065, reg 19(5).

6 Except in the case specified in the Biofuels and Other Fuel Substitutes (Payment of Excise Duties etc) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/2065, reg 17(2) or where duty suspension arrangements apply to the biofuel, the excise duty point for biofuel is the time when it is charged with biofuels duty: reg 17(1). The excise duty point for biofuel that is sent out from entered premises (see PARA 524 ante) having been charged with biofuels duty when on those premises is the time that the biofuel is sent out: reg 17(2). Where biofuel is removed from entered premises in accordance with reg 12 (removal of biofuel from production premises for warehousing), but it is not deposited in an adjacent excise warehouse within a reasonable time, the excise duty point for the biofuel is the time that it was sent out from the entered premises: reg 17(3). For these purposes, 'duty suspension arrangements' means any provision made by or under the customs and excise Acts (including provision made by the Biofuels and Other Fuel Substitutes (Payment of Excise Duties etc) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/2065) for enabling goods to be held or moved without payment of duty or any provision made by or under those Acts in connection with any provision enabling goods to be so held or moved: reg 17(4). NOTE 6--Except in the case of biofuel that is sent out from entered premises having been charged with biofuels duty when on those premises, or where duty suspension arrangements apply to the biofuel, the excise duty point is the time that the biofuel is sent out; the excise duty point for biofuel produced by a producer who has not discharged his liability to make entry of the premises under SI 2004/2065 reg 8A or 8E(6) (see PARA 524) is the time when it is charged with biofuels duty: reg 17(1) (amended by SI 2007/1640).

1138 (4) the amount of any liquid additive or extender sent out from the premises:

- 60. (a) as being suitable only as an additive or extender in fuel for one of the categories of engine described in heads (1)(a) to (1)(d) above; or

1142 (iv) the address of the place to which the liquid fuel is consigned; and 1143 (v) the amount and rate of excise duty charged in respect of the liquid¹².

The particulars specified above are to be entered before the liquid is sent out from his premises¹³.

The particulars to be entered in the fuel substitutes record in the event of a duty of excise being charged¹⁴ in relation to the producer making a chargeable use of a liquid are:

- 1144 (A) the amount of any liquid fuel used at his premises in one of the categories of engine described in heads (1)(a) to (1)(d) above¹⁵;

C. ROAD FUEL GAS

(A) IN GENERAL

528. Road fuel gas.

A duty of excise at the rate of £0.1081 a kilogram in the case of natural road fuel gas¹ and, in any other case, £0.1221 per kilogram, is chargeable on road fuel gas² which is sent out from the premises of a person producing or dealing in road fuel gas and on which the duty so charged has not been paid³.

The like duty of excise is chargeable on the setting aside for use, or on the use, by any person, as fuel in a road vehicle³, of road fuel gas on which the duty so charged has not been paid⁴.

For the purposes of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979, so far as it relates to the excise duty chargeable under the above provisions, road fuel gas is deemed to be used as fuel in a road vehicle if, but only if, it is used as fuel for the engine provided for propelling the vehicle, or for an engine which draws its fuel from the same supply as that engine⁵.

530. Meaning of 'road vehicle'.

'Road vehicle' means a vehicle constructed or adapted for use on roads, but does not include any vehicle which is an excepted vehicle¹.

A vehicle is an excepted vehicle:

- 1147 (1) while it is not used on a public road² and no licence under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 is in force in respect of it³;
- 1148 (2) if it is an agricultural tractor⁴;
- 1149 (3) if it is a light agricultural vehicle⁵;
- 1150 (4) if it is an agricultural engine⁶;
- 1151 (5) if it is used only for purposes relating to agriculture, horticulture or forestry, it is used on public roads only in passing between different areas of land occupied by the same person, and the distance it travels on public roads in passing between any two such areas does not exceed 1.5 kilometres⁷;
- 1152 (6) it is a mowing machine⁸;
- 1153 (7) when it is being used, or is going to or from the place where it is to be or has been used, for the purpose of clearing snow from public roads by means of a snow plough or similar device, whether or not forming part of the vehicle⁹;
- 1154 (8) if it is constructed or adapted, and used, solely for the conveyance of machinery for spreading material on roads to deal with frost, ice or snow, with or without articles or material used for the purposes of the machinery¹⁰;
- 1155 (9) if it is a mobile crane¹¹;
- 1156 (10) if it is a digging machine¹²;
- 1157 (11) if it is a works truck¹³;

- 1159 (13) if it is a road roller¹⁷.

1 Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 27(1) (amended by the Finance Act 1995 s 8(1), (3)). The excepted vehicles are listed in the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 27(1), Sch 1 (as amended). The Treasury has power to amend Sch 1 (as amended): see s 27(1B) (added by the Finance Act 2006 s 8). In exercise of this power, the Treasury has made the Excepted Vehicles (Amendment of Schedule 1 to the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979) Order 2007, SI 2007/93, most of the provisions of which are to come into force on 1 April 2007 (although arts 11, 12 are to come into force on 1 April 2008).

2 For these purposes, 'public road' means a road which is repairable at the public expense: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 Sch 1 para 14 (Sch 1 substituted by the Finance Act 1995 s 8(2), (3)). As to highways maintainable at the public expense see HIGHWAYS, STREETS AND BRIDGES vol 21 (2004 Reissue) PARAS 247-248.

3 Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 Sch 1 para 1(1) (as substituted: see note 2 supra). A vehicle in respect of which there is current a certificate or document in the form of a licence issued under regulations under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 22(2) (see ROAD TRAFFIC vol 40(1) (2007 Reissue) PARA 523) is to be treated for the purposes of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 Sch 1 para 1(1) (as substituted) as a vehicle in respect of which a licence under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 is in force: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 Sch 1 para 1(2) (as so substituted).

4 Ibid Sch 1 para 2(1) (as substituted (see note 2 supra); and amended by the Finance Act 2000 ss 9(1), (2) (a), 156, Sch 40 Pt I(1)). For these purposes, 'agricultural tractor' means a tractor used on public roads solely for purposes relating to agriculture, horticulture, forestry or activities consisting of: (1) cutting verges bordering public roads; (2) cutting hedges or trees bordering public roads or bordering verges which border public roads: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 Sch 1 para 2(2), (3) (as so substituted). For these purposes, 'solely' means 'exclusively' or 'only' so that tractors used to transport waste sludge from a factory to farmland where it was to be spread as nutrient on the fields were not entitled to be treated as exempt vehicles: R v Customs and Excise Comrs, ex p England Environmental Ltd (1995) (unreported). See also Sidney Tempest (t/a Cesspool Sid) v Customs and Excise Comrs (1998) Excise Decision 101 (unreported).

5 Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 Sch 1 para 3(1) (as substituted: see note 2 supra). For these purposes, 'light agricultural vehicle' means a vehicle which: (1) has a revenue weight not exceeding 1,000 kilograms; (2) is designed and constructed so as to seat only the driver; (3) is designed and constructed primarily for use otherwise than on roads; and (4) is used solely for purposes relating to agriculture, horticulture or forestry: Sch 1 para 3(2) (as so substituted). 'Revenue weight' has the meaning given by the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 60A (as added and amended) (see PARA 726 post): Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 Sch 1 para 3(3) (as so substituted).

6 Ibid Sch 1 para 4 (as substituted: see note 2 supra).

For these purposes, 'mobile crane' means a vehicle which is designed and constructed as a mobile crane and which: (1) is used on public roads only as a crane in connection with work carried on at a site in the immediate vicinity or for the purpose of proceeding to and from a place where it is to be or has been used as a crane; and (2) when so proceeding, does not carry any load except such as is necessary for its propulsion or equipment: Sch 1 para 9(2) (as so substituted). See M & M Construction Ltd v Customs and Excise Comrs (1998) Excise Decision 89 (unreported) (in determining, for these purposes, whether a vehicle is a mobile crane, it is unnecessary to take into account the vehicle's goods carrying capacity). 'Mobile crane' is not confined to vehicles using rope and pulley cranes, but extends to vehicles which lift and move objects by other means, such as a hydraulic telescopic lifting arm: Nationwide Access Ltd v Customs and Excise Comrs, PTP Aerial Platforms Ltd v Customs and Excise Comrs [2001] V & DR 31.

See Charles v Customs and Excise Comrs (1995) Excise Decision 2 (unreported); Clifbreakers Ltd v Customs and Excise Comrs [2001] V & DR 20 (off-road vehicle converted for digging not a 'digging machine' because not designed for purpose).

13 Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 Sch 1 para 11(1) (as substituted: see note 2 supra). For these purposes, 'works truck' means a goods vehicle which is designed for use in private premises and is used on public roads only: (1) for carrying goods between private premises and a vehicle on a road within 1 kilometre of those premises; (2) in passing from one part of private premises to another; (3) in passing between private premises and other private premises in a case where the premises are within 1 kilometre of each other; or (4) in connection with road works at the site of the works or within 1 kilometre of the site of the works: Sch 1 para 11(2) (as so substituted). 'Road construction machinery' means a machine or device suitable for use for the construction or repair of roads and used for no purpose other than the construction or repair of roads: Sch 1 para 12(4) (as so substituted).

16 Ibid Sch 1 para 12(1) (as substituted: see note 2 supra).

17 Ibid Sch 1 para 13 (as substituted: see note 2 supra).

530 Meaning of 'road vehicle'

TEXT AND NOTE 1--Words 'vehicle which is an' omitted: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 27(1) (amended by Finance Act 2008 Sch 5 para 22).

(B) MANAGEMENT OF DUTY

531. Procedure.

Any person who intends to send out, set aside or supply gas¹ must notify the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs in such form and manner as they may require not later than seven days before such gas is first sent out, set aside or supplied². A person who has so notified the Commissioners must, within seven days of any variation arising in such notification, give the Commissioners particulars in writing of that variation³.

Every person required to give such a notification must:

- 1160 (1) unless the Commissioners otherwise require, furnish, not later than the fifteenth day of each month, to the officer of Revenue and Customs in whose area that person's premises are situated, on forms provided by the Commissioners, a return of the quantities of gas on which excise duty has not been paid, which have been sent out, set aside or used as fuel in a road vehicle during the preceding month, and at the same time pay to that officer the excise duty chargeable on such gas⁴;
- 1161 (2) keep books and documents in which are recorded the date, quantity and description of the gas which on each occasion he produces, deals in, supplies, sends out or sets aside⁵.

No person may mix, or cause to be mixed, gas on which the duty has been charged with gas on which the duty has not been charged or with any other substance, save with the authority of the Commissioners and subject to such conditions as they impose⁶.

A person who owns or possesses any road vehicle constructed or adapted to use gas as fuel for its propulsion must, if the Commissioners so require, keep books and documents showing in respect of each such vehicle:

- 1162 (a) the description, registration mark and number of the vehicle;
- 1163 (b) the date, quantity and description of all gas taken into the vehicle as fuel for its propulsion;
- 1164 (c) the date of, and the distance travelled by the vehicle on, each journey or, where the vehicle is used otherwise than in making a journey from place to place, the date and nature of such use, and he must retain such books and documents for not less than 12 months from the date of the last entry therein, and produce them on demand to an authorised person⁷ at all reasonable times for his inspection⁸.

Save with the permission of the Commissioners, no person may, within 12 months from the date of the last entry therein, cancel, alter or destroy any book or document required by the above provisions to be kept⁹.

Every person concerned with the supply or use of gas must on demand at all reasonable times produce to an authorised person any book or other document relating thereto¹⁰.

An authorised person may:

- 1165 (i) at any reasonable time enter and inspect any premises, other than a private dwelling house, and may examine any gas and may require the occupier of such premises to give such facilities as may be necessary for that purpose¹¹;
- 1166 (ii) at any time examine any road vehicle constructed or adapted to use gas as fuel for its propulsion¹².

Every person concerned with the production of, or dealing in gas or owning, possessing, or for the time being in charge of a road vehicle constructed or adapted to use gas as fuel for its propulsion must, on demand by an authorised person, furnish such information relating to the supply or use of gas or containers for gas as that authorised person may require¹³.

1 For these purposes, 'gas' means any substance which is gaseous at a temperature of 15°C and under a pressure of 1013.25 millibars and which is for use as fuel in road vehicles: Gas (Road Fuel) Regulations 1972, SI 1972/846, reg 2 (amended by SI 1977/1869).

D. ENERGY PRODUCTS

532. Energy products.

The Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 has effect in relation to such cases as may be specified in an order made by the Treasury¹ as if references in that Act to hydrocarbon oil or to road fuel gas² included references to any energy product³ which is designated by that order as a substance which is to be treated for the purposes of that Act as the equivalent of hydrocarbon oil or, as the case may be, of road fuel gas⁴.

The Treasury may by order provide, in relation to any substance which is to be treated for the purposes of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 as the equivalent of hydrocarbon oil⁵ or road fuel gas⁶, for that substance to be treated for such of the provisions of that Act as may be specified in the order as if it fell within such class or description of substance as may be so specified⁷.

In exercising its powers, the Treasury must, so far as practicable, secure that an energy product which is intended for, or capable of being put to, a particular use is treated for the purposes of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 as if it were the substance to which, when put to that use, it is most closely equivalent⁸.

The power of the Treasury to make an order under the above provisions is exercisable by statutory instrument subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of the House of Commons; and any such order may make different provision for different cases and different substances⁹.

1 As to the Treasury see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARAS 512-517.

2 For the meaning of 'hydrocarbon oil' see PARA 510 ante; and for the meaning of 'road fuel gas' see PARA 529 post.

3 For these purposes, 'energy product' means a substance which: (1) is an energy product for the purposes of the EC Council Directive 2003/96 (OJ L283, 31.10.2003, p 51) restructuring the Community framework for the taxation of energy products and electricity; and (2) is not (apart from as a result of these provisions) hydrocarbon oil or road fuel gas within the meaning of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 (see PARAS 510, 529 ante): Finance Act 1993 s 10(4) (substituted by the Finance Act 2004 s 14(1), (5)).

7 Finance Act 1993 s 10(2) (amended by the Finance Act 2002 s 7(2)(a); and the Finance Act 2004 s 14(3)). At the date at which this volume states the law no such order had been made. Where a duty of excise is charged on a substance under a provision of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 by virtue of an order under the Finance Act 1993 s 10 (as amended), no duty is charged on the substance under any other provision of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979: Finance Act 1993 s 10(6) (substituted by the Finance Act 2004 s 14(6)).

(iii) Delivery of Oil without Payment of Duty

533. Oil delivered for home use for certain industrial purposes.

The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may permit hydrocarbon oil¹ to be delivered for home use to an approved person², without payment of excise duty on the oil³, where:

- 1167 (1) it is to be put by him to a use qualifying for relief under these provisions; or 1168 (2) it is to be supplied by him in the course of a trade of supplying oil for any such use⁴.

The uses of hydrocarbon oil so qualifying for relief are all uses which do not consist in either the use of the oil as fuel for any engine, motor or other machinery or the use of the oil as heating fuel⁵.

Where the Commissioners are so authorised to give permission in the case of any oil, but the permission is for any reason not given, they must, if satisfied that the oil has been put by an approved person to a use qualifying for relief under these provisions, repay to him the amount of the excise duty paid on the oil, less any rebate⁶ allowed in respect of the duty⁷.

The Commissioners may not permit any gas oil⁸ or kerosene⁹ to be delivered for home use without payment of duty on that oil, unless there is added to the oil the prescribed markers and, in the case of gas oil, the prescribed colouring substance¹⁰.

1 For the meaning of 'hydrocarbon oil' see PARA 510 ante.

2 For these purposes, 'an approved person' means a person for the time being approved in accordance with regulations made for any of the purposes of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 9(1) (see the text and note 4 infra) or s 9(4) (see the text and notes 6-7 infra) under s 24(1) (as amended) (see PARA 575 post): s 9(5)(a).

3 As to the excise duty on hydrocarbon oil see PARA 509 ante.

4 Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 9(1). As to the addition of markers to oil delivered without payment of duty under s 9 (as amended) see PARA 542 post; and as to the restrictions on the use of duty-free oil see PARA 534 post. The scheme for relief laid down in s 9 (as amended) is not within the discretion of the Commissioners; if the use made by a person is a qualifying use, relief is to be granted: British Steel plc v Customs and Excise Comrs [1997] 2 All ER 366 at 372, CA. As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

Any decision under the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 9 (as amended) as to whether or not permission is to be given for the delivery of anything without payment of duty or as to the conditions subject to which any such permission is given, and which is made under or for the purposes of any regulations made or having effect as if made under s 24 (as amended), and is a decision as to whether or not any person is to be, or is to continue to be, approved for the purposes of s 9(1) or s 9(4) (see the text and notes 6-7 infra), or as to the conditions subject to which any person is so approved, is subject to review and to appeal to a VAT and duties tribunal: see the Finance Act 1994 ss 14(1)(d), (2)-(7), 15, 16 (as amended), Sch 5 para 4(1)(a), (2)(b); and PARAS 1240, 1248, 1252 et seq post.

5 Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 9(2) (substituted by the Excise Duty (Amendment of the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 and the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/3158, reg 3(1)). The destruction of a secondary liquid fuel, constituting waste, by using it to fire an incinerator is the use of that fuel as heating fuel for the purposes of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 9(1), (2) (as substituted): Solnec Ltd v Customs and Excise Comrs (1997) Excise Decision 58 (unreported). The use of hydrocarbon oil as a reduction agent in iron production does not constitute use as a fuel: British Steel plc v Customs and Excise Comrs (1999) Times, 12 May, CA.

6 For these purposes, 'rebate' means rebate of duty under the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 11 (as amended) (see PARA 535 post), s 13AA (as added and amended) (see PARA 538 post), s 13A (as added and amended) (see PARA 540 post), s 14 (as amended) (see PARA 541 post) or s 20AB (as added) (see PARA 549 post); and 'rebated' has a corresponding meaning: s 27(1) (amended by the Finance Act 1987 s 1(3); the Finance Act 2001 s 3(3); and the Finance Act 2002 s 6(1), Sch 3 para 9).

7 Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 9(4). See also note 4 supra. Section 9(4) does not remove the taxpayer's common law right to repayment of duty unlawfully demanded and does not constitute a comprehensive statutory scheme for the recovery of excise duty paid but not due: British Steel plc v Customs and Excise Comrs [1997] 2 All ER 366 at 372, 376, CA. See also the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 137A (as added and amended); and PARA 1125 et seq post.

The Excise Duties (Surcharges or Rebates) Act 1979 s 1(1)-(6) (as amended) applies to repayments of duty under the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 9(4) as if the repayments were drawbacks and not repayments: see the Excise Duties (Surcharges or Rebates) Act 1979 s 1(7) (as amended); and PARA 620 note 8 post.

Without prejudice to the Excise Duties (Deferred Payment) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/3152, reg 5 (see PARA 982 post), for the purposes of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 9(4) excise duty is deemed to have been paid at the time when deferment was granted: see the Excise Duties (Deferred Payment) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/3152, reg 11(d) (as amended); and PARA 982 note 15 post.

8 For the meaning of 'gas oil' see PARA 513 ante.

9 For these purposes, 'kerosene' means heavy oil of which more than 50% by volume distils at a temperature not exceeding 240°C: Hydrocarbon Oil (Marking) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/1773, reg 2(1).

533 Oil delivered for home use for certain industrial purposes

NOTE 6--'Rebate' also includes a rebate of duty under the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 13ZB (see PARA 537), s 14A or 14B (see PARA 550): s 27(1) (amended by Finance Act 2008 Sch 5 para 22, Sch 6 para 32).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(4) HYDROCARBON OIL DUTY/(iii) Delivery of Oil without Payment of Duty/534. Restrictions on the use of duty-free oil.

534. Restrictions on the use of duty-free oil.

Except with the consent of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs¹, no oil in whose case delivery without payment of duty has been permitted² is to be:

- 1169 (1) put to a use not qualifying for relief³; or
- 1170 (2) acquired or taken into any vehicle, appliance or storage tank in order to be put to such a use⁴.

In so giving their consent, the Commissioners may impose such conditions as they think fit⁵.

Where any person:

- 1171 (a) uses or acquires oil in contravention of the above provisions; or
- 1172 (b) is liable for oil being taken into a vehicle, appliance or storage tank in contravention of those provisions, his use or acquisition of the oil or, as the case may be, his becoming so liable attracts a civil penalty under the Finance Act 1994⁶; and the Commissioners may assess an amount equal to the excise duty on like oil at the rate in force at the time of the contravention as being excise duty due from him, and notify him or his representative accordingly⁷.

Where any person supplies oil having reason to believe that it will be put to a use not qualifying for relief⁸ and that use without the consent of the Commissioners would contravene the above provisions⁹, his supplying the oil attracts a civil penalty¹⁰ under the Finance Act 1994¹¹.

A person who, with the intent that the restrictions imposed by the above provisions¹² should be contravened:

- 1173 (i) uses or acquires oil in contravention of those provisions; or
- 1174 (ii) supplies oil having reason to believe that it will be put to a use not qualifying for relief¹³, being a use which, without the consent of the Commissioners, would contravene the relevant statutory provisions¹⁴, is guilty of an offence¹⁵. A person who is liable for oil being taken into a vehicle, appliance or storage tank in contravention of the above provisions¹⁶ is guilty of an offence where the oil was taken in with the intent by him that the restrictions imposed by those provisions should be contravened¹⁷. A person guilty of such an offence¹⁸ is liable to a penalty¹⁹.

Any oil so acquired, or taken into a vehicle, appliance or storage tank²⁰, or so supplied²¹, is liable to forfeiture²².

3 See note 2 supra.

4 Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 10(1). For these purposes, a person is liable for oil being taken into a vehicle, appliance or storage tank in contravention of s 10(1) if he is at the time the person having the charge of the vehicle, appliance or tank, or is its owner; except that, if a person other than the owner is, or is for the time being, entitled to possession of it, that person and not the owner is liable: s 10(8).

Any decision as to whether or not a consent is to be given for the purposes of s 10(1), or as to the conditions subject to which any such consent is given, is subject to review and to appeal to a VAT and duties tribunal: see the Finance Act 1994 ss 14(1)(d), (2)-(7), 15, 16 (as amended), Sch 5 para 4(1)(b); and PARAS 1240, 1248, 1252 et seq post.

534 Restrictions on the use of duty-free oil

NOTE 4--Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 10(8) repealed: Finance Act 2008 Sch 5 para 7. See now PARA 550A.

(iv) Rebate of Duty

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(4) HYDROCARBON OIL DUTY/(iii) Delivery of Oil without Payment of Duty/A. HEAVY OIL/535. Rebate on heavy oil.

A. HEAVY OIL

535. Rebate on heavy oil.

Where heavy oil¹ charged with the excise duty on hydrocarbon oil² is delivered for home use, there must be allowed³ on the oil at the time of delivery a rebate of duty at a rate:

- 1175 (1) in the case of fuel oil⁴, of £0.0729 a litre less than the rate at which the duty is for the time being chargeable;
- 1176 (2) in the case of gas oil⁵ which is not ultra low sulphur diesel⁶, of £0.0769 a litre less than the rate at which the duty is for the time being chargeable;
- 1177 (3) in the case of ultra low sulphur diesel, of £0.0769 a litre less than the rate at which the duty is for the time being chargeable; and
- 1178 (4) in the case of heavy oil which is neither fuel oil nor gas oil, equal to the rate at which the duty is for the time being chargeable⁷.

Where (a) oil is delivered for home use; (b) regulations⁸ require, as a condition of allowing a rebate on the oil under the above provisions, that a marker prescribed by regulations is to be taken to have been added to the oil; and (c) the marker is present at the time of delivery for home use but in such a proportion that its presence falls to be disregarded by virtue of provision made by such regulations, the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may allow a rebate on the oil at the time it is delivered for home use if it appears to them to be appropriate to do so⁹. The rate of rebate is such as appears to the Commissioners to be appropriate, but must not be less than 95 per cent of, and must not exceed, the rate of rebate specified in whichever is relevant of heads (1) to (4) above¹⁰.

No rebate is allowed, however, under any of these provisions in respect of bioblend¹¹ or bioethanol blend¹².

536. Rebate not allowed on fuel for road vehicles.

If, on the delivery of heavy oil¹ for home use, it is intended to use the oil as fuel for a road vehicle², a declaration must be made to that effect in the entry for home use and thereupon no rebate³ may be allowed in respect of that oil⁴.

No heavy oil on whose delivery for home use rebate has been allowed⁵ may be used as fuel for a road vehicle or be taken into a road vehicle as fuel⁶, unless an amount equal to the amount for the time being allowable in respect of rebate on like oil has been paid to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs⁷ in accordance with regulations made⁸ for these purposes⁹.

2 For these purposes, and for the purposes of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 13 (as amended) (see PARA 537 post), heavy oil is deemed to be used as fuel for a road vehicle if, but only if, it is used as fuel for the engine provided for propelling the vehicle or for an engine which draws its fuel from the same supply as that engine: s 12(3)(a). 536 Rebate not allowed on fuel for road vehicles

NOTES 2, 6--Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 12(3) repealed: Finance Act 2008 Sch 5 para 8. See now PARA 550.

NOTE 5--Or under Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 13ZA (see PARA 537): s 12(2) (amended by Finance Act 2008 Sch 6 para 26).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(4) HYDROCARBON OIL DUTY/(iii) Delivery of Oil without Payment of Duty/A. HEAVY OIL/537. Penalties for misuse of rebated heavy oil.

537. Penalties for misuse of rebated heavy oil.

Where any person:

- 1179 (1) uses heavy oil¹ in contravention of the statutory restrictions²; or³
- 1180 (2) is liable for heavy oil being taken into a road vehicle⁴ in contravention of those restrictions, his use of the oil or, as the case may be, his becoming so liable (or, where his conduct includes both, each of them) attracts a civil penalty⁵ under the Finance Act 1994⁶.

Where oil is used, or is taken into a road vehicle, in contravention of the statutory restriction⁷, the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may assess an amount equal to the rebate on like oil at the rate in force at the time of the contravention as being excise duty due from any person who used the oil or was liable for the oil being taken into the road vehicle, and notify him or his representative accordingly⁸.

Where any person supplies heavy oil having reason to believe that it will be put to a particular use and that use would, if a payment of the amount for the time being allowable in respect of rebate⁹ were not made in respect of the oil¹⁰, contravene the relevant requirements¹¹, his supplying the oil attracts a civil penalty¹² under the Finance Act 1994¹³.

A person who:

- 1181 (a) with the intent that the restrictions imposed in relation to the disallowance of rebate on fuel for road vehicles¹⁴ should be contravened uses heavy oil in contravention of the statutory restrictions¹⁵ or supplies heavy oil having reason to believe that it will be put to a particular use, being a use which would, if a payment of the amount for the time being allowable in respect of rebate were not made in respect of the oil, contravene the relevant restriction¹⁶ is guilty of an offence¹⁷; or¹⁸
- 1182 (b) is liable for heavy oil being taken into a road vehicle in contravention of the statutory restriction¹⁹ is guilty of an offence where the oil was taken in with the intent by him that the statutory restrictions²⁰ should be contravened²¹, and is liable to a penalty²².

Heavy oil is liable to forfeiture if it is:

- 1183 (i) taken into a road vehicle as fuel²³ or supplied as mentioned above²⁴; or
- 1184 (ii) taken as fuel into a vehicle at a time when it is not a road vehicle and remains in the vehicle as part of its fuel supply at a later time when it becomes a road vehicle²⁵.

1 For the meaning of 'heavy oil' see PARA 512 ante.

2 ie in contravention of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 12(2) (as amended): see PARA 536 ante.

3 The use of the word 'or' in ibid s 13(1) (as amended) (see the text and note 6 infra) and s 13(2) (as amended) (see the text and notes 9-13 infra) appears to indicate that the penalties are in the alternative and it would, therefore, seem improper for the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs, in relation to the same act of putting fuel in a tank, to charge both forms of the offence in order to duplicate the penalties payable by the offender: see Fairweather v Customs and Excise Comrs [1998] V & DR 65, followed in McConnachie v Customs and Excise Comrs [1999] V & DR 59, IH; but cf Taylor v Customs and Excise Comrs (1998) Excise Decision 80 (unreported) (where the tribunal held, without apparently having been referred to Fairweather v Customs and Excise Comrs supra, that there was nothing duplicitous in imposing separate penalties under the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 13(1)(a) and s 13(1)(b) in respect of taking in and using rebated gas oil). See also Maver v Customs and Excise Comrs (1998) Excise Decision 102 (unreported), not following Taylor v Customs and Excise Comrs supra (it is improper for the Commissioners to impose penalties both for the offence of using rebated gas oil and for taking it into one's tank). Cf Lightfoot v Customs and Excise Comrs (1998) Excise Decision 97 (unreported) (where the tribunal decided that it was appropriate for the Commissioners to have imposed penalties under both the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 13(1)(a) and s 13(1)(b)). As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

4 For these purposes, a person is liable for heavy oil being taken into a road vehicle in contravention of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 12(2) (as amended) if he is at the time the person having the charge of the vehicle or is its owner; except that, if a person other than the owner is, or is for the time being, entitled to possession of it, that person and not the owner is liable: s 13(7). 537 Penalties for misuse of rebated heavy oil

TEXT AND NOTES--If, on the delivery of heavy oil (other than kerosene (see PARA 538 NOTE 1)) on which a rebate at the rate mentioned in the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 11(1)(c) (see PARA 535) would otherwise be allowed, it is intended to use that oil for heating or as fuel for an engine, rebate is allowed thereon instead at the rate mentioned in s 11(1)(a) (see PARA 535): s 13ZA(1), (2) (ss 13ZA, 13ZB added by Finance Act 2008 Sch 6 PARA 28). Nothing in the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 13ZA(1), (2) applies in relation to heavy oil to which s 12(1) (see PARA 536) applies: s 13ZA(3). If a person supplies relevant heavy oil, having reason to believe that it will be put to a particular use that is a prohibited use, the Commissioners may assess an amount as being excise duty due from the person (and may notify him or his representative accordingly), and the supply of such oil is conduct that attracts a penalty under the Finance Act 1994 s 9 (see PARA 1218) (but this provision does not apply in relation to a quantity of heavy oil if (before the time of supply), the amount in question has been paid to the Commissioners in accordance with regulations in respect thereof: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 13ZB(1), (2). The amount in question is $Q \times RRFO$, where Q is the quantity (in litres) of the relevant heavy oil, and $RRFO$ is the relief for rebated fuel oil at the time of payment (ie the rate of duty under s 6(1A)(c) (see PARA 509) at the time in question, minus the rate of rebate allowable under s 11(1)(a) at that time): s 13ZB(3), (4). 'Relevant heavy oil' means heavy oil, other than kerosene, on which rebate at the rate mentioned in s 11(1)(c) has been allowed; and 'prohibited use' means use for heating, or use as fuel for an engine (except where such use would amount to use as fuel for a road vehicle): s 13ZB(5). As to use as fuel for a vehicle, see PARA 550. 'Regulations' means regulations under s 24(1) (see PARA 575) made for the purposes of this provision: s 13ZB(5). Nothing in s 13ZB applies to a person who supplies relevant heavy oil for re-processing: s 13ZB(6). A payment made for the purposes s 13ZB(2) is not effective unless it is made by a supplier in accordance with the Hydrocarbon Oil (Supply of Rebated Heavy Oil) (Payment of Rebate) Regulations 2008, SI 2008/2600.

B. KEROSENE

538. Restrictions on the use of rebated kerosene.

If, on the delivery of kerosene¹ for home use, it is intended to use the kerosene as fuel for:

- 1185 (1) an engine provided for propelling an excepted vehicle²; or
- 1186 (2) an engine which is used neither for propelling a vehicle nor for heating, a declaration must be made to that effect and thereupon rebate³ must be allowed at the rate then in force⁴ for rebated gas oil⁵ which is not ultra low sulphur diesel⁶, instead of at the rate then in force⁷ for heavy oil which is neither fuel oil⁸ nor gas oil⁹.

No kerosene on whose delivery for home use a rebate¹⁰ has been allowed:

- 1187 (a) may be used as fuel for an engine provided for propelling an excepted vehicle;
- 1188 (b) may be used as fuel for an engine which is used neither for propelling a vehicle nor for heating; or
- 1189 (c) may be taken into the fuel supply of an engine falling within head (a) or head (b) above¹¹, but this prohibition does not apply to any quantity of kerosene in respect of which there has been paid to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs an amount equal to duty on the same quantity of gas oil at the rate for rebated gas oil which is in force at the time of the payment¹².

1 For these purposes, and for the purposes of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 13AB (as added) (see PARA 539 post), 'kerosene' means heavy oil of which more than 50% by volume distils at a temperature of 240°C or less: s 13AA(5) (s 13AA added by the Finance Act 1996 s 5(4), (6)). For the meaning of 'heavy oil' see PARA 512 ante.

2 For these purposes, and for the purposes of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 13AB (as added) (see PARA 539 post), 'excepted vehicle' means a vehicle which is an excepted vehicle under any provision of s 27(1), Sch 1 (as amended) (see PARA 530 ante): s 13AA(5) (as added: see note 1 supra).

539. Penalties for misuse of kerosene.

If a person uses kerosene in contravention of the statutory restrictions¹:

- 1190 (1) the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs² may, in respect of the quantity of kerosene used, assess as being excise duty due from him an amount equal to duty on the same quantity of gas oil, at the rate for rebated gas oil³ which is in force at the time of the contravention; and they may notify him or his representative accordingly;
- 1191 (2) his use of the kerosene attracts a civil penalty under the Finance Act 1994⁴; and
- 1192 (3) if he uses the kerosene with the relevant intent⁵, he is guilty of an offence⁶.

If a person is liable for kerosene being taken into a fuel supply of an engine in contravention of the statutory restrictions⁷:

- 1193 (a) the Commissioners may, in respect of the quantity of kerosene taken into the fuel supply, assess as being excise duty due from him an amount equal to duty on the same quantity of gas oil, at the rate for rebated gas oil which is in force at the time of the contravention; and they may notify him or his representative accordingly;
- 1194 (b) his becoming so liable attracts a civil penalty under the Finance Act 1994⁸; and
- 1195 (c) if he has the relevant intent in relation to the kerosene being taken into the fuel supply, he is guilty of an offence⁹.

If a person other than the owner is for the time being entitled to possession of the engine, that other person and not the owner is liable¹⁰.

If:

- 1196 (i) a person supplies kerosene having reason to believe that it will be put to a particular use; and
- 1197 (ii) that use is one which, if a payment of duty is not made¹¹, will contravene the relevant statutory provisions¹², his supplying the kerosene attracts a civil penalty under the Finance Act 1994¹³; and, if he makes the supply with the relevant intent, he is guilty of an offence¹⁴.

A person guilty of an offence under the above provisions is liable to a penalty¹⁵.

Any kerosene:

- 1198 (A) taken into a fuel supply in contravention the statutory restrictions¹⁶; or
- 1199 (B) supplied in circumstances in which there is reason to believe that it will be put to a particular use and that use is one which, if payment of duty is not made¹⁷, will contravene the relevant statutory restriction¹⁸, is liable to forfeiture¹⁹.

UPDATE

539 Penalties for misuse of kerosene

TEXT AND NOTES--Kerosene on which a rebate under the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 11(1)(c) (see PARA 535) has been allowed must not be used as fuel for private pleasure-flying: s 13AC(1), (2) (ss 13AC, 13AD added by Finance Act 2008 Sch 6 para 11). If, on the supply of a quantity of kerosene to a person, the person makes a relevant declaration to the supplier, this prohibition does not apply and the person must pay, in accordance with regulations, an amount to the Commissioners: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 13AC(3). That amount is $Q \times R$, where Q is the quantity (in litres) of the kerosene, and R is the rate of the rebate under s 11(1)(c) at the time of the declaration: s 13AC(4). For the purposes of the Finance Act 1994 s 12 (see PARAS 1231, 1232), such an amount is treated as an amount of excise duty: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 13AC(5). 'Private pleasure-flying' has the same meaning as in EC Council Directive 2003/96 art 14(1)(b); and 'relevant declaration', in relation to a quantity of kerosene, means a declaration made in the way and form specified by or under regulations that the kerosene is to be used for private pleasure-flying: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 13AC(7). 'Regulations' means regulations under s 24(1) (see PARA 575) made for the purposes of these provisions; and such regulations may provide, where kerosene to which these provisions apply and other kerosene is taken into an aircraft as fuel, for the order in which the different kinds of kerosene are to be treated for those purposes: s 13AC(6), (7). A declaration for these purposes must be made in the way and form specified by the Commissioners in a notice: see Hydrocarbon Oil and Bioblend (Private Pleasure-flying and Private Pleasure Craft) (Payment of Rebate etc) Regulations 2008, SI 2008/2599.

If a person fails to comply with these provisions, the Commissioners may assess the amount referred to above as being excise duty due from him, and may notify that person or his representative accordingly: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 13AD(1), (2), (5). The failure attracts a penalty under the Finance Act 1994 s 9 (see PARA 1218). If the amount relates to a failure to pay in accordance with a relevant declaration, that amount is treated as an amount of excise duty, the penalty for failure to pay is calculated by reference to that amount, and daily penalties are due: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 13AD(4).

C. UNLEADED PETROL

540. Rebate on unleaded petrol.

On unleaded petrol, other than ultra low sulphur petrol¹ and sulphur-free petrol², charged with the excise duty on hydrocarbon oil³ and delivered for home use there is to be allowed at the time of delivery a rebate⁴ of duty at the rate of £0.0617 a litre⁵.

For these purposes, 'unleaded petrol' is petrol that contains not more than 0.013 grams of lead per litre of petrol; and petrol is 'leaded petrol' if it is not unleaded petrol⁶.

Rebate must not be allowed under the above provisions in any case where it is allowed⁷ on light oil for use as furnace oil⁸.

D. LIGHT OIL

541. Rebate on light oil for use as furnace oil.

On light oil¹ charged with the excise duty on hydrocarbon oil², and delivered for home use as furnace fuel for burning in vaporised or atomised form by a person for the time being approved³, there is to be allowed at the time of delivery a rebate of duty at a rate of £0.0729 a litre less than the rate at which the duty is charged⁴.

Except with the consent of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs, no oil in whose case rebate has been so allowed is to be put to a use otherwise than as mentioned above or be acquired or taken into any vehicle, appliance or storage tank in order to be put to such a use⁵. In so giving their consent, the Commissioners may impose such conditions as they think fit⁶.

Where any person:

- 1200 (1) uses or acquires oil in contravention of the above provisions⁷ or is liable for oil being taken into a vehicle, appliance or storage tank in contravention of those provisions, his use or acquisition of the oil or, as the case may be, his becoming so liable attracts a civil penalty under the Finance Act 1994⁸, and the Commissioners may assess the amount of rebate allowed on the oil as being excise duty due from him, and notify him or his representative accordingly⁹;
- 1201 (2) supplies oil having reason to believe that it will be used otherwise than as mentioned above and that use without the consent of the Commissioners would contravene the above provisions¹⁰, his supplying the oil attracts a civil penalty¹¹ under the Finance Act 1994¹².

A person who:

- 1202 (a) with the intent that the restrictions imposed by the above provisions¹³ should be contravened, uses or acquires oil in contravention of those provisions or supplies oil having reason to believe that it will be put to a use otherwise than as mentioned above, being a use which, without the consent of the Commissioners, would contravene the above provisions, is guilty of an offence¹⁴;
- 1203 (b) is liable for oil being taken into a vehicle, appliance or storage tank in contravention of the above provisions¹⁵ is guilty of an offence where the oil was taken in with the intent by him that the restrictions imposed by those provisions should be contravened¹⁶,

E. MARKING OF HEAVY OIL AND LIGHT OIL

542. Marking.

No rebate of duty¹ on the delivery for home use of gas oil², kerosene³ or light oil⁴ may be allowed unless there is added to the oil⁵ the prescribed⁶ markers⁷ and, in the case of gas oil, the prescribed⁸ colouring substance⁹.

The following markers and colouring substance are prescribed:

- 1204 (1) for gas oil and light oil, the markers described in heads (a) and (b) below and the prescribed colouring substance described below;
- 1205 (2) for kerosene, the markers described in heads (a) and (c) below¹⁰.

The markers are:

- 1206 (a) the common fiscal marker¹¹ added in the proportion of not less than 6 kilograms per 1,000,000 litres of oil;
- 1207 (b) quinizarin¹² added in the proportion of not less than 1.75 kilograms per 1,000,000 litres of oil;
- 1208 (c) coumarin¹³ added in the proportion of not less than 2 kilograms per 1,000,000 litres of oil¹⁴.

The colouring substance is solvent red¹⁵ added in the proportion of not less than 4 kilograms per 1,000,000 litres of oil¹⁶.

Except as otherwise provided in regulations made by the Commissioners of Revenue and Customs, oil must be marked before delivery for home use of that oil¹⁷.

Any oil may be marked by the addition to it of a solution containing the markers¹⁸.

The occupier of any premises where marking occurs must keep any marker separately from all other substances and, except when removed for immediate use, in containers bearing a description of their contents¹⁹. At the end of each month, the occupier of any premises where marking occurs must take stock of the markers that he stores for use or that are in use at those premises, make a written record of that stocktake and preserve that written record for not less than six years²⁰.

Marked oil²¹ must be stored separately from unmarked oil²².

Any drum, storage tank or other container or any delivery pump or pipe must bear an indelible notice to the effect that:

- 1209 (i) where it contains, or is an outlet for, any gas oil or kerosene marked as required for rebate²³, such oil is not to be used as road fuel;
- 1210 (ii) where it contains, or is an outlet for, any light oil marked as required for rebate, such oil is to be used only as furnace fuel;

- 1211 (iii) where it contains, or is an outlet for, any oil marked as required for delivery without payment of duty²⁴, such oil is not to be used as fuel for any engine, motor or other machinery or as heating fuel²⁵.

Any person who supplies gas oil marked as required for rebate, or a quantity not exceeding 250 litres of kerosene, marked as required for rebate, must provide to the recipient a delivery note bearing a statement to the effect that such oil is not to be used as road fuel²⁶. Any person who supplies light oil marked as required for rebate must provide to the recipient a delivery note bearing a statement to the effect that such oil is only to be used as furnace fuel²⁷. Any person who supplies oil marked as required for delivery for home use without payment of duty must supply to the recipient a delivery note bearing a statement to the effect that such oil is not to be used as fuel for any engine, motor or other machinery or as heating fuel²⁸.

No oil may be marked except in the prescribed circumstances²⁹; no marker may be removed from any oil³⁰; and no substance calculated to impede the identification of any marker may be added to any oil³¹.

No person may add any chemical identifier or dye other than a marker to any gas oil or kerosene required³² to be marked (other than gas oil or kerosene in respect of which the marking requirements have been waived)³³. Where any person contravenes this provision, his contravention attracts a civil penalty³⁴ and any oil to which such a chemical identifier or dye has been added is liable to forfeiture³⁵.

No oil of a description required³⁶ to be marked may be imported where there has been added any substance calculated to impede the identification of any marker³⁷.

No dark oil³⁸ may be sold as fuel for a heavy oil vehicle³⁹.

F. PAYMENT OF REBATES

543. Effective rebate payments.

A payment of rebate or net excise duty¹ is not effective unless it is made² by a licensed user³ in respect of any rebated heavy oil activity⁴ or rebated kerosene activity⁵ carried out by him⁶.

1 le a payment made for the purposes of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 12(2) (as amended) (see PARA 536 ante) or s 13AA(2) (as added) (see PARA 538 ante).

2 le in accordance with the Hydrocarbon Oil (Payment of Rebates) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/2313, reg 5 (see PARA 544 post) or, as the case may be, reg 6 (see PARA 545 post).

'Annual rebate payment person' means a rebate payment person permitted by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs in the licence issued by them to him as a rebate payment person to furnish an estimate, as required by the Hydrocarbon Oil (Payment of Rebates) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/2313, in relation to any year commencing 1 January after the issue of the licence: reg 3(1). 'Quarterly rebate payment person' means a rebate payment person permitted by the Commissioners in the licence issued by them to him as a rebate payment person to furnish an estimate, governed by the Hydrocarbon Oil (Payment of Rebates) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/2313, in relation to any quarterly period in any year commencing 1 January, 1 April, 1 July and 1 October: reg 3(1). 'Rebate payment person' means a person: (1) who applies in writing to the Commissioners for a licence authorising him to make payments in accordance with the provisions of the Hydrocarbon Oil (Payment of Rebates) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/2313, for the purposes of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 12(2) (as amended) (see PARA 536 ante) or s 13AA(3), (4) (as added) (see PARA 538 ante), as specified in his application; and (2) to whom such a licence is issued by the Commissioners: Hydrocarbon Oil (Payment of Rebates) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/2313, reg 3(1). 'Rebate payment person' does not, however, include a person, in relation to any period after the withdrawal of the following licence takes effect, whose licence, issued to him as a rebate payment person, has been withdrawn for reasonable cause by the Commissioners (in a notice of withdrawal issued to him at his address appearing in his written application for the licence) with effect from the end of the quarter commencing 1 January, 1 April, 1 July or 1 October (in any year) in which the notice of withdrawal is issued: reg 3(3). As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

544. Estimates and payments.

A licensed user¹ must comply with the following requirements before he begins for the first time in his accounting period² to carry out any rebated heavy oil activity³ or any rebated kerosene activity⁴.

The licensed user must furnish the relevant officer of Revenue and Customs⁵ an estimate, relating to his accounting period in which he intends to begin for the first time in that period to carry out any rebated heavy oil activity or any rebated kerosene activity, of the volumes of fuel, described in the prescribed form⁶, which he estimates he will use in carrying out those activities during that accounting period, on the prescribed form, containing full information in respect of all other matters specified in the form⁷.

The licensed user must, at the same time as he so furnishes the estimate, pay the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs:

- 1212 (1) in the case of any rebated heavy oil activities, relating to gas oil⁸, an amount equal to the amount which would, at the time the estimate is furnished, be allowed as a rebate of excise duty⁹ on a quantity of gas oil, if delivered at that time for home use, being of the same volume as that specified¹⁰ in the estimate¹¹;
 - 1213 (2) in the case of rebated heavy oil activities, relating to section 12 kerosene¹², an amount equal to the amount which would, at the time the estimate is furnished, be allowed as a rebate of excise duty¹³ on a quantity of section 12 kerosene, if delivered at that time for home use, being of the same volume as that specified¹⁴ in the estimate¹⁵;
 - 1214 (3) in the case of any rebated kerosene activities, relating to section 13AA kerosene¹⁶, an amount calculated in accordance with the formula A minus B, where:
- 36 63. (a) A is the amount of excise duty that would be charged¹⁷, at the legally effective rate at the time the estimate is furnished, on a quantity of heavy oil, if imported or produced¹⁸ at that time, being of the same volume as that specified¹⁹ in the estimate in relation to section 13AA kerosene; and
 64. (b) B is the amount of rebate of excise duty on heavy oil allowable in the case of gas oil²⁰, at the legally effective rate at the same time as that specified in head (a) above, on a quantity of gas oil, if delivered for home use²¹, being of the same volume as that used in the calculation for the purposes of head (a) above²².

EXCISE DUTIES/(4) HYDROCARBON OIL DUTY/(iii) Delivery of Oil without Payment of Duty/F. PAYMENT OF REBATES/545. Supplementary estimates; additional rebate payments and forms.

545. Supplementary estimates; additional rebate payments and forms.

The following provisions apply to a licensed user¹ who furnished an estimate² and where subsequently, in relation to him and his accounting period³ and the estimate, and to any rebated heavy oil activities⁴ or rebated kerosene activities⁵ carried out by him by the time of the following occurrence, there is the occurrence of an event described below (referred to respectively as 'Event A'⁶, 'Event B(1)'⁷, 'Event B(2)'⁸ and Event B(3)'⁹)¹⁰. For these purposes, the events are:

- 1215 (1) Event A: at any time during his accounting period, to which the estimate relates, the amounts of fuel used by that time by the licensed user for carrying out any rebated heavy oil activity, or any rebated kerosene activity¹¹, is equal to the estimated volume of fuel specified¹² in the estimate¹³;
- 1216 (2) Event B(1), B(2) and B(3): on a day, in his accounting period to which the licensed user's estimate relates, a change of either or both:
 - 38 65. (a) the legally effective rate of excise duty in the case of heavy oil¹⁴; and
 - 66. (b) the legally effective rate of rebate of the heavy oil excise duty in the case of gas oil¹⁵,
- 39 1217 takes legal effect, which is associated with any one or more of the three specified consequences¹⁶.

The licensed user must, in respect of that part of any rebated heavy oil activity or of any rebated kerosene activity (the 'relevant part-activity') to which Event A, Event B(1), Event B(2) or Event B(3) relates (the 'related event'), cease to carry out the relevant part-activity upon the occurrence of the related event; and he may again carry out the relevant ceased part-activity only if, before doing so:

- 1218 (i) in the case of the related event being Event A, he furnishes the relevant officer of Revenue and Customs¹⁷ with a supplementary estimate of the volumes of fuel, described in the prescribed form¹⁸, estimated to be used in carrying out the relevant part-activity, on the prescribed form¹⁸, containing full information in respect of all other matters specified on the form, and only if he complies with the requirements specified below¹⁹; and
- 1219 (ii) in the case of Event B(1), Event B(2) or Event B(3) occurring, he furnishes the relevant officer of Revenue and Customs with an additional rebate payment form in the prescribed form²⁰ showing the additional amount payable, correctly calculated in accordance with the provisions of the form, in the relevant parts of the form in relation to the occurring event²¹, containing full information in respect of all other matters specified in the form, and containing a declaration, signed by him, that the information given in the form is true and complete; and only if he pays to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs the additional amount payable, at the same time as he furnishes the form²².

A licensed user must comply, when furnishing a supplementary estimate under head (a) above, with the requirements relating to payments to be made to the Commissioners when furnishing an estimate²³, as if the supplementary estimate were an estimate²⁴.

- 1 For the meaning of 'licensed user' see PARA 543 note 3 ante.

- 4 For the meaning of 'rebated heavy oil activity' see PARA 543 note 4 ante.
- 5 For the meaning of 'rebated kerosene activity' see PARA 543 note 5 ante.
- 6 For these purposes, 'Event A' means the event described in the Hydrocarbon Oil (Payment of Rebates) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/2313, reg 6(2)(a) (see head (1) in the text): reg 3(1).
- 7 For these purposes, 'Event B(1)' means the event described in ibid reg 6(2)(b) (see head (2) in the text) in association with the consequence described by reg 6(3)(a) (see note 16 head (1) infra): reg 3(1).
- 8 For these purposes, 'Event B(2)' means the event described in ibid reg 6(2)(b) (see head (2) in the text) in association with the consequence described by reg 6(3)(b) (see note 16 head (2) infra): reg 3(1).
- 9 For these purposes, 'Event B(3)' means the event described in ibid reg 6(2)(b) (see head (2) in the text) in association with the consequence described by reg 6(3)(c) (see note 16 head (3) infra): reg 3(1).
- 10 Ibid reg 6(1).
- 11 le which activity, respectively, is the subject of an entry in ibid Sch 1, Form 1 Pt 2, Pt 3 or Pt 4.
- 12 le specified in ibid Sch 1, Form 1 Pt 2, Pt 3 or Pt 4.
- 13 Ibid reg 6(2)(a).
- 14 le charged by the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6(1) (as amended): see PARA 509 ante.
- 15 le allowed under ibid s 11(1)(b) (as substituted and amended): see PARA 535 head (2) ante. For the meaning of 'gas oil' see PARA 513 ante.
- 16 Hydrocarbon Oil (Payment of Rebates) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/2313, reg 6(2)(b). For these purposes, reg 6(3) provides that the consequences are that, where the licensed user has furnished an estimate, required by reg 5(2) (see PARA 544 ante):
 - 81 (1) in which there is an entry in reg 5(2), Sch 1, Form 1 Pt 2 (for estimated gas oil consumption), the consequence is that the amount of rebate allowable under the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 11(1)(b) (as substituted and amended) on a quantity of gas oil, when the change takes legal effect, would be greater than it would have been immediately before the change takes legal effect (Event B(1));
 - 82 (2) in which there is an entry in the Hydrocarbon Oil (Payment of Rebates) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/2313, Sch 1, Form 1 Pt 3 (for estimated section 12 kerosene consumption), the consequence is that the amount of rebate allowable under the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 11(1)(c) (as substituted and amended) (see PARA 535 head (4) ante) on a quantity of section 12 kerosene, when the change takes legal effect, would be greater than it would have been immediately before the change takes legal effect (Event B(2)); and
 - 83 (3) in which there is an entry in the Hydrocarbon Oil (Payment of Rebates) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/2313, Sch 1, Form 1 Pt 4 (for estimated section 13AA kerosene consumption), the consequence is that a comparison (effected in accordance with the provisions of the Hydrocarbon Oil (Payment of Rebates) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/2313, reg 6(3)(c), Sch 2) of:
 1. (a) the rate, immediately before the change takes legal effect, of the net excise duty per litre of section 13AA kerosene calculated in accordance with the formula provided by Sch 2 para 2 ('the paragraph (i) rate'); with

2. (b) the rate, when the change takes legal effect, of the net excise duty per litre of section 13AA kerosene calculated in accordance with the formula provided by Sch 2 para 3 ('the paragraph (ii) rate'),

84 indicates that the paragraph (ii) rate is greater than the paragraph (i) rate (Event B(3)).

In reg 6(3)(c) (see head (3) supra), 'the rate of net excise duty per litre of section 13AA kerosene' means the rate, expressed as pence per litre, calculated in accordance with the formula provided by Sch 2 paras 2, 3 for the purpose of effecting the comparison, required by reg 6(3)(c), in accordance with the provisions of Sch 2: reg 3(2). For the meaning of 'section 12 kerosene' see PARA 543 note 4 ante; and for the meaning of 'section 13AA kerosene' see PARA 543 note 5 ante.

The comparison must be effected by the following steps: (i) determining the rate of net excise duty (expressed as pence per litre), immediately before the change takes legal effect, in accordance with the formula provided by Sch 2 para 2; (ii) determining the rate of net excise duty (expressed as pence per litre), applicable when the change takes legal effect, in accordance with the formula provided by Sch 2 para 3; and (iii) comparing the correctly determined results of those calculations to see whether or not the rate of net excise duty provided for by Sch 2 para 3 (for the purposes of reg 6(3)(c)) is greater than the rate of net excise duty provided for by Sch 2 para 2, expressed in both cases as pence per litre: Sch 2 para 1.

The rate of net excise duty (for the purposes of Sch 2 para 1(a), (c) (see heads (i), (iii) supra) must be calculated in accordance with the formula C minus D where C is the rate of excise duty charged by the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6(1) (as amended) (see PARA 509 ante) on a litre of heavy oil, immediately before a change (envisaged by the Hydrocarbon Oil (Payment of Rebates) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/2313, reg 6(2)(b)) takes legal effect, expressed as pence per litre, and D is the rate of rebate of the excise duty allowed on a litre of gas oil (in accordance with the rebate scheme of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 11 (as amended) (see PARA 535 ante)), immediately before the above-mentioned change takes legal effect, expressed as pence per litre: Hydrocarbon Oil (Payment of Rebates) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/2313, Sch 2 para 2.

The rate of net excise duty (for the purposes of Sch 2 para 1(b), (c) (see heads (ii), (iii) supra)) must be calculated in accordance with the formula F minus G where F is the rate of excise duty charged by the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6(1) (as amended) on a litre of heavy oil when the change (envisaged by the Hydrocarbon Oil (Payment of Rebates) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/2313, reg 6(2)(b)) takes legal effect, expressed as pence per litre, and G is the rate of rebate of the excise duty allowed on a litre of gas oil (in accordance with the rebate scheme of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 11 (as amended)), when the above-mentioned change takes legal effect, expressed as pence per litre: Hydrocarbon Oil (Payment of Rebates) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/2313, Sch 2 para 3.

17 See PARA 544 note 5 ante.

18 For the prescribed form of supplementary estimate see the Hydrocarbon Oil (Payment of Rebates) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/2313, reg 6(4)(a), Sch 1, Form 2.

19 Ibid reg 6(4)(a). The provisions of reg 6(4) and reg 6(5) (see the text and notes 23-24 infra) apply to a licensed user who has furnished a supplementary estimate under reg 6 in respect of his accounting period, or has furnished another supplementary estimate or further supplementary estimates, in respect of that accounting period, by virtue of the operation of this provision in relation to it or them: (1) as if the supplementary estimate were the estimate mentioned in reg 6 or, as the case may be, each of those supplementary estimates were such an estimate; and (2) where there is an occurrence of Event A, Event B(1), Event B(2) or Event B(3) in relation to: (a) that supplementary estimate or, as the case may be, those supplementary estimates; (b) the licensed user; (c) the period of his accounting period dealt with by that supplementary estimate or supplementary estimates; and (d) any rebated heavy oil activities or rebated kerosene activities carried out by him in the above first-mentioned period by the time of that occurrence: reg 7(1).

546. Returns.

A person who furnished an estimate¹ as a licensed user² must, within ten business days³ after the end of the period specified below, furnish the relevant officer of Revenue and Customs⁴ with a return, relating to the specified accounting period⁵, in the prescribed form⁶, containing full information in respect of the matters specified in the form, and containing a declaration, signed by him, that the information given in the return is true and complete⁷.

The period so specified is the accounting period specified in the estimate⁸ or, in the absence of sufficient specification, the accounting period which the licensed user ought to have specified as his accounting period⁹; but, where a person¹⁰ furnishes the estimate¹¹ for an annual accounting period of a particular year and ceases to be a rebate payment person¹² with effect, as the case may be, from the end of one of the three quarters commencing in that particular year on 1 January, 1 April or 1 July, by reason of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs withdrawing¹³ the licence issued to him as a rebate payment person, the period is, in such a case, and having regard to those three quarters, the quarter from the end of which the withdrawal takes effect¹⁴.

A person furnishing a return under the above provisions may, at the same time, claim any amount which he may have overpaid to the Commissioners in the accounting period to which the return relates¹⁵.

547. Records to be kept by a licensed user.

The following provisions apply to a licensed user¹ who uses a road vehicle² for any rebated heavy oil activity³ or any rebated kerosene activity⁴, and to a person who has ceased to be such a licensed user during the period of 12 months⁵ with effect from a time falling within that period, by reason of the withdrawal by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs⁶ of the licence issued to him as a rebate payment person⁷.

A licensed user, or a person to whom, in either case, these provisions so apply must:

1220 (1) keep a record of all fuel used by him, for any rebated heavy oil activity or rebated kerosene activity carried out by way of a road vehicle⁸, in which must be entered, on the day of the use of the fuel, and by reference to its date, the following particulars:

67. (a) the registration number of the road vehicle or other identification mark in the case of an unregistered vehicle;

68. (b) the date of each journey or, where the road vehicle is employed otherwise than in making a journey from place to place, the place of that employment;

69. (c) the quantities of, and the fuel, by reference to the classification of whether it is gas oil, section 12 kerosene⁹ or section 13AA kerosene¹⁰, supplied into the road vehicle; and

70. (d) the number of miles travelled by the road vehicle on any journey falling within head (b) above, and the number of hours the vehicle is used in employment falling within head (b) above¹¹; and

1221 (2) preserve that record at the premises at which such road vehicle is usually kept, or at such other place as may be agreed between such licensed user or person and the proper officer¹² and for not less than the period of 12 months from the date on which the last entry was made in it¹³.

A licensed user, and a person to whom, in either case, these provisions so apply, must, on demand by the proper officer, produce to the proper officer at all reasonable times the record which he is required so to keep¹⁴.

(v) Drawback

548. Drawback of duty on exportation etc of certain goods.

A drawback equal to any amount paid in respect of the goods¹ in question by way of the excise duty on hydrocarbon oil² must be allowed on the shipment³ as stores⁴ or warehousing⁵ in an excise warehouse⁶ for use as stores of:

- 1222 (1) any hydrocarbon oil; or
- 1223 (2) any article in which there is contained any hydrocarbon oil which was used, or which formed a component of any article used, as an ingredient in the manufacture or preparation of the article⁷.

The Treasury may by order direct as respects articles of any class or description specified in the order that, subject to the provisions of the order, drawback is to be so allowed in respect of hydrocarbon oil (or goods containing it) used as a material, solvent, extractant, preservative or finish in the manufacture or preparation of the articles⁸. Such an order made as respects articles of any class or description:

- 1224 (a) may provide for drawback to be allowed in respect of hydrocarbon oil (or goods containing it) used as a material, solvent, extractant, preservative or finish in the manufacture or preparation not directly of articles of that class or description but of articles incorporated in them; and
- 1225 (b) may provide that the quantity of hydrocarbon oil as respects duty on which drawback is to be allowed is to be determined by reference to average quantities or otherwise⁹.

The power so to make orders is exercisable by statutory instrument; and any statutory instrument by which the power is exercised is subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of the House of Commons¹⁰.

Any reference in the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 15 (as amended) to the amount of any duty of excise which has been paid in respect of any substance, or to the amount of any rebate that has been allowed in respect of any substance, is to be construed as a reference: (1) to such amount as is shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs to have been paid or, as the case may be, allowed in respect of that substance; or (2) where regulations made by the Commissioners so provide, to such amount as is calculated on such assumptions as to the volume of the substance in question as may be determined in accordance with any such regulations: Finance Act 1993 s 12(3). As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

(vi) Miscellaneous Reliefs

A. IN GENERAL

549. Power to allow reliefs.

The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs¹ may make regulations allowing reliefs as regards:

- 1226 (1) any duty of excise² which has been charged in respect of hydrocarbon oil or road fuel gas³;
- 1227 (2) any amount which has been paid to the Commissioners⁴;
- 1228 (3) any amount which would, apart from the regulations, be payable to the Commissioners⁵.

The regulations may include such provision as the Commissioners think fit in connection with allowing reliefs, and in particular may:

- 1229 (a) provide for relief to take the form of a repayment or remission or an allowance to be set off against duty payable to the Commissioners by the person claiming relief;
- 1230 (b) provide for relief to be allowed in cases or classes of case set out in the regulations;
- 1231 (c) provide for relief to be allowed to the extent set out in the regulations;
- 1232 (d) provide for relief to be allowed subject to conditions imposed by the regulations;
- 1233 (e) provide for relief to be allowed subject to such conditions as the Commissioners may impose on the person claiming relief;
- 1234 (f) provide for the taking of samples of hydrocarbon oil in order to ascertain whether relief should be allowed or has been properly allowed;
- 1235 (g) make provision as to administration (which may include provision requiring the making of applications for relief);
- 1236 (h) provide for oil on which relief is allowed to be treated for the purposes of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 as oil on which a rebate has been allowed;
- 1237 (i) make different provision in relation to different cases or classes of case;
- 1238 (j) include such supplementary, incidental, consequential or transitional provisions as appear to the Commissioners to be necessary or expedient⁶.

The conditions which may be imposed as mentioned in head (d) or head (e) above may include conditions as to the physical security of premises, the provision, by bond or otherwise, of security for payment, or such other matters as the Commissioners think fit⁷.

Where a person contravenes or fails to comply with any regulation made under the above provisions or any condition imposed by or under such a regulation, his contravention or failure to comply attracts a civil penalty under the Finance Act 1994⁸; and any goods in respect of which the contravention or failure occurred are liable to forfeiture⁹.

The Commissioners may by regulations make provision allowing reliefs as regards excise duty¹⁰ charged in respect of experimental fuel¹¹ where: (i) the fuel is, or is to be, used for the purposes of a fuel-testing project¹² that is approved by the Commissioners; (ii) the project is approved for the purposes of the development of the fuel; and (iii) the use takes place, or is to take place, during the period that, for the purposes of the project, is the relief period for the fuel¹³. A form of relief so specified must be an authorised form, that is, a repayment or a rebate, or extra rebate¹⁴.

Relief under these provisions is allowed to the extent specified in, or determined in accordance with, regulations¹⁵, and subject to such conditions as the Commissioners may impose¹⁶ and any directions made by the Commissioners¹⁷. The conditions that may be so imposed include, in particular, conditions in connection with the collection, keeping, compilation or analysis, or the supply to the Commissioners or other persons, of data or information relating to the production, use or performance of an experimental fuel¹⁸. Where the Commissioners have approved a fuel-testing project, they must give directions specifying: (A) each experimental fuel for the purposes of the development of which the project is approved; (B) for each fuel so specified, the beginning and end of the period that, for the purposes of the project, is the relief period for the fuel; and (C) any conditions imposed¹⁹ that apply to the allowance under this provision of relief as regards excise duty chargeable in respect of an experimental fuel used, or to be used, for the purposes of the project²⁰. The Commissioners may give directions providing for relief as regards excise duty chargeable in respect of an experimental fuel used, or to be used, for the purposes of the project to take an authorised form different from that specified²¹, or as to administration in connection with allowing reliefs as regards excise duty chargeable in respect of an experimental fuel used, or to be used, for the purposes of the project²². The beginning of the relief period may not be earlier than the beginning of the experimental period for the fuel concerned, and the end of the relief period may not be later than the end of that experimental period²³.

550. Use of biodiesel other than as road fuel.

If, on an application made for the purposes of this provision, it is shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs that within the period for which the application is made any quantity of biodiesel¹ has been used by the applicant:

- 1239 (1) otherwise than as road fuel²;
- 1240 (2) otherwise than by mixing the biodiesel with hydrocarbon oil³ or with a mixture containing hydrocarbon oil; and
- 1241 (3) otherwise than in the form of a mixture containing biodiesel and hydrocarbon oil, then the applicant is entitled to obtain from the Commissioners repayment of the amount of the excise duty which has been paid in respect of the quantity of biodiesel used less the amount of £0.0313 a litre⁴.

The Commissioners may require an applicant for such repayment:

- 1242 (a) to state such facts concerning the biodiesel that is the subject of the claim, or the use to which it was put, as they may think necessary to deal with the application;
- 1243 (b) to furnish them, in such form as they may require, with proof of any statements so made;
- 1244 (c) to retain such records as the Commissioners may require relating to the use of biodiesel; and
- 1245 (d) to permit an officer to inspect any premises, plant or vehicle on or in which the biodiesel in respect of which repayment is claimed is used⁵.

1 For the meaning of 'biodiesel' see PARA 516 ante.

2 For this purpose, 'use as road fuel' means use: (1) as fuel for the engine provided for propelling a road vehicle or for an engine that draws its fuel from the same supply as such an engine; or (2) as an additive or extender in any substance so used: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 17A(3) (s 17A added by the Finance Act 2002 s 5(5), Sch 2 paras 1, 4(1)).

3 For the meaning of 'hydrocarbon oil' see PARA 510 ante.

4 Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 17A(1), (2), (4) (as added: see note 2 supra). These provisions have effect in relation to biodiesel that is set aside for chargeable use after such date as the Commissioners may appoint or, not having been so set aside, is the subject of such chargeable use after that date and has not been set aside for chargeable use under s 6A (as added and amended) (see PARA 520 ante) on or before that date: Finance Act 2002 s 5(6). For the meaning of 'chargeable use' see PARA 516 ante. As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

5 Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 17A(5) (as added: see note 2 supra). If the applicant fails to comply with any such requirement, the Commissioners may reject the claim: s 17A(6) (as so added).

UPDATE

550 Use of biodiesel other than as road fuel

TEXT AND NOTES--Replaced. If, at the excise duty point, it is intended that biodiesel on which duty under the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6AA (see PARA 516) is charged will not be used as fuel for a road vehicle, used as fuel for propelling private pleasure craft, or used as an additive or extender in any substance so used, a rebate of duty is allowed on the biodiesel at a rate of £0.1080 a litre less than the rate of duty under s 6AA: s 14A (ss 14A-14C added, s 14A amended, by Finance Act 2008 s 15(8), Sch 5 para 13, Sch 6 para 13; and Finance Act 2009 s 16(8)). A substance is used as fuel for a vehicle if (and only if) it is used as fuel for (1) the engine provided for propelling the vehicle; or (2) an engine which draws fuel from the same supply as that engine; and a substance is taken into a vehicle as fuel, or as an additive or extender in any fuel, if (and only if) it is taken into the vehicle as part of the supply from which the engine provided for propelling the machine draws fuel: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 27(1ZA), (1ZB) (added by Finance Act 2008 Sch 5 para 22). 'Excise duty point' has the same meaning as in the Finance (No 2) Act 1992 s 1 (see PARA 650): Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 14A(3).

If, on the delivery for home use of bioblend on which duty under s 6AB (see PARA 516) is charged (a) it is intended that the bioblend will not be used as fuel for any road vehicle, or used as an additive or extender in any substance so used; and (b) if the heavy oil used to produce the bioblend was kerosene, it is intended that the bioblend will not be used as fuel for an engine within s 13AA(1)(a) or (b) (see heads (1), (2) of PARA 538), or used as an additive or extender in any substance so used, there is to be allowed on the bioblend a rebate of duty of the sum of HO% of the relevant hydrocarbon rebate rate and BD% of the relevant biodiesel rebate rate: s 14B(1)-(3). The 'relevant hydrocarbon rebate rate' is the rate specified in s 11(1) (see PARA 413) for the kind of heavy oil used to produce the bioblend; and the 'relevant biodiesel rebate rate' is (a) if the heavy oil used to produce the bioblend is kerosene, the rate of duty under s 6AA, and (b) otherwise, the rate under s 14A above: s 14B(4), (5). For the meaning of 'HO%' and 'BD%' see PARA 516 (definition applied by s 14B(6)). For the meaning of 'bioblend', see PARA 516 NOTE 6; for the meaning of 'heavy oil', see PARA 512; and for the meaning of 'kerosene', see PARA 538 NOTE 1.

Rebated biodiesel or bioblend must not be used as fuel for a road vehicle, used as an additive or extender in any substance so used, or taken into a road vehicle as fuel or as an additive or extender in any substance used as fuel: s 14C(1). Rebated bioblend that was produced by mixing kerosene and biodiesel must not be used as fuel for an engine within s 13AA(1)(a) or (b) (see PARA 538 heads (1), (2)), used as an additive or extender in any substance so used, or taken into the fuel supply of such an engine: s 14C(2). However, these provisions do not apply to a quantity of biodiesel or bioblend if there has been paid to the Commissioners (in accordance with regulations in respect thereof) an amount equivalent to $Q \times R$, where Q is the quantity (in litres) of the biodiesel or bioblend, and R is the rate of the rebate under s 14A or s 14B above at the time of payment: s 14C(4). From 1 November 2008, there is a similar prohibition on the use of rebated biodiesel or bioblend as fuel for propelling private pleasure craft or as an additive or extender in any substance so used: s 14C(1) (as further amended by Finance Act 2008 Sch 6 para 14). 'Regulations' means regulations under s 24(1) (see PARA 575) made for the purposes of this provision: s 14C(5).

Rebated heavy oil or bioblend must not be used as fuel for propelling private pleasure craft: s 14E(1), (2) (s 14E added by Finance Act 2008 Sch 6 para 15). However, this provision does not apply if, on the supply by a person ('the supplier') of a quantity of the heavy oil or bioblend to another person, the other person makes a relevant declaration to the supplier and pays, in accordance with regulations, an amount to the Commissioners equivalent to $Q \times R$, where Q is the quantity (in litres) of the heavy oil or bioblend, and R is the rate of the relevant rebate at the time of supply: s 14E(3), (4). Such an amount is treated, for the purposes of the Finance Act 1994 s 12 (see PARAS 1231, 1232), as an amount of excise duty: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 14E(6). A 'relevant declaration', in relation to a quantity of heavy oil or bioblend, means a declaration, made in the way and form specified by or under regulations, that the heavy oil or bioblend is to be used as fuel for propelling private pleasure craft: s 14E(8). A 'relevant rebate' is (i) in the case of heavy oil on which a rebate was allowed under s 13ZA (see PARA 537) or s 13AA(1) (see PARA 538), that rebate; (ii) in the case of other heavy oil, the rebate under s 11 (see PARA 535) for that kind of heavy oil; and (iii) in the case of bioblend, the rebate under s 11(1)(b) (see PARA 535): s 14E(5). 'Regulations' means regulations under s 24(1) (see PARA 575) made for the purposes of this provision; and such regulations may provide, in cases where heavy oil or bioblend to which these provisions apply and other heavy oil or bioblend is taken into a craft as fuel, for the order in which the different substances are to be treated (for the purposes of these provisions and of s 14F (see PARA 550A) as used: s 14E(7), (8). 'Private pleasure craft' has the same meaning as in EC Council Directive 2003/96 art 14(1)(c): Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 14E(8). As to the form of declaration for these purposes see Hydrocarbon Oil and Bioblend (Private Pleasure-flying and Private Pleasure Craft) (Payment of Rebate etc) Regulations 2008, SI 2008/2599; and PARA 539.

550A. Penalties for misuse of rebated heavy oil, biodiesel or bioblend.

If biodiesel or bioblend is used or taken into a road vehicle¹ the Commissioners for Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs may assess an amount² as being excise duty due from any person who used the biodiesel or bioblend, or was liable for it being taken into the vehicle, and may notify the person or his representative accordingly³.

A person commits an offence if: (1) he intentionally uses biodiesel or bioblend in contravention of the restrictions⁴; (2) he is liable for biodiesel or bioblend being taken into a vehicle or the fuel supply of any engine in contravention of those restrictions and knows what the taking in is in such contravention; or (3) he supplies biodiesel or bioblend, intending that it will be put to a particular use that is a prohibited use⁵.

A person guilty of such an offence is liable (a) on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum or (if it is greater) three times the value of the biodiesel or bioblend in question, or imprisonment for a term not exceeding 12 months; and (b) on conviction on indictment to a fine or imprisonment for a term not exceeding seven years, or both⁶.

If a person uses a quantity of rebated heavy oil or bioblend in a private pleasure craft⁷, or fails to pay an amount due⁸ in respect of heavy oil or bioblend so used, the Commissioners may assess that amount as being excise duty due from him, and may notify the person or his representative accordingly⁹.

2 le the amount specified in ibid s 14C(4): see PARA 550.

3 Ibid s 14D(1) (s 14D added by Finance Act 2008 Sch 5 para 13). The following persons are liable for a substance being taken into a vehicle or into the fuel supply of an engine: (1) the person who has the charge of the vehicle or engine at the time the substance is taken in; and (2) the owner of the vehicle or engine at that time (or, if another person is entitled to possession of it at that time, that other person): Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 27(1ZC) (s 27(1ZC), (1ZD) added by Finance Act 2008 Sch 5 para 22). This provision applies in relation to appliances and storage tanks as it applies in relation to vehicles: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 27(1D). For the meaning of 'bioblend' and 'biodiesel', see PARA 516.

Conduct within any of the following heads attracts a penalty under the Finance Act 1994 s 9 (see PARA 1242): (a) using biodiesel or bioblend in contravention of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 14C(1) or (2); (b) becoming liable for biodiesel or bioblend being taken into a vehicle or the fuel supply of an engine in contravention of s 14C(1) or (2); and (c) supplying biodiesel or bioblend, intending that it will be put to a particular use that is a prohibited use: s 14D(2). 'Prohibited use' means a use that would contravene s 14C(1) or (2) if no payment under s 14C(3) were made in respect of the biodiesel or bioblend: s 14D(4).

8 le as required by ibid s 14E(3)(b), (4).

9 Ibid s 14F(1), (3) (s 14F added by Finance Act 2008 Sch 6 para 15). If the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 14F applies by virtue of the use of such heavy oil or bioblend, then for the purposes of s 14F(2), the reference in s 14E(4) to the time of supply must be read as the time of use: s 14F(5).

Such use or failure attracts a penalty under the Finance Act 1994 s 9 (see PARA 1242); and for the purposes of that provision, if the 1979 Act s 14F applies by virtue of failure to pay an amount, that amount is treated as an amount of excise duty, and the penalty for failure must be calculated by reference to that amount: s 14F(4)(a), (b). The failure also attracts a daily penalty: s 14F(4)(c).

551. In general.

The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may approve a person as an approved furnace operator¹, an approved repayment user² or an approved tied oil trader³ individually or by reference to a class, in relation to particular descriptions of hydrocarbon oil or generally, and subject to conditions⁴. An approval may be revoked, or the conditions varied, for reasonable cause⁵. The Commissioners must furnish every person approved individually with a certificate of approval containing the prescribed particulars; and the certificate must be returned to the Commissioners when approval is cancelled⁶.

Tied oil⁷ may be supplied only to an approved tied oil trader⁸. Light oil⁹ in respect of which rebate has been allowed¹⁰ and not repaid may be supplied only to an approved furnace operator¹¹.

The Commissioners may grant permission¹² subject to conditions as to the giving of security or otherwise¹³. Claims by an approved repayment user for repayment of duty must be made within three months of the end of the period to which they relate, and that period must not be less than two months or more than three years; and no claim lies where the amount to be paid is less than £250¹⁴. No drawback of duty is allowed on any hydrocarbon oil for which a claim for repayment of duty where permission is not given¹⁵ lies¹⁶.

When the Commissioners are satisfied that duty-paid oil has been delivered to a person approved to receive duty-free oil of the same description under the provisions of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979, they may repay to the supplier the duty which they are satisfied has been paid and not repaid on the quantity of oil so delivered, subject to the conditions which would apply if the oil had been delivered without payment of duty¹⁷.

From 15 April 1993 duty relief may be allowed on motor spirit vapour recovered, during duty-paid deliveries of motor spirit from bonded mineral oil installations to service stations, and returned to bonded installations for conversion to liquid motor spirit¹⁸.

C. MARINE VOYAGES

552. Reliefs.

Where:

- 1246 (1) hydrocarbon oil¹ has been used as fuel for the machinery of a ship that has been engaged on a marine voyage², the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs must, in respect of that fuel, repay any excise duty that has been charged and paid³; or
- 1247 (2) heavy oil⁴ is delivered for use as fuel for the machinery of a ship that will be engaged on a marine voyage, the Commissioners must, in respect of that fuel, repay any excise duty that has been charged and paid; or
- 1248 (3) heavy oil is delivered for use as fuel for the machinery of a ship that will be engaged on a marine voyage, the Commissioners must, in respect of that fuel, remit the payment of any excise duty that has been charged⁵.

No relief is to be allowed:

- 1249 (a) in the case of a ship that is a private pleasure craft⁶;
- 1250 (b) otherwise than upon the written application of a qualified claimant⁷;
- 1251 (c) by head (1) or head (2) above in the case of drawback goods⁸;
- 1252 (d) by head (2) above unless the heavy oil is supplied by an approved person⁹;
- 1253 (e) by head (2) or head (3) above unless the heavy oil is delivered directly from a warehouse or refinery to the ship that will be engaged on a marine voyage¹⁰.

Where the relief is allowed by head (1) or head (2) above, the amount that may be repaid is the amount of duty charged and paid less any rebate or other repayment that has been allowed¹¹; and where the relief is allowed by head (3) above, the amount that may be remitted is the amount of duty charged¹².

553. Repayment.

Where relief is allowed¹:

1254 (1) where hydrocarbon oil² has been used as fuel for the machinery of a ship that has been engaged on a marine voyage³ and excise duty has been charged and paid⁴; or

1255 (2) where heavy oil⁵ is delivered for use as fuel for the machinery of a ship that will be engaged on a marine voyage and excise duty has been charged and paid, repayment of that duty must be made to the qualified claimant⁶, provided that where relief is allowed by head (2) above, and an approved person⁷ supplied the heavy oil at a price reduced by an amount equal to the duty on that oil, that person is to be treated as entitled to the repayment⁸.

If, in relation to any application for relief, it appears to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs that the relief applied for exceeds the amount repayable⁹, they may¹⁰ repay such lesser sum as appears to them to be repayable¹¹.

If two or more qualified claimants make application for relief relating to the same hydrocarbon oil, the Commissioners may make repayment to any of them or, as the case may be¹², to the approved person, and that repayment is deemed to satisfy all the applications¹³.

The Commissioners may¹⁴ set off the amount of any repayment against any other debt then due to them from any person who is a qualified claimant in relation to the application¹⁵.

Where there is a contravention¹⁶ of any of the conditions subject to which relief is allowed¹⁷, the relief allowed must be cancelled¹⁸. Where any relief is cancelled, any person who is a qualified claimant in relation to the application for relief is liable, on demand, to repay the amount of the repayment¹⁹.

555. Conditions subject to which relief is allowed.

Relief is allowed subject to the following conditions¹; and the amount of relief applied for must not exceed the amount of relief that may² be allowed³.

If relief is allowed where hydrocarbon oil⁴ has been used as fuel for the machinery of a ship that has been engaged on a marine voyage⁵ and excise duty has been charged and paid⁶:

- 1256 (1) the qualified claimant⁷ must, on being so required by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs⁸, furnish to their satisfaction evidence that the duty that is the subject of the application for relief has been paid and has not been repaid, remitted or drawn back;
- 1257 (2) the hydrocarbon oil must not have been used otherwise than as fuel for the machinery of the ship specified in the application for relief while engaged on a marine voyage; and
- 1258 (3) the duty that is the subject of the application for relief must not be the subject of any other application or claim for repayment, remission or drawback⁹.

Where relief is allowed¹⁰ and heavy oil is delivered for use as fuel for the machinery of a ship that will be engaged on a marine voyage, excise duty having been charged and paid, or relief is allowed on the delivery of heavy oil for use as fuel for the machinery of a ship that will be engaged on a marine voyage, excise duty having been charged:

- 1259 (a) the qualified claimant, or someone authorised to act on his behalf, must, upon delivery of the hydrocarbon oil to the ship, provide the supplier of that oil with an acknowledgment of receipt in such form as the supplier may require;
- 1260 (b) the hydrocarbon oil must not be used otherwise than as fuel for the machinery of the ship to which it was delivered while that ship is engaged on a marine voyage;
- 1261 (c) the hydrocarbon oil must not be re-landed at any place in the United Kingdom¹¹; and
- 1262 (d) the duty that is the subject of the application for relief must not be the subject of any other application or claim for repayment, remission or drawback¹².

The master of a ship on which there is hydrocarbon oil in respect of which relief has been or may be allowed must, at any time that the ship is within the limits of a port:

- 1263 (i) permit an officer to board the ship for the purpose of taking samples of hydrocarbon oil in order to ascertain whether relief should be allowed or has been properly allowed;
- 1264 (ii) give such assistance as the officer may reasonably require to enable him safely to take such samples of hydrocarbon oil; and
- 1265 (iii) provide such equipment and, if the case so requires, conversion tables as the officer may reasonably require to enable him to ascertain the volume, at a temperature of 15°C, of the hydrocarbon oil on board the ship¹³.

Relief is allowed subject to such conditions, if any, as the Commissioners impose on qualified claimants in a notice published by the Commissioners and not withdrawn by a further notice¹⁴.

556. In general.

A travelling showman who uses as fuel for a road vehicle¹ heavy oil² on whose delivery for home use rebate has been allowed is not required to pay the amount which would otherwise be payable to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs³, provided that:

- 1266 (1) the road vehicle is immobilised by disconnection of the propeller shaft; and
- 1267 (2) the heavy oil is drawn from a tank which is not permanently attached to the vehicle and which is separate from the tank from which the fuel is drawn for propelling the vehicle and through a fuel pipe which is not permanently attached to the engine of the vehicle⁴.

E. HORTICULTURAL PRODUCERS

557. Heavy oil used by horticultural producers.

If, on an application made for these purposes by a horticultural producer¹, it is shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs that, within the period for which the application is made, any quantity of heavy oil² has been used by the applicant as mentioned below, then, subject as provided below, the applicant is entitled to obtain from the Commissioners repayment of the amount of any excise duty which has been paid in respect of the quantity so used less any rebate allowed in respect of the duty³.

A horticultural producer is so entitled to repayment in respect of oil used by him:

- 1268 (1) in the heating, for the growth of horticultural produce primarily with a view to the production of horticultural produce⁴ for sale, of any building or structure, or of the earth or other growing medium in it; or
- 1269 (2) in the sterilisation of the earth or other growing medium to be used for the growth of horticultural produce as mentioned in head (1) above in any building or structure⁵.

Where any quantity of oil is used partly for any such purpose as is mentioned in heads (1) and (2) above and partly for another purpose, such part of that quantity is to be treated as used for each purpose as may be determined by the Commissioners⁶.

The Commissioners may require an applicant for such a repayment: (a) to state such facts concerning the hydrocarbon oil⁷ delivered to or used by him, or concerning the production of horticultural produce by him, as they may think necessary to deal with the application; (b) to furnish them in such form as they may require with proof of any statement so made; and (c) to permit an officer⁸ to inspect any premises or plant used by him for the production of horticultural produce or in or for which any such oil was used⁹. If:

- 1270 (i) the facts required by the Commissioners under head (a) above are not stated; or
- 1271 (ii) proof of the matters referred to in head (b) above is not furnished to the satisfaction of the Commissioners; or
- 1272 (iii) an applicant fails to permit inspection of premises or plant as required under head (c) above, the facts are deemed for these purposes to be such as the Commissioners may determine¹⁰.

³ Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 17(1) (amended by the Finance Act 1981 ss 6(4), 139(6), Sch 19 Pt III). The Excise Duties (Surcharges or Rebates) Act 1979 s 1(1)-(6) (as amended) applies to repayments of duty under the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 17 (as amended) as if the repayments were drawbacks and not repayments: see the Excise Duties (Surcharges or Rebates) Act 1979 s 1(7) (as amended); and PARA 620 note 8 post.

Without prejudice to the Excise Duties (Deferred Payment) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/3152, reg 5 (see PARA 982 post), for the purposes of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 17(1) (as amended) excise duty is deemed to have been paid at the time when deferment was granted: see the Excise Duties (Deferred Payment) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/3152, reg 11(d) (as amended); and PARA 982 note 15 post.

Any reference in the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 17 (as amended) to the amount of any duty of excise which has been paid in respect of any substance, or to the amount of any rebate that has been allowed in respect of any substance, is to be construed as a reference: (1) to such amount as is shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioners to have been paid or, as the case may be, allowed in respect of that substance; or (2) where regulations made by the Commissioners so provide, to such amount as is calculated on such assumptions as to the volume of the substance in question as may be determined in accordance with any such regulations: Finance Act 1993 s 12(3). As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

4 For these purposes, 'horticultural produce' means:

- 85 (1) fruit;
- 86 (2) vegetables of a kind grown for human consumption, including fungi, but not including maincrop potatoes or peas grown for seed, for harvesting dry or for vining;
- 87 (3) flowers, pot plants and decorative foliage;
- 88 (4) herbs;
- 89 (5) seeds other than pea seeds, and bulbs and other material, being seeds, bulbs or material for sowing or planting for the production of fruit, vegetables falling within head (2) supra, flowers, plants or foliage falling within head (3) supra or herbs, or for reproduction of the seeds, bulbs or other material planted; or
- 90 (6) trees and shrubs, other than trees grown for the purpose of afforestation, but does not include hops: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 17(7)(a), Sch 2.

G. ENERGY FOR REFINERIES ETC

559. Fuel for producing energy for refineries etc.

If, on an application made for these purposes by an approved person¹, it is shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs² that:

- 1275 (1) any quantity of rebated hydrocarbon oil³ has been used by him, otherwise than at a refinery⁴ or other premises used for the production of hydrocarbon oil, as fuel for producing energy; and
- 1276 (2) not less than one-sixth or more than one-third of that energy was used in the treatment of hydrocarbon oil at a refinery or in the production of hydrocarbon oil at other premises used for the production of such oil, the applicant is entitled to obtain from the Commissioners repayment of one-third of the amount of excise duty which has been paid in respect of the quantity so used less the rebate⁵ allowed in respect of the duty⁶.

Where the Commissioners are satisfied that unused, duty-paid, hydrocarbon oil has been delivered to any premises approved as refiners for use as fuel for the production of energy, they may repay to the supplier the duty which they are satisfied has been paid and not repaid on the quantity of oil delivered⁷.

1 For these purposes, 'an approved person' means a person for the time being approved in accordance with regulations made for these purposes under the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 24(1) (as amended) (see PARA 575 post): s 19A(2) (s 19A added by the Finance Act 1981 s 5(1), (2), (5)).

Any decision which is made under or for the purposes of any regulations made or having effect as if made under the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 24 (as amended) (see PARA 575 post), and is a decision as to whether or not any person is to be, or is to continue to be, approved for the purposes of s 19A(1) (as added), or as to the conditions subject to which any person is so approved, is subject to review and to appeal to a VAT and duties tribunal: see the Finance Act 1994 ss 14(1)(d), (2)-(7), 15, 16 (as amended), Sch 5 para 4(2)(b); and PARAS 1240, 1248, 1252 et seq post.

Any reference in the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 19A (as added) to the amount of any duty of excise which has been paid in respect of any substance, or to the amount of any rebate that has been allowed in respect of any substance, is to be construed as a reference: (1) to such amount as is shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioners to have been paid or, as the case may be, allowed in respect of that substance; or (2) where regulations made by the Commissioners so provide, to such amount as is calculated on such

H. CONTAMINATED OR ACCIDENTALLY MIXED OIL

560. Contaminated or accidentally mixed oil.

Where it is shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs¹:

- 1277 (1) that hydrocarbon oil² has been delivered for home use, that since it was so delivered it has become contaminated, and that at the time it became contaminated it was oil on which the appropriate duty of excise³ had been paid; or
- 1278 (2) that hydrocarbon oils of different descriptions have been delivered for home use, that, since they were so delivered, they have become accidentally mixed with each other, and that at the time of mixing they were oils on which the appropriate duty of excise had been paid, then, subject to any conditions which the Commissioners see fit to impose for the protection of the revenue, they may make to such person as they see fit a payment of an amount appearing to the Commissioners to be equal to the excise duty which would have been payable if:

- 1279 (a) the oil had been delivered for home use (uncontaminated) at the time it became contaminated (where head (1) above applies); or
- 1280 (b) the oils had been delivered for home use (unmixed) at the time they became mixed (where head (2) above applies)⁴.

The power to make such a payment to a person in relation to oils that have become accidentally mixed does not apply in relation to a mixture in respect of which he is liable to pay duty⁵ where rebated oil has been mixed⁶.

I. CONSULAR AND DIPLOMATIC PRIVILEGE

561. Use by consular and diplomatic staff.

Refund of duty paid on any hydrocarbon oil bought in the United Kingdom¹ and used for consular purposes is allowed under arrangements authorised by the Treasury and made by the Secretary of State or the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs². The Commissioners are empowered to make a similar refund in relation to hydrocarbon oil used for diplomatic or Commonwealth secretarial purposes³ and hydrocarbon oil used by certain international organisations or by their representatives or officers⁴.

(vii) Mixing; Adjustment of Duty

A. IN GENERAL

562. In general.

Where the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs are of opinion that, if new oil¹ had fallen to be charged to excise duty² as oil of a different description, the amount of duty would have been greater or less than that actually charged, then, if in their opinion the amount would have been greater, they may charge a duty of excise on the oil of an amount equal to the difference, and, if in their opinion the amount would have been less, they may make an allowance equal to the difference³.

In determining the amount of duty which would have been charged if the new oil had fallen to be charged⁴ as oil of a different description, the rates to be applied are those effective at the time when, in the Commissioners' opinion, the oil became oil of the different description⁵.

Where the Commissioners have so made a charge or allowance, any relief or rebate which was permitted or allowed at the time of the charge⁶ must⁷ be disregarded⁸.

The Commissioners may:

1281 (1) make regulations:

42

- 71. (a) enabling them to grant to persons, whether individually or of a specified class, permission to mix in a pipeline different descriptions of hydrocarbon oil, whether generally or in the case of specified descriptions only, and to withdraw permission for reasonable cause;
- 72. (b) enabling permission to be granted subject to conditions and conditions to be varied for reasonable cause⁹;

1282 (2) make regulations:

44

- 73. (a) for prescribing the method of charging the duty under the above provisions;
- 74. (b) for determining the form of the allowance under the above provisions (which may be by way of repayment or otherwise) and the time the allowance may be made¹⁰, and such regulations may make different provision for different circumstances¹¹.

No person may mix:

1283 (i) any fuel oil¹², gas oil¹³, kerosene¹⁴ or light oil¹⁵ in respect of which a rebate of duty has been allowed; or

1284 (ii) any oil which has been delivered for home use without payment of duty, with any oil on which no rebate of duty has been allowed except under and in accordance with the terms of either an approval granted by the Commissioners¹⁶ or a licence granted by the Commissioners and, where they so require in relation to such a licence, after paying an amount equal to:

1285 (A) in the case of oil on which rebate has been allowed, the rebate allowable on like oil at the rate for the time being in force; and

1286 (B) in the case of oil delivered without payment of duty, the duty chargeable on like oil at the rate for the time being in force¹⁷.

1 For these purposes, 'new oil' means hydrocarbon oil which, after it has been charged under the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6 (as amended) (see PARA 509 ante) as oil of one description becomes oil of a different description as a result of approved mixing (see note 9 infra) in a pipeline with other hydrocarbon oil which has been so charged: s 20A(1) (s 20A added by the Finance Act 1985 s 7(1), (2), Sch 4 para 2). For the meaning of 'hydrocarbon oil' see PARA 510 ante. Unless the context otherwise requires, 'pipeline' has the meaning given by the Pipe-lines Act 1962 s 65 (see RAILWAYS, INLAND WATERWAYS AND CROSS-COUNTRY PIPELINES vol 39(1A) (Reissue) PARA 559): Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 1(1); applied by the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 27(3).

10 Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 20A(6) (as added: see note 1 supra).

11 Ibid s 20A(7) (as added: see note 1 supra).

12 For these purposes, 'fuel oil' means heavy oil which contains in solution an amount of asphaltenes of not less than 0.5% or which contains less than 0.5% but not less than 0.1% of asphaltenes and has a closed flash point not exceeding 150°C: Hydrocarbon Oil Regulations 1973, SI 1973/1311, reg 2.

TEXT AND NOTES 1-8--Replaced. If a relevant substance on which duty under the the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 has been charged is mixed in a pipeline with another kind of relevant substance upon which such duty has been charged (including cases where one kind of hydrocarbon oil is mixed with another kind of hydrocarbon oil) and the mixing is approved mixing, then (1) if the Commissioners are of the opinion that the amount of duty that would be charged on the mixture (if duty were charged at the time of mixing), is greater than the total amount of duty actually charged, they may charge a duty of excise on the mixture of an amount equal to the difference: or (2) if the Commissioners are of the opinion that the amount actually charged is less than the amount that would be charged (if duty were charged at the time of mixing), they may make an allowance of an amount equal to the difference: s 20A(1)-(3), (4B) (s 20A(1)-(4B) substituted by Finance Act 2008 Sch 5 para 15). Where a charge or allowance is so made, any relief or rebate which was permitted or allowed in respect of the charges actually made is disregarded for the purposes of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979: s 20A(4). 'Relevant substance' means biodiesel, bioethanol, bioblend, bioethanol blend or hydrocarbon oil: s 20A(4A). For the meaning of 'bioblend' and 'biodiesel', see PARA 516; and for the meaning of 'bioethanol' and 'bioethanol blend', see PARA 518.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(4) HYDROCARBON OIL DUTY/(vii) Mixing; Adjustment of Duty/A. IN GENERAL/563. Approval.

563. Approval.

Save where the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs otherwise permit, a person seeking approval as a mixer¹ must apply to the Commissioners in writing and give such particulars as they may require².

Approval of persons as mixers, whether individually or by reference to a class, and whether in relation to particular descriptions of oil or generally, may be limited as to the mixture stated in the approval, granted subject to conditions, and revoked for reasonable cause³. Where conditions are so imposed, they may be varied for reasonable cause⁴.

Any person who has applied to be approved or who has duly been approved must notify the Commissioners immediately of any change in circumstances which materially affects any application for approval or approval given by the Commissioners or security given⁵ by him⁶.

1 For these purposes, 'mixing' means the mixing of different descriptions of oil so as to produce new oil in accordance with the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 20A (as added) (see PARA 562 ante); and 'mix' and its cognate expressions are to be construed accordingly: Hydrocarbon Oil (Mixing of Oils) Regulations 1985, SI 1985/1450, reg 2(1). For the meaning of 'new oil' see PARA 562 note 1 ante.

2 Ibid reg 4(1). The Hydrocarbon Oil (Mixing of Oils) Regulations 1985, SI 1985/1450, apply to oil which has been either charged with excise duty under the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 6 (as amended) (see PARA 509 ante) or which would have been charged but for a relief or rebate allowed in respect of that oil: Hydrocarbon Oil (Mixing of Oils) Regulations 1985, SI 1985/1450, reg 3. 564. Security.

An approved mixer¹ must provide security in such amount and in such form as the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may require for the observance of any conditions imposed by them² and the furnishing³ of returns⁴.

1 For these purposes, 'approved mixer' means a person approved by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs for the purposes of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 20A (as added) (see PARA 562 ante): Hydrocarbon Oil (Mixing of Oils) Regulations 1985, SI 1985/1450, reg 2(1). 565. Charge to duty and allowance.

New oil¹ subject to a charge to duty² is chargeable at the time it is mixed³; and that duty must be paid⁴ in accordance with the relevant provisions⁵.

Where new oil is subject to an allowance⁶, that allowance must be determined at the time it is mixed and it must be made⁷ in accordance with the relevant provisions⁸.

566. Furnishing of returns.

An approved mixer¹ must furnish to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs a return in such form and manner and containing such particulars as the Commissioners may require:

- 1287 (1) on the last business day² of each month; or
- 1288 (2) where the approved mixer is also approved under the provisions relating to the deferment of duty³, on the appropriate payment day of each month⁴, of all new oil⁵ mixed⁶ in the month preceding that in which the return is rendered, save that the Commissioners may allow a return to be rendered on a different day and for a different period from that mentioned above⁷.

B. REBATED OIL

569. Mixing of rebated oil.

A duty of excise is charged on a mixture which is: (1) produced by mixing¹ fully rebated² heavy oil³ with heavy oil which is not fully rebated; or (2) produced by mixing partially rebated heavy oil with heavy oil which is not partially rebated, and (in each case) is supplied for use as fuel for any engine, motor or other machinery⁴. A mixture on which duty is charged under head (1) above is not, however, chargeable under head (2) above⁵.

The rate of duty under head (1) or head (2) above is, in the case of a mixture supplied for use as fuel for a road vehicle⁶, the general rate of duty for heavy oil⁷ and, in any other case, equivalent to the rate of rebate⁸ for gas oil⁹.

A duty of excise, at the rate specified for heavy oil¹⁰ is also charged on a mixture which is produced by mixing fully or partially rebated oil with biodiesel¹¹ or a substance containing biodiesel¹².

The person liable to pay duty so charged on supply or production of a mixture is the supplier or producer, but the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may exempt a person from liability to pay duty under any provision of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 in respect of such production or supply if they are satisfied that the liability was incurred accidentally, and in the circumstances the person concerned should be exempted¹³.

Where duty under any provision of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 has been paid on an ingredient of a mixture, the duty charged under these provisions must be reduced by the amount of any duty that the Commissioners are satisfied has been paid on the ingredient (but not to a negative amount)¹⁴.

A person who supplies or produces a mixture on which duty is charged under these provisions¹⁵ must notify the Commissioners of its supply or production in advance, or within the period of seven days beginning with the date of supply or production¹⁶. Such notification must be given in such form and in such manner, and must contain such particulars, as the Commissioners may direct¹⁷.

Where it appears to the Commissioners that a person has produced or supplied a mixture on which duty is so charged¹⁸ and that he is the person liable to pay the duty, they may assess the amount of duty due from him to the best of their judgment and notify that amount to him or his representative¹⁹.

The Commissioners may give a direction that a person who is, or expects to be, liable to pay duty so charged²⁰:

- 1289 (a) is to account for duty so charged by reference to such periods ('accounting periods') as may be determined by or under the direction;
- 1290 (b) is to make, in relation to accounting periods, returns in such form and at such times and containing such particulars as may be so determined;
- 1291 (c) is to pay duty so charged at such times and in such manner as may be so determined²¹.

Where any person fails to give a notification which he is required so to give²² or fails to comply with a direction given by the Commissioners²³, his failure attracts a civil penalty²⁴ under the Finance Act 1994²⁵.

1 A reference to mixing is a reference to non-approved mixing (see the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 20A(5) (as added); and PARA 562 note 9 ante); s 20AAA(6)(c) (s 20AAA added by the Finance Act 1996 s 6(3), (5); and substituted by the Finance Act 2004 s 9(1)).

2 Oil is fully rebated if a rebate has been allowed in respect thereof under the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 11(1)(c) (as substituted and amended) (see PARA 535 ante); and it is partially rebated if a rebate has been allowed in respect thereof under any other provision of s 11 (as amended) or under s 13AA (as added and amended) (see PARA 538 ante); s 20AAA(6)(a), (b) (as added and substituted: see note 1 supra).

Where any person uses as fuel in, or takes as fuel into¹, a road vehicle any road fuel gas on which he knows, or has reasonable cause to believe, that the excise duty chargeable² has not been paid, his use of the road fuel gas or, as the case may be, his taking it as fuel into that vehicle attracts a civil penalty under the Finance Act 1994³; and any goods⁴ in respect of which a person contravenes this provision are liable to forfeiture⁵.

Where any person uses as fuel in, or takes as fuel into, a road vehicle any road fuel gas on which the excise duty chargeable⁶ has not been paid, the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may assess the amount of that duty as being excise duty due from that person and notify him or his representative accordingly⁷.

1 For these purposes, road fuel gas is deemed to be taken into a road vehicle as fuel if, but only if, it is taken into it as part of the supply of fuel for the engine provided for propelling the vehicle or for an engine which draws its fuel from the same supply as that engine: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 23(2) (amended by the Finance Act 1997 s 50(2), Sch 6 paras 6(5), 7). 574 Prohibition on use etc of road fuel gas on which duty has not been paid

NOTE 1--Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 23(2) repealed: Finance Act 2008 Sch 5 para 19. See now PARA 550.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(4) HYDROCARBON OIL DUTY/(viii) Administration and Enforcement/C. CONTROL OF USE/575. Control of use of duty-free and rebated oil.

C. CONTROL OF USE

575. Control of use of duty-free and rebated oil.

The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs¹ may make regulations to control the use of duty-free and rebated oil² and, in particular, may make regulations for the other specified purposes³.

For the purposes of the Customs and Excise Acts 1979⁴, the presence in any hydrocarbon oil⁵ of a marker which, in regulations made under these provisions, is prescribed in relation to oil delivered without payment of duty⁶ or rebated heavy oil⁷ or rebated light oil⁸ is conclusive evidence that that oil has been so delivered or, as the case may be, that the rebate in question has been allowed⁹.

Where any person contravenes or fails to comply with any regulation so made, his contravention or failure to comply attracts a civil penalty under the Finance Act 1994¹⁰; and any goods¹¹ in respect of which any person contravenes or fails to comply with any such regulation are liable to forfeiture¹².

Where a rebate of duty is allowed on any oil and a person contravenes or fails to comply with any requirement which, by virtue of any regulations made under the above provisions, is a condition of allowing the rebate, the Commissioners may assess an amount equal to the rebate as being excise duty due from that person, and notify him or his representative accordingly¹³.

Where any oil is delivered without payment of duty and a person contravenes or fails to comply with any requirement which, by virtue of any regulations made under the above provisions, is a condition of allowing the oil to be delivered without payment of duty, the Commissioners may assess an amount equal to the excise duty on like oil at the rate in force at the time of the contravention or failure to comply as being excise duty due from that person, and notify him or his representative accordingly¹⁴.

Regulations made for the purposes of s 12 (as amended) or s 13AA (as added and amended) may provide for restricting, whether by reference to locality, the obtaining of a licence from the Commissioners or other matters, the cases in which payments to the Commissioners under s 12(2) (as amended) or s 13AA(3) (as added) are to be effective for the purposes of s 12(2) (as amended) or s 13AA(3) (as added): s 24(2) (amended by the Finance Act 1996 s 5(1), (5)(b), (6); and the Finance Act 2002 Sch 3 para 8). 576 Subjects for regulations

NOTES 10, 31--Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 Sch 4 paras 3, 22 amended: Finance Act 2008 Sch 5 para 23.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(4) HYDROCARBON OIL DUTY/(viii) Administration and Enforcement/C. CONTROL OF USE/577. Sampling of hydrocarbon oil.

577. Sampling of hydrocarbon oil.

The following provisions have effect with respect to any sample of hydrocarbon oil¹ taken in pursuance of regulations made under the provisions² relating to controlling the use of duty-free and rebated oil³.

The person taking a sample⁴:

- 1323 (1) if he takes it from a motor vehicle⁵, must, if practicable, do so in the presence of a person appearing to him to be the owner or person for the time being in charge of the vehicle;
- 1324 (2) if he takes the sample on any premises but not from a motor vehicle, must, if practicable, take it in the presence of a person appearing to him to be the occupier of the premises or for the time being in charge of the part of the premises from which it is taken⁶.

The result of an analysis of a sample is not admissible in criminal proceedings under the Customs and Excise Acts 1979 or on behalf of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs in any civil proceedings under those Acts⁷, unless the analysis was made by an authorised analyst⁸ and the requirements of heads (1) and (2) above, where applicable, and of the following provisions have been complied with⁹.

The person taking a sample must at the time have divided it into three parts (including the part to be analysed), marked and sealed or fastened up each part, and delivered one part to the person in whose presence the sample was so taken¹⁰, if he requires it, and retained one part for future comparison¹¹. Where it was not practicable to comply with the relevant requirements of heads (1) and (2) above, the person taking the sample must have served notice on the owner or person in charge of the vehicle or, as the case may be, the occupier of the premises informing him that the sample has been taken and that one part of it is available for delivery to him, if he requires it, at such time and place as may be specified in the notice¹².

In any such proceedings¹³ a certificate purporting to be signed by an authorised analyst and certifying the presence of any substance in any such sample of oil as may be specified in the certificate is evidence of the facts stated in it¹⁴. Without prejudice to the admissibility of the evidence of the analyst, such a certificate is not admissible as evidence:

- 1325 (a) unless a copy of it has, not less than seven days before the hearing, been served by the prosecutor or, in the case of civil proceedings, the Commissioners on all other parties to the proceedings; or
- 1326 (b) if any of those other parties, not less than three days before the hearing or within such further time as the court may in special circumstances allow, serves notice on the prosecutor or, as the case may be, the Commissioners requiring the attendance at the hearing of the person by whom the analysis was made¹⁵.

Any notice required or authorised to be given under the above provisions:

- 1327 (i) must be in writing¹⁶;

- 1328 (ii) is deemed, unless the contrary is shown, to have been received by a person if it is shown to have been left for him at his last-known residence or place of business in the United Kingdom¹⁷;
- 1329 (iii) may be given by post, and the letter containing the notice may be sent to the last-known residence or place of business in the United Kingdom of the person to whom it is directed¹⁸;
- 1330 (iv) which is given to the secretary or clerk of a company or body of persons, incorporated or unincorporated, on behalf of the company or body is deemed to have been given to the company or body¹⁹.

Where any such notice is to be given to any person as the occupier of any land, and it is not practicable after reasonable inquiry to ascertain what is the name of any person being the occupier of the land or whether or not there is a person being the occupier of the land, the notice may be addressed to the person concerned by any sufficient description of the capacity in which it is given to him²⁰. In any such case, and in any other case where it is not practicable after reasonable inquiry to ascertain an address in the United Kingdom for the service of a notice to be given to a person as being the occupier of any land, the notice is deemed to have been received by the person concerned on being left for him on the land, either in the hands of a responsible person or conspicuously affixed to some building or object on the land²¹.

578. Regulation of traders in controlled oil.

If a trader who is not a registered excise dealer and shipper¹ buys or sells controlled oil² in the course of a trade or business, or in the course of a trade or business deals in controlled oil, his buying or selling, or dealing in, the oil attracts a penalty³. However, this provision does not apply:

- 1331 (1) to the buying of oil by a revenue trader if the oil is for use by him, and that use does not involve selling or dealing in hydrocarbon oil⁴;
- 1332 (2) to the selling of oil by a revenue trader if that oil was for use by him, that use did not involve selling or dealing in hydrocarbon oil, that use came to an end before the oil was used, and the oil is sold after the use ends⁵.

Where a revenue trader who is not a registered excise dealer and shipper is entitled to the possession of any controlled oil, the oil is liable to forfeiture⁶, but this provision does not apply to oil if:

- 1333 (a) that oil is for use by the revenue trader and that use does not involve selling or dealing in hydrocarbon oil⁷; or
- 1334 (b) the oil was for use by the revenue trader, that use did not involve selling or dealing in hydrocarbon oil, that use has come to an end, that use came to an end before the oil was used, and the oil is held pending sale or other disposal⁸.

NOTE 2--'Controlled oil' includes biodiesel or bioblend in respect of which a rebate has been allowed under the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 14A or 14B (see PARA 550): s 27(1) (amended by Finance Act 2008 Sch 5 para 22).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(4) HYDROCARBON OIL DUTY/(viii) Administration and Enforcement/D. MISUSE OF MARKED OIL/579. Penalties for misuse of marked oil.

D. MISUSE OF MARKED OIL

579. Penalties for misuse of marked oil.

Marked oil¹ must not be used as fuel for a road vehicle².

Where a person uses any hydrocarbon oil in contravention of the above provision, his use of the oil attracts a civil penalty³ under the Finance Act 1994⁴; and if a person who uses any marked oil in contravention of the above provisions does so in the knowledge that the oil he is using is marked oil, he is guilty of an offence and liable to a penalty⁵.

Any marked oil which is in a road vehicle as part of the fuel supply for the engine which propels the vehicle is liable to forfeiture⁶.

Where, in any proceedings relating to the above provisions, a question arises as to the nature of any substance present at any time in any hydrocarbon oil:

- 1335 (1) a certificate of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs to the effect that that substance is or was a marker designated for these purposes is sufficient, unless the contrary is shown, for establishing that fact; and
- 1336 (2) any document purporting to be such a certificate must be taken to be one unless it is shown not to be⁷.

1 For these purposes, marked oil is any hydrocarbon oil in which a marker is present which is for the time being designated by regulations made by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 24A(2) (s 24A added by the Finance Act 1996 s 7(1)). The Commissioners may for these purposes designate any marker which appears to them to be used for the purposes of the law of any place, whether within or outside the United Kingdom, for identifying hydrocarbon oil that is not to be used as fuel for road vehicles, or for road vehicles of a particular description: Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 24A(3) (as so added). As to the regulations made in exercise of the power so conferred see the Hydrocarbon Oil (Designated Markers) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/1251 (amended by SI 2002/1773); and the Hydrocarbon Oil (Marking) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/1773. For the meaning of 'hydrocarbon oil' see PARA 510 ante; and for the meaning of 'road vehicle' see PARA 530 ante. For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 note 6 ante. As to the making of regulations see PARA 509 note 11 ante. As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

2 Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 24A(1) (as added: see note 1 supra). For these purposes, marked oil is to be taken to be used as fuel for a road vehicle if, but only if, it is used as fuel for the engine provided for propelling the vehicle or for an engine which draws its fuel from the same supply as that engine: s 24A(4) (as so added).

3 Ie under ibid s 9 (as amended): see PARA 1218 post.

4 Ibid s 24A(5) (as added: see note 1 supra).

5 On conviction on indictment he is liable to imprisonment for a term not exceeding seven years or a penalty of any amount, or to both and on summary conviction he is liable to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months or a penalty of the statutory maximum, or to both: ibid s 24A(6) (as added: see note 1 supra). As to the statutory maximum see PARA 539 note 15 ante.

6 Ibid s 24A(7) (as added: see note 1 supra). As to forfeiture generally see PARA 1155 et seq post.

579 Penalties for misuse of marked oil

NOTE 2--Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 24A(4) repealed: Finance Act 2008 Sch 5 para 21. See now PARA 550.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(4) HYDROCARBON OIL DUTY/(ix) Production of Oil/580. Excise production.

(ix) Production of Oil

580. Excise production.

No person is to begin production of oil¹ until he has made entry of information concerning the premises and every building, and all plant², on those premises which he intends to use for that purpose³.

Every person who so makes entry of any premises must:

- 1337 (1) if so required by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs, give security by bond or otherwise to the satisfaction of the Commissioners for the payment of duty on oil produced or stored on the entered premises⁴;
- 1338 (2) if so required by the Commissioners in respect of any particular description of oil, set aside⁵ a part of the entered premises to be a warehouse, and, upon production by him of oil of that description, and before such oil is delivered or removed from the entered premises, must deposit it in such warehouse⁶.

1 For the meaning of 'oil' see PARA 576 note 3 ante.

2 For these purposes, 'plant' includes any machinery, apparatus, equipment, pipe or vessel: Hydrocarbon Oil Regulations 1973, SI 1973/1311, reg 2 (amended by SI 1981/1134).

3 Hydrocarbon Oil Regulations 1973, SI 1973/1311, reg 3(1) (amended by SI 1981/1134). The Hydrocarbon Oil Regulations 1973, SI 1973/1311, reg 3(1) (as amended) does not apply to production in a refinery, nor to production in the course of use of oil under the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 9 (as amended) (see PARA 533 ante) or s 14 (as amended) (see PARA 541 ante): Hydrocarbon Oil Regulations 1973, SI 1973/1311, reg 3(1) proviso.

4 Ibid reg 3(2). For these purposes, 'entered premises' means premises and plant thereon entered pursuant to reg 3 (as amended): reg 2 (amended by SI 1981/1134). As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

6 Hydrocarbon Oil Regulations 1973, SI 1973/1311, reg 3(3). The provisions of the Excise Warehousing (Etc) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/809, regs 15-17 (see PARAS 676-678 post) apply to entered premises and to refineries as though they were warehouses approved under the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 92 (as amended) (see PARA 670 post): Hydrocarbon Oil Regulations 1973, SI 1973/1311, reg 4 (amended by SI 1996/2537).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(4) HYDROCARBON OIL DUTY/(ix) Production of Oil/581. Refineries.

581. Refineries.

No person is, elsewhere than in a refinery, to produce oil¹ from imported oil, to refine imported oil, or to incorporate gas² in oil³.

If a refinery does not include a warehouse approved by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs⁴ for the deposit of any particular description of oil, the occupier of the refinery must, if so required by the Commissioners, provide such a warehouse in relation to that refinery, and, on production and removal of oils of such descriptions as the Commissioners specify from the refinery, deposit them in that warehouse⁵.

Imported oil intended to be removed to a refinery must on importation be entered for warehousing⁶.

Before any oil is taken for use in a refinery, the occupier of the refinery must, if so required by the Commissioners, set aside such oil for such use; and oil so set aside must not, save as the Commissioners allow, be diverted to any other use nor for any other purpose⁷.

The occupier of a refinery must, if so required by the Commissioners, give security by bond or otherwise to the satisfaction of the Commissioners for the payment of duty on oil produced at, or received into, that refinery⁸.

1 For the meaning of 'oil' see PARA 576 note 3 ante.

2 For these purposes, 'gas' means hydrocarbon gas and includes all hydrocarbons which are gaseous at a temperature of 15°C and under a pressure of 1013.25 millibars: Hydrocarbon Oil Regulations 1973, SI 1973/1311, reg 2 (amended by SI 1977/1868).

3 Hydrocarbon Oil Regulations 1973, SI 1973/1311, reg 5(1). Regulation 5(1) does not apply to persons approved for the purposes of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 9 (as amended) (see PARA 533 ante) or s 14(1) (as amended) (see PARA 541 ante) in respect of oil delivered under the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 9 (as amended) (see PARA 533 ante) or s 14 (as amended) (see PARA 541 ante): Hydrocarbon Oil Regulations 1973, SI 1973/1311, reg 5(1) proviso (amended by SI 2002/1471).

582. Storage and warehousing.

The occupier of a warehouse must not in that warehouse:

- 1339 (1) use any place or plant¹ unless the same has been approved by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs² and bears conspicuous distinguishing marks; or
- 1340 (2) add to, alter, demolish or remove any place or plant which has been approved by the Commissioners unless he has given two days' previous notice thereof in writing to the authorised person³.

Save as the Commissioners may otherwise allow, the occupier of a warehouse not approved as a refinery must not in the warehouse mix light oil with any other oil⁴ so as to produce an oil which is not a light oil⁵.

The occupier of entered premises⁶, of a refinery or of a warehouse must furnish to the authorised person within seven days of the receipt of any oil into the entered premises, refinery or warehouse a certificate showing the quantity and description of oil received and the name of the person and the place whence received⁷.

The occupier of entered premises, of a refinery or of a warehouse must, within such time as the Commissioners may allow, issue to the consignee, in respect of any oil which he removes or allows to be removed from the entered premises, refinery or warehouse, a delivery note showing:

- 1341 (a) the address of the premises from which that oil is removed;
- 1342 (b) the date of that removal;
- 1343 (c) the description and quantity in standard litres of that oil;
- 1344 (d) the name and address of the consignee;
- 1345 (e) identifying particulars of the conveying ship or vehicle or other means of transport; and
- 1346 (f) if the oil is required to be marked⁸, the required statements⁹.

The occupier of entered premises, of a refinery or of a warehouse must, unless the authorised person otherwise allows, cause oil at the time of its removal from the entered premises, refinery or warehouse, by a ship or vehicle, to be accompanied by the delivery note so required¹⁰, or by a copy thereof or by a document which shows:

- 1347 (i) the description and quantity in standard litres of the oil at the time of its removal from the entered premises, refinery or warehouse;
- 1348 (ii) if the oil is required to be marked¹¹, the required statements¹²;
- 1349 (iii) identifying particulars of the conveying ship or vehicle;
- 1350 (iv) particulars sufficient to identify the delivery note required as aforesaid in respect of the oil in question; and
- 1351 (v) the name and address of the person who holds the delivery note as aforesaid or record of the particulars required to be shown on such delivery note¹³.

Where the authorised person requires the use of a particular method of measurement or of calibration or of conversion tables to ascertain any quantity of oil at or received into, used at or delivered from entered premises, a refinery or warehouse, the occupier of the entered premises, the refinery or the warehouse must comply with such requirement¹⁴.

583. Provision of facilities.

The occupier of entered premises¹, of a refinery, or of a warehouse and any person approved², individually or as a member of a class, must, to the satisfaction of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs³, provide such measuring appliance, gauges, calibration and conversion tables and must afford such facilities and assistance as may be required by an authorised person⁴ for the examination, taking account of or sampling any oil on the premises of such occupier or such approved person⁵.

An authorised person may enter and inspect any premises, other than a private dwelling house, and may inspect, test or sample any oil on those premises, or any oil in or on or forming part of the fuel supply of any vehicle on those premises, whether or not such vehicle is in the same ownership as those premises; and the right of entry so afforded to an authorised person extends to any vehicle for the time being used by him for carrying out these provisions⁶. Any person occupying or for the time being in charge of any premises so entered by an authorised person must, when required by the authorised person, give facilities for inspecting, testing or sampling any oil found on those premises or in or on or forming part of the fuel supply of any vehicle on those premises⁷.

An authorised person may examine any vehicle and may inspect, test or sample any oil in or on or forming part of the fuel supply of any vehicle⁸.

Any expression used in the Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 or in any instrument made thereunder to which a meaning is given by any other Act included in the Customs and Excise Acts 1979 has, except where the context otherwise requires, the same meaning in the Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 or in any such instrument as in that Act: s 10(3). Any provision of the Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 relating to anything done or required or authorised to be done under or by reference to that provision or any other provision of that Act has effect as if any reference to that provision, or that other provision, as the case may be, included a reference to the corresponding provision of the enactments repealed by that Act: s 11(2). Nothing in s 11(2) is to be taken as prejudicing the operation of the Interpretation Act 1978 ss 15-17 (effect of repeals: see STATUTES vol 44(1) (Reissue) PARAS 1303, 1306-1309): Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 s 11(4).

(ii) Charge to Duty

586. Charge to duty.

Tobacco products¹ imported² into or manufactured in the United Kingdom are chargeable to a duty of excise³ at the following rates:

- 1352 (1) in the case of cigarettes, an amount equal to 22 per cent of the retail price⁴ plus £105.10 per 1,000 cigarettes⁵;
- 1353 (2) in the case of cigars, £153.07 per kilogram;
- 1354 (3) in the case of hand-rolling tobacco⁶, £110.02 per kilogram;
- 1355 (4) in the case of other smoking tobacco and chewing tobacco, £67.30 per kilogram⁷.

The Treasury may by order made by statutory instrument⁸ increase or decrease any of the rates of duty for the time being in force by such percentage of the rate, not exceeding 10 per cent, as may be specified in the order; but any such order ceases to be in force at the expiration of a period of one year from the date on which it takes effect unless continued in force by a further such order⁹. In relation to any order so made to continue, vary or replace a previous order so made, the reference to the rate for the time being is a reference to the rate that would be in force if no such order had been made¹⁰.

1 For the meaning of 'tobacco products' see PARA 589 post.

2 As to importation see PARA 950 et seq post. Imported tobacco products may, however, be delivered on importation without payment of tobacco products duty for deposit in premises registered under the Tobacco Products Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1712 (as amended) (see PARA 587 et seq post), provided that the products are treated thereafter in all respects as if they had been manufactured in the United Kingdom: HM Revenue and Customs Notice 48 Extra-statutory Concessions (March 2002) PARA 10.4. For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 note 6 ante.

3 As to excise generally see PARA 389 et seq ante.

4 As to how the retail price is to be calculated see PARA 590 post.

5 For the purposes of the reference to 1,000 cigarettes, any cigarette more than 9 centimetres long, excluding any filter or mouthpiece, is to be treated as if each 9 centimetres or part thereof were a separate cigarette: Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 s 4 (amended by the Finance Act 1981 s 139(6), Sch 19 Pt III).

6 For the meaning of 'hand-rolling tobacco' see PARA 587 note 12 post.

As to the payment of duty see PARA 650 et seq post. As to temporary relief from excise duty on relevant tobacco products acquired in a specified country and transported to the United Kingdom by the person who acquired them see the Customs and Excise Duties (Travellers' Allowances and Personal Reliefs) (New Member States) Order 2004, SI 2004/1002 (amended by SI 2006/3157).

8 As to the Treasury see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARAS 512-517. Any such statutory instrument by which there is made an order increasing the rate in force at the time of the making of the order must be laid before the House of Commons after being made; and, unless the order is approved by that House before the expiration of 28 days beginning with the date on which it was made, it ceases to have effect on the expiration of that period, but without prejudice to anything previously done under it or to the making of a new order: Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 s 6(3). In reckoning any such period, no account is to be taken of any time during which Parliament is dissolved or prorogued or during which the House of Commons is adjourned for more than four days: s 6(3). A statutory instrument made under s 6(1) to which s 6(3) does not apply is subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of the House of Commons: s 6(4). At the date at which this volume states the law no such order had been made.

9 Ibid s 6(1). For these purposes, the percentage and the amount per 1,000 cigarettes in Sch 1, Table para 1 (as substituted) (see head (1) in the text) are to be treated as separate rates of duty: s 6(5) (amended by the Finance Act 1981 Sch 19 Pt III). The power to alter the rates of duty by order under the Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 s 6 (as amended) takes the place of the more general power conferred by the Excise Duties (Surcharges or Rebates) Act 1979 s 1 (as amended) (see PARA 620 post), which does not apply to the excise duty on tobacco products (see s 1(1)(c)(i)).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(5) TOBACCO PRODUCTS DUTY/(ii) Charge to Duty/587. Excise duty points.

587. Excise duty points.

The excise duty point for tobacco products is, subject to the following provisions, the time when the tobacco products are charged with duty¹.

In the case of tobacco products acquired by a person in another member state² for his own use³ and transported by him to the United Kingdom⁴, the excise duty point is the time when those products are held or used for a commercial purpose by any person⁵.

If any duty suspension arrangements⁶ apply to the tobacco products, the excise duty point is the earlier of:

- 1356 (1) the time of their removal from any registered premises⁷ for home use;
- 1357 (2) the time of their consumption;
- 1358 (3) the time when there is any contravention of, or failure to comply with, duty suspension arrangements;
- 1359 (4) the time when the contravention of, or failure to comply with, duty suspension arrangements first came to the attention of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs⁸;
- 1360 (5) the time of their receipt by a REDS⁹;
- 1361 (6) the time of their receipt by the person who arranged for a REDS to account for the duty on them;
- 1362 (7) the time of their receipt by a person approved as an occasional importer¹⁰;
- 1363 (8) in the case of tobacco products that are not received by the person or at the place to which they were consigned, the time when they are charged with duty;
- 1364 (9) the time when premises cease to be registered premises;
- 1365 (10) the time when they are found to be missing from registered premises¹¹.

In the case of chewing tobacco¹² that is imported into the United Kingdom having been consigned from another member state, the excise duty point, unless other provisions apply¹³, is the time the chewing tobacco is received by the importer, owner or other person beneficially interested in it¹⁴.

If tobacco products have been relieved from payment of duty and there is a contravention of any condition subject to which the relief was afforded, the excise duty point is the time of that contravention, or, if that time cannot be readily ascertained, the time when that contravention first came to the attention of the Commissioners¹⁵.

Where the tobacco product is received¹⁶ after 11.59 am on a day on which an increase in the rate of duty chargeable on that product takes effect, the time of receipt is deemed to be the time at which that increase takes effect¹⁷.

These provisions do not apply to tobacco products that are warehoused in an excise warehouse¹⁸.

1 Tobacco Products Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1712, reg 12(1). 'Duty', except in reg 12(1B)(d) (as added), means the duty of excise charged on tobacco products by the Tobacco Products Act 1979 s 2(1) (as amended) (see PARA 586 ante): Tobacco Products Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1712, reg 3(1) (amended by SI 2002/2692).

2 'Member state' includes the Principality of Monaco and San Marino and the United Kingdom Sovereign Base Areas of Akrotiri and Dhekelia, but does not include the Island of Heligoland and the territory of Büsingen in the Federal Republic of Germany, Livigno, Campione d'Italia and the waters of Lake Lugano in the Italian Republic, Ceuta, Melilla and the Canary Islands in the Kingdom of Spain, or the overseas departments of the French Republic: Tobacco Products Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1712, reg 12(1B)(a) (added by SI 2002/2692; and amended by SI 2004/1003).

As to the excise duty point for tobacco products acquired in a new member state see the Excise Duty Points (Etc) (New Member States) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/1003, reg 3 (which applies until a specified date).

3 'Own use' includes use as a personal gift: Tobacco Products Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1712, reg 12(1B)(b) (reg 12(1B) added by SI 2002/2692).

4 For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 note 6 ante.

5 Tobacco Products Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1712, reg 12(1A) (added by SI 2002/2692). If the tobacco products in question are transferred to another person for money or money's worth, including any reimbursement of expenses incurred in connection with obtaining them, or the person holding them intends to make such a transfer, those products are to be regarded as being held for a commercial purpose: Tobacco Products Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1712, reg 12(1B)(c) (as added: see note 3 supra). If the products are not duty and tax paid in the member state at the time of acquisition, or the duty and tax that was paid will be or has been reimbursed, refunded or otherwise dispensed with, those products are to be regarded as being held for a commercial purpose: reg 12(1B)(d) (as so added). Without prejudice to reg 12(1B)(c), (d) (as added), in determining whether tobacco products are held or used for a commercial purpose by any person regard must be taken of: (1) that person's reasons for having possession or control of those products; (2) whether or not that person is a revenue trader, as defined in the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 1(1) (see PARA 631 note 3 ante); (3) that person's conduct, including his intended use of those products or any refusal to disclose his intended use of those products; (4) the location of those products; (5) the mode of transport used to convey those products; (6) any document or other information whatsoever relating to those products; (7) the nature of those products including the nature and condition of any package or container; (8) the quantity of those products, and in particular, whether the quantity exceeds any of the following quantities: (a) 3,200 cigarettes; (b) 400 cigarillos (cigars weighing no more than 3 grammes each); (c) 200 cigars; (d) 3 kilogrammes of any other tobacco products; (9) whether that person personally financed the purchase of those products; (10) any other circumstance that appears to be relevant: Tobacco Products Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1712, reg 12(1B) (e) (as so added). The fact that the quantity of the goods did not exceed the figure in the guidelines is not decisive as to whether the goods were held for commercial purposes or for private use; it is merely one of the relevant factors: Harrison v Revenue and Customs Comrs [2006] EWHC 2844 (Ch), [2006] All ER (D) 189 (Nov).

6 'Duty suspension arrangements' means any arrangements, including arrangements made by these provisions, that enable tobacco products to be held or moved without payment of duty: Tobacco Products Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1712, reg 3(1).

7 'Registered premises' means any registered factory or any registered store; 'registered factory' has the meaning given in ibid reg 4 (as amended) (see PARA 596 post); 'registered store' has the meaning given by reg 5 (as amended) (see PARA 597 post): reg 3(1). 9 'REDS' means a registered excise dealer and shipper approved and registered under the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 100G (as added) (see PARA 647 post), other than a registered excise dealer and shipper on whom any privilege is conferred by the Warehousekeepers and Owners of Warehoused Goods Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1278 (as amended), or who is only a registered excise dealer and shipper by virtue of his being registered as a registered mobile operator for the purposes of the Excise Goods (Sales on Board Ships and Aircraft) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1565: Tobacco Products Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1712, reg 3(1).

12 In the Tobacco Products Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1712 (as amended), references to 'cigarettes', 'hand-rolling tobacco', and 'chewing tobacco' are references to the products described in the Tobacco Products (Descriptions of Products) Order 2003, SI 2003/1471: Tobacco Products Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1712, reg 3(1A) (added by SI 2003/1523).

588. Person liable to pay duty.

The person liable to pay the duty¹ is the person holding the tobacco products at the excise duty point².

Any person, not being the person specified above, who is described below is jointly and severally liable to pay the duty with the person specified above³. Those persons are: (1) the occupier of the registered premises⁴ in which the tobacco products were last situated before the excise duty point; (2) any REDS⁵ to whom the tobacco products were consigned; (3) any person who arranged for a REDS to account for the duty on the tobacco products; (4) any person approved as an occasional importer⁶ to whom the tobacco products were consigned; and (5) any person who caused the tobacco products to reach an excise duty point⁷.

Regulation 13(3)(a) (see head (1) in the text) does not apply if the tobacco products were lawfully removed from the occupier's registered premises and he did not provide security for the accomplishment of the purpose for which the tobacco products were lawfully removed, and some other person did provide security for the accomplishment of that purpose: reg 13(4). In such a case, the person who provided security for the accomplishment of the purpose for which the tobacco products were removed from registered premises is jointly and severally liable to pay the duty with any other person who is liable to pay the duty: reg 13(5). 'Occupier' means the manufacturer who occupies a registered factory (see PARA 596 post) or, as the case may be, a registered store (see PARA 597 post): reg 3(1). 'Manufacturer' means any person who manufactures tobacco products in premises that may be registered as a registered factory: reg 3(1). For these purposes, two bodies corporate may be treated jointly as a manufacturer if: (1) one of them manufactures tobacco products in premises that may be registered as a registered factory; (2) one of the other body corporate's principal activities is the storage of tobacco products manufactured by the first mentioned body corporate; and (3) one of them controls the other or, although neither controls the other, they are both controlled by the same body corporate: reg 3(2). 588 Person liable to pay duty

TEXT AND NOTES--SI 2001/1712 reg 13 revoked: SI 2010/593.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(5) TOBACCO PRODUCTS DUTY/(ii) Charge to Duty/589. Meaning of 'tobacco products'.

589. Meaning of 'tobacco products'.

'Tobacco products' means any of the following products, namely:

- 1366 (1) cigarettes¹;
- 1367 (2) cigars²;
- 1368 (3) hand-rolling tobacco;
- 1369 (4) other smoking tobacco; and
- 1370 (5) chewing tobacco, which are manufactured wholly or partly from tobacco or any substance used as a substitute for tobacco, but does not include herbal smoking products³.

The Treasury may by order made by statutory instrument⁴ provide that references⁵ to cigarettes, cigars, hand-rolling tobacco, other smoking tobacco and chewing tobacco are or are not to include references to any product of a description specified in the order, being a product manufactured as mentioned above but not including herbal smoking products⁶.

1 For these purposes, references to cigarettes include references to any rolls of tobacco capable of being smoked as they are and not falling within any of the descriptions in the Tobacco Products (Cigarettes and Cigars) Order 1977, SI 1977/1979, arts 3, 4, Schedule (see note 2 infra): art 3 (revoked; but see note 6 infra).

2 For these purposes, references to cigars include references to tobacco products falling within any of the following descriptions, ie any cigar capable of being smoked as it is and which is:

- 91 (1) a roll of tobacco with an outer wrapper of natural tobacco; or
- 92 (2) a roll of tobacco containing predominantly broken or threshed leaf, with a binder of reconstituted tobacco and with an outer wrapper which is of reconstituted tobacco having the normal colour of a cigar and which is fitted spirally; or
- 93 (3) a roll of tobacco containing predominantly broken or threshed leaf: (a) with an outer wrapper of reconstituted tobacco having the normal colour of a cigar; and (b) having a unit weight, exclusive of any detachable filter or mouthpiece of not less than 2.3 grams; and (c) having a circumference over at least one-third of its length of not less than 34 millimetres, and references to cigars do not include tobacco products of any other description: ibid art 4, Schedule (revoked; but see note 6 infra).

3 Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 ss 1(1), 10(1). For these purposes, 'herbal smoking products' means products commonly known as herbal cigarettes or herbal smoking mixtures: s 1(6). The definition is not, however, wide enough to include snuff.

4 As to the Treasury see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARAS 512-517. A statutory instrument by which there is made such an order must be laid before the House of Commons after being made; and, unless the order is approved by that House before the expiration of 28 days beginning with the date on which it was made, it ceases to have effect on the expiration of that period, but without prejudice to anything previously done under it or to the making of a new order: ibid s 1(4). In reckoning any such period, no account is to be taken of any time during which Parliament is dissolved or prorogued or during which the House of Commons is adjourned for more than four days: s 1(4). Section 1(4) does not apply to any order containing a statement by the Treasury that the order does not extend the incidence to duty or involve a greater charge to duty or a reduction of any relief; and a statutory instrument by which any such order is made is subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of the House of Commons: s 1(5).

5 le in the Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979.

6 Ibid s 1(3). Any such order may amend or repeal s 1(2) or s 1(2A) (as added): s 1(3) (amended by the Finance Act 1993 s 14(5)). The Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 s 1(2), (2A) were repealed by the Tobacco Products (Descriptions of Products) Order 2003, SI 2003/1471, art 3(1); and, by virtue of the Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2)(b) and the Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 s 11(4) (see PARA 585 note 3 ante), the Tobacco Products (Cigarettes and Cigars) Order 1977, SI 1977/1979 (see notes 1-2 supra) has effect as if made under the Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 s 1(3).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(5) TOBACCO PRODUCTS DUTY/(ii) Charge to Duty/590. Retail price of cigarettes.

590. Retail price of cigarettes.

For the purposes of the tobacco products duty chargeable¹ at any time in respect of cigarettes of any description, the retail price of the cigarettes is to be taken to be:

- 1371 (1) the higher of: (a) the recommended retail price² for the sale by retail³ at that time in the United Kingdom of cigarettes of that description; and (b) any (or, if more than one, the highest) retail price shown at that time on the packaging of the cigarettes in question; or
- 1372 (2) if there is no such price recommended or shown, the highest price at which cigarettes of that description are normally sold by retail at that time in the United Kingdom⁴.

The duty in respect of any number of cigarettes is chargeable by reference to the price which is so applicable to cigarettes sold in packets of 20 or of such other number as the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may determine in relation to cigarettes of the description in question; and the whole of the price of a packet is to be regarded as referable to the cigarettes it contains, notwithstanding that it also contains a coupon, token, card or other additional item⁵.

In any case in which duty is chargeable in accordance with head (2) above:

- 1373 (i) the question as to what price is applicable under that head is to be determined by the Commissioners; and
- 1374 (ii) the Commissioners may require security⁶, by deposit of money or otherwise to their satisfaction, for the payment of duty to be given pending their determination⁷.

Any person who has paid duty in accordance with a determination of the Commissioners under head (i) above and is dissatisfied with their determination may, however, require the question of what price was applicable under head (2) above to be referred to the arbitration of a referee appointed by the Lord Chancellor⁸. The procedure on any such reference to a referee is such as may be determined by the referee⁹. If, on such a reference to him, the referee determines that the price was lower than that determined by the Commissioners, they must repay the duty overpaid together with interest on the overpaid duty from the date of the overpayment at such rate as the referee may determine¹⁰. The referee's decision on any such reference is final and conclusive¹¹.

³ A sale by retail is a sale to a person buying for his own use or consumption; and a sale by wholesale is a sale to a person for resale in the course of a trade: see Chappell & Co Ltd v Nestlé Co Ltd [1958] Ch 529, [1958] 2 All ER 155, CA; on appeal [1960] AC 87, [1959] 2 All ER 701, HL.

The appointment is to be made only with the concurrence of the Lord Chief Justice of England and Wales, if the determination of the Commissioners was made in relation to England and Wales: Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 s 5(8) (added by the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 Sch 4 para 98(3)). The Lord Chief Justice of England and Wales may nominate a judicial office holder (as defined in the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 s 109(4); see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS) to exercise his functions under the Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 s 5 (as amended): s 5(10) (added by the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 Sch 4 para 98(3)). (iii) Management of Duty

A. IN GENERAL

591. Regulations for the management of duty.

With a view to managing the duty on tobacco products¹, the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may make regulations²:

- 1375 (1) prescribing the method of charging the duty and for securing and collecting the duty;
- 1376 (2) for charging the duty, in such circumstances as may be specified in the regulations, by reference to the weight of the tobacco products at a time specified in the regulations or by the Commissioners (whether the time at which the products become chargeable or that at which the duty becomes payable or any other time);
- 1377 (3) for the registration of premises for the safe storage of tobacco products and for requiring the deposit of tobacco products in, and regulating their storage and treatment in and removal from, premises so registered;
- 1378 (4) for the registration of premises for the manufacture of tobacco products, for restricting or prohibiting the manufacture of tobacco products otherwise than in premises so registered and for regulating their storage and treatment in, and removal from, such premises;
- 1379 (5) for the registration of premises where:
 - 52 97. (a) materials for the manufacture of tobacco products are grown, produced, stored or treated; or
 - 98. (b) refuse from the manufacture of tobacco products is stored or treated,
 - 53
- 1380 and for regulating the storage and treatment in, and removal from, premises so registered of such materials and refuse;
- 1381 (6) for requiring the keeping and preservation of such records, the notification of such information, and the making of such returns, as may be specified in the regulations or required by the Commissioners³; and
- 1382 (7) for the inspection of goods⁴, documents and premises⁵.

If any person fails to comply with any regulation so made, his failure to comply attracts a civil penalty under the Finance Act 1994⁶; and any article in respect of which any person fails to comply with any such regulation, or which is found on premises in respect of which any person has failed to comply with any such regulation, is liable to forfeiture⁷.

² Any power to make regulations under the Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 is exercisable by statutory instrument; and any statutory instrument by which the power is exercised is subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: s 9(1) (renumbered by the Finance Act 2006 s 2(2)). Such regulations: (1) may enable the Commissioners to dispense with compliance with a provision of the regulations

(whether absolutely or conditionally); (2) may make provision generally or only in relation to specified cases or circumstances; (3) may make different provision in relation to different cases or circumstances; and (4) may include transitional, consequential or incidental provision: Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 s 9(2) (added by the Finance Act 2006 s 2(2)). As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

3 As to the charge to duty in case of default see PARA 592 post.

4 For these purposes, 'goods', except where the context otherwise requires, has the same meaning as in the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 (see PARA 413 note 1 ante): Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 s 10(3).

5 Ibid s 7(1) (amended by the Finance Act 2000 ss 15(1), (3)-(7), 156, Sch 40 Pt I(2)). Regulations under the Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 s 7(1) (as amended) may, in particular, include provision imposing, or providing for the imposition under the regulations of, conditions and restrictions relating to any of the matters mentioned in s 7(1) (as amended); and enabling the Commissioners to dispense with compliance with any provision contained in the regulations in such circumstances and subject to such conditions (if any) as they may determine: s 7(1A) (added by the Finance Act 2000 s 15(3), (9)). As to the regulations made in exercise of the power so conferred see the Tobacco Products Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1712 (amended by SI 2002/2692; SI 2003/1523; SI 2006/1787; SI 2006/2368), the Excise Duty Points (Etc) (New Member States) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/1003 (amended by SI 2006/3159); and the Tobacco Products and Excise Goods (Amendment) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/1787. Any decision which is made under or for the purposes of any regulations made under the Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 s 7 (as amended), and is: (1) a decision as to whether or not any duty is remitted or repaid, or as to the conditions subject to which it is remitted or repaid; or (2) as to whether or not any premises are to be, or are to continue to be, registered for any purpose or as to the conditions subject to which any premises are so registered, is subject to review and to appeal to a VAT and duties tribunal: see the Finance Act 1994 ss 14(1)(d), (2)-(7), 15, 16 (as amended), Sch 5 para 5; and PARAS 1240, 1249, 1252 et seq post.

The Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 49(3) (see PARA 464 ante) applies to events involving goods in a control zone in the same way it applies to events involving goods in the United Kingdom: Channel Tunnel (Alcoholic Liquor and Tobacco Products) Order 2003, SI 2003/2758, art 4(b).

592. Charge in cases of default.

Where the records or returns kept or made by any person¹ show that any tobacco products² or materials for their manufacture are or have been in his possession or under his control, the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may from time to time require him to account for those products or materials³.

Unless a person so required to account for any products or materials proves:

- 1383 (1) that duty has been paid or secured⁴ in respect of the products or, as the case may be, products manufactured from the materials; or
- 1384 (2) that the products or materials are being or have been otherwise dealt with⁵, the Commissioners may assess an amount as duty due from him⁶ in respect of those products or, as the case may be, in respect of such products as in their opinion might reasonably be expected to be manufactured from those materials; and they may notify him or his representative accordingly⁷.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(5) TOBACCO PRODUCTS DUTY/(iii) Management of Duty/A. IN GENERAL/593. Fiscal marks on tobacco products.

593. Fiscal marks on tobacco products.

Fiscal marking¹ applies to tobacco products that are cigarettes or hand-rolling tobacco².

Any article in respect of which a person fails to comply with any requirement imposed by or under these provisions³ is liable to forfeiture⁴. If such provisions require any tobacco products to carry a period of sale mark⁵, and if (at a prohibited time⁶) a person sells by way of retail sale, or exposes for retail sale, any tobacco products that carry such a mark, he is liable to a civil penalty and the products are liable to forfeiture⁷. If a person is in possession of, transports or displays, sells, offers for sale or otherwise deals in unmarked products⁸, that person commits an offence and the products are liable to forfeiture⁹.

A manager of premises¹⁰ commits an offence if he allows them to be used for the sale of unmarked products, and is liable to a penalty¹¹.

Where a person alters or overprints (or causes to be altered or overprinted) any fiscal mark carried (as required by these provisions) by any tobacco products, he is liable to a civil penalty¹² and the products are liable to forfeiture¹³.

1 'Fiscal mark' means a mark carried by tobacco products indicating all or any of the following: (1) that excise duty has been paid on the products; (2) the rate at which that duty was so paid; (3) the amount of the duty so paid; (4) when the duty was so paid; and (5) that sale of the products is only permissible after (or on or after), and not permissible before (or before or on) a date so ascertainable: Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 s 8C(2) (ss 8A-8J added by the Finance Act 2000 s 14). The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may make provision by regulations requiring the carrying of fiscal marks by tobacco products to which fiscal marking applies, and as to such matters relating to fiscal marks as appear to them to be necessary or expedient: Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 s 8C(1) (as so added). As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post. Regulations under these provisions may, in particular, make provision about: (a) the contents of a fiscal mark; (b) the appearance of a fiscal mark; (c) in the case of tobacco products that have more than one layer of packaging, which of the layers is (or are) to carry a fiscal mark; (d) the positioning of a fiscal mark on the packaging of any tobacco products; and (e) when tobacco products are required to carry a fiscal mark: s 8C(3) (as so added). Such regulations may make different provision for different cases (s 8C(4) (as so added)); and the Commissioners may regulate any of the matters mentioned in heads (a)-(e) supra by notices published by them (s 8D(1) (as so added)). A notice under s 8D (as added) may provide for provision made by regulations under s 8C (as added) to have effect subject to provisions of the notice: s 8D(2) (as so added). A notice under s 8D (as added) may make different provision for different cases: s 8D(3) (as so added).

As to the provisions made under head (e) supra see the Tobacco Products Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1712, reg 22, which applies to specified tobacco products. For these purposes, 'specified tobacco products' means tobacco products that are cigarettes, or hand-rolling tobacco other than hand-rolling tobacco intended for retail sale in loose form that is supplied by the manufacturer or importer in packets that each contain not less than 500 grams: reg 21(2). Subject to reg 23 (see note 2 infra), specified tobacco products that are manufactured in, imported into or removed to home use within the United Kingdom on or after 1 June 2001, or whenever manufactured in, imported into or removed to home use within the United Kingdom, that are held by a person who is a revenue trader on or after 1 July 2001, are required to carry a fiscal mark, and must not be packaged otherwise than in packets that, in conformity with requirements imposed under the Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 ss 8C(3), 8D (as added), carry a fiscal mark: Tobacco Products Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1712, reg 22(1), (2). Specified imported tobacco products that are required to carry a fiscal mark must carry a fiscal mark at the time they are imported: reg 22(3). As to removal of specified tobacco products from registered premises see PARA 606 post. For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 note 6 ante.

2 Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 s 8A (as added: see note 1 supra). The Commissioners may by order made by statutory instrument amend these provisions:

94 (1) for the purposes of causing fiscal marking to apply to any description of tobacco products to which it does not apply; or

95 (2) to cease to apply to any description of tobacco products to which it does apply, and where fiscal marking applies to any description of tobacco products, the Commissioners may by regulations provide that fiscal marking does not apply to such products of that description as are of a description specified in the regulations: s 8B(1), (2) (s 8B as added: see note 1 supra). A statutory instrument containing (whether alone or with other provisions) an order under head (1) supra must be laid before, and approved by a resolution of, each House of Parliament; otherwise it is subject to annulment by a resolution of either House: s 8B(3), (4) (as so added). As to the provision so made see the Tobacco Products Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1712, reg 23 (amended by SI 2002/2692), which excepts specified tobacco products (see note 1 supra) from the requirement to carry a fiscal mark.

Specified tobacco products are not required to carry a fiscal mark if: (a) they are not intended for home use and are not delivered to home use or otherwise made available for home use; (b) they were acquired by a person in another member state for his own use and transported by him to the United Kingdom; (c) in accordance with an order made under the Customs and Excise Duties (General Reliefs) Act 1979 s 13(1) (see PARA 875 post), s 13A(1) (as added) (see PARA 887 post) relief from duty is afforded and the conditions (if any) subject to which that relief was afforded are complied with; or (d) they are intended for supply to, or have been supplied to, entitled passengers in an export shop: Tobacco Products Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1712, reg 23(1) (amended by SI 2002/2692). For these purposes, 'entitled passengers' and 'export shop' have the meanings given in the Excise Goods (Export Shops) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/645, reg 3: Tobacco Products Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1712, reg 23(4). Specified tobacco products acquired by private individuals for their own use and transported by them to the United Kingdom are not required to carry a fiscal mark if: (i) relief from duty would have been afforded by an order made under the Customs and Excise Duties (General Reliefs) Act 1979 s 13(1) (see PARA 875 post), but for the fact that the quantity of those products exceeds any limit on quantity specified in the order; and (ii) those products are declared as required by the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 78(1) (see PARA 944 post); and (iii) the duty on those products is paid: Tobacco Products Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1712, reg 23(1A) (added by SI 2006/1787). Specified tobacco products are not required to carry a fiscal mark if, having been removed to home use on payment of excise duty in the Isle of Man, they carry a mark prescribed for fiscal purposes in conformity with the requirements of the law of the Isle of Man, and the excise duty paid in the Isle of Man has not been and will not be repaid, remitted or drawn back: Tobacco Products Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1712, reg 23(2). Specified tobacco products are not required to carry a fiscal mark if those products are not sold or offered for sale and are, upon being removed to home use, supplied by the occupier of the registered premises from which they were removed to a person who will use them solely for one or both of the following purposes: (A) testing quality; or (B) testing products that are being developed: reg 23(2A) (added by SI 2006/1787). Specified tobacco products that are not required to carry a fiscal mark must not carry a fiscal mark: Tobacco Products Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1712, reg 23(3).

3 le regulations made under the Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 s 8C (as added) or a notice published under s 8D (as added): s 8E(1) (as added: see note 1 supra).

4 Ibid s 8E(1), (2) (as added: see note 1 supra). As to forfeiture generally see PARA 1155 et seq post. The person's failure to comply also attracts a civil penalty under the Finance Act 1994 s 9 (as amended) (see PARA 1218 post): Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 s 8E(3) (as so added). In a case where the failure involves post-dating of any tobacco products, the Commissioners may by regulations make provision for the penalty to be calculated by reference to the duty currently charged on the products (ie the amount of the duty charged under s 2 (as amended) (see PARA 586 ante) that would be payable on the products if the requirement to pay the duty took effect at the time of the failure): s 8E(4), (5) (as so added). 'Post-dating' means that the products carry a fiscal mark ('the later period mark') that is not one they are required to carry by virtue of these provisions, and is one they would be so required to carry if the requirement to pay the duty charged on them under s 2 (as amended) took effect at a time later than that at which it in fact takes effect: s 8E(4) (as so added).

5 le a fiscal mark indicating any of the matters mentioned in note 1 head (5) supra: ibid s 8F(2) (as added: see note 1 supra).

6 le a time when, according to the mark, a sale of the products bearing it is not permissible: ibid s 8F(2) (as added: see note 1 supra).

7 Ibid s 8F(1), (3) (as added: see note 1 supra). The penalty is a civil penalty under the Finance Act 1994 s 9 (as amended) (see PARA 1218 post): Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 s 8F(3) (as so added).

8 le tobacco products that are subject to fiscal marking but do not carry a compliant duty-paid fiscal mark: ibid s 8G(1) (as added: see note 1 supra). 'Duty-paid fiscal mark' means a fiscal mark carried by such products indicating that excise duty has been paid on them; and it is 'compliant' if it complies with all relevant requirements for any duty-paid fiscal mark required under these provisions to be carried by those products: s 8G(2), (3) (as so added). 'Relevant requirement' means a requirement imposed by these provisions as to any of the matters mentioned in note 1 heads (1)-(4) supra: s 8G(3) (as so added).

9 Ibid s 8G(4) (as added: see note 1 supra). Such a person is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding level 5 on the standard scale: see s 8G(6) (as so added). As to the standard scale see PARA 79 note 3 ante. It is a defence for a person charged with such an offence to prove that the unmarked products were not required by these provisions to carry such a mark: s 8G(5) (as so added). An offence is not committed under s 8G(4) (as added) where: (1) the conduct took place before 1 July 2001; (2) a person is afforded relief from duty in accordance with an order under the Customs and Excise Duties (General Reliefs) Act 1979 ss 13(1), 13A(1) (see PARAS 875, 887 post), unless his conduct occasioned the excise duty point prescribed by the Tobacco Products Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1712, reg 12(4) (see PARA 587 ante); and (3) any person is, in accordance with the Finance Act 1994 s 13 (as amended) (see PARA 1224 post), the subject of an assessment to a penalty for conduct falling within the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 170A(1)(a) (as added) (see PARA 1220 post): Tobacco Products Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1712, reg 25.

10 Ie a person who is entitled to control the use of the premises, is entrusted with their management, or is in charge of them: Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 s 8H(8) (as added: see note 1 supra).

11 On summary conviction he is liable to a fine not exceeding level 5 on the standard scale: ibid s 8H(1), (3) (as added: see note 1 supra). It is a defence for a person charged with such an offence to prove that the unmarked products were not required under these provisions to carry a duty-paid fiscal mark: s 8H(2) (as so added). A court by or before which a person is convicted of such an offence may make an order prohibiting the use of the premises in question for the sale of tobacco products during a period specified in the order (commencing as specified in the order and not exceeding six months): s 8H(4), (5) (as so added). A manager of premises who breaches such an order is also liable on summary conviction to a penalty not exceeding level 5 on the standard scale: s 8H(6), (7) (as so added).

12 Ie under the Finance Act 1994 s 9 (as amended) (see PARA 1218 post): Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 s 8J(2) (as added: see note 1 supra). Such a penalty is calculated by reference to the duty currently charged on the products (ie the amount of the duty charged under the Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 s 2 (as amended) (see PARA 586 ante) that would be payable on the products if the requirement to pay the duty took effect at the time of the conduct attracting the penalty): s 8J(4) (as so added).

13 Ibid s 8J(1), (3) (as added: see note 1 supra).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(5) TOBACCO PRODUCTS DUTY/(iii) Management of Duty/B. PREVENTING FACILITATION OF SMUGGLING/594. Duty not to facilitate smuggling.

B. PREVENTING FACILITATION OF SMUGGLING

594. Duty not to facilitate smuggling.

A manufacturer of cigarettes or hand-rolling tobacco¹ must so far as is reasonably practicable avoid:

- 1385 (1) supplying cigarettes or hand-rolling tobacco to persons who are likely to smuggle them into the United Kingdom²;
- 1386 (2) supplying cigarettes or hand-rolling tobacco where the nature or circumstances of the supply makes it likely that they will be resupplied to persons who are likely to smuggle them into the United Kingdom; or
- 1387 (3) otherwise facilitating the smuggling into the United Kingdom of cigarettes or hand-rolling tobacco³.

In particular, a manufacturer:

- 1388 (a) in supplying cigarettes or hand-rolling tobacco to persons carrying on business in or in relation to a country other than the United Kingdom, must consider whether the size or nature of the supply suggests that the products may be required for smuggling into the United Kingdom;
- 1389 (b) must maintain a written policy about steps to be taken for the purpose of complying with the duty under heads (1) to (3) above; and
- 1390 (c) must provide a copy of the policy to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs on request⁴.

The Commissioners may notify a manufacturer in writing that they think the risk of smuggling into the United Kingdom is particularly great in relation to products marketed under a specified brand name or products supplied to persons carrying on business in or in relation to a specified country or place⁵.

The Commissioners may by notice in writing require a manufacturer of cigarettes or hand-rolling tobacco to provide, within a specified period of time, specified information about: (i) supply of products marketed under a specified⁶ brand name; (ii) supply to persons carrying on business in or in relation to a specified⁷ country or place; (iii) demand for cigarettes or hand-rolling tobacco in a specified⁸ country or place⁹.

The Commissioners may make regulations:

- 1391 (A) under which they are required to notify manufacturers of cigarettes or hand-rolling tobacco where products of a kind specified in the regulations are seized¹⁰ in circumstances specified in the regulations;
- 1392 (B) specifying the procedure for notification;
- 1393 (C) including provision about access to seized products for the purpose of determining who manufactured them; and

1394 (d) requiring manufacturers to provide the Commissioners with information or documents, of a kind specified in the regulations or determined by the Commissioners, in relation to notified seizures¹¹.

1 For these purposes, a reference to a manufacturer of cigarettes or hand-rolling tobacco includes a reference to a person who, in the opinion of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs, arranges to have cigarettes or hand-rolling tobacco manufactured, and is wholly or partly responsible for the initial supply of the products after manufacture: Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 s 7D(3) (s 7D added by the Finance Act 2006 s 2(1)). Where a manufacturer is a parent undertaking or a subsidiary undertaking (within the meaning of the Companies Act 1985 s 258: see COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 26), the Commissioners may treat the parent and its subsidiaries as a single undertaking for the purpose of the Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 ss 7A-7D (as added), and in particular, they may enforce a penalty imposed on the single undertaking as a debt owed by the single undertaking, the parent or any of the subsidiaries: s 7D(4) (as so added). As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

2 For these purposes, a reference to smuggling products into the United Kingdom is a reference to importing them into the United Kingdom without payment of duty which is chargeable under ibid s 2 (as amended) (see PARA 586 ante), and payable by virtue of the Finance (No 2) Act 1992 s 1(1) (power to fix excise duty point): Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 s 7A(3) (s 7A added by the Finance Act 2006 s 2(1)). For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 note 6 ante.

3 Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 s 7A(1) (as added: see note 2 supra).

4 Ibid s 7A(2) (as added: see note 2 supra). The Commissioners may issue guidance about the content of policies under s 7A(2)(b) (as added) (see head (b) in the text): s 7A(6) (as so added). A notice or guidance under s 7A(4) and s 7A(5), (6) (as added) (see the text and notes 5-9 infra): (1) may be issued to manufacturers generally or to one or more manufacturers or classes of manufacturer; (2) may be expressed to apply to or in respect of manufacturers generally or only to or in respect of one or more specified manufacturers or classes of manufacturer; (3) may make provision generally or only in relation to specified cases or circumstances; (4) may make different provision in relation to different cases or circumstances; and (5) may be varied, replaced or revoked: s 7D(5) (as added: see note 1 supra).

5 Ibid s 7A(4) (as added: see note 2 supra). See note 4 supra.

6 Ie specified under ibid s 7A(4)(a) (as added).

7 Ie specified under ibid s 7A(4)(b) (as added).

8 See note 6 supra.

9 Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 s 7A(5) (as added: see note 2 supra). See note 4 supra.

10 Ie under the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 139 (as amended): see PARA 1155 post.

11 Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 s 7A(7) (as added: see note 2 supra). As to the regulations that have been made see the Tobacco Products (Amendment) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/2368. The Commissioners must provide written notification of a seizure of cigarettes or hand-rolling tobacco under the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 139 (as amended) ('the seized products') to a manufacturer, where the seized products consist of at least 100,000 cigarettes or 50 kilogrammes of hand-rolling tobacco, and the Commissioners believe that the seized products were manufactured by, or that manufacture was arranged by, the manufacturer on or after 1 October 2006: Tobacco Products Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1712, reg 29 (added by SI 2006/2368). The written notification must be accompanied by a sample of the seized products: Tobacco Products Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1712, reg 30(1) (reg 30 added by SI 2006/2368). The remaining seized products must be available for inspection by the manufacturer at any reasonable time for a period of one month beginning with the day on which written notification was given to that manufacturer: Tobacco Products Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1712, reg 30(2) (as so added). A manufacturer who wishes to inspect the remaining seized products must notify the Commissioners of that fact in such form and manner as the Commissioners may specify: reg 30(3) (as so added). In Pt VII (regs 29-31) (as added), 'manufacturer' has the meaning given by the Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 s 7D(3), (4) (as added) (see note 1 supra): Tobacco Products Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1712, reg 3(3) (added by SI 2006/2368).

The information must be provided before the end of the period of one month beginning with the day on which written notification was given to the manufacturer, or at such other time as the Commissioners may allow: Tobacco Products Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1712, reg 31(2) (as so added). 594 Duty not to facilitate smuggling

NOTE 1--Reference is now to Companies Act 2006 s 1162: Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 s 7D(4) (amended by SI 2008/954).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(5) TOBACCO PRODUCTS DUTY/(iii) Management of Duty/B. PREVENTING FACILITATION OF SMUGGLING/595. Penalty for facilitating smuggling.

595. Penalty for facilitating smuggling.

Where the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs think that a manufacturer has without reasonable excuse failed to comply with the duty not to facilitate smuggling¹ they may give him written notice that they are considering requiring him to pay a penalty².

In determining whether to give such notice to a manufacturer, the Commissioners must have regard to:

- 1395 (1) the content of the manufacturer's policy³;
- 1396 (2) compliance with that policy;
- 1397 (3) action taken pursuant to any notice that the Commissioners think the risk of smuggling into the United Kingdom is particularly great⁴;
- 1398 (4) compliance by the manufacturer with any notice to provide information⁵;
- 1399 (5) the number, size and nature of seizures of which the manufacturer has been given notice⁶;
- 1400 (6) compliance by the manufacturer with any requirement to provide information or documents in connection with notified seizures⁷;
- 1401 (7) evidence about the level of demand for the manufacturer's products for consumption outside the United Kingdom; and
- 1402 (8) any other matter that they think relevant⁸.

A notice must specify the matters to which the Commissioners have had regard in determining to give it⁹.

After the end of the period of six months beginning with the date on which a notice is given to a manufacturer, the Commissioners must give him notice in writing either that they require payment of a penalty, or that they do not require payment of a penalty¹⁰. The Commissioners must comply with this requirement during the period of 45 days beginning with the end of the specified period; and for that purpose they must consider any representations made by the manufacturer during that period in such form and manner as the Commissioners may direct and action taken by the manufacturer during that period¹¹. Such a penalty notice¹² must:

- 1403 (a) specify the amount of the penalty which the manufacturer is required to pay; and
- 1404 (b) state the grounds on which the Commissioners think that the manufacturer has failed to comply with the duty not to facilitate smuggling¹³.

The amount of the penalty specified must not exceed £5 million; and in determining the amount to specify the Commissioners must have regard to:

- 1405 (i) the nature or extent of the manufacturer's failure to comply with the duty not to facilitate smuggling;
- 1406 (ii) action taken by the manufacturer to secure compliance with that duty;
- 1407 (iii) the content of the manufacturer's policy¹⁴;
- 1408 (iv) compliance with that policy;

- 1409 (v) action taken pursuant to any notice as to a particularly great risk of smuggling¹⁵;
- 1410 (vi) compliance by the manufacturer with any notice to provide information¹⁶;
- 1411 (vii) the number, size and nature of seizures of which the manufacturer has been given notice¹⁷;
- 1412 (viii) the loss of revenue by way of duty¹⁸, or VAT, in respect of the products seized; and
- 1413 (ix) any other matter that they think relevant¹⁹.

A manufacturer who is given a penalty notice may require the Commissioners to review the decision to issue the notice; and:

- 1414 (A) such a requirement must be imposed by notice in writing given to the Commissioners before the end of the period of 45 days beginning with the date of the penalty notice;
- 1415 (B) the Commissioners must comply with a requirement given in accordance with head (A) above;
- 1416 (C) the Commissioners must confirm, vary or withdraw the penalty notice; and
- 1417 (D) the Commissioners are to be taken to have confirmed the penalty notice unless, within the period of 45 days beginning with the date of the requirement to conduct the review, they have varied or withdrawn it by notice in writing to the manufacturer²⁰.

If following a requirement under these provisions the Commissioners confirm or vary the notice (or are taken to have confirmed it) the manufacturer may appeal to a VAT and duties tribunal²¹. The tribunal may cancel the penalty notice, reduce the penalty, or confirm the penalty notice²².

No person may remove¹ tobacco products from registered premises² until the duty³ has been paid, secured or otherwise accounted for to the satisfaction of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs⁴.

Without prejudice to the above and to certain other provisions⁵, a manufacturer⁶ must remove tobacco products from his registered factory⁷ by the end of the first business day⁸ that follows the day of their manufacture⁹. The Commissioners may, in such cases as they think fit, dispense with the foregoing requirement¹⁰.

Tobacco products that do not carry a fiscal mark¹¹ may, without prejudice to the above provisions, be removed from registered premises without payment of duty for any of the following purposes: (1) warehousing in an excise warehouse¹² for any purpose other than home use; (2) exportation, removal to the Isle of Man or shipment as stores; (3) removal to other registered premises; (4) destruction or other disposal to the satisfaction of the Commissioners; or (5) such other purpose, except home use, as the Commissioners may permit¹³.

Where the removal to home use of any tobacco product takes place on a day on which an increase in the rate of duty chargeable on that product takes effect then if that removal takes place after 11.59 am on that day the time of removal is deemed to be the time at which that increase takes effect¹⁴.

610. Electronic removal.

The following provisions apply to registered stores¹ in respect of which the records relating to removal² are kept by means of a computer or other electronic system approved by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs; and the Commissioners may at any time revoke such approval upon giving 14 days' notice in writing³. The occupier⁴ of any registered store where electronic removal may take place must keep such records as may be specified in a notice published by the Commissioners and not withdrawn by a further notice⁵.

Electronic removal means the making of an entry in the records specified in accordance with the above provision which identifies the tobacco product⁶ which is the subject of that entry as having been removed from that store for these purposes⁷ notwithstanding that it remains in that store⁸. Any entry made in accordance with this provision may not be cancelled, amended or altered⁹. Tobacco products removed to home use from a registered store to which these provisions apply are deemed to have been removed at the time of their electronic removal or, if earlier, at the time they were actually removed¹⁰.

Except as the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs⁵ may otherwise allow, such details must be entered into the production account immediately after whichever of the times specified below is the earliest practicable time for this to be done before removal from the registered factory⁶, namely:

- 1420 (1) the time when the tobacco products are first put into a state suitable for use;
- 1421 (2) the time when the tobacco products are first put into a state suitable for removal⁷; and

613. Recommended retail prices, weights and deficiencies.

The manufacturer¹ or importer of tobacco products intended for retail sale in the United Kingdom² must, before the excise duty point³ for those products, notify the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs of the following information: (1) the brand name and description of each tobacco product; (2) the retail packet⁴ sizes for each brand (the number of cigarettes or cigars and the weight of each product if that product is not cigarettes); (3) the price he recommends for each packet size of each brand of tobacco product; and (4) the brand name, description and retail packet sizes of any tobacco product for which he does not recommend a retail price⁵.

Where a manufacturer or importer has so notified the Commissioners he is to be treated as complying with the above requirement if, before the excise duty point for the tobacco product concerned, he notifies any changes to the information already notified⁶.

The occupier⁷ of registered premises⁸ must, without delay, notify the Commissioners of any deficiencies of tobacco products discovered by him, whether as a result of stocktaking or otherwise⁹.

615. Approval of arrangements for payment.

Before electing to make deferred payment of duty¹, the person liable to pay the duty must make application to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs for approval of the arrangements by which the duty is to be paid on payment day², and must give to the Commissioners such security for payment by him of any amount of duty becoming payable as the Commissioners may from time to time require³.

A person whose arrangements have been approved must notify the Commissioners forthwith of any change in any information given to them for the purpose of approving those arrangements⁶.

If any security so given at any time falls short of that required by the Commissioners, the right to defer payment⁷ does not apply in respect of the unsecured duty⁸.

The provisions of the Excise Duties (Surcharges or Rebates) Act 1979 s 1(1), (2) (as amended) and s 1(3)-(6) (as amended) (see the text and notes 9-11 infra) apply to repayments of duty under the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 9(4) (repayment of duty on oil put to an industrial use which would have qualified it for duty-free delivery: see PARA 533 ante), s 17 (as amended) (relief for heavy oil used by horticultural producers: see PARA 557 ante) and s 19 (as amended) (relief for oil etc used in lifeboats and lifeboat launching gear: see PARA 558 ante), as if the repayments were drawbacks and not repayments: Excise Duties (Surcharges or Rebates) Act 1979 s 1(7) (amended by the Finance Act 1996 ss 8(2), 205, Sch 41 Pt I).

The Excise Duties (Surcharges or Rebates) (Hydrocarbon Oils etc) Order 2006, SI 2006/1979, made under the Excise Duties (Surcharges or Rebates) Act 1979 s 1(2) (as amended), was revoked with effect from 7 December 2006 by the Excise Duties (Surcharges or Rebates) (Hydrocarbon Oils etc) (Revocation) Order 2006, SI 2006/3235. Section 1(5) applies to any payment under the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 94 (as amended) (see PARA 706 post) or s 95 (as amended) (see PARA 707 post) in the case of goods warehoused on drawback which could not lawfully be entered for home use, being a payment of an amount equal to the drawback and any allowance paid in respect of the goods, as if it were a repayment of drawback or allowance: Excise Duties (Surcharges or Rebates) Act 1979 s 1(6).

621. Making of orders.

An order adjusting excise duties¹ ceases to be in force at the expiration of a period of one year from the date on which it takes effect unless continued in force by a further order².

An order may:

- 1431 (1) specify different percentages for different cases but may not provide both for an addition to any amount and for a deduction from any other amount payable³;
- 1432 (2) be made so as to come into operation at different times of day for different duties, whether or not within the same group⁴.

The power to make an order is exercisable by statutory instrument⁵. A statutory instrument containing an order which:

- 1433 (a) specifies a percentage by way of addition to any amount payable or increases a percentage so specified; or
- 1434 (b) withdraws or reduces a percentage specified by way of deduction from any amount payable, must be laid before the House of Commons after being made; and, unless the order is approved by that House before the expiration of 28 days beginning with the date on which it was made, it ceases to have effect on the expiration of that period, but without prejudice to anything previously done under it or to the making of a new order⁶. A statutory instrument containing an order to which the above provisions⁷ do not apply is subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of the House of Commons⁸.

(7) EXCISE LICENCES

622. Excise licences.

An excise licence¹ must be in such form and contain such particulars as the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs² may direct and, subject to the provisions of any enactment relating to the licence or trade in question, may be granted by the proper officer on payment of any appropriate duty³.

An excise licence for the carrying on of a trade must be granted in respect of one set of premises only, but a licence for the same trade may be granted to the same person in respect of each of two or more sets of premises⁴.

Where an excise licence trade is carried on at any set of premises by two or more persons in partnership, then, subject to the provisions of any enactment relating to the licence or trade in question, not more than one licence is required to be held by those persons in respect of those premises at any one time⁵.

Without prejudice to any other requirement as to the production of licences contained in the Customs and Excise Acts 1979⁶, if any person who is the holder of an excise licence to carry on any trade or to manufacture or sell any goods fails to produce his licence for examination within one month after being so requested by an officer, his failure attracts a civil penalty⁷ under the Finance Act 1994⁸.

622 Excise licences

NOTE 1--1860 Act repealed: Regulatory Reform (Game) Order 2007, SI 2007/2007.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(7) EXCISE LICENCES/623. Payment for excise licences by cheque.

623. Payment for excise licences by cheque.

Any government department or local authority having power to grant an excise licence may, if it thinks fit, grant the licence upon receipt of a cheque for the amount of any duty payable thereon¹.

Where a licence is granted to any person on receipt of a cheque and the cheque is subsequently dishonoured, the licence is void as from the time when it was granted, and the department or authority which granted it must send to that person, by letter sent by registered post or the recorded delivery service and addressed to him at the address given by him when applying for the licence, a notice requiring him to deliver up the licence within the period of seven days from the date when the notice was posted².

If a person who has been so required to deliver up a licence fails to comply with the requirement within such period, he is liable on summary conviction to a penalty³.

Where the licence is a gaming licence or an amusement machine licence, he is liable to a penalty of level 5 on the standard scale; where the licence is a licence under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994, he is liable to a penalty of whichever is the greater of level 3 on the standard scale or an amount equal to five times the annual rate of duty that was payable on the grant of the licence or would have been so payable if it had been taken out for a period of 12 months; and in any other case, he is liable to a penalty of level 3 on the standard scale: see the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 102(3) (as so amended). 624. Renewal of excise licences.

Where a person who has taken out an excise licence issuable annually in respect of any trade takes out a fresh licence in respect of that trade for the next following licence year¹, then, subject to the provisions of any enactment relating to the licence or trade in question, the fresh licence must bear the date of the day immediately following that on which the previous licence expires².

Where an application for the fresh licence is made after the day on which the previous licence expires or such later day as the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs³ may in any case allow, the licence must bear the date of the day when the application is made⁴.

1 For these purposes, unless the context otherwise requires, 'licence year', in relation to an excise licence issuable annually, means the period of 12 months ending on the date on which that licence expires in any year: Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 1(1).

2 Ibid s 103(1).

625. Transfer and removal of excise licence trades and licences.

Subject to any provision of the Customs and Excise Acts 1979¹ or of any other enactment relating to the licence or trade in question, where the holder of an excise licence to carry on any trade dies, or where the holder of such a licence in respect of premises specified therein leaves those premises, the proper officer² may transfer that licence in such manner as the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may direct, without any additional payment, to some other person for the remainder of the period for which the licence was granted³.

Subject to any such provision, where any person who holds an excise licence in respect of any premises removes his trade to other premises on which it may be lawfully carried on, the proper officer may authorise, in such manner as the Commissioners may direct, the carrying on, without any additional payment other than any required to be paid by the following provisions, of that trade on those other premises for the remainder of the period for which the licence was granted⁴. Where, in any such case⁵, the amount of any duty payable on the grant of the licence was determined by reference to the annual value of the premises in respect of which it was granted and would have been greater if the licence had originally been granted in respect of the premises to which the trade is removed, such additional sum is payable as bears the same proportion to the difference as the remainder of the period for which the licence was granted bears to a year⁶.

Notwithstanding anything in the above provisions, where by any other enactment relating to the licence or trade in question the authorisation of any court or other authority or the production of any certificate is required for such a transfer or removal of an excise licence trade⁷ as is mentioned in the above provisions, no transfer or removal of an excise licence to carry on that trade is to be granted, unless it is shown to the satisfaction of the proper officer that the authorisation or certificate has been granted⁸.

7 For these purposes, unless the context otherwise requires, 'excise licence trade' means, subject to the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 1(5), a trade or business for the carrying on of which an excise licence is required: s 1(1). A person who deals in or sells tobacco products in the course of a trade or business carried on by him is deemed, for the purposes of the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979, to be carrying on an excise licence trade (and to be a revenue trader) notwithstanding that no excise licence is required for carrying on that trade or business: s 1(5). 'Tobacco products' has the same meaning as in the Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 (see PARA 589 ante): Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 1(3). 626. Power to require person carrying on excise licence trade to display sign.

The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may require any person holding an excise licence to carry on any trade to affix to and maintain on the premises in respect of which the licence is granted, in such form and manner and containing such particulars as they may direct, a notification of the person to whom and the purpose for which the licence is granted¹.

If any person:

1435 (1) contravenes or fails to comply with any requirement so made or direction so given, his contravention or failure to comply attracts a civil penalty² under the Finance Act 1994³;

1436 (2) not duly licensed to carry on an excise licence trade affixes to any premises any sign or notice purporting to show that he is so licensed, his doing so attracts a civil penalty⁴ under the Finance Act 1994⁵.

A. MAKING OF ENTRIES

627. Making of entries.

Where by or under the revenue trade provisions of the customs and excise Acts¹ any person is required to make entry of any premises or article:

1437 (1) the entry must be made in such form and manner and contain such particulars; and

1438 (2) the premises or article must be, and be kept, marked in such manner, as the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may direct².

No entry is valid unless the person by whom it was made had at the time of its making attained the age of 18 years and was at that time, and is for the time being, a true and real owner of the trade in respect of which the entry was made³.

Where any person required to make entry is a body corporate:

1439 (a) the entry must be signed by a director, general manager, secretary or other similar officer of the body and, except where authority for that person to sign has been given under the seal of the body, must be made under that seal; and

1440 (b) both the body corporate and the person by whom the entry is signed are liable for all duties charged in respect of the trade to which the entry relates⁴.

If any person making entry of any premises or article contravenes or fails to comply with any direction of the Commissioners given under the above provisions with respect thereto, his contravention or failure to comply attracts a civil penalty⁵ under the Finance Act 1994⁶.

1 For these purposes, unless the context otherwise requires, 'the revenue trade provisions of the customs and excise Acts' means: (1) the provisions of the customs and excise Acts relating to the protection, security, collection or management of the revenues derived from the duties of excise on goods produced or manufactured in the United Kingdom; (2) the provisions of the customs and excise Acts relating to any activity or facility for the carrying on or provision of which an excise licence is required; (3) the provisions of the Betting and Gaming Duties Act 1981, so far as not included in head (2) supra; (4) the provisions of the Finance Act 1993 Pt I Ch II (ss 24-41) (lottery duty: see LICENSING AND GAMBLING vol 68 (2008) PARA 789); and (5) the provisions of the Finance Act 1997 ss 10-15, Sch 1 (gaming duty: see LICENSING AND GAMBLING vol 68 (2008) PARA 759 et seq): Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 1(1) (amended by the Betting and Gaming Duties Act 1981 s 34(1), Sch 5 para 5(a); the Finance Act 1993 ss 30(1), (2), 41, 213, Sch 23 Pt I; and the Finance Act 1997 ss 13, 113, Sch 2 para 2(2), (4), Sch 18 Pt II). 628. New or further entries of same premises.

The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs¹ may at any time, by notice in writing to the person by whom any existing entry² was signed addressed to him at any premises entered by him, require a new entry to be made of any premises or article to which the existing entry relates; and the existing entry becomes void, without prejudice to any liability incurred, at the expiration of 14 days from the delivery of the notice³.

Save as permitted by the Commissioners and subject to such conditions as they may impose, no premises or article of which entry has been made by any person is, while that entry remains in force, to be entered by any other person for any purpose of the revenue trade provisions of the customs and excise Acts⁴; and any entry made in contravention of that prohibition is void⁵.

Where the person by whom entry has been made of any premises absconds or quits possession of the premises and discontinues the trade in respect of which the entry was made, and the Commissioners permit a further entry to be made of the premises by some other person, the former entry is deemed to have been withdrawn and is void⁶.

- 1442 (2) if the officer in whose custody any such entry, if made, would be gives evidence that the original entries produced by him to the court constitute all those in his custody and that no such entry as is in question is among them, it is to be deemed, until the contrary is proved, that no such entry has been made³.

B. GENERAL POWERS

631. Power of entry upon premises etc of revenue traders.

An officer¹ may at any time enter upon any premises of which entry is made, or is required by or under the revenue trade provisions of the customs and excise Acts² to be made, or any other premises owned or used by a revenue trader³ for the purposes of his trade and may inspect the premises and search for, examine and take account of any machinery, vehicles⁴, vessels⁵, utensils, goods⁶ or materials belonging to or in any way connected with that trade⁷. However, except in the case of such traders as are mentioned below, no officer is to exercise the powers so conferred on him by night⁸ unless he is accompanied by a constable⁹.

Where any such premises as are mentioned above are those of a distiller¹⁰, rectifier¹¹, compounder¹², registered brewer¹³, producer of wine¹⁴, producer of made-wine¹⁵, maker of cider¹⁶ or occupier of an excise warehouse¹⁷, and an officer, after having demanded admission into the premises and declared his name and business at the entrance thereof, is not immediately admitted, that officer and any person acting in his aid may break open any door or window of the premises or break through any wall thereof for the purpose of obtaining admission¹⁸; but no officer or person acting in his aid is to exercise the powers so conferred on him by night unless he is accompanied by a constable¹⁹.

Reference to any gaming within the meaning of the Gaming Act 1968 is now to gaming within the Betting and Gaming Duties Act 1981 s 33(1) (see LICENSING AND GAMBLING vol 68 (2008) PARA 748): Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 1(1) (amended by Finance Act 2007 Sch 25 para 22).

632. Power to search for concealed pipes etc.

If an officer¹ has reasonable grounds to suspect that any secret pipe or other means of conveyance, cock, vessel² or utensil is kept or used by a revenue trader³, being a distiller⁴, rectifier⁵, compounder⁶, registered brewer⁷, producer of wine⁸, producer of made-wine⁹, maker of cider¹⁰ or the occupier¹¹ of a refinery¹², whether or not the occupier is a revenue trader, that officer may, at any time, break open any part of the premises of that trader and forcibly enter thereon and, so far as is reasonably necessary, break up the ground in or adjoining those premises or any wall thereof to search for that pipe or other means of conveyance, cock, vessel or utensil¹³; but no officer is to exercise the powers so conferred on him by night¹⁴ unless he is accompanied by a constable¹⁵.

If the officer finds any such pipe or other form of conveyance leading to or from the trader's premises, he may enter any other premises from or into which it leads, and, so far as is reasonably necessary, break up any part of those other premises to trace its course, and may cut it away and turn any cock thereon, and examine whether it conveys or conceals any goods¹⁶ chargeable with a duty of excise, or any materials used in the manufacture of such goods, in such manner as to prevent a true account thereof from being taken¹⁷.

Every such pipe or other means of conveyance, cock, vessel or utensil, and all goods chargeable with a duty of excise or materials for the manufacture of such goods found therein, are liable to forfeiture¹⁸.

If any damage is done in any such search and the search is unsuccessful, the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs must make good the damage¹⁹.

EXCISE DUTIES/(8) REVENUE TRADERS/(i) General Provisions as to Revenue Traders/B. GENERAL POWERS/633. Power to prohibit use of certain substances in excisable goods.

633. Power to prohibit use of certain substances in excisable goods.

If it appears to the satisfaction of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs¹ that any substance or liquor is used, or is capable of being used, in the manufacture or preparation for sale of any goods² chargeable, as goods manufactured or produced in the United Kingdom³, with a duty of excise, and that that substance or liquor is of a noxious or detrimental nature or, being a chemical or artificial extract or product, may affect prejudicially the interests of the revenue, the Commissioners may by regulations prohibit the use of that substance or liquor in the manufacture or preparation for sale of any goods specified in the regulations⁴.

If, while any such regulations are in force, any person knowingly uses a substance or liquor thereby prohibited in the manufacture or preparation for sale of any goods specified in the regulations, his use of that substance or liquor in that manner attracts a civil penalty⁵ under the Finance Act 1994⁶.

Any substance or liquor the use of which is for the time being prohibited by any such regulations found in the possession of any person licensed for the manufacture or sale of any goods specified in the regulations, and any goods in the manufacture or preparation of which any substance or liquid has been used contrary to any such prohibition, are liable to forfeiture⁷.

6 Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 114(2) (amended by the Finance Act 1994 s 9(9), Sch 4 paras 1, 9). The Finance Act 1994 s 10 (exception for cases of reasonable excuse: see PARA 1218 post) does not, however, apply in relation to conduct attracting a penalty by virtue of the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 114(2) (as amended): s 114(2) (as so amended).

A decision by the Commissioners that a person has acted knowingly in using any substance or liquor in contravention of s 114(2) (as amended) is subject to review under the Finance Act 1994 s 15 (see PARA 1253 post); and an appeal from any decision on such a review lies to a VAT and duties tribunal under s 16 (as amended) (see PARA 1255 et seq post). On an appeal under s 16 (as amended) the burden of proof as to the question whether a person has acted knowingly in contravention of the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 114(2) (as amended) lies upon the Commissioners, but it is otherwise for the appellant to show that the grounds on which any such appeal is brought have been established: see the Finance Act 1994 s 16(6)(b); and PARA 1278 post.

634. Power to keep specimen on premises of revenue traders.

The proper officer¹ may place and leave on the premises of a revenue trader² a specimen, that is to say, a document in which may be entered any particulars relating to the trader's trade from time to time recorded by that or any other officer³.

Any such specimen must be deposited at some place on premises entered by the trader where convenient access may be had thereto at any time by the trader and by any officer; and any officer may at any time remove the specimen and deposit a new one in its place⁴.

Where any charge of duty made by an officer upon a trader is not recorded in a specimen, the officer must, if so required in writing by the trader at the time when the officer takes his account for the purpose of charging duty, give to the trader a copy of the charge in writing under his hand⁵.

If the revenue trader removes, conceals, withholds, damages or destroys a specimen, or alters, defaces, or obliterates any entry therein, his doing attracts a civil penalty⁶ under the Finance Act 1994⁷.

For the purposes of the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 115(4) (as amended) and without prejudice to the Finance Act 1994 s 10(1) (exception for cases of reasonable excuse: see PARA 1218 post), conduct by an employee of the revenue trader or by any other person entitled to act on the trader's behalf in connection with his trade is deemed to be conduct by that trader, except in so far as he took all reasonable steps to prevent it: Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 115(5) (added by the Finance Act 1994 Sch 4 paras 1, 10(2)).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(8) REVENUE TRADERS/(i) General Provisions as to Revenue Traders/B. GENERAL POWERS/635. Payment of excise duty by revenue traders.

635. Payment of excise duty by revenue traders.

Every revenue trader¹ must pay any duty of excise payable in respect of his trade at or within such time, at such place and to such person as the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs² may direct, whether or not payment of that duty has been secured by bond or otherwise³. If any duty payable is not so paid, it must be paid on demand made by the Commissioners either to the trader personally or by delivering the demand in writing at his place of abode or business⁴. If any duty is not paid on demand so made, the trader's failure to pay the duty on demand attracts a civil penalty under the Finance Act 1994⁵, which is to be calculated by reference to the amount of the duty demanded and also attracts daily penalties⁶.

636. Execution and distress against revenue traders.

Where any sum is owing by a revenue trader¹ in respect of any excise duty or of any relevant penalty², all the following things which are in the possession or custody of that trader or of any agent of his or of any other person on his behalf are liable to be taken in execution in default of the payment of that sum, that is to say:

- 1443 (1) all goods liable to any excise duty³, whether or not that duty has been paid;
- 1444 (2) all materials for manufacturing or producing any such goods; and
- 1445 (3) all apparatus, equipment, machinery, tools, vessels and utensils for, or for preparing any such materials for, such manufacture or production, or by which the trade in respect of which the duty is imposed⁴ is carried on⁵.

The above provisions also apply in relation to things falling within head (1), (2) or (3) above which, although they are not still in the possession or custody of the trader, an agent of his or other person on his behalf, were in such possession or custody:

- 1446 (a) at the time when the excise duty was charged or became chargeable or at any time while it was owing; or
- 1447 (b) at the time of the commission of the offence for which the penalty was incurred⁶.

Where the proper officer⁷ has taken account of and charged any goods chargeable with any excise duty and those goods are in the ordinary course of trade sold for full and valuable consideration to a bona fide purchaser and delivered into his possession before the issue of any warrant or process for distress or seizure of the goods, those goods are not liable⁸ to be seized under the above provisions⁹. Where any goods have been seized under the above provisions, the burden of proof that the goods are¹⁰ not liable to be so seized lies upon the person claiming that they are not so liable¹¹.

1 For the meaning of 'revenue trader' see PARA 631 note 3 ante.

2 For these purposes, 'relevant penalty' means a penalty incurred under the revenue trade provisions of the customs and excise Acts: Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 117(8) (amended by the Finance (No 2) Act 1992 ss 3, 82, Sch 2 para 5, Sch 18 Pt I). As to the meaning of 'goods' see PARA 413 note 1 ante. As to lottery duty see LICENSING AND GAMBLING vol 68 (2008) PARA 789.

on the taking of which lottery duty is or will be chargeable: s 117(1A)(b) (added by the Finance Act 1993 ss 30(4), 41).

5 Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 117(1) (amended by the Finance (No 2) Act 1992 Sch 2 para 5, Sch 18 Pt I). The Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 117 (as amended) has effect as if any amount assessed as due from any person by way of a penalty under the Finance Act 1994 Pt I Ch II (ss 7-19) (see PARA 1225 et seq post), not being an amount in relation to which s 18(4) (betting and gaming duties (repealed)) applies, were an amount of excise duty payable by that person: s 18(2)(a). Any person who acts ostensibly as the owner or who is a principal manager of the business of a revenue trader¹ in respect of which entry of any premises or article has been made or who occupies or uses any entered premises or article is liable, notwithstanding that he is under full age, in like manner as the real and true owner of the business for all duties charged and all penalties incurred in respect of that business².

638. Duty of revenue traders to keep records.

The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may by regulations require every revenue trader¹ to keep such records as may be prescribed in the regulations and to preserve those records for such period not exceeding six years as may be prescribed in the regulations or for such lesser period as the Commissioners may require². If any person fails to comply with any requirement so imposed on him³, his failure to comply attracts a civil penalty⁴ and, in the case of any failure to keep records, also attracts daily penalties⁵.

Such regulations may make different provision for different cases and may be framed by reference to such records as may be specified in any notice published by the Commissioners in pursuance of the regulations and not withdrawn by a further notice⁶.

Any duty imposed under the above provisions to preserve records may be discharged by the preservation of the information contained therein by such means as the Commissioners may approve⁷. Where any information is so preserved, a copy of any document forming part of the records in question is admissible, subject to the following provisions, in evidence in any proceedings, whether civil or criminal, to the same extent as the records themselves⁸. The Commissioners may, as a condition of so approving any means of preserving information contained in any records, impose such reasonable requirements as appear to them necessary for securing that the information will be as readily available to them as if the records themselves had been preserved⁹.

638 Duty of revenue traders to keep records

NOTE 2--See the Excise Goods (Holding, Movement and Duty Point) Regulations 2010, SI 2010/593.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(8) REVENUE TRADERS/(ii) Protection of the Revenues derived from Excise Duties/A. RECORDS TO BE KEPT/639. Items and records, including an excise duty account, to be kept and preserved.

639. Items and records, including an excise duty account, to be kept and preserved.

A revenue trader¹ who receives, prepares, maintains or issues an item² being an invoice, a credit note, a debit note, a record³ relating to an importation or to an exportation, a statement of account, a record of payment or of receipt, a journal or ledger, a profit and loss account, trading account, management account, management report or balance sheet, an internal or an external auditor's report, a record relating to any drawback, repayment or reimbursement of duty, a record⁴ required by or under the customs and excise Acts⁵ or any other record⁶ maintained for a trading or business purpose must: (1) in the case of a received item, keep and preserve the item; (2) in the case of an issued item, keep and preserve a copy of the item; and (3) in the case of an item that is prepared or maintained and which has not been received or which is not issued, preserve the item⁷.

A revenue trader must keep and preserve a record of:

- 1448 (a) the production, buying, selling, importation, exportation, dealing in or handling of any excise goods carried on by him;
- 1449 (b) the goods, whether or not they are excise goods, or services received by him in connection with or to enable him to undertake a transaction or activity described in head (a) above; and
- 1450 (c) the financing or the facilitation, made or effected by him, of a transaction or activity described in head (a) above, whether or not that transaction or activity was carried on by him⁸.

The record so required of a revenue trader must include:

- 1451 (i) in the case of a receipt by him of excise goods, the date of the receipt, and the name and address of the supplier of those goods to him;
- 1452 (ii) in the case of the disposal by him of excise goods, the name and address, except where disposed of by a retail sale, of the person who acquires them, and the date of that disposal; and
- 1453 (iii) in the case of a transaction described in head (c) above, the date of receipt and the name and address of the person making or effecting that transaction, where the revenue trader (keeping and preserving a record as so required) is the recipient of that transaction, and the date of making or effecting that transaction and the name and address of the recipient of it, where the revenue trader (keeping and preserving a record as so required) is making or effecting that transaction⁹.

The record must contain sufficient information, by way of cross-referencing or otherwise, to enable an officer readily to trace any payments made or received by that trader in respect of any excise goods or of any financing or facilitation described in head (c) above¹⁰.

A revenue trader who, in an accounting period¹¹, is liable to pay an amount of duty¹² must keep and preserve a record (referred to as 'the excise duty account', and the requirement to keep and preserve an excise duty account being called 'the obligation'), containing the following particulars:

- 1454 (A) the amount, before adjustment¹³, of any duty payable¹⁴ by the revenue trader in each accounting period;
- 1455 (B) the amount of any adjustment in each accounting period;
- 1456 (C) the amount, after any adjustment, of any duty payable by the revenue trader in each accounting period;
- 1457 (D) the amount, date and method of payment of any duty paid by the revenue trader¹⁵.

Where two or more revenue traders are liable jointly and severally to pay an amount of duty ('the debt') and one of them ('the responsible revenue trader'), with the understanding of the other or, as the case may be, the others, agrees to take on the responsibility as between all of those revenue traders, to pay the debt or a portion of it, the obligation of that other or those others is to be considered, for these purposes, to be discharged to the extent, having regard to the amount of the debt, that the debt is discharged through any payment made by the responsible revenue trader¹⁶.

A revenue trader must keep and preserve such records as the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may specify for any case or cases, in a notice published by them and not withdrawn by a further notice¹⁷.

1 For the meaning of 'revenue trader' see PARA 631 note 3 ante.

2 For these purposes, the items listed include anything in any form that it may take when the information, to which the item relates, is received, or, as the case may be, when that information is dealt with for the purpose of preparing, maintaining or issuing an item, and which it may take subsequently whilst it is being preserved by the revenue trader who received it or, as the case may be, prepared or maintained it or issued it: Revenue Traders (Accounts and Records) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/3150, regs 2(3), 3(1), Sch 1 note 1. Time of recording and period of preservation of items and records, including excise duty account.

640. Time of recording and period of preservation of items and records, including excise duty account.

A revenue trader¹ required² to keep a record, including an item or copy of an item governed by heads (2)(a) to (2)(c) below, or an excise duty account³ must:

1458 (1) do so at the time or as soon as possible after the happening of the event that is required⁴ to be recorded and, in any other case, the moment when the information that is to be recorded⁵ is first known to him; and

1459 (2) include in the record or the excise duty account sufficient information, by way of cross-referencing or otherwise, to enable an officer to ascertain readily the following particulars:

99. (a) particulars showing how the amount of duty⁶ was calculated, including the nature, quantity and value of the excise goods for the purpose of that calculation, and the applicable rate of that duty;

100. (b) particulars of the circumstances and of the reasons relied on by the revenue trader for the making of an adjustment;

101. (c) particulars of the excise duty point⁷,

1460 and such particulars are to be kept by reference to each accounting period⁸ of the revenue trader, and in respect of each transaction, involving excise goods, that gives rise to a joint or several liability on the part of that revenue trader to pay ('the amount of duty')⁹.

Anything that is required¹⁰ to be preserved by a revenue trader must be preserved for a period of six years, or such lesser period as the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may allow, starting on the day that the obligation to preserve arises¹¹.

EXCISE DUTIES/(8) REVENUE TRADERS/(ii) Protection of the Revenues derived from Excise Duties/A. RECORDS TO BE KEPT/641. Duty of revenue traders and others to furnish information and produce documents.

641. Duty of revenue traders and others to furnish information and produce documents.

Every revenue trader¹ must:

1461 (1) furnish to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs², within such time and in such form as they may reasonably require, such information relating to:

56

102. (a) any goods³ or services supplied by or to him in the course or furtherance of a business; or

103. (b) any goods in the importation or exportation of which he is concerned in the course or furtherance of a business; or

105. (a) at the principal place of business of the revenue trader or at such other place as the officer may reasonably require; and

106. (b) at such time as the officer may reasonably require,

1464 any documents relating to the goods or services or to the supply, importation or exportation or to the transaction or activity⁵.

Where an officer so has power to require the production of any documents from a revenue trader:

1465 (i) he has the like power to require production of the documents concerned from any other person who appears to the officer to be in possession of them; but 1466 (ii) if that other person claims a lien on any document produced by him, the production is without prejudice to the lien⁶.

An officer may take copies of, or make extracts from, any document so produced⁷.

If it appears to an officer to be necessary to do so, he may, at a reasonable time and for a reasonable period, remove any document so produced and must, on request, provide a receipt for any document so removed⁸. Where a document so removed by an officer is reasonably required for the proper conduct of a business, he must, as soon as practicable, provide a copy of the document, free of charge, to the person by whom it was produced or caused to be produced⁹.

Where any documents removed under the powers conferred by the above provisions are lost or damaged, the Commissioners are liable to compensate their owner for any expenses reasonably incurred by him in replacing or repairing the documents¹⁰.

If any person fails to comply with any requirement imposed on him under the above provisions, his failure to comply attracts a civil penalty under the Finance Act 1994¹¹ and, in the case of any failure to keep records, also attracts daily penalties¹².

B. POWERS OF SEARCH

642. Entry and search of premises and persons.

For the purpose of exercising any powers under the customs and excise Acts¹, an officer² may at any reasonable time enter premises used in connection with the carrying on of a business³.

Where an officer has reasonable cause to believe: (1) that any premises are used in connection with the supply, importation or exportation of goods⁴ of a class or description chargeable with a duty of excise and that any such goods are on those premises, he may at any reasonable time enter and inspect those premises and inspect any goods found on them⁵; (2) that any premises are premises where gaming⁶ is taking place, has taken place or is about to take place, he may at any reasonable time enter and inspect those premises and inspect any relevant materials⁷ found on them⁸.

If a justice of the peace is satisfied on information on oath:

- 1467 (a) that there is reasonable ground for suspecting that a fraud offence⁹ which appears to be of a serious nature is being, has been or is about to be committed on any premises; or
- 1468 (b) that evidence of the commission of such an offence is to be found there; or
- 1469 (c) that there is reasonable ground for suspecting that gaming¹⁰ is taking place, has taken place, or is about to take place, on any premises, or that evidence of the commission of a gaming duty offence¹¹ is to be found there, he may issue a warrant in writing authorising any officer to enter those premises, if necessary by force, at any time within the period of one month beginning with the date of the issue of the warrant and search them¹².

Any officer who enters premises under the authority of a warrant so issued may:

- 1470 (i) take with him such other persons as appear to him to be necessary;
- 1471 (ii) seize and remove any documents or other things whatsoever found on the premises which he has reasonable cause to believe may be required as evidence for the purposes of proceedings in respect of a fraud offence which appears to him to be of a serious nature or in respect of a gaming duty offence; and
- 1472 (iii) search or cause to be searched any person found on the premises whom he has reasonable cause to believe to be in possession of any such documents or other things; but no woman or girl may be so searched except by a woman¹³.

The powers conferred by a warrant so issued are not exercisable by more than such number of officers as may be specified in the warrant nor outside such times of day as may be so specified nor, if the warrant so provides, otherwise than in the presence of a constable in uniform¹⁴.

An officer seeking to exercise the powers conferred by a warrant so issued or, if there is more than one such officer, that one of them who is in charge of the search must provide a copy of the warrant indorsed with his name as follows:

- 1473 (A) if the occupier¹⁵ of the premises concerned is present at the time the search is to begin, the copy must be supplied to the occupier;
- 1474 (B) if at the time the occupier is not present but a person who appears to the officer to be in charge of the premises is present, the copy must be supplied to that person; and
- 1475 (C) if neither head (A) nor head (B) above applies, the copy must be left in a prominent place on the premises¹⁶.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(8) REVENUE TRADERS/(ii) Protection of the Revenues derived from Excise Duties/B. POWERS OF SEARCH/643. Order for access to recorded information etc.

643. Order for access to recorded information etc.

Where, on an application by an officer¹, a justice of the peace is satisfied that there are reasonable grounds for believing:

- 1476 (1) that an offence in connection with a duty of excise is being, has been or is about to be committed; and
- 1477 (2) that any recorded information, including any document of any nature whatsoever, which may be required as evidence for the purpose of any proceedings in respect of such an offence is in the possession of any person, he may make an order under the following provisions².

An order so made is an order that the person who appears to the justice to be in possession of the recorded information to which the application relates must:

- 1478 (a) give an officer access to it³; and
- 1479 (b) permit an officer to remove and take away any of it which he reasonably considers necessary, not later than the end of the period of seven days beginning with the date of the order or the end of such longer period as the order may specify⁴.

Where the recorded information consists of information stored in any electronic form, an order so made has effect as an order to produce the information in a form in which it is visible and legible or from which it can readily be produced in a visible and legible form and, if the officer wishes to remove it, in a form in which it can be removed⁵.

1 For the meaning of 'officer' see PARA 417 note 6 ante.

2 Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 118D(1) (s 118D added by the Finance Act 1991 s 12, Sch 5). The Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 118D (as added and amended) is without prejudice to s 118B (as added and amended) (see PARA 641 ante) and s 118C (as added and amended) (see PARA 642 ante); s 118D(5) (as so added). As to the procedure where documents are removed see PARA 644 post.

3 For these purposes, the reference to giving an officer access to the recorded information to which the application relates includes a reference to permitting the officer to take copies of it or to make extracts from it: ibid s 118D(3) (as added: see note 2 supra).

4 Ibid s 118D(2) (as added: see note 2 supra).

5 Ibid s 118D(4) (as added (see note 2 supra); and amended by the Criminal Justice and Police Act 2001 s 70, Sch 2 para 13(1), (2)(e)).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(8) REVENUE TRADERS/(ii) Protection of the Revenues derived from Excise Duties/B. POWERS OF SEARCH/644. Procedure when documents etc are removed.

644. Procedure when documents etc are removed.

An officer¹ who removes anything in the exercise of a power conferred on him² must, if so requested by a person showing himself to be the occupier³ of premises from which it was removed or to have had custody or control of it immediately before the removal, provide that person with a record of what he removed⁴. The officer must provide the record within a reasonable time from the making of the request for it⁵.

If a request:

1480 (1) for permission to be granted access to anything which has been removed by an officer and is retained by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs for the purposes of investigating an offence is made to the officer in overall charge of the investigation⁶ by a person who had custody or control of the thing immediately before it was so removed or by someone acting on behalf of such a person, the officer must⁷ allow the person who made the request access to it under the supervision of an officer⁸;

1481 (2) for a photograph or copy of any such thing is made to the officer in overall charge of the investigation by a person who had custody or control of the thing immediately before it was so removed, or by someone acting on behalf of such a person, the officer must⁹:

107. (a) allow the person who made the request access to it under the supervision of an officer for the purpose of photographing it or copying it; or

108. (b) photograph or copy it, or cause it to be photographed or copied¹⁰.

Where anything is photographed or copied under head (2)(b) above, the photograph or copy must be supplied to the person who made the request¹¹. The photograph or copy must be supplied within a reasonable time from the making of the request¹².

There is, however, no duty under the above provisions to grant access to, or to supply a photograph or copy of, anything if the officer in overall charge of the investigation for the purposes of which it was removed has reasonable grounds for believing that to do so would prejudice:

1482 (i) that investigation;

1483 (ii) the investigation of an offence other than the offence for the purposes of the investigation of which the thing was removed; or

(i) In general

646. In general.

Since 1 January 1993 it has been possible to move excise goods between authorised traders in different member states of the Community without stopping at internal frontiers for customs entries or routine fiscal checks. This has been achieved by the use of a Community-wide network of fiscal warehouses operated by authorised warehousekeepers¹. Within the United Kingdom, excise goods may be held without payment of excise duty ('in duty suspension') either in a tax warehouse or in other circumstances prescribed by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs². Correspondingly, only authorised warehousekeepers may dispatch goods in duty suspension, and then only if they are sending such goods to a registered trader or to an occasional importer in the United Kingdom or another member state.

In the United Kingdom registered traders are known as registered excise dealers and shippers ('REDS'), and they are revenue traders³ who are approved and registered by the Commissioners to obtain excise goods commercially from other member states⁴. Such excise goods may, in general, be dispatched to REDS from such member states under duty suspension arrangements, with the trader accounting for duty when the goods are received in the United Kingdom⁵. In other cases, excise goods imported for commercial purposes may not be imported from another member state without the excise duty payable in the United Kingdom having been paid in advance of dispatch or having been secured by a guarantee acceptable to the Commissioners.

Occasional importers are persons who, while not being REDS, are approved on a consignment by consignment basis to import excise goods from another member state, having complied with the requirements imposed on such importers and, in particular, that of prepayment or guarantee of the excise duty⁶. Occasional importers may not receive duty-suspended goods from a United Kingdom supplier or from a country which is not a member state⁷.

647. Registered excise dealers and shippers.

For the purpose of administering, collecting or protecting the revenues derived from duties of excise, the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may by regulations ('registered excise dealers and shippers regulations'):

- 1487 (1) confer or impose such powers, duties, privileges and liabilities as may be prescribed in the regulations upon any person who is or has been a registered excise dealer and shipper¹; and
- 1488 (2) impose on persons other than registered excise dealers and shippers, or in respect of any goods² of a class or description specified in the regulations, such requirements or restrictions as may by or under the regulations be prescribed with respect to registered excise dealers and shippers or any activities carried on by them³.

The Commissioners may: (a) approve, and enter in a register maintained by them for the purpose, any revenue trader who applies for registration under these provisions and who appears to them to satisfy such requirements for registration as they may think fit to impose⁴; (b) approve and register a person under these provisions for such periods and subject to such conditions or restrictions as they may think fit or as they may by or under the regulations prescribe⁵; (c) at any time for reasonable cause revoke or vary the terms of their approval or registration of any person under these provisions⁶.

The regulations may make provision for treating revenue traders as approved and registered under these provisions in cases where they are members of a group of companies, within the meaning of the regulations, which is approved and registered in accordance with the regulations⁷.

B. EXCISE DUTY POINT

(A) IN GENERAL

650. Powers to fix excise duty point.

The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may by regulations make provision, in relation to any duties of excise on goods¹, for fixing the time when the requirement to pay any duty with which goods become chargeable is to take effect ('the excise duty point')². Where regulations so made fix an excise duty point for any goods, the rate of duty for the time being in force at that point must be the rate used for determining the amount of duty to be paid in pursuance of the requirement that takes effect at that point³.

Such regulations may provide for the excise duty point for any goods to be such of the following times as may be prescribed⁴ in relation to the circumstances of the case, that is to say:

- 1503 (1) the time when the goods become chargeable with the duty in question;
- 1504 (2) the time when there is a contravention⁵ of any prescribed requirements relating to any suspension arrangements⁶ applying to the goods;
- 1505 (3) the time when the duty on the goods ceases, in the prescribed manner, to be suspended in accordance with any such arrangements;
- 1506 (4) the time when there is a contravention of any prescribed condition subject to which any relief has been conferred in relation to the goods;
- 1507 (5) such time after the time which, in accordance with regulations made by virtue of any of heads (1) to (4) above, would otherwise be the excise duty point for those goods as may be prescribed, and regulations made by virtue of any of heads (2) to (5) above may define a time by reference to whether or not at that time the Commissioners have been satisfied as to any matter⁷.

Where regulations under these provisions prescribe an excise duty point for any goods, such regulations may also make provision:

- 1508 (a) specifying the person or persons on whom the liability to pay duty on the goods is to fall at the excise duty point, being the person or persons having the prescribed connection with the goods at that point or at such other time, falling no earlier than when the goods become chargeable with the duty, as may be prescribed; and
- 1509 (b) where more than one person is to be liable to pay the duty, specifying whether the liability is to be both joint and several⁸.

The power of the Commissioners to make regulations under the above provisions is exercisable by statutory instrument subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament; and includes power to make different provision for different cases, including different provision for different duties and different goods, and to make such incidental, supplemental, consequential and transitional provision as the Commissioners think necessary or expedient⁹.

1 For these purposes, 'goods' has the same meaning as in the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 (see PARA 413 note 1 ante): Finance (No 2) Act 1992 s 1(7).

2 Ibid s 1(1), (7) (s 1(7) amended by virtue of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs Act 2005 s 50(1), (7)). As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

3 Finance (No 2) Act 1992 s 1(2).

4 For these purposes, 'prescribed' means prescribed by regulations under ibid s 1: s 1(7).

5 For these purposes, 'contravention' includes a failure to comply: ibid s 1(7).

6 For these purposes, references to suspension arrangements are references to any provision made by or under the customs and excise Acts for enabling goods to be held or moved without payment of duty or any provision made by or under those Acts in connection with any provision enabling goods to be so held or moved: Finance (No 2) Act 1992 s 1(7). EXCISE DUTIES/(9) REGISTERED EXCISE DEALERS AND SHIPPERS; OCCASIONAL IMPORTERS/(ii) Registered Excise Dealers and Shippers/B. EXCISE DUTY POINT/ (B) Community Excise Goods imported into the United Kingdom from another Member State/651. Excise duty point for Community excise goods imported into the United Kingdom from another member state.

(B) COMMUNITY EXCISE GOODS IMPORTED INTO THE UNITED KINGDOM FROM ANOTHER MEMBER STATE

651. Excise duty point for Community excise goods imported into the United Kingdom from another member state.

The following provisions apply to fix an excise duty point¹ with respect to any Community excise goods² imported into the United Kingdom from another member state³; but those provisions do not apply to fix an excise duty point with respect to any other excise goods unless and until those goods are deposited in a tax warehouse⁴ under duty suspension arrangements⁵.

The excise duty point in relation to any Community excise goods is⁶ the time when the goods are charged with duty at importation⁷. In the case of excise goods⁸ acquired by a person in another member state⁹ for his own use¹⁰ and transported by him to the United Kingdom, the excise duty point is the time when those goods are held or used for a commercial purpose by any person¹¹.

If, however, any duty suspension arrangements apply to any excise goods, the excise duty point is the earlier of:

- 1510 (1) the time when the excise goods are delivered for home use from a tax warehouse or are otherwise made available for consumption, including consumption in a warehouse;
- 1511 (2) the time when the excise goods are consumed;
- 1512 (3) the time when the excise goods are received by a REDS¹² or by an occasional importer¹³ or by an importer for whom the REDS is acting, or when the duty ceases to be suspended in accordance with those duty suspension arrangements;
- 1513 (4) the time when the premises on which the excise goods are deposited cease to be a tax warehouse;
- 1514 (5) the time when the excise goods leave any tax warehouse unless:
 - 62 109. (a) the goods are consigned to another tax warehouse in respect of which the authorised warehousekeeper¹⁴ has been approved¹⁵ in relation to the deposit and keeping of those goods, and the goods are moved in accordance with the prescribed requirements¹⁶;
 - 110. (b) the goods are delivered for export, shipment as stores, removal to the Isle of Man; or
 - 111. (c) any relief is conferred in relation to the goods by or under the customs and excise Acts¹⁷.

If duty suspension arrangements do not apply in respect of Community excise goods consigned¹⁸ to a REDS or to an occasional importer or to an importer for whom a REDS is acting, the excise duty point is the time when those goods are received by that person¹⁹.

If perfumed spirits are imported into the United Kingdom having been consigned from another member state and are charged with duty at that importation, the excise duty point is, unless those goods are deposited in a tax warehouse approved for the purpose, the time when they are received by the importer, owner or person beneficially interested in the goods²⁰.

Where duty suspension arrangements do not apply in respect of Community excise goods consigned to a REDS or to an occasional importer or to an importer for whom a REDS is acting and, after importation, those goods do not arrive so that the excise duty point is not the time when those goods are received²¹, the excise duty point²² is the time when the goods are charged with duty at importation²³.

If excise goods have been relieved from payment of duty and there is a contravention²⁴ of any condition subject to which relief was conferred, the excise duty point is the time of that contravention²⁵.

1 For these purposes, 'excise duty point' (ie the time when the duty is payable by a person, whether or not payment may be deferred) has the meaning given by the Finance (No 2) Act 1992 s 1 (see PARA 650 ante): Excise Goods (Holding, Movement, Warehousing and REDS) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/3135, reg 2(1).

2 For these purposes, 'Community excise goods' means excise goods imported into the United Kingdom from another member state and which have been produced or are in free circulation in the European Community at that importation: ibid reg 2(1). 'Excise goods' means goods chargeable with a duty of excise by or under the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 (see PARA 398 et seq ante), the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 (see PARA 508 et seq ante) or the Tobacco Products Act 1979 (see PARA 585 et seq ante): see the Excise Goods (Holding, Movement, Warehousing and REDS) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/3135, reg 2(1) (amended by SI 2006/1787). 'European Community' means the European Communities: reg 2(5). 'European Communities' means the European Community, the European Coal and Steel Community and the European Atomic Energy Community: European Communities Act 1972 s 1, Sch 1 Pt II; applied by the Excise Goods (Holding, Movement, Warehousing and REDS) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/3135, reg 2(5). For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 note 6 ante.

3 For these purposes, 'member state' has the meaning given to that expression in the European Communities Act 1972; and 'another member state' means a member state other than the United Kingdom: Excise Goods (Holding, Movement, Warehousing and REDS) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/3135, reg 2(5). As to the member states of the European Community see PARAS 2-3 ante.

4 For these purposes, 'tax warehouse' means an excise warehouse and any premises registered under the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 41A (as added and amended) (see PARA 445 ante) and any premises registered for the safe storage of tobacco products in accordance with regulations made under the Tobacco Products Duty Act 1979 s 7(1)(b) (see PARA 591 ante): Excise Goods (Holding, Movement, Warehousing and REDS) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/3135, reg 2(1) (amended by SI 1993/1228; SI 2001/1712). 'Excise warehouse' has the meaning given by the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 1(1) (see PARA 407 note 10 ante): Excise Goods (Holding, Movement, Warehousing and REDS) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/3135, reg 2(1).

5 Ibid reg 4(9). For these purposes, references to suspension arrangements are references to the provisions made by Pt IV (regs 7-11) (as amended) (see PARA 658 et seq post) or to any provision made by or under the customs and excise Acts for enabling goods to be held or moved without payment of duty or any provisions made by or under those Acts in connection with any provision enabling goods to be so held or moved: Excise Goods (Holding, Movement, Warehousing and REDS) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/3135, reg 2(2). 'Duty', except in reg 4(1B)(d) (as added) (see note 10 infra) means a duty of excise which becomes chargeable on excise goods by virtue of the enactments specified in the definition of excise goods (see note 2 supra): reg 2(1) (amended by SI 2002/2692). For the meaning of 'the customs and excise Acts' see PARA 413 note 1 ante.

The Excise Goods (Holding, Movement, Warehousing and REDS) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/3135 (as amended) now apply to a control zone, subject to certain modifications: see the Channel Tunnel (Alcoholic Liquor and Tobacco Products) Order 2003, SI 2003/2758, art 2(a), Sch 1 (amended by SI 2004/1004). For these purposes, 'control zone' bears the same meaning as in the Channel Tunnel (Customs and Excise) Order 1990, SI 1990/2167, art 5(2)(a): Channel Tunnel (Alcoholic Liquor and Tobacco Products) Order 2003, SI 2003/2758, art 5. See PARA 939 post.

The Excise Goods (Holding, Movement, Warehousing and REDS) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/3135, reg 4 does not apply in respect of excise goods which are subject to the external or internal Community transit procedure (see PARA 108 et seq ante): Excise Duty Point (External and Internal Community Transit Procedure) Regulations 1998, SI 1998/202, reg 3. Save in the case of tobacco products that were at the time of the excise duty point or immediately before that time in an excise warehouse, the Excise Goods (Holding, Movement, Warehousing and REDS) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/3135, Pt II (reg 4) (as amended) (see PARA 651 post) and (except for the case of UK distance selling arrangements: see PARA 652 post) Pt III (regs 5, 6) (as amended) (see PARAS 652-653 post) do not apply to tobacco products: reg 3(4) (added by SI 2001/1712).

6 le except in the cases specified in the Excise Goods (Holding, Movement, Warehousing and REDS) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/3135, reg 4(1A)-(6) (as amended): see the text and notes 8-25 infra.

7 Ibid reg 4(1) (amended by SI 2002/2692). See also note 5 supra. As to the assertion by the Commissioners that this was the moment at which the goods were unshipped, even if that procedure was carried out with the intention of producing them to customs, see Bowd v Customs and Excise Comrs [1995] V & DR 212.

8 For these purposes, 'excise goods' do not include any goods chargeable with excise duty by virtue of any provision of the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 or of any order made under the Finance Act 1993 s 10 (see PARA 532 ante): Excise Goods (Holding, Movement, Warehousing and REDS) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/3135, reg 4(1B)(f) (reg 4(1B) added by SI 2002/2692).

9 For these purposes, 'member state' includes the Principality of Monaco and San Marino and the United Kingdom Sovereign Base Areas of Akrotiri and Dhekelia, but does not include the Island of Heligoland and the territory of Büsingen in the Federal Republic of Germany, Livigno, Campione d'Italia and the waters of Lake Lugano in the Italian Republic, Ceuta, Melilla and the Canary Islands in the Kingdom of Spain, or the overseas departments of the French Republic: Excise Goods (Holding, Movement, Warehousing and REDS) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/3135, reg 4(1B)(a) (as added (see note 8 supra); and amended by SI 2004/1003).

10 'Own use' includes use as a personal gift: Excise Goods (Holding, Movement, Warehousing and REDS) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/3135, reg 4(1B)(b) (as added: see note 8 supra). If the goods in question are transferred to another person for money or money's worth, including any reimbursement of expenses incurred in connection with obtaining them, or the person holding them intends to make such a transfer, those goods are to be regarded as being held for a commercial purpose: reg 4(1B)(c) (as so added). If the goods are not duty and tax paid in the member state at the time of acquisition, or the duty and tax that was paid will be or has been reimbursed, refunded or otherwise dispensed with, those goods are to be regarded as being held for a commercial purpose: reg 4(1B)(d) (as so added). Without prejudice to reg 4(1B)(c), (d) (as added), in determining whether excise goods are held or used for a commercial purpose by any person regard must be taken of: (1) that person's reasons for having possession or control of those goods; (2) whether or not that person is a revenue trader, as defined by the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 1(1) (see PARA 631 note 3 ante); (3) that person's conduct, including his intended use of those goods or any refusal to disclose his intended use of those goods; (4) the location of those goods; (5) the mode of transport used to convey those goods; (6) any document or other information whatsoever relating to those goods; (7) the nature of those goods including the nature and condition of any package or container; (8) the quantity of those goods, and in particular, whether the quantity exceeds: (a) 10 litres of spirits; (b) 20 litres of intermediate products (as defined in EC Council Directive 92/83 (OJ L31.10.92, p 21) art 17(1)); (c) 90 litres of wine; (9) whether that person personally financed the purchase of those goods; (10) any other circumstance that appears to be relevant: Excise Goods (Holding, Movement, Warehousing and REDS) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/3135, reg 4(1B)(e) (as so added). See also Harrison v Revenue and Customs Comrs [2006] EWHC 2844 (Ch), [2006] All ER (D) 189 (Nov).

11 Excise Goods (Holding, Movement, Warehousing and REDS) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/3135, reg 4(1A) (added by SI 2002/2692).

12 For these purposes, 'REDS' means a registered excise dealer and shipper registered under the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 100G (as added) (see PARA 647 ante): Excise Goods (Holding, Movement, Warehousing and REDS) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/3135, reg 2(1).

13 For these purposes, 'occasional importer' means a person approved under ibid reg 15 (as amended) (see PARA 666 post): reg 2(1).

14 For these purposes, 'authorised warehousekeeper' means the occupier of an excise warehouse or a person who is registered under the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 s 41A (as added and amended) (see PARA 445 ante): Excise Goods (Holding, Movement, Warehousing and REDS) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/3135, reg 2(1) (amended by SI 1999/1278). Where: (1) an authorised warehousekeeper is the person liable to pay excise duty at an excise duty point but fails to do so; and (2) the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs do not possess the legal power to assess the amount of duty due but do have the legal power to recover the duty by demanding payment, the Commissioners will not, by extra-statutory concession, seek to recover the amount of duty due more than three years after the date of the excise duty point or more than one year after the date when evidence of facts on which to base their decision to seek recovery comes to their knowledge: see HM Revenue and Customs Business Brief 7/98 (27 February 1998). As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

15 'Approved' means approved by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs: Excise Goods (Holding, Movement, Warehousing and REDS) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/3135, reg 2(1).

16 Ie the requirements prescribed in ibid reg 9 (as amended) (see PARA 660 post) and reg 10 (as amended) (see PARA 661 post). For these purposes: (1) excise goods being imported into the United Kingdom are deemed to be moved under the instructions of: (a) the authorised warehousekeeper who arranged the importation or to whose tax warehouse the excise goods are consigned; (b) the REDS who arranged the importation; or (c) the occasional importer who arranged the importation; or (d) the consignee if there was no such arrangement; and (2) in any other case, excise goods are deemed to be moved under the instructions of the consignor: reg 2(6).

17 Ibid reg 4(2) (amended by SI 1999/1278). See also note 5 supra.

18 Ie in accordance with the Excise Goods (Holding, Movement, Warehousing and REDS) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/3135 (as amended).

19 Ibid reg 4(3). See also note 5 supra.

20 Ibid reg 4(4) (amended by SI 2001/1712). See also note 5 supra.

21 Ie the excise duty point provided by the Excise Goods (Holding, Movement, Warehousing and REDS) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/3135, reg 4(3) (see the text and notes 18-19 supra) does not occur.

22 Ie the excise duty point provided by ibid reg 4(1) (see the text and notes 6-7 supra) applies.

23 Ibid reg 4(5) (substituted by SI 2001/3022). See also note 5 supra.

24 For these purposes, 'contravention' includes failure to comply: Excise Goods (Holding, Movement, Warehousing and REDS) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/3135, reg 4(7).

8 For these purposes, there is a distance selling arrangement where:

96 (1) a person ('the vendor') in another member state sells or agrees to sell goods to a person ('the purchaser') in the United Kingdom;

97 (2) those goods are dispatched by or to the order of the vendor to the purchaser or a person nominated by the purchaser and consigned to an address in the United Kingdom;

EXCISE DUTY POINT/ (C) Breaches of the External or Internal Community Transit Procedure/655. Excise duty point for breaches of the internal Community transit procedure.

655. Excise duty point for breaches of the internal Community transit procedure.

Where excise goods¹ are subject to the internal Community transit procedure² and an action³ occurs in the United Kingdom⁴, the excise duty point⁵ is:

- 1525 (1) the time when the action occurs in the United Kingdom, where the evidence⁶ establishes the place of the action as being in the United Kingdom⁷; or
- 1526 (2) the relevant time⁸.

1 For the meaning of 'excise goods' see PARA 654 note 1 ante.

2 For these purposes, 'internal Community transit procedure' means the movement referred to in EC Council Regulation 2913/92 (OJ L302, 19.10.92, p 1) (the 'Community Customs Code') art 163(2)(a) (see PARA 113 head (1) ante), in respect of which art 163(3) (see PARA 114 ante) and EC Commission Regulation 2454/93 (OJ L253, 11.10.93 p 1) arts 381-388 (see PARA 133 et seq ante) make provision: Excise Duty Point (External and Internal Community Transit Procedure) Regulations 1998, SI 1998/202, reg 2(a), (f). As to the Community transit procedure see PARA 108 et seq ante.

3 For these purposes, 'action' means any act or omission, in relation to the goods described in ibid reg 5(2) (a) (see the text to notes 1-2 supra), and to the performance and discharge of the obligation to present those goods to the office of destination designated for the particular internal Community transit procedure movement of the goods, which is inconsistent with the performance and discharge of that obligation: reg 5(1)(a).

4 It is provided that: (1) the evidence appertaining to the action establishes that the place of action is in the United Kingdom; or (2) where that evidence does not establish the place of action, the provisions of EC Commission Regulation 2454/93 (OJ L253, 11.10.93 p 1) art 378(1) (see PARA 131 ante) are used, for the purposes of the Excise Duty Point (External and Internal Community Transit Procedure) Regulations 1998, SI 1998/202, reg 5, to determine the place of the action, as if the reference in EC Commission Regulation 2454/93 (OJ L253, 11.10.93 p 1) art 378 to 'offence or irregularity' were a reference to 'action', and the action is deemed by virtue of using art 378 in that way to have been committed or to have occurred in the United Kingdom: Excise Duty Point (External and Internal Community Transit Procedure) Regulations 1998, SI 1998/202, reg 5(2) (b). For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 note 6 ante.

5 For the meaning of 'excise duty point' see PARA 654 note 5 ante.

6 It is the evidence referred to in the Excise Duty Point (External and Internal Community Transit Procedure) Regulations 1998, SI 1998/202, reg 5(2)(b)(i): see note 4 head (1) supra.

7 Ibid reg 5(2), (3)(a). As to the persons liable to pay the excise duty see PARA 656 post; and as to payment of the excise duty see PARA 657 post.

8 Ibid reg 5(2), (3)(b). Regulation 5(3)(b) applies where the provisions of EC Commission Regulation 2454/93 (OJ L253, 11.10.93, p 1) art 378(1) (as substituted) (see PARA 131 ante) are used in the circumstances specified by the External and Internal Community Transit Procedure Regulations 1998, SI 1998/202, reg 5(2)(b)(ii) (see note 3 head (2) supra): reg 5(3)(b). For these purposes, 'relevant time' means: (1) the time when the office of departure in the United Kingdom accepted the declaration for the internal transit procedure; or (2) as the case may be, the time when a transit advice note was given to an office of transit in the United Kingdom: reg 5(1)(b).

661. Movement conditions.

Save as the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may otherwise allow or require and except for movements between excise warehouses¹ which the Commissioners may specify in a notice, a consignment of excise goods² may not be moved under duty suspension arrangements unless:

- 1538 (1) the duty³ chargeable on the excise goods, and any charge described below⁴, are duly secured⁵;
- 1539 (2) the excise goods are accompanied by an accompanying document⁶ issued by the consignor;
- 1540 (3) the excise goods are transported in containers or packages;
- 1541 (4) the consignment is retained intact until one hour or such lesser period as the Commissioners may allow after the time of arrival of the excise goods at their destination when any approved seal referred to in head (5) below may be broken or removed; and
- 1542 (5) except as the Commissioners may allow, the containers or the packages referred to in head (3) above are secured by a seal, the form of which has been approved by the Commissioners⁷.

Except as the Commissioners otherwise allow, imported Community excise goods⁸ which are subject to a duty of excise that has not been paid and which are not consigned to a tax warehouse⁹ must upon their importation be consigned to a REDS¹⁰.

In a UK distance selling arrangement¹¹ the UK vendor¹² must:

- 1543 (a) before the excise products¹³ are consigned to the address in another member state¹⁴, enter into a guarantee, containing such terms and particulars as that member state may specify, for the payment of the other member state's charge¹⁵;
- 1544 (b) at or before the importation of the excise products into the other member state, pay or arrange the payment of the other member state's charge (and that obligation to pay or of arranging the payment is to be considered, for these purposes, to be discharged only if that payment is made);
- 1545 (c) keep and preserve a record of each UK distance selling arrangement¹⁶.

The duty mentioned in head (1) above must be secured by an approved guarantee or bond; and any charge¹⁷ of a similar nature to duty that may arise in another member state in respect of those excise goods, when consigned to any of the other member states, must also be secured by such a guarantee or bond¹⁸.

Where excise goods which are not in duty suspension arrangements are supplied, other than by way of UK distance selling arrangements, to a relevant person¹⁹ and those goods are to be removed to another member state, the consignor prior to the movement of the goods must ensure:

- 1546 (i) that the tax authorities in the member state of destination have been informed of the pending importation; and
- 1547 (ii) that, before those goods are imported into that other member state, the latter's charge in respect of those goods has been paid or arrangements have been made for its payment²⁰.

There are many provisions in the legislation relating to customs and excise duties governing the approval and administration of places of security for the storage of goods chargeable with customs duty on release for free circulation, or on exportation¹, or the approval or administration of places of security for the storage of goods which would be chargeable with excise duties on release for home use².

(ii) Warehouse Regulation

669. Regulation of warehouses and warehoused goods.

The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs¹ may by regulations ('warehousing regulations'):

 - 117. (iii) for ascertaining the quantity which is to be taken as the quantity of warehoused goods¹⁶;
- 67 1570 (e) providing for all or any prescribed purposes of the customs and excise Acts¹⁷:

118. (i) for goods to be treated as warehoused where in a prescribed case they are in the custody or under the control of an approved occupier of a warehouse; and

119. (ii) for goods to be treated, at such times before the excise duty point for those goods as may be prescribed or as may be determined under the regulations, as goods which are required to be deposited in a warehouse¹⁸;

1571 (f) providing for the revocation of the approval under regulations of any occupier of a warehouse and applying, with modifications, any of the provisions relating to the procedure on a warehouse ceasing to be approved¹⁹ in relation to such a revocation or to cases where such an approval is not renewed²⁰;

1573 (h) providing that goods which are required to be deposited in a warehouse, or which have been lawfully permitted to be removed from a warehouse without payment of duty, are to be treated as if, for all or any prescribed purposes of the customs and excise Acts, they were warehoused²²;

1575 (j) requiring goods which are required to be deposited in a warehouse or which have lawfully been permitted to be removed from a warehouse without payment of duty to be accompanied by such documents in such form and containing such particulars as may be prescribed²⁴;

1576 (k) imposing or providing for the imposition under the regulations of requirements on persons concerned in any prescribed respect with the carriage of such goods to keep and preserve the documents that are required to accompany the goods²⁵;

1577 (l) imposing or providing for the imposition under the regulations of requirements on a person so concerned to produce or cause to be produced any documents which are required to accompany any goods by virtue of head (j) above to an officer, when required to do so, for the purpose of allowing the officer to inspect them, to copy or take extracts from them or to remove them at a reasonable time and for a reasonable period²⁶;

1578 (m) imposing or providing for the imposition under the regulations of requirements on the occupier of a warehouse or the proprietor²⁷ of goods in a warehouse or goods which have been in or are required to be deposited in a warehouse to keep and preserve such records as may be prescribed relating to his occupation of the warehouse or proprietorship of the goods²⁸; and may contain such incidental or supplementary provisions as the Commissioners think necessary or expedient for the protection of the revenue³⁴. Warehousing regulations may:

- 1583 (A) make different provision for different cases, including different provision for different occupiers or descriptions of occupier, for warehouses or parts of warehouses of different descriptions or for goods of different classes or descriptions or of the same class or description in different circumstances³⁵;

- 1584 (B) make provision about the removal of goods from one warehouse to another or from one part of a warehouse to another part or for treating goods remaining in a warehouse as if, for all or any prescribed purposes of the customs and excise Acts, they had been so removed; and regulations about the removal of goods may, for all or any prescribed purposes of those Acts, include provision for treating the goods as having been warehoused or removed from warehouse, where they would not otherwise be so treated³⁶.

Warehousing regulations made by virtue of head (a) or head (c) above may also provide for the forfeiture of goods in the event of non-compliance with any condition or restriction imposed by virtue of those heads or in the event of the carrying out of any operation on warehoused goods which is not, by virtue of head (c) above, permitted to be carried out in the warehouse³⁷.

Warehousing regulations made by virtue of any of heads (j) to (l) or (m) to (o) above may also provide for the forfeiture of the goods in question in the event of any contravention of, or non-compliance with, any requirements imposed by or under the regulations with respect to any documents or records relating to prescribed goods³⁸.

Where any documents or records removed under the powers conferred by head (l) or head (o) above are lost or damaged, the Commissioners are liable to compensate their owner for any expenses reasonably incurred by him in replacing or repairing the documents or records³⁹.

If any person fails to comply with any warehousing regulation or with any condition, restriction or requirement imposed under a warehousing regulation, his failure to comply attracts a civil penalty⁴⁰ under the Finance Act 1994⁴¹.

(iii) Excise Warehouses

A. PROCEDURES FOR EXCISE WAREHOUSES AND WAREHOUSED GOODS

670. Approval of excise warehouses.

The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may approve, for such periods and subject to such conditions as they think fit, places of security for the deposit, keeping and securing:

- 1585 (1) of imported goods¹ chargeable as such with excise duty, whether or not also chargeable with customs duty, without payment of the excise duty;
- 1586 (2) of goods for exportation or for use as stores², being goods not eligible for home use;
- 1587 (3) of goods manufactured or produced in the United Kingdom³ or the Isle of Man and permitted by or under the customs and excise Acts to be warehoused⁴ without payment of any duty of excise chargeable thereon;
- 1588 (4) of goods imported into or manufactured or produced in the United Kingdom or the Isle of Man and permitted by or under the customs and excise Acts to be warehoused on drawback⁵, subject to and in accordance with warehousing regulations⁶; and any place of security so approved is referred to in the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 as an 'excise warehouse'⁷.

If, after the approval of a warehouse as an excise warehouse, the occupier⁸ thereof, without the previous consent of the Commissioners, makes any alteration therein or addition thereto, the making of the alteration or addition attracts a civil penalty⁹ under the Finance Act 1994¹⁰.

The Commissioners may from time to time give directions:

- 1589 (a) as to the goods which may or may not be deposited in any particular warehouse or class of warehouse;
- 1590 (b) as to the part of any warehouse in which any class or description of goods may be kept or secured¹¹.

The Commissioners may at any time for reasonable cause revoke or vary the terms of their approval of any warehouse under the above provisions¹².

Where any person contravenes or fails to comply with any condition imposed or direction given by the Commissioners under the above provisions, his contravention or failure to comply attracts a civil penalty¹³ under the Finance Act 1994¹⁴.

671. Time of warehousing.

Goods¹ brought to an excise warehouse² for warehousing³ are deemed to be warehoused when they are put in the excise warehouse⁴.

1 Except as provided by or under the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 (see PARA 508 et seq ante), the Excise Warehousing (Etc) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/809, Pts I-IV (regs 1-30) (as amended) (see PARA 672 et seq post) apply to all goods chargeable with a duty of excise: reg 3(1). Part V (reg 31) (see PARA 694 post) applies for all purposes of the Alcoholic Liquor Duties Act 1979 (see PARA 398 et seq ante): Excise Warehousing (Etc) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/809, reg 3(2).

2 For the meaning of 'excise warehouse' see PARA 670 ante.

3 For these purposes, 'warehoused' means warehoused or re-warehoused in an excise warehouse; and 'warehousing' and 're-warehousing' are to be construed accordingly: Excise Warehousing (Etc) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/809, reg 2.

672. Receipt of goods into warehouse.

When goods¹ are warehoused², the occupier³ must immediately deliver to the proper officer⁴ an entry of the goods in such form and containing such particulars as the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs direct⁵.

When goods are warehoused, the occupier must take account of the goods and deliver a copy of that account to the proper officer by the start of business on the next day after warehousing that the warehouse is open⁶.

The occupier must, if there is any indication that the goods may have been subject to loss or tampering in the course of removal to the excise warehouse, immediately inform the proper officer and retain the goods intact for his examination⁷.

Except as the proper officer may otherwise allow, the occupier must, within five days of goods being warehoused, send a certificate of receipt for the goods to the person from whom they were received, identifying the goods and stating the quantity which has been warehoused⁸. Where goods are warehoused in circumstances where duty may be drawn back, the certificate of receipt must:

- 1591 (1) be in such form and contain such particulars as the Commissioners may require; and
- 1592 (2) be indorsed on one of the copies of the warehousing advice note that accompanied the goods, and, for these purposes, 'warehousing advice note' means a document, in such form and containing such particulars as the Commissioners may require, drawn up by the person to whom the certificate of receipt will be sent⁹. Except as the proper officer otherwise allows, the occupier must give only one such receipt for each lot or parcel of goods warehoused¹⁰.

Should the occupier fail to comply with any condition or restriction imposed by or under the above provisions¹¹, any goods in respect of which the failure occurred are liable to forfeiture¹².

1 As to the goods to which these provisions apply see PARA 671 note 1 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'warehoused' see PARA 671 note 3 ante.

3 For these purposes, 'occupier' means the occupier of an excise warehouse, and, in the case of a distiller's warehouse, means the distiller: Excise Warehousing (Etc) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/809, reg 2. As to distillers' warehouses see PARA 419 ante.

In the case of spirits warehoused at the distillery where they were produced, satisfaction of the requirements of the Spirits Regulations 1982, SI 1982/611, reg 21 (revoked) is deemed to be compliance with the requirements of entry and account in the Excise Warehousing (Etc) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/809, reg 11(1) and reg 11(2) (see the text and note 6 infra): reg 11(6).

EXCISE DUTIES/(10) WAREHOUSES AND PIPELINES/(iii) Excise Warehouses/A. PROCEDURES FOR EXCISE WAREHOUSES AND WAREHOUSED GOODS/678. Removal from warehouse; general requirements.

678. Removal from warehouse; general requirements.

Any goods¹ removed from an excise warehouse without payment of duty² as samples or for scientific research and testing and which are no longer required for the purpose for which they were removed must be:

- 1630 (1) destroyed to the satisfaction of the proper officer³;
- 1631 (2) re-warehoused⁴ in an excise warehouse; or
- 1632 (3) diverted to home use on payment of the duty chargeable thereon⁵.

The proper officer may require any goods entered for removal from an excise warehouse for any purpose, other than home use, to be secured or identified by the use of a seal, lock or mark; and any such requirement may continue after the goods have been removed⁶.

In such cases as the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may direct, the proper officer may impose additional conditions and restrictions⁷ on the removal of goods from an excise warehouse⁸.

Any goods in respect of which any of the statutory provisions relating to removal of goods from an excise warehouse⁹ is contravened are liable to forfeiture¹⁰.

The Commissioners may direct that any of the statutory provisions relating to removal of goods from an excise warehouse¹¹ are not to apply in the case of hydrocarbon oils¹².

Goods, except as specified below, entered for removal from an excise warehouse for any of the permitted purposes¹³ must be accompanied by an accompanying document¹⁴ that has been completed and is used in accordance with the instructions for completion and use set out¹⁵ therein¹⁶. This requirement does not apply to:

- 1633 (a) goods entered for removal for home use, shipment as stores or denaturing;
- 1634 (b) goods entered for removal for use by a person enjoying certain immunities and privileges¹⁷;
- 1635 (c) goods entered for removal that are, in accordance with regulations relating to the supply of duty-free goods to Her Majesty's ships¹⁸ to be treated as exported;
- 1636 (d) spirits entered for removal for use for medical or scientific purposes by a person authorised¹⁹ to receive them;
- 1637 (e) goods entered for removal for exportation²⁰;
- 1638 (f) goods that are being lawfully moved under the cover of a single administrative document²¹; or
- 1639 (g) any goods that are entered for removal from an excise warehouse for any of the permitted purposes before 1 October 2002 if those goods are accompanied by a document that has been approved by the Commissioners for that purpose²².

If there is a contravention of, or failure to comply with, the requirements above as to accompanying documents²³, the excise duty point for excise goods that are required²⁴ to be accompanied by an accompanying document is the time those goods were removed from the excise warehouse²⁵.

The person liable to pay the excise duty at the excise duty point is the person who arranged for the required security²⁶ or, if the requirement as to security was not complied with, the authorised warehousekeeper²⁷. Any person whose conduct caused a contravention of, or failure to comply with, the requirements as to accompanying documents is jointly and severally liable to pay the excise duty with the person specified above²⁸.

Any excise duty that any person is liable to pay by virtue of these provisions must be paid immediately²⁹.

686. Designated file.

Delivery to the proper officer¹ of anything in writing is to be effected by placing it in the relevant designated file; but the proper officer may direct that delivery is to be effected in another manner².

Nothing in a designated file may be removed without the permission of the proper officer³. Nor may anything in a designated file be altered in any way; and an amendment to anything in it must be made by depositing a notice of amendment in the designated file⁴.

The designated file must be kept at such place as the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs direct⁵ and, if kept at the excise warehouse, must be provided by the occupier⁶.

The designated file must be a receptacle approved by the Commissioners for the secure keeping of written material; and different files may be approved for different purposes⁷.

Delivery to the proper officer of anything not in writing is to be effected in such manner, and is subject to such conditions, as the Commissioners direct⁸.

687. Variation of provisions at request of occupier or proprietor.

The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs¹ may, if they see fit, consent in writing to an application by an occupier or proprietor² for variation of any condition, restriction or requirement³, and may make that consent subject to compliance with such other condition, restriction or requirement, as the case may be, as may be agreed by them and the applicant in writing⁴.

- 1670 (2) subject to which an operation may be carried out on goods in an excise warehouse,

(iv) Victualling Warehouses

695. Approval of victualling warehouses.

Functions with respect to the approval of warehouses for the advance payment of common agricultural policy export refunds¹ are to be exercised by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs²; and a warehouse approved by them for such purposes is referred to as a 'victualling warehouse'³. The same place may be so approved both as a victualling and as an excise warehouse⁴.

Goods⁵ of the following descriptions, not being goods chargeable with excise duty which has not been paid, that is to say:

- 1681 (1) goods originating in member states;
- 1682 (2) goods which are in free circulation in member states; and
- 1683 (3) goods placed on importation under a customs procedure, other than warehousing, involving the suspension of, or the giving of relief from, customs duties, may⁶ be kept, without being warehoused⁷, in a victualling warehouse⁸.

The Commissioners may from time to time give directions:

- 1684 (a) as to the goods which may or may not be deposited in any particular warehouse or class of warehouse;
- 1685 (b) as to the part of any warehouse in which any class or description of goods may be kept or secured⁹.

The Commissioners may at any time for reasonable cause revoke or vary the terms of their approval of any warehouse under the above provisions¹⁰.

The period prescribed by the Commissioners at the end of which the revocation of their approval of a victualling warehouse is to take effect is two working days ending with the date specified in their notice of intention to revoke or such longer period as they may, upon application by the occupier¹¹, allow¹².

Where any person contravenes or fails to comply with any condition imposed or direction given by the Commissioners under the above provisions, his contravention or failure to comply attracts a civil penalty¹³ under the Finance Act 1994¹⁴.

- 1692 (7) where the goods have been supplied to a rig or workpoint of a specified kind⁶, the name of such rig or workpoint⁷.

The occupier must keep the register at the victualling warehouse unless the proper officer consents to its being kept at some other place⁸.

The occupier must retain the register for at least three years from the end of the calendar year in which the goods were removed from the victualling warehouse⁹.

The occupier must, if so required by the proper officer, produce the register and must permit the proper officer to take copies thereof or to make notes therein; but, if the information which would otherwise be contained in the register is stored in a computer¹⁰ or contained on a film (including microfilm), negative, tape or other device in which one or more visual images are embodied so as to be capable, with or without the aid of some other equipment, of being reproduced therefrom, the occupier must, on request, produce that information in the form of a transcript or other legible reproduction¹¹.

(v) Queen's Warehouses

705. Provisions as to deposit in Queen's warehouse.

The following provisions have effect in relation to any goods¹ which are deposited in a Queen's warehouse² under or by virtue of any provision of the Customs and Excise Acts 1979³.

Such rent is payable while the goods are deposited as may be fixed by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs⁴.

If the goods are of a combustible or inflammable nature or otherwise of such a character as to require special care or treatment:

1693 (1) they are chargeable, in addition to any other charges payable thereon, with such expenses for securing, watching and guarding them as the Commissioners see fit;

1694 (2) neither the Commissioners nor any officer⁵ is liable to make good any damage which the goods may have sustained; and

1695 (3) if the proprietor⁶ of the goods has not cleared them within a period of 14 days from the date of deposit, they may be sold by the Commissioners, but, in the case of uncleared goods deposited to await entry⁷, head (3) above only applies if the goods are of a combustible or inflammable nature⁸.

Save as permitted by or under the Customs and Excise Acts 1979, the goods must not be removed from the warehouse until any duty chargeable thereon and any charges in respect thereof for their removal to the warehouse and under the above provisions⁹ have been paid and, in the case of goods requiring entry and not yet entered, until entry has been made thereof¹⁰.

The officer having the custody of the goods may refuse to allow them to be removed until it is shown to his satisfaction that any freight charges due thereon have been paid¹¹.

If the goods are sold under or by virtue of any provision of the Customs and Excise Acts 1979, the proceeds of sale must be applied:

1696 (a) first, in paying any duty chargeable on the goods;

1697 (b) secondly, in defraying any such charges as are mentioned above¹²; and

1698 (c) thirdly, in defraying any charges for freight, and, if the person who was immediately before the sale the proprietor of the goods makes application in that behalf, the remainder, if any, must be paid over to him¹³.

When the goods are authorised to be sold under or by virtue of any provision of the Customs and Excise Acts 1979 but cannot be sold:

1699 (i) if the goods are to be exported, for a sum sufficient to make the payment mentioned head (b) above; or

1700 (ii) in any other case, for a sum sufficient to make the payments mentioned in heads (a) and (b) above, the Commissioners may destroy the goods¹⁴.

706. Deficiency in warehoused goods.

In any case where goods¹ have been warehoused² and, before they are lawfully removed from warehouse in accordance with a proper clearance thereof, they are found to be missing or deficient, then, unless it is shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs³ that the absence of or deficiency in the goods can be accounted for by natural waste or other legitimate cause, the Commissioners may:

- 1701 (1) require the occupier⁴ of the warehouse or the proprietor⁵ of the goods to pay immediately any duty, other than excise duty, chargeable or deemed under warehousing regulations⁶ to be chargeable on the relevant goods⁷ or, in the case of goods warehoused on drawback⁸ which could not lawfully be entered for home use, an amount equal to any drawback or allowance of such duty paid in respect of the relevant goods;
- 1702 (2) assess, as being excise duty due from the occupier of the warehouse or the proprietor of the goods, the excise duty chargeable or deemed under warehousing regulations to be chargeable on the relevant goods or, in the case of goods warehoused on drawback which could not lawfully be entered for home use, an amount equal to any drawback or allowance of excise duty paid in respect of the relevant goods⁹.

Where the Commissioners make an assessment under head (2) above, they must notify the person assessed or his representative accordingly¹⁰.

If, on the written demand of an officer¹¹, the occupier of the warehouse or the proprietor of the goods refuses to pay any sum which he is required to pay under head (1) above, he is liable on summary conviction to a penalty of double that sum¹².

If the occupier of the warehouse or the proprietor of the goods refuses to pay any amount of excise duty to which he has been assessed under head (2) above, and the following conditions are fulfilled, that is to say:

- 1703 (a) the period of 45 days¹³ during which review may be required has expired;
- 1704 (b) on any review¹⁴, the Commissioners' decision ('the original decision') in relation to the assessment has been confirmed, or treated as confirmed¹⁵, or confirmed subject only to a reduction in the amount of duty due under the assessment; and
- 1705 (c) the final result¹⁶ of any further appeal is that the original decision has been confirmed, subject only to any reduction in the amount of duty due under the assessment, he is liable on summary conviction to a penalty of double that amount¹⁷.

Where the amount of excise duty due under head (2) above is reduced in consequence of a review or appeal, the penalty to which the person assessed is liable¹⁸ is a penalty of double the reduced amount¹⁹.

Accordingly, unless it is shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs⁶ that the absence of or deficiency in the goods can be accounted for by natural waste or other legitimate cause, the Commissioners may:

- 1706 (1) require the proprietor⁷ of the goods to pay immediately any duty, other than excise duty, chargeable or deemed under warehousing regulations⁸ to be chargeable on the relevant goods⁹ or, in the case of goods warehoused on drawback¹⁰ which could not lawfully be entered for home use, an amount equal to any drawback or allowance of such duty paid in respect of the relevant goods;

709. Restriction on compensation for loss or damage to goods in, or for removal of goods from, warehouse or pipeline.

No compensation is payable by, and no action lies against, the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs¹ or any officer² acting in the execution of his duty for any loss or damage caused to good³ while in a warehouse or pipeline⁴ or for any unlawful removal of goods from a warehouse or pipeline⁵.

If any goods in a warehouse or pipeline are destroyed, stolen or unlawfully removed by or with the assistance or connivance of an officer and that officer is convicted of the offence, then, except where the proprietor⁶ of the goods or the occupier⁷ of the warehouse or, as the case may be, the owner⁸ of the pipeline was a party to the offence, the Commissioners must pay compensation for any loss caused by any such destruction, theft or removal⁹. Where compensation is so payable, then, notwithstanding any provision of the Customs and Excise Acts 1979¹⁰, no duty is payable on the goods by the proprietor of the goods or by the occupier of the warehouse or, as the case may be, the owner of the pipeline; and any sum paid by way of duty on those goods by any of those persons before the conviction must be repaid¹¹.

710. Procedure on warehouse ceasing to be approved.

Where the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs intend to revoke or not to renew their approval of a warehouse¹, they must, not later than the beginning of the prescribed period² ending with the date when the revocation is to take effect or the approval is due to expire, as the case may be, give notice of their intention, specifying therein the said date and, unless the notice has been withdrawn or extended, the warehouse ceases to be approved on that date³.

The notice must be given in writing and is deemed to have been served on all persons interested in any goods⁴ then deposited in that warehouse, or permitted under the Customs and Excise Acts 1979⁵ to be so deposited between the date of the giving of the notice and the date specified therein, if addressed to the occupier⁶ of, and left at, the warehouse⁷.

If, after the date on which the warehouse ceases to be approved, any goods not duly cleared still remain in the former warehouse:

- 1715 (1) they may be taken by an officer⁸ to a Queen's warehouse⁹ and¹⁰, if they are not cleared from it within one month, may be sold; or

(11) BETTING, GAMING AND LOTTERY DUTIES

712. General betting duty.

A duty of excise known as general betting duty is charged on the following¹:

- 1722 (1) a bet made with a bookmaker who is in the United Kingdom, other than: (a) an on-course bet; (b) a spread bet; (c) a bet made by way of pool betting; or (d) a bet made using a gaming machine²;
- 1723 (2) a spread bet made with a bookmaker who is in the United Kingdom and holds a bookmaker's permit³;
- 1724 (3) pool betting which relates only to horse racing or dog racing, and is not on-course betting⁴.

The amount of duty charged under head (1) above in respect of bets made with a bookmaker in an accounting period is 15 per cent of the amount of his net stake receipts⁵ for that period⁶. The amount of duty charged under head (2) above is 3 per cent of the amount of his net stake receipts in respect of financial spread bets for that period (if any), plus 10 per cent of the amount of his net stake receipts in respect of other spread bets for that period (if any)⁷. The amount of duty charged under head (3) above in respect of bets made by means of facilities provided by a person in an accounting period is 15 per cent of the amount of his net stake receipts for that period⁸.

In addition, where one person makes a bet with another using facilities provided by a third person in the course of a business, and that business is one that does not involve the provision of premises for use by persons making or taking bets, general betting duty is charged on the amount ('commission charges') that the parties to the bet are charged, whether by deduction from winnings or otherwise, for using those facilities⁹. The rate of duty in respect of bets determined in an accounting period is 15 per cent of the commission charges relating to those bets, and no deduction is allowed from commission charges¹⁰.

The duty is under the care and management of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs and must be accounted for by such persons and at such times and in such manner as may be required by or under regulations made by the Commissioners¹¹.

713. Gaming duty.

Gaming duty is chargeable, subject to certain exceptions¹, on any premises in the United Kingdom where dutiable gaming² takes place for every accounting period which contains a time when dutiable gaming takes place on those premises³.

The amount of gaming duty which is so chargeable must be calculated by applying:

- 1725 (1) the rate of 2.5 per cent to the first £546,500 of gross gaming yield in an accounting period from those premises;
- 1726 (2) the rate of 12.5 per cent to the next £1,212,500 of gross gaming yield in an accounting period from those premises;
- 1727 (3) the rate of 20 per cent to the next £1,212,500 of gross gaming yield in an accounting period from those premises;
- 1728 (4) the rate of 30 per cent to the next £2,124,000 of gross gaming yield in an accounting period from those premises; and
- 1729 (5) the rate of 40 per cent to the remainder of the gross gaming yield in an accounting period from those premises, and aggregating the results⁴.

Where, in any accounting period, unregistered gaming takes place on any premises, the amount of gaming duty which is charged on those premises for that period is equal to 40 per cent of the gross gaming yield in that period from the premises⁵.

The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs must establish and maintain a register of persons involved in the provision of dutiable gaming⁶.

(12) VEHICLE EXCISE DUTY

(i) In general

717. Vehicle excise duty.

The Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 consolidated the enactments relating to vehicle excise duty and the registration of vehicles¹.

The substitution of the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 for the provisions repealed or revoked by that Act does not affect the continuity of the law².

1 See the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 preamble. The Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 came into operation on 1 September 1994: s 66(1). As to the registration of vehicles see Pt II (ss 21-28) (as amended); and ROAD TRAFFIC vol 40(1) (2007 Reissue) PARA 518 et seq.

2 Ibid s 64, Sch 4 para 1. Anything done, or having effect as done (including the making of subordinate legislation and the issuing of licences) under or for the purposes of any provision repealed or revoked by the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 has effect as if done under or for the purposes of any corresponding provision of that Act: Sch 4 para 2(1). Schedule 4 para 2(1) does not apply to the Vehicle Licences (Duration and Rate of Duty) Order 1980, SI 1980/1183 (revoked): Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 4 para 2(2).

Any reference, express or implied, in the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 or any other enactment, or in any instrument or document, to a provision of that Act is, so far as the context permits, to be read as, according to the context, being or including in relation to times, circumstances and purposes before the commencement of that Act a reference to the corresponding provision repealed or revoked by that Act: Sch 4 para 3.

Any reference, express or implied, in any enactment, or in any instrument or document, to a provision repealed or revoked by the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 is, so far as the context permits, to be read as, according to the context, being or including in relation to times, circumstances and purposes after the commencement of that Act a reference to the corresponding provision of that Act: Sch 4 para 4.

Schedule 4 paras 1-4 have effect in place of the Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2) (effect of repeals: see STATUTES vol 44(1) (Reissue) PARA 1303), but are without prejudice to any other provision of that Act: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 4 para 5.

The repeal by the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 of an enactment previously repealed subject to savings, whether or not in the repealing enactment, does not affect the continued operation of those savings (Sch 4 para 6(1)); and the repeal by that Act of a saving made on the previous repeal of an enactment does not affect the operation of the saving, in so far as it remains capable of having effect (Sch 4 para 6(2)).

Where the purpose of an enactment repealed by the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 was to secure that the substitution of the provisions of the Act containing that enactment for provisions repealed by the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 did not affect the continuity of the law, the repealed enactment continues to have effect, so far as it is capable of doing so: Sch 4 para 6(3).

(ii) Charge to Duty

A. IN GENERAL

718. Charge to duty; licences.

A duty of excise ('vehicle excise duty') is to be charged in respect of every mechanically propelled vehicle that is registered under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994¹ or is not so registered but is used, or kept, on a public road² in the United Kingdom³; and in respect of every thing (whether or not it is a vehicle⁴) that has been, but has ceased to be⁵, a mechanically propelled vehicle and is either so registered or not so registered but so used⁶.

Vehicle excise duty charged on a registered vehicle must be paid on a licence to be taken out by the person in whose name the vehicle is registered or, if that person is not the person keeping the vehicle, by either of those persons⁷; and duty charged by reference to the use or keeping of the vehicle must be paid on a licence to be taken out by the person keeping the vehicle⁸. Such a licence taken out for a vehicle is referred to as a 'vehicle licence'⁹.

No vehicle excise duty is, however, to be charged in respect of a vehicle if it is an exempt vehicle¹⁰.

1 le under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 21 (as amended): see ROAD TRAFFIC vol 40(1) (2007 Reissue) PARA 519.

2 For these purposes, 'public road' means a road which is repairable at the public expense: ibid s 62(1). For these purposes, and for the purposes of any other enactment relating to the keeping of vehicles on public roads, a person keeps a vehicle on a public road if he causes it to be on such a road for any period, however short, when it is not in use there: s 62(2). As to highways maintainable at the public expense see HIGHWAYS, STREETS AND BRIDGES vol 21 (2004 Reissue) PARAS 247-248.

3 Ibid s 1(1) (substituted by the Finance Act 2002 s 19(1), Sch 5 paras 1, 2). For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 note 6 ante.

4 'Vehicle' means a mechanically propelled vehicle or any thing, whether or not it is a vehicle, that has been, but has ceased to be, a mechanically propelled vehicle: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 ss 1(1B), 62(1) (s 1(1B) added by the Finance Act 2002 Sch 5 para 2; and the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 62(1) amended by the Finance Act 2002 Sch 5 para 17).

5 A motor car does not cease to be a mechanically propelled vehicle on the mere removal of the engine if the evidence admits the possibility that the engine might shortly be replaced and the motive power restored: see Newberry v Simmonds [1961] 2 QB 345, [1961] 2 All ER 318, DC; Binks v Department of the Environment [1975] RTR 318, DC; Silva v Cox (7 July 1988, unreported). Moreover, a vehicle does not cease to be mechanically propelled for the purpose of licensing by reason of its being towed by another vehicle, or by reason of a mechanical breakdown: see Cobb v Whorton [1971] RTR 392, DC; R v Paul [1952] NI 61. Where, however, there is no reasonable prospect of a vehicle ever being made mobile again, it ceases to be a mechanically propelled vehicle: see Smart v Allan [1963] 1 QB 291, [1962] 3 All ER 893, DC; Binks v Department of the Environment supra; McEachran v Hurst [1978] RTR 462, DC; Pumbien v Vines [1996] RTR 37, DC. The onus of proving that the vehicle is a mechanically propelled vehicle rests on the prosecution: Reader v Bunyard (1986) 85 Cr App Rep 185, DC.

B. ANNUAL RATES OF DUTY

719. In general.

Vehicle excise duty¹ in respect of a vehicle² of any description is chargeable by reference to the annual rate currently applicable³ to it⁴; but where vehicle excise duty is chargeable in respect of the keeping of a vehicle on a road⁵ (and not in respect of its use), the duty is chargeable by reference to the general rate currently specified⁶.

Where vehicle excise duty is charged in respect of a registered vehicle or thing (whether or not it is a vehicle) that has been, but has ceased to be, a mechanically propelled vehicle⁷, and were the vehicle not registered, duty would not be charged⁸ in respect of the use of the vehicle on a road, then: (1) where one or more use licences⁹ have previously been issued for the vehicle, the duty so charged is chargeable by reference to the annual rate currently applicable to a vehicle of the same description as that of the vehicle on the occasion of the issue of that licence (or the last of those licences); and (2) in any other case the duty so charged is chargeable by reference to the general rate¹⁰ currently specified¹¹.

720. The general rate.

The annual rate of vehicle excise duty¹ applicable to a vehicle² in respect of which no other annual rate is specified³ is the general rate⁴. Except in the case of a vehicle having an engine with a cylinder capacity⁵ not exceeding 1,549 cubic centimetres, the general rate is £175⁶. In the case of a vehicle having an engine with a cylinder capacity not exceeding 1,549 cubic centimetres, the general rate is £110⁷.

5 For the purposes of the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 (as amended), the cylinder capacity of an engine is to be calculated in accordance with regulations made by the Secretary of State: Sch 1 para 1(2B) (added by the Finance Act 2002 s 20(1)). As to the making of regulations see PARA 801 post. See the Road Vehicles (Registration and Licensing) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/2742, reg 43. For these purposes, the cylinder capacity of an internal combustion engine is to be taken to be: (1) in the case of a single-cylinder engine, the cylinder capacity attributable to the cylinder of the engine; and (2) in the case of an engine having two or more cylinders, the sum of the cylinder capacities attributable to the separate cylinders: reg 43(1). The cylinder capacity attributable to any cylinder of an internal combustion engine is to be deemed to be equal to: (a) in the case of a cylinder having a single piston, the product expressed in cubic centimetres of the square of the internal diameter of the cylinder measured in centimetres, and the distance through which the piston associated with the cylinder moves during one half of a revolution of the engine measured in centimetres multiplied by 0.7854; and (b) in the case of a cylinder having more than one piston, the sum of the products expressed in cubic centimetres of the square of the internal diameter of each part of the cylinder in which a piston moves measured in centimetres, and the distance through which the piston associated with that part of the cylinder moves during one half of a revolution of the engine measured in centimetres multiplied by 0.7854: reg 43(2). In measuring cylinders for the purpose of calculating cylinder capacity, and in calculating cylinder capacity, fractions of centimetres are to be taken into account: reg 43(3).

721. Motorcycles.

The annual rate of vehicle excise¹ duty applicable to a motorcycle² that does not exceed 450 kilograms in weight unladen³ is:

- 1730 (1) if the cylinder capacity⁴ of the engine does not exceed 150 cubic centimetres, £15;
- 1731 (2) if the vehicle is a motorbicycle and the cylinder capacity of the engine exceeds 150 cubic centimetres but does not exceed 400 cubic centimetres, £31;
- 1732 (3) if the vehicle is a motorbicycle and the cylinder capacity of the engine exceeds 400 cubic centimetres but does not exceed 600 cubic centimetres, £46;
- 1733 (4) in any other case, £62⁵.

1 For the meaning of 'vehicle excise duty' see PARA 718 ante.

2 For these purposes, 'motorcycle' means a motorbicycle or a motortricycle but does not include an electrically propelled vehicle; 'motorbicycle' includes a two-wheeled motor scooter, a bicycle with an attachment for propelling it by mechanical power and a motorbicycle to which a side-car is attached; and 'motortricycle' includes a three-wheeled motor scooter and a tricycle with an attachment for propelling it by mechanical power: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 2(1), Sch 1 para 2(3) (amended by the Finance Act 2001 s 13(2)(b), (4)). A vehicle is not an electrically propelled vehicle unless the electrical motive power is derived from: (1) a source external to the vehicle; or (2) an electrical storage battery which is not connected to any source of power when the vehicle is in motion: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 62(1A) (added by the Finance Act 1996 s 15(3), (4)).

3 The weight unladen of a vehicle or trailer is to be taken to be the weight of the vehicle or trailer: (1) inclusive of the body and all parts, the heavier being taken where alternative bodies or parts are used, which are necessary to, or ordinarily used with, the vehicle or trailer when working on a road; but (2) exclusive of the weight of water, fuel or accumulators used for the purpose of the supply of power for the protection of the vehicle or, as the case may be, of any vehicle by which the trailer is drawn, and of loose tools and loose equipment: Road Traffic Act 1988 s 190(2); applied by the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 61(6)(a).

722. Buses.

The annual rate of vehicle excise duty¹ applicable to a bus² with respect to which the reduced pollution requirements³ are not satisfied is:

- 1734 (1) if its seating capacity⁴ is nine to 16, the same as the basic goods vehicle rate⁵;
- 1735 (2) if its seating capacity is 17 to 35, 133 per cent of the basic goods vehicle rate;
- 1736 (3) if its seating capacity is 36 to 60, 200 per cent of the basic goods vehicle rate;
- 1737 (4) if its seating capacity is over 60, 300 per cent of the basic goods vehicle rate⁶.

The annual rate of vehicle excise duty applicable to a bus with respect to which the reduced pollution requirements are satisfied is £165⁷.

1 For the meaning of 'vehicle excise duty' see PARA 718 ante.

2 For these purposes, 'bus' means a vehicle which: (1) is a public service vehicle within the meaning given by the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 1 (as amended) (see ROAD TRAFFIC vol 40(3) (2007 Reissue) PARA 1136); and (2) is not an excepted vehicle or a special concessionary vehicle: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 2(1), Sch 1 para 3(2) (substituted by the Finance Act 1995 s 19, Sch 4 paras 1, 8, 16(1), (2); and amended by the Finance Act 1996 s 16(2), (8)). An excepted vehicle is: (a) a vehicle which has a seating capacity under nine; (b) a vehicle which is a community bus; or (c) a vehicle used under a permit granted under the Transport Act 1985 s 19 (educational and other bodies: see ROAD TRAFFIC vol 40(3) (2007 Reissue) PARA 1183) and used in circumstances where the requirements mentioned in s 19(2) are met: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 3(3)(a)-(c) (substituted by the Finance Act 1995 Sch 4 paras 1, 8, 16(1), (2)). 'Community bus' means a vehicle: (i) used on public roads solely in accordance with a community bus permit (within the meaning given by the Transport Act 1985 s 22: see ROAD TRAFFIC vol 40(3) (2007 Reissue) PARA 1185); and (ii) not used for providing a service under an agreement providing for service subsidies (within the meaning given by s 63(10)(b): see ROAD TRAFFIC vol 40(3) (2007 Reissue) PARA 1252): Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 3(4) (substituted by the Finance Act 1995 Sch 4 paras 1, 8, 16(1), (2)).

3 As to the reduced pollution requirements see PARA 725 post.

4 For these purposes, the seating capacity of a vehicle is to be determined in accordance with regulations made by the Secretary of State: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 3(5) (substituted by the Finance Act 1995 Sch 4 paras 1, 8, 16(1), (2)). See the Road Vehicles (Registration and Licensing) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/2742, reg 44. The seating capacity of a bus is to be taken to be the number of persons that may be seated in the bus at any one time, as determined in accordance with the following principles: reg 44(1). Those principles are: (1) where separate seats for each person are provided one person is to be counted for each separate seat provided; (2) where the vehicle is fitted with continuous seats one person is to be counted for each complete length of 410 mm measured in a straight line lengthwise on the front of each seat; (3) where any continuous seat is fitted with arms in order to separate the seating spaces and the arms can be folded back or otherwise put out of use, the arms are to be ignored in measuring the seat; (4) no account is to be taken of the driver's seat or any seats alongside the driver's seat, whether separate from or continuous with it, if the Secretary of State is satisfied that the use of those seats by members of the public will not be permitted during the currency of the licence applied for: reg 44(2). For this purpose, 'driver's seat' means: (a) any separate seat occupied by the driver; or (b) where no such seat is provided and the driver occupies a portion of a continuous seat, so much of that seat as extends from the right edge of the seat if the vehicle is steered from the right-hand side, or from the left edge of the seat if the vehicle is steered from the left-hand side, to a point 460 mm left or right, as the case may be, of the point on the seat directly behind the centre of the steering column: reg 44(3).

5 For these purposes, references to the basic goods vehicle rate are to the rate applicable, by virtue of the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 9(1) (as amended) (see PARA 732 post), to a rigid goods vehicle which is not a vehicle with respect to which the reduced pollution requirements are satisfied and which falls within Sch 1 para 9(1), Table col (3) (as substituted) (two axle vehicles) (see PARA 732 post) and has a revenue weight exceeding 3,500 kilograms and not exceeding 7,500 kilograms: Sch 1 para 3(6) (substituted by the Finance Act 1995 Sch 4 paras 1, 8, 16(1), (2); and amended by the Finance Act 1998 s 16, Sch 1 paras 1, 3(3), 17(1), (2)). 'Rigid goods vehicle' means a goods vehicle which is not a tractive unit: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 62(1). 'Tractive unit' means a goods vehicle to which a semi-trailer may be so attached that: (1) part of the semi-trailer is superimposed on part of the goods vehicle; and (2) when the semi-trailer is uniformly loaded, not less than 20% of the weight of its load is borne by the goods vehicle: s 62(1). 'Goods vehicle' means a vehicle constructed or adapted for use and used for the conveyance of goods or burden of any description, whether in the course of trade or not: s 62(1). For the meaning of 'revenue weight' see PARA 726 post.

6 Ibid Sch 1 para 3(1) (substituted by the Finance Act 1995 Sch 4 paras 1, 8, 16(1), (2); and amended by the Finance Act 1998 Sch 1 paras 1, 3(1), 17(1), (2)). Where an amount arrived at in accordance with the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 3(1)(b), (c) or (d) (as substituted) (see heads (2)-(4) in the text) is: (1) an amount which is not a multiple of £10 and which, on division by ten, does not produce a remainder of £5, the rate is the amount arrived at rounded, either up or down, to the nearest amount which is a multiple of £10 (Sch 1 para 3(7) (substituted by the Finance Act 1995 Sch 4 paras 1, 8, 16(1), (2))); (2) an amount which, on division by ten, produces a remainder of £5, the rate is the amount arrived at increased by £5 (Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 3(8) (substituted by the Finance Act 1995 Sch 4 paras 1, 8, 16(1), (2))).

7 Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 3(1A) (added by the Finance Act 1998 Sch 1 paras 1, 3(2), 17(1), (2); and amended by the Finance Act 2005 s 7(1), (7), (10)).

A vehicle is liable to the standard rate of duty if it does not qualify for the reduced rate and is not liable to the premium rate⁷. A vehicle qualifies for the reduced rate of duty if one of the following conditions is met⁸:

- 1738 (1) condition A is that the vehicle: (a) is constructed so as to be propelled by a relevant type of fuel⁹, or so as to be capable of being propelled by any of a number of relevant types of fuel; or (b) is constructed or modified so as to be propelled by a prescribed type of fuel, or so as to be capable of being propelled by any of a number of prescribed types of fuel, and complies with any other requirements prescribed for the purposes of this condition¹⁰;
- 1739 (2) condition B is that the vehicle: (a) incorporates before its first registration equipment enabling it to meet such vehicle emission standards as may be prescribed for the purposes of this condition; and (b) has incorporated such equipment since its first registration¹¹;
- 1740 (3) condition C is that the vehicle is of a description certified by the Secretary of State, before the vehicle's first registration, as meeting such vehicle emission standards as may be prescribed¹² for the purposes of this condition¹³.

The rates are as follows, determined by reference to the applicable CO₂ emissions figure, and to whether the vehicle qualifies for the reduced rate of duty, or is liable to the standard rate or the premium rate of duty¹⁴:

- 1741 (i) where the vehicle is first registered before 23 March 2006:

- 123. (A) if the CO₂ emissions figure exceeds 100 grams per kilometre but does not exceed 120 grams per kilometre, the reduced rate is £30, the standard rate is £40, and the premium rate is £50;
- 124. (B) if the CO₂ emissions figure exceeds 120 grams per kilometre but does not exceed 150 grams per kilometre, the reduced rate is £90, the standard rate is £100, and the premium rate is £110;
- 125. (C) if the CO₂ emissions figure exceeds 150 grams per kilometre but does not exceed 165 grams per kilometre, the reduced rate is £115, the standard rate is £125, and the premium rate is £135;
- 126. (D) if the CO₂ emissions figure exceeds 165 grams per kilometre but does not exceed 185 grams per kilometre, the reduced rate is £140, the standard rate is £150, and the premium rate is £160;
- 127. (E) if the CO₂ emissions figure exceeds 185 grams per kilometre, the reduced rate is £180, the standard rate is £190, and the premium rate is £195¹⁵;

72

- 1742 (ii) where the vehicle is first registered on or after 23 March 2006:

- 128. (A) if the CO₂ emissions figure exceeds 100 grams per kilometre but does not exceed 120 grams per kilometre, the reduced rate is £30, the standard rate is £40, and the premium rate is £50;
- 129. (B) if the CO₂ emissions figure exceeds 120 grams per kilometre but does not exceed 150 grams per kilometre, the reduced rate is £90, the standard rate is £100, and the premium rate is £110;
- 130. (C) if the CO₂ emissions figure exceeds 150 grams per kilometre but does not exceed 165 grams per kilometre, the reduced rate is £115, the standard rate is £125, and the premium rate is £135;
- 131. (D) if the CO₂ emissions figure exceeds 165 grams per kilometre but does not exceed 185 grams per kilometre, the reduced rate is £140, the standard rate is £150, and the premium rate is £160;
- 132. (E) if the CO₂ emissions figure exceeds 185 grams per kilometre but does not exceed 225 grams per kilometre, the reduced rate is £180, the standard rate is £190, and the premium rate is £195;
- 133. (F) if the CO₂ emissions figure exceeds 225 grams per kilometre, the reduced rate is £200, the standard rate is £210, and the premium rate is £215¹⁶.

A vehicle is liable to the premium rate of duty if it is constructed or modified so as to be propelled solely by diesel¹⁷, and it is not of a prescribed description¹⁸.

2 For the meaning of 'vehicle' see PARA 718 note 4 ante.

3 I.e. a certificate of conformity issued by a manufacturer under any provision of the law of a member state implementing EC Council Directive 70/156 (OJ L42, 23.2.1970, p 1) art 6 (as amended): Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 1G(1) (Sch 1 para 1G added by the Finance Act 2000 Sch 3).

4 I.e. a certificate issued under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 58(1) or (4) (see ROAD TRAFFIC vol 40(2) (2007 Reissue) PARA 706), or corresponding Northern Ireland legislation, as the case may be: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 1G(2) (as added: see note 3 supra).

5 For this purpose, a 'light passenger vehicle' means a vehicle within EC Council Directive 70/156 (OJ L42, 23.2.1970, p 1) Annex II Category M1 (vehicle with at least four wheels used for carriage of passengers and comprising no more than eight seats in addition to the driver's seat): Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 1A(2) (as added: see note 1 supra).

6 Ibid Sch 1 para 1A(1) (as added: see note 1 supra). If a vehicle is on first registration a vehicle to which these provisions apply, its status as such a vehicle and the applicable CO₂ emissions figure are not affected by any subsequent modification of the vehicle: Sch 1 para 1A(5) (as so added).

7 Ibid Sch 1 para 1D (added by the Finance Act 2000 Sch 3).

8 Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 1C(1) (added by the Finance Act 2000 Sch 3).

9 For these purposes, 'relevant type of fuel' means bioethanol, or a mixture of bioethanol and unleaded petrol, if the proportion of bioethanol by volume is at least 85%: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 1C(6) (added by the Finance Act 2006 s 13(1), (4)(b)). 'Bioethanol' has the meaning given in the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 2AB (as added) (see PARA 518 ante); and 'unleaded petrol' has the meaning given in the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 1(3C) (as added): Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 1C(6) (as so added). The Secretary of State may, with the consent of the Treasury, by regulations amend

Sch 1 para 1C(6) (as added): Sch 1 para 1C(7) (added by the Finance Act 2006 s 13(4)(b)). As to the Treasury see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARAS 512-517.

10 Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 1C(2) (added by the Finance Act 2000 Sch 3; and substituted by the Finance Act 2006 s 13(4)(a)).

11 Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 1C(3) (added by the Finance Act 2000 Sch 3).

12 'Prescribed' means prescribed by regulations made by the Secretary of State with the consent of the Treasury: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 1F (added by the Finance Act 2000 Sch 3). The Secretary of State may make provision by regulations: (1) for the making of an application to him for the issue of a certificate under head (3) in the text; (2) for the manner in which any determination of whether to issue such a certificate on such an application is to be made; (3) for the examination of one or more vehicles of the description to which the application relates, for the purposes of such a determination, by such persons, and in such manner, as may be prescribed; (4) for a fee to be paid for such an examination; (5) for the form and content of such a certificate; (6) for the revocation, cancellation or surrender of such a certificate; (7) for the fact that such a certificate is, or is not, in force in respect of a description of vehicle to be treated as having conclusive effect for the purposes of the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 as to such matters as may be prescribed; and (8) for appeals against any determination not to issue such a certificate: Sch 1 para 1C(5) (added by the Finance Act 2000 Sch 3).

13 Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 1C(4) (added by the Finance Act 2000 Sch 3).

14 Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 1B (Sch 1 para 1B added by the Finance Act 2000 Sch 3; and substituted by the Finance Act 2006 s 13(3)).

15 Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 1B, Table A (as added and substituted: see note 14 supra).

16 Ibid Sch 1 para 1B, Table B (as added and substituted: see note 14 supra).

17 For this purpose, 'diesel' means any diesel fuel within the definition in EC Parliament and Council Directive 98/70 (OJ L350, 28.12.1998, p 58) art 2: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 1E(2) (Sch 1 para 1E added by the Finance Act 2000 Sch 3).

18 Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 1E(1) (as added: see note 17 supra).

TEXT AND NOTES--In relation to licences taken out on or after 1 April 2010 (but not to vehicles first registered under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 before that date), 'registered' means registered under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 or under the law of a country or territory outside the United Kingdom, and 'registration' is construed accordingly: Sch 1 paras 1A, 1C (amended by Finance Act 2009 Sch 4 paras 5, 7). For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 NOTE 1. Also, a vehicle is an exempt vehicle for the appropriate period if (1) it is a vehicle to which the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 Pt 1A applies; and (2) the applicable CO₂ emissions figure (as defined in Sch 1 para 1A) exceeds 100g/km, but does not exceed 130g/km: Sch 2 para 25(2) (Sch 2 para 25(2), (3) added by Finance Act 2009 Sch 4 para 6). 'The appropriate period' is the period for which (if the vehicle were not an exempt vehicle under this provision) the first vehicle licence (see PARA 760) for it would (if taken out) have effect: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 2 para 25(3).

Certain persons or indorsements mentioned in this paragraph are specified for the purposes of Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 37, Schs 5, 6 (meaning of 'regulator' for the purposes of imposing civil sanctions): see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 196A.

TEXT AND NOTES 7, 17, 18--Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 paras 1D, 1E now Sch 1 para 1D (substituted by Finance Act 2007 s 11(7)). In relation to vehicles first registered before 23 March 2006, head (vii) has effect as if '£200' were substituted for '£390' and '£215' for '£405': Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 1B, Table.

From 6 April 2010, the rates are as follows, determined by reference to the applicable CO₂ emissions figure, and to whether the vehicle qualifies for the reduced rate of duty, or is liable to the standard rate of duty: (i) if the CO₂ emissions figure exceeds 130 grams per kilometre but does not exceed 140 grams per kilometre, the reduced rate is £100 and the standard rate is £110; (ii) if the CO₂ emissions figure exceeds 140 grams per kilometre but does not exceed 150 grams per kilometre, the reduced rate is £115 and the standard rate is £125; (iii) if the CO₂ emissions figure exceeds 150 grams per kilometre but does not exceed 165 grams per kilometre, the reduced rate is £145 and the standard rate is £155; (iv) if the CO₂ emissions figure exceeds 165 grams per kilometre but does not exceed 175 grams per kilometre, the reduced rate is £240 and the standard rate is £250; (v) if the CO₂ emissions figure exceeds 175 grams per kilometre but does not exceed 185 grams per kilometre, the reduced rate is £290 and the standard rate is £300; (vi) if the CO₂ emissions figure exceeds 185 grams per kilometre, but does not exceed 200 grams per kilometre, the reduced rate is £415 and the standard rate is £425; (vii) if the CO₂ emissions figure exceeds 200 grams per kilometre, but does not exceed 225 grams per kilometre, the reduced rate is £540 and the standard rate is £550; (viii) if the CO₂ emissions figure exceeds 225 grams per kilometre, but does not exceed 255 grams per kilometre, the reduced rate is £740 and the standard rate is £750; (ix) if the CO₂ emissions figure exceeds 255 grams per kilometre, the reduced rate is £940 and the standard rate is £950: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 1B, Table (Sch 1 para 1B amended, Sch 1 Table substituted, by Finance Act 2009 s 14(1)-(7)).

724. Light goods vehicles.

The annual rate of vehicle excise duty¹ applicable to a vehicle² to which these provisions³ apply is: (1) if the vehicle is not a lower-emission van, £170; and (2) if the vehicle is a lower-emission van, £110⁴. For this purpose, a vehicle is a lower-emission van if it is first registered on or after 1 March 2003 and before 1 January 2007, and the limit values given for the vehicle⁵ are not exceeded during a Type 1 test⁶.

3 The Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 2(1), Sch 1 Pt 1B paras 1H-1K (as added and amended). The provisions apply to a vehicle which: (1) is first registered on or after 1 March 2001; and (2) is so registered on the basis of an EC certificate of conformity or a UK approval certificate that identifies the vehicle as having been approved as a light goods vehicle: Sch 1 para 1H(1) (Sch 1 para 1H added by the Finance Act 2000 s 22, Sch 3). 'Light goods vehicle' means a vehicle within EC Council Directive 70/156 (OJ L42, 23.2.1970, p 1) Annex II Category N1 (vehicle with four or more wheels used for carriage of goods and having a maximum mass not exceeding 3.5 tonnes): Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 1H(2) (as so added). If a vehicle is on first registration a vehicle to which Sch 1 Pt 1B (as added and amended) applies, its status as such a vehicle is not affected by a subsequent modification of the vehicle: Sch 1 para 1H(3) (as so added). 'EC certificate of conformity' and 'UK approval certificate' have the same meanings as in Sch 1 Pt 1A (as added and amended) (see PARA 723 notes 3, 4 ante): Sch 1 para 1H(4) (as so added).

In relation to licence taken out on or after 1 April 2010, but not to vehicles first registered under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 before that date, 'registration' means registration under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 or under the law of a country or territory outside the United Kingdom and 'registration' is construed accordingly: Sch 1 para 1H (amended by Finance Act 2009 Sch 4 paras 5, 7). For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 NOTE 6.

TEXT AND NOTES 1-4--Head (1) now £180; head (2) now £120: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 1J (amended by Finance Act 2008 s 17(4)). The rates now apply to pre-2007 or post-2008 lower-emission vans, the first term having the meaning given in the TEXT. 'Post-2008 lower emission van' means a vehicle which (1) is first registered on or after 1 January 2009 and before 1 January 2011; (2) is a vehicle to which EC Council Regulation 715/2007 art 2 applies; (3) it is powered by a compressor ignition engine; and (4) the emissions from it do not exceed any of the emission limit values specified in Regulation 715/2007 Annex 1 Table 1 in relation to vehicles so powered: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 paras 1J, 1K, 1M (Sch 1 paras 1J, 1K amended, Sch 1 para 1M added, by Finance Act 2008 s 146).

With effect from 1 April 2010, the figure in head (1) is £200: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 1J(a) (amended by Finance Act 2009 s 14(8)).

NOTE 6--Directive 70/220 repealed and replaced with effect from 2 January 2013: EC Council Regulation 715/2007 (OJ L171, 29.6.2007, p 1) (as amended) on type approval of motor vehicles with respect to emissions from light passenger and commercial vehicles (Euro 5 and Euro 6) and on access to vehicle repair and maintenance information.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(12) VEHICLE EXCISE DUTY/(ii) Charge to Duty/B. ANNUAL RATES OF DUTY/725. Certificates as to reduced pollution.

725. Certificates as to reduced pollution.

The Secretary of State may by regulations make provision:

- 1743 (1) for the making of an application to the Secretary of State for the issue in respect of an eligible vehicle¹ of a reduced pollution certificate;
- 1744 (2) for the manner in which any determination of whether to issue such a certificate on such an application is to be made;
- 1745 (3) for the examination of an eligible vehicle, for the purpose of the determination mentioned in head (2) above, by such persons, and in such manner, as may be prescribed²;
- 1746 (4) for a fee to be paid for such an examination;
- 1747 (5) for a reduced pollution certificate to be issued in respect of an eligible vehicle if, and only if, it is found, on a prescribed examination, that the reduced pollution requirements are satisfied with respect to it;
- 1748 (6) for the form and content of such a certificate;
- 1749 (7) for such a certificate to be valid for such period as the Secretary of State may determine;
- 1750 (8) for the revocation, cancellation or surrender of such a certificate before the end of any such period;
- 1751 (9) for the Secretary of State to be entitled to require the return to him of such a certificate that has been revoked;
- 1752 (10) for the fact that such a certificate is, or is not, in force in respect of a vehicle to be treated as having conclusive effect for the purposes of the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 as to such matters as may be prescribed;
- 1753 (11) for the Secretary of State to be entitled, in prescribed cases, to require the production of such a certificate before making a determination as to whether to issue a vehicle licence³; and
- 1754 (12) for appeals against any determination not to issue such a certificate⁴.

For these purposes, the reduced pollution requirements are satisfied with respect to a vehicle at any time if, at that time, prescribed requirements relating to the vehicle's emissions are satisfied as a result of: (a) the design, construction or equipment of the vehicle as manufactured; or (b) adaptations of a prescribed description having been made to the vehicle after a prescribed date⁵.

For the purpose of enabling the Secretary of State to determine whether the reduced pollution requirements are satisfied at any time with respect to a vehicle in respect of which a reduced pollution certificate is in force, such regulations may⁶:

- 1755 (i) authorise such person as may be prescribed to require the vehicle to be re-examined in accordance with the regulations;
- 1756 (ii) provide for a fee to be paid for such a re-examination;
- 1757 (iii) provide for the refund of such a fee if it is found, on the prescribed examination, that the reduced pollution requirements are satisfied with respect to the vehicle⁷.

1 For these purposes, 'eligible vehicle' means: (1) a bus as defined in the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 2(1), Sch 1 para 3(2) (as amended) (see PARA 722 note 2 ante); (2) a vehicle to which Sch 1 para 6 (as amended) (see PARA 729 post) applies; (3) a haulage vehicle, as defined in Sch 1 para 7(2) (as amended) (see PARA 730 note 2 post), other than a showman's vehicle; or (4) a goods vehicle, other than one falling within Sch 1 para 9(2) (as amended) (see PARA 732 post) or Sch 1 para 11(2) (as amended) (see PARA 735 post): s 61B(4) (s 61B added by the Finance Act 1998 s 16, Sch 1 paras 1, 2, 17(1), (2)). For the meaning of 'showman's vehicle' see PARA 730 note 3 post; and for the meaning of 'goods vehicle' see PARA 722 note 5 ante.

726. Meaning of 'revenue weight'.

Any reference¹ to the revenue weight of a vehicle² is a reference:

- 1758 (1) where it has a confirmed maximum weight³, to that weight; and
- 1759 (2) in any other case, to the weight determined in accordance with the following provisions⁴.

A vehicle which does not have a confirmed maximum weight has⁵ a revenue weight which⁶ is equal to its design weight⁷. For these purposes, the design weight of a vehicle is:

- 1760 (a) in the case of a tractive unit⁸, the weight which is required, by the design and any subsequent adaptations⁹ of that vehicle, not to be exceeded by an articulated vehicle which consists of the vehicle and any semi-trailer capable of being drawn by it and is in normal use and travelling on a road laden; and
- 1761 (b) in the case of any other vehicle, the weight which the vehicle itself is designed or adapted¹⁰ not to exceed when in normal use and travelling on a road laden¹¹.

Where, at any time, a vehicle does not have a confirmed maximum weight, has previously had such a weight and has not acquired a different design weight by reason of any adaptation made since the most recent occasion on which it had a confirmed maximum weight, the vehicle's design weight at that time is equal to its confirmed maximum weight on that occasion¹².

Where:

- 1762 (i) a vehicle which does not have a confirmed maximum weight is used on a public road in the United Kingdom¹³; and
- 1763 (ii) at the time when it is so used, the weight of the vehicle or, in the case of a tractive unit used as part of an articulated vehicle consisting of the vehicle and a semi-trailer, the weight of the articulated vehicle, exceeds what would otherwise be the vehicle's design weight, it is to be conclusively presumed¹⁴, as against the person using the vehicle, that the vehicle has been temporarily adapted so as to have a design weight while being so used equal to the actual weight of the vehicle or articulated vehicle at that time¹⁵.

Limitations on the space available on a vehicle for carrying a load are to be disregarded in determining the weight which the vehicle is designed or adapted not to exceed when in normal use and travelling on a road laden¹⁶.

A vehicle which does not have a confirmed maximum weight is not at any time to be taken to have a revenue weight which is greater than the maximum laden weight at which that vehicle or, as the case may be, an articulated vehicle consisting of that vehicle and a semi-trailer may lawfully be used in Great Britain¹⁷.

1 le in the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994.

2 For the meaning of 'vehicle' see PARA 718 note 4 ante.

3 For these purposes, a vehicle has a confirmed maximum weight at any time if at that time:

100 (1) it has a plated gross weight or a plated train weight; and

101 (2) that weight is the maximum laden weight at which that vehicle or, as the case may be, an articulated vehicle consisting of that vehicle and a semi-trailer may lawfully be used in Great Britain, and the confirmed maximum weight of a vehicle with such a weight is to be taken to be the weight referred to in head (1) supra: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 60A(9) (s 60A added by the Finance Act 1995 s 19, Sch 4 paras 1, 16(1), (2), 26, 29).

For these purposes, a reference to the plated gross weight of a goods vehicle or trailer is a reference:

102 (a) in the case of a trailer which may lawfully be used in Great Britain without a Ministry plate (within the meaning of regulations under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 41 (as amended) or s 49 (as amended): see ROAD TRAFFIC vol 40(1) (2007 Reissue) PARA 368), to the maximum laden weight at which the trailer may lawfully be used in Great Britain; and

103 (b) otherwise, to the weight which is the maximum gross weight which may not be exceeded in Great Britain for the vehicle or trailer as indicated on the appropriate plate, and a reference to the plated train weight of a vehicle is a reference to the weight which is the maximum gross weight which may not be exceeded in Great Britain for an articulated vehicle consisting of the vehicle and any semi-trailer which may be drawn by it as indicated on the appropriate plate: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 61(1), (2).

'Appropriate plate', in relation to a vehicle or trailer, means: (i) where a Ministry plate has been issued, or has effect as if issued, for the vehicle or trailer following the issue or amendment of a plating certificate (within the meaning of the Road Traffic Act 1988 Pt II (ss 40A-86) (as amended): see ROAD TRAFFIC vol 40(2) (2007 Reissue) PARA 679), that plate; and (ii) where head (i) supra does not apply but such a certificate is in force for the vehicle or trailer, that certificate: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 61(3) (amended by the Finance Act 1995 ss 19, 162, Sch 4 paras 1, 16(1), (2), 27(1), 29, Sch 29 Pt V). Where it appears to the Secretary of State that there is a description of document which: (A) falls to be treated for some or all of the purposes of the Road Traffic Act 1988 as if it were a plating certificate; or (B) is issued under the law of any state in the European Economic Area for purposes which are or include purposes corresponding to those for which such a certificate is issued, he may by regulations provide for references in s 61 (as amended) to a plating certificate to have effect as if they included references to a document of that description: s 61(3A) (added by the Finance Act 1995 Sch 4 paras 1, 16(1), (2), 27(2), 29). As to the European Economic Area see PARA 8 ante.

4 Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 60A(1) (as added: see note 3 supra).

5 le for the purposes of the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994.

6 le subject to ibid s 60A(4)-(9) (as added).

7 Ibid s 60A(2) (as added: see note 3 supra). The Secretary of State may by regulations make provision:

104 (1) for the making of an application to the Secretary of State for the issue of a certificate stating the design weight of a vehicle (s 61A(1)(a) (s 61A added by the Finance Act 1995 s 19, Sch 4 paras 16, 28, 29));

105 (2) for the manner in which any determination of the design weight of any vehicle is to be made on such an application and for the issue of a certificate on the making of such a determination (Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 61A(1)(b) (as so added));

106 (3) for the examination, for the purposes of the determination of the design weight of a vehicle, of that vehicle by such persons, and in such manner, as may be prescribed by the regulations (s 61A(1)(c) (as so added));

107 (4) for a certificate issued on the making of such a determination to be treated as having conclusive effect for the purposes of the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 as to such matters as may be prescribed by the regulations (s 61A(1)(d) (as so added));

- 108 (5) for the Secretary of State to be entitled, in cases prescribed by the regulations, to require the production of such a certificate before making a determination for the purposes of s 7(5) (see PARA 761 post) (s 61A(1)(e) (as so added)); and
- 109 (6) for appeals against determinations made in accordance with the regulations (s 61A(1)(f) (as so added)).

Regulations under s 61A (as added) may provide for an adaptation of a vehicle to be taken into account in determining the design weight of a vehicle in a case to which s 60A(6) (as added) (see the text and note 15 infra) does not apply or to be treated as permanent for the purposes of s 60A(5) (see the text and note 9 infra): s 61A(2) (as so added). Regulations under s 61A (as added) may provide that such documents purporting to be plating certificates (within the meaning of the Road Traffic Act 1988 Pt II (ss 40A-86) (as amended): see ROAD TRAFFIC vol 40(2) (2007 Reissue) PARA 679) as satisfy requirements prescribed by the regulations are to have effect, for some or all of the purposes of the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994, as if they were certificates issued under such regulations: s 61A(3) (as so added).

Without prejudice to the generality of s 61A(1)-(3) (as added), regulations under s 61A (as added) may, in relation to the examination of a vehicle on an application under the regulations, or any appeals against determinations made for the purposes of the issue of a certificate in accordance with the regulations, make provision corresponding to, or applying (with or without modifications), any of the provisions having effect by virtue of so much of the Road Traffic Act 1988 ss 49-51 (see ROAD TRAFFIC) as relates to examinations authorised by virtue of, or appeals under, any of those provisions: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 61A(4) (as so added). As to the regulations made under s 61A (as added) see the Vehicle Excise (Design Weight Certificate) Regulations 1995, SI 1995/1455; and the Road Vehicles (Registration and Licensing) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/2742.

8 For the meaning of 'tractive unit' see PARA 722 note 5 ante.

9 For these purposes, an adaptation reducing the design weight of a vehicle is to be disregarded unless it is a permanent adaptation: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 60A(5) (as added: see note 3 supra).

10 It is apprehended that the expression 'designed or adapted' means originally designed or subsequently adapted so as to make apt: cf R v Formosa [1991] 2 QB 1, [1991] 1 All ER 131, CA, and the cases there cited.

727. Special vehicles.

The annual rate of vehicle excise duty¹ applicable to a special vehicle is the same as the basic goods vehicle rate².

For these purposes, 'special vehicle' means a vehicle which has a revenue weight exceeding 3,500 kilograms, which is not a special concessionary vehicle and which is:

- 1764 (1) a vehicle which is designed or adapted for use for the conveyance of goods or burden of any description but which is not so used or is not so used for hire or reward or for or in connection with a trade or business³;
- 1765 (2) a vehicle which is designed or adapted for use with a semi-trailer attached but which is not so used or, if it is so used, the semi-trailer is not used for the conveyance of goods or burden of any description;
- 1766 (3) a digging machine⁴;
- 1767 (4) a mobile crane⁵;
- 1768 (5) a mobile pumping vehicle⁶;
- 1769 (6) a works truck⁷; or
- 1770 (7) a road roller⁸.

For these purposes, the reference to the basic goods vehicle rate is to the rate applicable, by virtue of the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 9(1) (as amended) (see PARA 732 post), to a rigid goods vehicle which is not a vehicle with respect to which the reduced pollution requirements are satisfied and which falls within Sch 1 para 9(1), Table col (3) (as substituted) (two axle vehicles) (see PARA 732 post) and has a revenue weight exceeding 3,500 kilograms and not exceeding 7,500 kilograms: Sch 1 para 4(7) (added by the Finance Act 1995 Sch 4 paras 1, 9(1), (6), 16(1), (2); and amended by the Finance Act 1998 s 16, Sch 1 paras 1, 4, 17(1), (2)). For the meaning of 'revenue weight' see PARA 726 ante; and for the meaning of 'rigid goods vehicle' see PARA 722 note 5 ante. As to the reduced pollution requirements see PARA 725 ante.

3 For these purposes, 'business' includes the performance by a local or public authority of its functions: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 62(1).

4 For these purposes, 'digging machine' means a vehicle which is designed, constructed and used for the purpose of trench digging, or any kind of excavating or shovelling work, and which: (1) is used on public roads only for that purpose or for the purpose of proceeding to and from the place where it is to be or has been used for that purpose; and (2) when so proceeding, does not carry any load except such as is necessary for its propulsion or equipment: ibid Sch 1 para 4(4). For the meaning of 'vehicle' see PARA 718 note 4 ante; and for the meaning of 'public road' see PARA 718 note 2 ante.

5 For these purposes, 'mobile crane' means a vehicle which is designed and constructed as a mobile crane and which: (1) is used on public roads only as a crane in connection with work carried on a site in the immediate vicinity or for the purpose of proceeding to and from a place where it is to be or has been used as a crane; and (2) when so proceeding, does not carry any load except such as is necessary for its propulsion or equipment: ibid Sch 1 para 4(5). For a decision on the identically worded definition of 'mobile crane' in the Hydrocarbon Oil Duties Act 1979 s 27(1), Sch 1 para 9 (as substituted) see M & M Construction Ltd v Customs and Excise Comrs (1998) Excise Decision 89 (unreported) (cited in PARA 530 note 11 ante).

6 For these purposes, 'mobile pumping vehicle' means a vehicle: (1) which is constructed or adapted for use and used for the conveyance of a pump and a jib, each of which is: (a) built in as part of the vehicle; and (b) designed so that material pumped by the pump is delivered to a desired height or depth through piping that is attached to the pump and the jib, and is raised or lowered to that height or depth by operation of the jib; (2) which is used on public roads only: (a) when the vehicle is stationary and the pump is being used to pump material from a point in the immediate vicinity to another such point; or (b) for the purpose of proceeding to and from a place where the pump is to be or has been used; and (3) which, when so proceeding, does not carry: (a) the material that is to be or has been pumped; or (b) any other load except such as is necessary for the propulsion or equipment of the vehicle or for the operation of the pump: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 4(5A), (5B) (added by the Finance Act 2001 s 12(1), (3)). For transitional provisions relating to mobile pumping vehicles previously licensed as mobile cranes see the Finance Act 2001 s 12(6).

7 For these purposes, 'works truck' means a goods vehicle which is: (1) designed for use in private premises; and (2) used on public roads only for carrying goods between private premises and a vehicle on a road in the immediate vicinity, in passing from one part of private premises to another or between private premises and other private premises in the immediate vicinity or in connection with road works at or in the immediate vicinity of the site of the works: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 4(6).

8 Ibid Sch 1 para 4(2), (2A), (2B) (Sch 1 para 4(2) amended by the Finance Act 1994 Sch 4 paras 1, 9(1), (4), 16(1), (2), Sch 29 Pt V; the Finance Act 1996 ss 16(3), (8), 17(1), (2), (11); and the Finance Act 2001 s 12(2); and the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 4(2A), (2B) added by the Finance Act 1996 s 17(1), (3), (11)).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(12) VEHICLE EXCISE DUTY/(ii) Charge to Duty/B. ANNUAL RATES OF DUTY/728. Recovery vehicles.

728. Recovery vehicles.

The annual rate of vehicle excise duty¹ applicable to a recovery vehicle is:

- 1771 (1) if it has a revenue weight² exceeding 3,500 kilograms and not exceeding 25,000 kilograms, the same as the basic goods vehicle rate³;
- 1772 (2) if it has a revenue weight exceeding 25,000 kilograms, 250 per cent of the basic goods vehicle rate⁴.

For these purposes, 'recovery vehicle' means a vehicle which is constructed or permanently adapted primarily for any one or more of the purposes of lifting, towing and transporting a disabled vehicle⁵. A vehicle is not a recovery vehicle if at any time it is used for a purpose other than:

- 1773 (a) the recovery of a disabled vehicle;
- 1774 (b) the removal of a disabled vehicle from the place where it became disabled to premises at which it is to be repaired or scrapped;
- 1775 (c) the removal of a disabled vehicle from premises to which it was taken for repair to other premises at which it is to be repaired or scrapped;
- 1776 (d) carrying fuel and other liquids required for its propulsion and tools and other articles required for the operation of, or in connection with, apparatus designed to lift, tow or transport a disabled vehicle; and
- 1777 (e) any purpose prescribed for these purposes by regulations made by the Secretary of State⁶.

At any time when a vehicle is being used for either of the purposes specified in heads (a) and (b) above, use for:

- 1778 (i) the carriage of a person who, immediately before the vehicle became disabled, was the driver of or a passenger in the vehicle;
- 1779 (ii) the carriage of any goods which, immediately before the vehicle became disabled, were being carried in the vehicle; or
- 1780 (iii) any purpose prescribed for these purposes by regulations made by the Secretary of State, is to be disregarded in determining whether the vehicle is a recovery vehicle⁷.

A vehicle is not a recovery vehicle if at any time the number of vehicles which it is used to recover exceeds a number specified for these purposes by an order made by the Secretary of State⁸.

² For the meaning of 'revenue weight' see PARA 726 ante.

which falls within Sch 1 para 9(1), Table col (3) (as substituted) (two axle vehicles) (see PARA 732 post) and has a revenue weight exceeding 3,500 kilograms and not exceeding 7,500 kilograms: s 2(1), Sch 1 para 5(6) (added by the Finance Act 1995 s 19, Sch 4 paras 1, 11(1), (3), 16(1), (2); and amended by the Finance Act 1998 s 16, Sch 1 paras 1, 5, 17(1), (2)). Where an amount arrived at in accordance with head (1) or head (2) in the text is: (1) an amount which is not a multiple of £10 and which, on division by ten, does not produce a remainder of £5, the rate is the amount arrived at rounded, either up or down, to the nearest amount which is a multiple of £10 (Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 5(7) (added by the Finance Act 1995 Sch 4 paras 1, 11(1), (3), 16(1), (2)); (2) an amount which, on division by ten, produces a remainder of £5, the rate is the amount arrived at increased by £5 (Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 5(8) (added by the Finance Act 1995 Sch 4 paras 1, 11(1), (3), 16(1), (2))). The provisions of the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 5(7), (8) (as added) refer to Sch 1 para 5(1)(b) or (c), but it is apprehended that this should be a reference to Sch 1 para 5(1)(a) or (b) (as added) (see heads (1), (2) in the text). 734. Meaning of 'island goods vehicle'.

'Island goods vehicle' means any goods vehicle¹ which is kept for use wholly or partly on the roads of one or more small islands² and is not kept or used on any mainland road³, except in a manner authorised by either of heads (1) and (2) below⁴.

The keeping or use of a goods vehicle on a mainland road is authorised:

1829 (1) if:

- 136. (a) the road is one used for travel between a landing place⁵ and premises where vehicles disembarked at that place are loaded or unloaded⁶, or both;
- 137. (b) the length of the journey, using that road, from that landing place to those premises is not more than five kilometres;
- 138. (c) the vehicle in question is one which was disembarked at that landing place after a journey by sea which began on a small island; and
- 139. (d) the loading or unloading of that vehicle is to take place, or has taken place, at those premises⁷;

1830 (2) if:

- 140. (a) that vehicle has a revenue weight not exceeding 17,000 kilograms;

2 For these purposes, references to a small island are references to any such island falling within the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 2(1), Sch 1 para 18(5) (as added) as may be designated as a small island by an order made by the Secretary of State: Sch 1 para 18(4) (Sch 1 para 18 added by the Finance Act 1995 s 19, Sch 4 paras 1, 14(1), 16(1), (2)). The reference to driving a road vehicle as far as the mainland is a reference to driving it as far as any public road in the United Kingdom which is not on an island with an area of 230,000 hectares or less and is not a road connecting two such islands: Sch 1 para 18(6) (as so added). For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 note 6 ante. 'Island' includes anything that is an island only when the tide reaches a certain height: Sch 1 para 18(7) (as so added). 3 For these purposes, 'mainland road' means any public road in the United Kingdom, other than one which is on a small island or which connects two such islands: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 18(7) (as added: see note 2 supra).

750. Vehicles for disabled people.

A vehicle¹, including a cycle with an attachment for propulsion by mechanical power, which is adapted, and used or kept on a road², for an invalid and does not exceed 508 kilograms in weight unladen³ is an exempt vehicle⁴.

A vehicle is an exempt vehicle when it is being used, or kept for use, by or for the purposes of a disabled person⁵ who satisfies the following conditions, that is to say:

- 1887 (1) he is in receipt of a disability living allowance by virtue of entitlement to the mobility component at the higher rate;
- 1888 (2) he is in receipt of a mobility supplement⁶; or
- 1889 (3) he has obtained, or is eligible for, a grant under the National Health Service Act 1977⁷, in relation to the vehicle, if the vehicle is registered under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 in the name of the disabled person⁸ and no other vehicle registered in his name under that Act is⁹ an exempt vehicle¹⁰.

A vehicle, other than an ambulance¹¹, used for the carriage of disabled people by a body for the time being recognised by the Secretary of State for these purposes is an exempt vehicle¹². The Secretary of State must recognise a body for these purposes if, on an application made to him in such manner as he may specify, it appears to him that the body is concerned with the care of disabled people¹³. The issue by the Secretary of State of a nil licence¹⁴ in respect of such a vehicle is to be treated as recognition by him for these purposes of the body by reference to whose use of the vehicle the document is issued¹⁵.

1 For the meaning of 'vehicle' see PARA 718 note 4 ante.

6 For these purposes, 'mobility supplement' means a mobility supplement under a scheme under the Personal Injuries (Emergency Provisions) Act 1939 or an Order in Council under the Social Security (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1977 s 12 (see WAR AND ARMED CONFLICT vol 49(1) (2005 Reissue) PARA 595) or a payment appearing to the Secretary of State to be of a similar kind and specified for these purposes by an order made by him: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 2 para 19(5). At the date at which this volume states the law no such order had been made but, by virtue of s 64, Sch 4 para 2, the Motor Vehicles (Exemption from Vehicles Excise Duty) Order 1985, SI 1985/722, reg 3 has effect as if so made and specifies certain payments to former members of the armed forces disabled prior to 3 September 1939 as being of a similar nature to a mobility supplement. As to the making of orders see PARA 801 post.

7 Ie a grant under the National Health Service Act 1977 s 5(2), Sch 2 para 2: see HEALTH SERVICES vol 54 (2008) PARAS 35, 38.

8 For these purposes, a vehicle is deemed to be registered under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 in the name of a person in receipt of a disability living allowance by virtue of entitlement to the mobility component at the higher rate, or of a mobility supplement, if it is so registered in the name of an appointee or a person nominated for these purposes by the person or an appointee: Sch 2 para 19(3). 'Appointee' means: (1) a person appointed pursuant to regulations made under, or having effect as if made under, the Social Security Administration Act 1992 to exercise any of the rights and powers of a person in receipt of a disability living allowance; or (2) a person to whom a mobility supplement is paid for application for the benefit of another person in receipt of the supplement: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 2 para 19(4).

10 Ibid Sch 2 para 19(1), (2). Schedule 2 para 19 (as amended) has effect as if a person were in receipt of a disability living allowance by virtue of entitlement to the mobility component at the higher rate in any case where: (1) he has ceased to be in receipt of it as a result of having ceased to satisfy a condition of receiving the allowance or of receiving the mobility component at that rate; (2) that condition is either: (a) a condition relating to circumstances in which he is undergoing medical or other treatment as an in-patient in a hospital or similar institution; or (b) a condition specified in regulations made by the Secretary of State; and (3) he would continue to be entitled to receive the mobility component of the allowance at the higher rate but for his failure to satisfy that condition: Sch 2 para 19(2A) (added by the Finance Act 1997 s 17). At the date at which this volume states the law no such regulations had been made. As to the making of regulations see PARA 801 post. As to the mobility component of disability living allowance see SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS vol 44(2) (Reissue) PARA 108.

Information that: (i) is held for the purposes of functions relating to social security or war pensions by the Secretary of State or by a person providing services to the Secretary of State, in connection with the provision of those services; and (ii) is of a description prescribed by regulations made by the Secretary of State may, if the consent condition is satisfied, be supplied to the Secretary of State or to a person providing services to the Secretary of State, for use for the purposes of relevant nil licence functions: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 22ZA(1), (2) (s 22ZA added by the Finance Act 2002 s 17). The 'consent condition', in relation to any information, is that:

119 (A) if the information was provided by a person other than the person to whom it relates, the person who provided the information; or has consented to the supply of the information and has not withdrawn that consent; and 'relevant nil licence functions' means functions relating to applications for, and the issue of, nil licences in respect of vehicles that are exempt vehicles under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 2 para 19 (as amended) or Sch 4 para 7 (transitional provisions): s 22ZA(3), (5) (as so added). Where⁹, however, a vehicle which is an exempt vehicle is deemed never to have been an exempt vehicle¹⁰, vehicle excise duty¹¹ is payable:

120 (B) in any other case, the person to whom the information relates,

- 1902 (1) by the person by whom the vehicle was acquired from its manufacturer, in relation to the whole period since the registration of the vehicle¹²; or
- 1903 (2) by any other person who is for the time being the keeper of the vehicle, in relation to the period since the vehicle was first kept by him,

- 1909 (b) a member of a headquarters or organisation⁵; or
- 1910 (c) a dependant⁶ of a person falling within head (a) or head (b) above,

Such an exemption from duty subsists only for a period of 12 months beginning with the day on which a nil licence is issued in respect of that vehicle⁸, but the exemption will cease to apply if, at any time during that period, the importer of the vehicle becomes liable to pay any duty or tax chargeable in respect of its importation⁹.

E. COLLECTION ETC OF DUTY

759. Collection etc of duty.

Vehicle excise duty¹ must be levied by the Secretary of State². For the purpose of levying vehicle excise duty, the Secretary of State and his officers, including any body or person authorised by the Secretary of State to act as his agent for the purposes of the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994, have the same powers, duties and liabilities as the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs and their officers have with respect to:

- 1911 (1) duties of excise, other than duties on imported goods;
- 1912 (2) the issue and cancellation of licences on which duties of excise are imposed; and
- 1913 (3) other matters, not being matters relating only to duties on imported goods, under the enactments relating to duties of excise and excise licences³.

The enactments relating to duties of excise, or punishments and penalties in connection with those duties, other than enactments relating only to duties on imported goods, apply accordingly⁴.

The Secretary of State has, with respect to vehicle excise duty and licences under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994, the powers given to the Commissioners by the enactments relating to duties of excise and excise licences for the mitigation or remission of any penalty or part of a penalty⁵.

Vehicle excise duty, and any sums received by the Secretary of State by virtue of the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 by way of fees, must be paid into the Consolidated Fund⁶.

(iii) Vehicle Licences

760. Duration of licences.

A vehicle licence¹ may be taken out for any vehicle² for any period of 12 months running from the beginning of the month in which the licence first has effect³.

Where the annual rate of vehicle excise duty⁴ in respect of vehicles of any description exceeds £50, a vehicle licence may be taken out for a vehicle of that description for a period of six months running from the beginning of the month in which the licence first has effect⁵.

The Secretary of State may by order provide that a vehicle licence may be taken out for a vehicle for such period as may be specified in the order⁶. Such an order may specify:

- 1914 (1) a period of a fixed number of months, not exceeding 15, running from the beginning of the month in which the licence first has effect;
- 1915 (2) in the case of a licence taken out on the first registration under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994⁷ of a vehicle of such description as may be specified in the order, a period exceeding by such number of days, not exceeding 30, as may be determined by or under the order the period for which the licence would otherwise have effect⁸; or
- 1916 (3) in the case of a vehicle of such description, or of such description and used in such circumstances, as may be specified in the order, a period of less than one month⁹.

Such an order may be made so as to apply only to vehicles of specified descriptions and may make different provision for vehicles of different descriptions or for different circumstances¹⁰.

Vehicle licences, other than licences for one calendar year for any vehicle, other than a vehicle in respect of which a temporary licence is issued¹¹, may be taken out:

- 1917 (a) in the case of any vehicle licence, other than a temporary licence, for any period consisting in the aggregate of 12 months commencing with the relevant month¹² and the appropriate number of days¹³; or
- 1918 (b) in the case of any vehicle the annual rate of duty applicable to which exceeds £50, for any period consisting in the aggregate of six months commencing with the relevant month and the appropriate number of days¹⁴.

The duty so payable consists of the aggregate of the amount ascertained in accordance with the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994¹⁵ and a further prescribed amount¹⁶.

UPDATE

760 Duration of licences

TEXT AND NOTES 7, 8--In relation to licences taken out on or after 1 April 2010, but not to vehicles first registered under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 before that date, head (2) applies in the case of the first vehicle licence for a vehicle of such description as may be specified: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 3(4)(b) (amended by Finance Act 2009 Sch 4 para 2). 'First vehicle licence', in relation to a vehicle, means (1) the vehicle licence for the vehicle on the issue of which the vehicle is first registered under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 (so that, if the vehicle is first registered on the issue of a nil licence, there is no first vehicle licence in relation to it; (2) where a vehicle is first registered under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 on the issue of a temporary licence, the 'first vehicle licence' in relation to the vehicle is the first vehicle licence subsequently issued for it; and (3) where a vehicle has been registered under the law of a country or territory outside the United Kingdom, is first registered under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 more than six months after the time when it was so registered, and has travelled more than 6,000 kilometres under its own power before it is first registered under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994, there is no first vehicle licence in relation to the vehicle: s 62(1), (1B), (1C) (s 62(1) amended, s 62 (1B), (1C) added, by Finance Act 2009 Sch 4 para 4). For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 NOTE 6.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(12) VEHICLE EXCISE DUTY/(iii) Vehicle Licences/761. Issue of vehicle licences.

761. Issue of vehicle licences.

Every person applying for a vehicle licence¹ must:

- 1919 (1) make any such declaration; and
- 1920 (2) furnish any such particulars and any such documentary or other evidence, whether or not with respect to the vehicle² for which the licence is to be taken out, as may be specified by the Secretary of State³.

The declarations, particulars and evidence which may be so specified include, in relation to a person applying for a licence for a goods vehicle⁴ or a special vehicle⁵, a declaration as to, and particulars of, any of the following matters⁶:

- 1921 (a) the construction of the vehicle;
- 1922 (b) the vehicle's revenue weight⁷;
- 1923 (c) the place where the vehicle has been or is normally kept; and
- 1924 (d) the use to which the vehicle has been or is likely to be put,

as to which the Secretary of State may require information with a view to an alteration in the basis on which vehicle excise duty is chargeable in respect of goods vehicles or, as the case may be, special vehicles⁸.

A person applying for a licence must not be required to make a declaration specified for the purposes of head (1) above if he agrees to comply with such conditions as may be specified in relation to him by the Secretary of State⁹. The conditions which may be so specified include:

- 1925 (i) a condition that particulars for the time being specified for the purposes of head (2) above are to be furnished by being transmitted to the Secretary of State by such electronic means as he may specify; and
- 1926 (ii) a condition requiring such payments as may be specified by the Secretary of State to be made to him in respect of steps taken by him for facilitating compliance by any person with any condition falling within head (i) above, and, in such circumstances as may be so specified, the processing of applications for vehicle licences where particulars are transmitted in accordance with that head¹⁰.

A vehicle licence is issued for the vehicle specified in the application for the licence (and for no other)¹¹.

The Secretary of State is not required to issue a vehicle licence for which an application is made unless he is satisfied that the licence applied for is the appropriate licence for the vehicle specified in the application and, in the case of an application for a licence for a vehicle purporting to be the first application for a licence for the vehicle, that a licence has not previously been issued for the vehicle¹².

Regulations made by the Secretary of State may provide for:

- 1927 (A) the return of any vehicle licence which is damaged or contains any particulars which have become illegible or inaccurate;
- 1928 (B) the issue of a new vehicle licence in the place of a licence which is or may be lost, stolen, destroyed or damaged or which contains any particulars which have become illegible or inaccurate; and
- 1929 (C) the fee to be paid on the issue of a new licence in any of those circumstances¹³.

Where¹⁴ a licence is issued for a goods vehicle at the rate of duty applicable to a weight specified in the application which is lower than its actual weight, that lower weight is to be shown on the licence¹⁵.

1 For the meaning of 'vehicle licence' see PARA 718 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'vehicle' see PARA 718 note 4 ante.

3 Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 7(1) (amended by the Finance Act 1995 s 19, Sch 4 paras 1, 30(1)(a), (3); and the Vehicles (Crime) Act 2001 s 32(1)). The Secretary of State may make provision by regulations as to the particulars to be furnished on an application for a vehicle licence in respect of a vehicle in respect of which different rates of vehicle excise duty are chargeable, under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 Pt I (see PARA 720 ante), Sch 1 Pt IA (see PARA 723 ante), or Sch 1 Pt II (see PARA 721 ante), by reference to characteristics of the vehicle: Finance Act 2000 s 23, Sch 4 paras 1, 2(1), (2). Such regulations may make different provision for different descriptions of vehicle and different descriptions of licence; and the prescribed particulars may include particulars other than those required for the purpose of vehicle excise duty, and particulars other than those with respect to the vehicle in respect of which the licence is to be taken out: Sch 4 para 2(3). Every person making an application with respect to which such regulations are in force must furnish such particulars as may be prescribed and either make such declaration; or comply with such conditions as may be specified by the Secretary of State (which conditions may include: (1) a condition that the prescribed particulars are to be furnished by being transmitted to the Secretary of State by such electronic means as he may specify; and (2) a condition requiring such payments as may be specified to be made to the Secretary of State in respect of steps taken by him for facilitating compliance by any person with any condition falling within head (1) supra, and, in such circumstances as may be specified, the processing of applications for vehicle licences where particulars are transmitted under that head); and, in relation to such regulations, these provisions have effect in place of those of the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 7(1)-(3B) (as amended): Finance Act 2000 Sch 4 para 2(4)-(6).

The Secretary of State may make provision by regulations requiring an application for a vehicle licence in respect of such a vehicle to be supported by such documentary or other evidence as may be specified, and authorising him to refuse to issue the licence applied for in the absence of such evidence: Sch 4 para 3.

Where a vehicle licence is issued on the basis of an application stating either that the vehicle is within these provisions, or is such a vehicle in respect of which a particular amount of vehicle excise duty falls to be paid, and either the vehicle is not such a vehicle, or is one in respect of which duty falls to be paid at a higher rate, the Secretary of State may by notice sent by post to the person concerned inform him that the licence is void as from the time when it was granted (when it is so void); or requiring him to secure that the additional duty payable is paid within such reasonable period as is specified in the notice (and if that requirement is not met, an additional notice so sent may inform the person that the licence is void as from the time when it was granted and it is so void): Sch 4 paras 5, 6. Such a notice may require the person to deliver up the licence within such reasonable period as is specified in the notice, and (where appropriate) to pay an amount equal to the monthly duty shortfall (ie one-twelfth of the difference between the annual amount payable at the application rate and that payable at the correct rate, taking the rates in force at the beginning of the period) for each month or part of a month in the relevant period (ie the period beginning with the first day of the period for which the licence was applied for or, if later, the day on which it first was to have effect and ending with the earlier of: (a) the end of the month during which it was required to be delivered up; (b) the end of the month during which it was actually delivered up; (c) the date on which it was due to expire; and (d) the end of the month preceding that in which there first had effect a new vehicle licence for the vehicle in question): Sch 4 paras 7, 8, 11.

A person who fails to deliver up a licence as required by such a notice is liable, on summary conviction, to a penalty not exceeding whichever is the greater of: (i) level 3 on the standard scale; and (ii) five times the annual duty shortfall (ie the difference between the duty that would have been payable for a licence for a period of 12 months at the correct rate and that so payable at the application rate, taking the rates in force at the beginning of the relevant period): Sch 4 para 9. Where a person has been convicted of such an offence, the court must (in addition to the penalty under head (i) or head (ii) supra) order him to pay an amount equal to the monthly duty shortfall for each month, or part of a month, in the relevant period (or so much of that period as falls before the making of the order): Sch 4 para 10. These provisions supersede any requirement under the original notice to pay the duty in question, and any payment made in pursuance of such a requirement is set against the amount due under the order: Sch 4 para 10(2). As to the standard scale see PARA 79 note 3 ante.

4 For the meaning of 'goods vehicle' see PARA 722 note 5 ante.

5 For these purposes, 'special vehicle' has the same meaning as in the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 2(1), Sch 1 para 4 (as amended) (see PARA 727 ante): s 7(8) (added by the Finance Act 1996 s 17(10), (14)).

Any fee prescribed by regulations under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 7(6)(b) (as amended) (see head (c) in the text) must be of an amount approved by the Treasury: s 58(1). The Finance Act 1990 s 128 (power to provide for repayment of fees and charges) applies to any power under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 to make provision for payment of a fee or charge as it applies to any power to make such provision conferred before that Act was passed: s 58(2). In exercise of this power the Secretary of State made the Road Vehicles (Registration and Licensing) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/2742 (amended by SI 2005/2713) (see ROAD TRAFFIC). 762. Supplement payable on vehicle ceasing to be appropriately covered.

Regulations may make provision for a supplement of a prescribed amount to be payable in prescribed cases where: (1) a vehicle¹ has ceased to be appropriately covered²; (2) the vehicle is not, before the end of the relevant prescribed period³, appropriately covered⁴; and (3) the circumstances are not such as may be prescribed⁵. Any such supplement is payable by such person, or jointly and severally by such persons, as may be prescribed, and becomes payable at such time as may be prescribed; it may be of an amount that varies according to the length of the period between the time of a notification⁶ to, or in relation to, a person by whom it is payable, and the time at which it is paid⁷. A supplement which has become payable: (a) is in addition to any vehicle excise duty charged in respect of the vehicle concerned; (b) does not cease to be payable by reason of the vehicle being again appropriately covered after the supplement has become payable; (c) may⁸ be recovered as a debt due to the Crown⁹.

The Secretary of State may by regulations make provision for notifying the person in whose name a vehicle is registered about any supplement¹⁰ that may or has become payable in relation to the vehicle; and about when the vehicle ceasing to be appropriately covered may result in the person being guilty of an offence¹¹. The Secretary of State may also by regulations make provision: (i) for assessing an amount of supplement due from any person and for notifying that amount to that person or any person acting in a representative capacity in relation to that person; (ii) for any amount so assessed and notified to be an amount of vehicle excise duty due from the person assessed and recoverable accordingly; (iii) for review of decisions under such regulations and for appeals with respect to such decisions or decisions on such reviews¹².

1 For the meaning of 'vehicle' see PARA 718 note 4 ante.

2 For these purposes, a vehicle is appropriately covered if (and only if): (1) a vehicle licence or trade licence is in force for or in respect of the vehicle; (2) the vehicle is an exempt vehicle in respect of which regulations under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 require a nil licence to be in force and a nil licence is in force in respect of it; (3) the vehicle is an exempt vehicle that is not one in respect of which regulations under the Act require a nil licence to be in force; or (4) the vehicle is neither kept nor used on a public road and the declarations and particulars required to be delivered by regulations under s 22(1D) (as added and amended) (see ROAD TRAFFIC vol 40(1) (2007 Reissue) PARA 521) have been delivered in relation to it in accordance with the regulations within the immediately preceding period of 12 months: s 7A(1A) (added by the Finance (No 2) Act 2005 s 66(1), (2), (4)). For the meaning of 'public road' see PARA 718 note 2 ante. As to exempt vehicles see PARA 740 et seq ante.

3 For this purpose, 'the relevant prescribed period' means such period beginning with the date on which the vehicle ceased to be appropriately covered as is prescribed: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 7A(1D) (added by the Finance (No 2) Act 2005 s 66(1), (2), (4)). 'Prescribed' means prescribed by, or determined in accordance with, regulations; and 'regulations' means regulations made by the Secretary of State with the consent of the Treasury: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 7A(4) (added by the Finance Act 2002 s 19(1), Sch 5 paras 1, 5; and amended by the Finance (No 2) Act 2005 ss 66(1), (2), (7), 70(1), Sch 11 Pt 5(1)). Any such regulations that: (1) provide for a supplement to be payable in a case where one would not otherwise be payable; (2) increase the amount of a supplement; (3) provide for a supplement to become payable earlier than it would otherwise be payable; or (4) provide for a supplement to be payable by a person by whom the supplement would not otherwise be payable, must be laid in draft before, and approved by a resolution of, each House of Parliament: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 7A(5), (6) (added by the Finance Act 2002 Sch 5 para 5). Sums received by way of supplements under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 7A (as added and amended) are to be paid into the Consolidated Fund: s 7B(4) (added by the Finance Act 2002 Sch 5 para 5). As to the Treasury see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARAS 512-517. As to the Consolidated Fund see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARA 711; PARLIAMENT vol 78 (2010) PARAS 1028-1031.

763. Vehicles removed into the United Kingdom.

Where an application is made for a vehicle licence¹ for a vehicle² which appears to the Secretary of State to have been removed into the United Kingdom³ from a place outside the United Kingdom and is not already registered⁴, the Secretary of State may refuse to issue the licence unless he is satisfied, in relation to the removal of the vehicle into the United Kingdom:

- 1930 (1) that any VAT charged on the acquisition of the vehicle from another member state, or on any supply involving its removal into the United Kingdom, has been or will be paid or remitted;
- 1931 (2) that any VAT or customs duty charged on the importation of the vehicle from a place outside the member states has been or will be paid or remitted; or

764. Temporary vehicle licences.

Where an application is made for a vehicle licence¹ for a vehicle² for any period, the Secretary of State may, if he thinks fit, instead of issuing immediately a vehicle licence for that period:

- 1933 (1) issue a vehicle licence (a 'temporary licence') for 14 days, or such other period as may be prescribed by regulations made by him, having effect from such day as may be so prescribed; and
- 1934 (2) from time to time issue a further temporary licence for the vehicle³.

Nothing in the above provisions affects the amount of any duty payable on a vehicle licence⁴.

Where an application for a vehicle licence is made to a body, other than a Northern Ireland department, authorised by the Secretary of State to act as his agent for the purpose of issuing licences, the body may, before issuing a licence under head (1) above, require the applicant to pay to it in connection with the issue of the licence a fee of £2.35⁵.

765. Transfer and surrender of vehicle licences.

Any vehicle licence¹ may be transferred in the manner described by regulations made by the Secretary of State².

The holder of a vehicle licence may at any time surrender the licence to the Secretary of State³. Where:

- 1935 (1) a person so surrenders a temporary licence⁴ issued pursuant to an application for a vehicle licence; and
- 1936 (2) a further vehicle licence issued pursuant to the application is either held by him at the time of the surrender of the temporary licence or received by him after that time,

UPDATE

765 Transfer and surrender of vehicle licences

TEXT AND NOTES 3-5--Repealed: Finance Act 2008 s 144(2).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(12) VEHICLE EXCISE DUTY/(iv) Trade Licences/766. Issue and surrender of trade licences.

(iv) Trade Licences

766. Issue and surrender of trade licences.

Where:

- 1937 (1) a motor trader¹ or vehicle tester²; or 1938 (2) a person who satisfies the Secretary of State that he intends to commence business as a motor trader or vehicle tester, applies to the Secretary of State, in the manner specified by the Secretary of State, to take out a licence under these provisions (a 'trade licence'), the Secretary of State may, subject to the conditions prescribed by regulations made by the Secretary of State, issue such a licence to him on payment of vehicle excise duty³ at the rate applicable to the licence⁴.

In the case of a motor trader who is a manufacturer of vehicles, a trade licence is a licence for:

- 1939 (a) all vehicles which are from time to time temporarily in his possession in the course of his business as a motor trader;
 1940 (b) all vehicles kept and used by him solely for purposes of conducting research and development in the course of his business as such a manufacturer; and 1941 (c) all vehicles which are from time to time submitted to him by other manufacturers for testing on roads in the course of that business⁵.

In the case of any other motor trader, a trade licence is a licence for all vehicles which are from time to time temporarily in his possession in the course of his business as a motor trader⁶.

In the case of a vehicle tester, a trade licence is a licence for all vehicles which are from time to time submitted to him for testing in the course of his business as a vehicle tester⁷.

A person entitled to take out a trade licence is not prevented⁸ from holding two or more trade licences⁹.

The holder of a trade licence may at any time surrender the licence to the Secretary of State¹⁰.

1 For these purposes, 'motor trader' means: (1) a manufacturer or repairer of, or dealer in, vehicles; or (2) any other description of person who carries on a business of such description as may be prescribed by regulations made by the Secretary of State; and a person is treated as a dealer in vehicles if he carries on a business consisting wholly or mainly of collecting and delivering vehicles, and not including any other activities except activities as a manufacturer or repairer of, or dealer in, vehicles: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 62(1). As to the regulations made see the Road Vehicles (Registration and Licensing) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/2742, Pt VII (regs 35-42), prescribing the business of modifying vehicles, whether by the fitting of accessories or otherwise, and the business of valeting vehicles: reg 35. 'Valeting' means the thorough cleaning of a vehicle before its registration by the Secretary of State under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 21 (as amended) (see ROAD TRAFFIC vol 40(1) (2007 Reissue) PARA 519) or in order to prepare it for sale and includes removing wax and grease from the exterior, engine and interior: Road Vehicles (Registration and Licensing) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/2742, reg 3(1). As to the making of regulations see PARA 801 post. For the meaning of 'vehicle' see PARA 718 note 4 ante; and for the meaning of 'business' see PARA 727 note 3 ante.

2 For these purposes, 'vehicle tester' means a person, other than a motor trader, who regularly in the course of his business engages in the testing on roads of vehicles belonging to other persons: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 62(1).

3 For the meaning of 'vehicle excise duty' see PARA 718 ante.

4 Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 11(1) (amended by the Finance Act 1995 s 19, Sch 4 paras 1, 30(2), (3)); Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 62(1). The power to prescribe conditions under s 11(1) (as amended) includes, in particular, the power to prescribe conditions which are to be complied with after the licence is issued: s 11(1A) (added by the Finance Act 1996 s 23, Sch 2 paras 1, 3). In exercise of this power the Secretary of State has made the Road Vehicles (Registration and Licensing) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/2742, Pt VII: see note 1 supra; and ROAD TRAFFIC vol 40(1) (2007 Reissue) PARA 551 et seq.

767. Use of vehicles by holders of trade licences.

The holder of a trade licence¹ is not entitled by virtue of the licence:

- 1942 (1) to use more than one vehicle² at any one time;
- 1943 (2) to use a vehicle for any purpose other than a purpose prescribed by regulations made by the Secretary of State; or
- 1944 (3) except in such circumstances as may be so prescribed, to keep any vehicle on a road³ if it is not being used on the road⁴.

The Secretary of State must by regulations prescribe: (a) the conditions subject to which trade licences are to be issued; and (b) the purposes for which the holder of a trade licence may use a vehicle by virtue of the licence⁵. The purposes which may be prescribed as those for which the holder of a trade licence may use a vehicle under the licence must not include the conveyance of goods or burden of any description other than:

- 1945 (i) a load which is carried solely for the purpose of testing or demonstrating the vehicle or any of its accessories or equipment and which is returned to the place of loading without having been removed from the vehicle except for that purpose or in the case of accident;
- 1946 (ii) in the case of a vehicle which is being delivered or collected, a load consisting of another vehicle used or to be used for travel from or to the place of delivery or collection;
- 1947 (iii) a load built in as part of the vehicle or permanently attached to it;
- 1948 (iv) a load consisting of parts, accessories or equipment designed to be fitted to the vehicle and of tools for fitting them to the vehicle; or
- 1949 (v) a load consisting of a trailer other than a trailer which is for the time being a disabled vehicle⁶.

5 Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 12(2). See also note 4 supra.

6 Ibid s 12(3). For these purposes, 'disabled vehicle' includes a vehicle which has been abandoned or is scrap: s 12(5). For the purposes of s 12(3), where a vehicle is so constructed that a trailer may by partial superimposition be attached to the vehicle in such a manner as to cause a substantial part of the weight of the trailer to be borne by the vehicle, the vehicle and the trailer are deemed to constitute a single vehicle: s 12(4). 768. Duration and amount of duty.

A trade licence¹ may be taken out:

- 1950 (1) for one calendar year;
- 1951 (2) for a period of six months beginning with the first day of January or of July; or
- 1952 (3) where the person taking out the licence is not a motor trader² or vehicle tester³ (having satisfied the Secretary of State that he intends to commence business⁴ as a motor trader or vehicle tester³) or does not hold any existing trade licence, for a period of seven, eight, nine, ten or eleven months beginning with the first day of any month other than January or July and ending no later than the relevant date⁶.

1 For the meaning of 'trade licence' see PARA 766 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'motor trader' see PARA 766 note 1 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'vehicle tester' see PARA 766 note 2 ante.

5 Ie having satisfied the Secretary of State as mentioned in the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 11(1)(b): see PARA 766 head (2) ante.

6 Ibid s 13(1), (2) (s 13(1) amended by the Finance Act 1995 s 19, Sch 4 paras 1, 31(1), (3)). For these purposes, 'the relevant date' means: (1) in relation to a licence taken out for a period beginning with the first day of any of the months February to June in any year, 31 December of that year; (2) in relation to a licence taken out for a period beginning with the first day of any of the months August to December in any year, 30 June of the following year: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 13(1A) (added by the Finance Act 1995 s 19, Sch 4 paras 1, 31(2), (3)).

The Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 13 (as originally enacted and amended) is prospectively substituted by s 64, Sch 4 para 8(1) (amended by the Finance Act 1995 s 18(4)(b), (5)) as from such date as the Secretary of State may by order appoint. Such an order may appoint different days for different purposes: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 4 para 8(2). A licence in force when such an order comes into force is not affected by the substitution: Sch 4 para 8(3). At the date at which this volume states the law no such order had been made. As to the making of orders see PARA 801 post.

The rate of duty applicable to a trade licence taken out: (a) for a period of six months is 55% of the rate applicable to the corresponding trade licence taken out for a calendar year; and (b) for a period of seven, eight, nine, ten or eleven months is the aggregate of 55% of the rate applicable to the corresponding trade licence taken out for a calendar year and one-sixth of the amount arrived at under head (a) supra in respect of each month in the period in excess of six: s 13(4), (5). In so determining a rate of duty any fraction of five pence, if it exceeds two and a half pence, is to be treated as five pence and, otherwise, is to be disregarded: s 13(6).

The rate of duty applicable to a trade licence taken out for a calendar year is: (i) the annual rate currently applicable to a vehicle under Sch 1 para 2(1)(d) (as substituted and amended) (see PARA 721 head (4) ante) if the licence is to be used only for vehicles to which Sch 1 para 2 (as amended) (see PARA 721 ante) applies; and (ii) otherwise, the basic goods vehicle rate currently applicable (see PARA 720 ante): s 13(3) (amended by the Finance Act 2002 s 18(2); and the Finance Act 2005 s 7(1), (3)). 'The basic goods vehicle rate' means the annual rate applicable, by virtue of the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 Sch 1 para 9(1), to a rigid goods vehicle which: (A) is not a vehicle with respect to which the reduced pollution requirements are satisfied; and (B) falls within Sch 1 para 9(1), Table col (3) (as substituted) (two axle vehicles) (see PARA 732 post) and has a revenue weight exceeding 3,500 kilograms and not exceeding 7,500 kilograms: s 13(7) (added by the Finance Act 2005 s 7(5)). As to the reduced pollution requirements see PARA 725 ante.

769. Refusal of trade licence.

Where:

- 1953 (1) the Secretary of State refuses an application for a trade licence¹ by a person entitled to make such an application²; and 1954 (2) the applicant, within the period prescribed by regulations made by the Secretary of State, requests him to review his decision, the Secretary of State must comply with the request and, in doing so, consider any representations made to him in writing during that period by the applicant³. Regulations made by the Secretary of State may provide for the issue of a new trade licence in the place of a licence which is or may be lost, stolen, destroyed or damaged and the fee to be paid on the issue of a new licence⁴.

Any fee prescribed by regulations under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 14(4)(b) must be of an amount approved by the Treasury: s 58(1). The Finance Act 1990 s 128 (power to provide for repayment of fees and charges) applies to any power under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 to make provision for payment of a fee or charge as it applies to any power to make such provision conferred before that Act was passed: s 58(2). The fees referred to include a fee for the payment of duty by a credit card holder under s 19C(2) (as added) (see PARA 774 post): s 58(1) (amended by the Finance Act 2004 s 18(1), (3)). (v) Additional Duty, Rebates etc 770. Vehicles becoming chargeable to duty at higher rate.

Where:

- 1955 (1) a vehicle licence¹ has been taken out for a vehicle² at any rate of vehicle excise duty³; and
- 1956 (2) at any time while the licence is in force the vehicle is used so as to subject it to a higher rate, duty at the higher rate becomes chargeable in respect of the licence for the vehicle⁴.

For these purposes, a vehicle is used so as to subject it to a higher rate if:

- 1957 (a) it is used in an altered condition, in a manner or for a purpose which brings it within, or, if it was used solely in that condition, in that manner or for that purpose, would bring it within, a description of vehicle to which a higher rate of duty is applicable⁵; or
- 1958 (b) the rate of vehicle excise duty paid on a vehicle licence taken out for the vehicle was the rate applicable to a vehicle of the same description with respect to which the reduced pollution requirements⁶ are satisfied and, while the licence is in force, the vehicle is used at a time when those requirements are not satisfied with respect to it⁷.

Where duty at a higher rate becomes so chargeable⁸ in respect of a vehicle licence, the licence may be exchanged⁹ for a new vehicle licence for the period beginning with the date on which the higher rate of duty becomes chargeable and ending with the period for which the original licence was issued¹⁰. A new vehicle licence may be so obtained only on payment of the appropriate proportion¹¹ of the difference between:

- 1959 (i) the amount of duty payable on the original licence; and
- 1960 (ii) the amount of duty payable on a vehicle licence taken out for the period for which the original licence was issued but at the higher rate of duty¹².

If the higher rate has been changed since the issue of the original licence, the amount under head (ii) is calculated as if that rate had been in force at all material times at the level at which it is in force when it becomes chargeable¹³.

For the purposes of s 15(1), a vehicle in respect of which a lower rate of duty is chargeable by virtue of regulations under s 2(1), Sch 1 para 13 (as amended) (see PARA 737 ante) is also used so as to subject it to a higher rate if it is used in contravention of a condition imposed under or by virtue of Sch 1 para 13(2): s 15(3). 11 For these purposes, 'the appropriate proportion' means the proportion which the number of months in the period: (1) beginning with the date on which the higher rate of duty becomes chargeable; and (2) ending with the period for which the original licence was issued, bears to the number of months in the whole of the period for which the original licence was issued, any incomplete month being treated as a whole month: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 15(6).

771. Exceptions for tractive units from charge at higher rate.

Where a vehicle licence¹ has been taken out for a tractive unit² at a rate of vehicle excise duty³ applicable to a tractive unit which is to be used with semi-trailers with a minimum number of axles⁴, duty at a higher rate does not become chargeable⁵ by reason only that while the licence is in force the tractive unit is used with a semi-trailer with fewer axles than that minimum number, provided that the rate of duty at which the licence was taken out is equal to or exceeds the rate which would have been applicable if the revenue weight⁶ of the tractive unit had been equal to the actual laden weight, at the time of the use, of the articulated vehicle consisting of the tractive unit and the semi-trailer⁷.

772. Other exceptions from charge at higher rate.

Where a vehicle licence¹ has been taken out for a vehicle² of any description, duty at a higher rate applicable to a vehicle of another description does not become chargeable³ unless the vehicle as used while the licence is in force satisfies all the conditions which must be satisfied in order to bring the vehicle into the other description of vehicle for the purposes of vehicle excise duty⁴.

Where:

- 1961 (1) duty has been paid in respect of a vehicle at the applicable rate⁵; and
- 1962 (2) the vehicle is to a substantial extent being used for the conveyance of goods or burden belonging to a particular person, whether the person keeping the vehicle or not, duty at a higher rate does not become chargeable⁶ by reason only that the vehicle is used for the conveyance without charge in the course of their employment of employees of the person to whom the goods or burden belong⁷.

773. Surrender of licences.

Where a vehicle licence¹ or a trade licence² is surrendered to the Secretary of State³, the holder is entitled to receive from the Secretary of State, by way of rebate of the duty paid on the licence, an amount equal to one-twelfth of the annual rate of duty⁴ chargeable on the licence in respect of each complete month of the period of the currency of the licence⁵ which is unexpired at the date of the surrender⁶.

Where the holder of a licence has notified the Secretary of State that he wishes to surrender the licence and has agreed to comply with such conditions as may be specified in relation to him by the Secretary of State, then if those conditions include a condition that particulars for the time being prescribed⁷ are furnished by being transmitted to the Secretary of State by such electronic means as he may specify and the licence-holder has complied with that condition, he is entitled (if he has not already surrendered the licence) to a rebate⁸ as if he had surrendered it at the time when all the above requirements are fulfilled⁹. Accordingly, the licence ceases to be in force at that time¹⁰. The conditions which may be specified by the Secretary of State also include a condition that the licence be returned to him within such period as he may specify¹¹.

If, during the currency of a temporary vehicle licence¹² issued in pursuance of an application for a vehicle licence for any period, the temporary licence is surrendered¹³, it is treated for the above purposes as issued for that period¹⁴.

UPDATE

773 Surrender of licences

TEXT AND NOTES--Replaced. If the relevant person makes an application to the Secretary of State under these provisions for a rebate of the duty paid on a vehicle licence in force for a vehicle, the person is entitled to receive from the Secretary of State an amount equal to one twelfth of the annual rate of duty chargeable on the licence (at the time when it was taken out), in respect of each complete month of the period of the currency of the licence which is unexpired when the application is made: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 19(1), (2) (s 19 substituted by Finance Act 2008 s 144(3)). Such an application may only be made if (1) the vehicle has been stolen; (2) the vehicle has been destroyed and the Secretary of State is notified of that; (3) an application for a nil licence for the vehicle is made in accordance with regulations under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 22; (4) the vehicle is neither used nor kept on a public road and the particulars and declaration required to be furnished and made by regulations under s 22(1D) are so furnished and made; (5) the vehicle has been sold or disposed of and the particulars prescribed by regulations under s 22(1)(d) are furnished in relation to it in accordance with the regulations; or (6) the vehicle has been removed from the United Kingdom with a view to its remaining permanently outside the United Kingdom and the Secretary of State has been so notified: s 19(3). The 'relevant person' is the person in whose name the vehicle is registered at the time when the application is made; but in a case within head (5) above the term also includes the person in whose name it was registered immediately before being sold or disposed of: s 19(4). Where an application is so made and the licence is not surrendered on the making of the application, it ceases to be in force when the application is made; and where a trade licence is surrendered to the Secretary of State under s 14(2) (see PARA 766), the holder of the licence is entitled to receive from the Secretary of State (by way of rebate of the duty paid on the licence) an amount equal to one twelfth of the annual rate of duty chargeable on the licence (at the time it was taken out) in respect of each complete month of the period of the currency of the licence which is unexpired at the date of the surrender: s 19(7), (8).

The Secretary of State may specify conditions which must be complied with by a person before making an application under these provisions; and the conditions that may be specified include (in particular): (a) a condition requiring the surrender of the licence; (b) a condition requiring that particulars which are required to be furnished to the Secretary of State are transmitted to him by such electronic means as may be specified; and (c) in a case within head (1) above, conditions relating to the reporting to the police that the vehicle has been stolen: s 19(5), (6).

In relation to licences taken out on or after 1 April 2010, but not to vehicles first registered under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 before that date, the holder is entitled to receive from the Secretary of State the 'relevant amount', ie (1) an amount equal to one-twelfth of the annual rate of duty chargeable on the licence (at the time when it was taken out) in respect of each complete month of the period of the currency of the licence which is unexpired when the application is made; or (2) where (a) the licence is the first vehicle licence for the vehicle (see PARA 760); (b) the application is made by virtue of the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 19(3)(d), (e) or (f); and (c) the annual rate of duty chargeable on the licence (at the time when it was taken out) would have been lower if it had not been the first vehicle licence for the vehicle, the relevant amount is an amount equal to one-twelfth of that lower rate in respect of each such complete month: s 19(1), (3A), (3B) (s 19(1) amended, s 19(3A), (3B) added, by Finance Act 2009 Sch 4 paras 3(1), 4).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(12) VEHICLE EXCISE DUTY/(v) Additional Duty, Rebates etc/774. Payment for licences by cheque or credit card.

774. Payment for licences by cheque or credit card.

The Secretary of State may, if he thinks fit, issue a vehicle licence¹ or a trade licence² on receipt of a cheque for the amount of the duty payable on it³.

In a case where:

- 1963 (1) a vehicle licence or a trade licence is issued to a person on receipt of a cheque which is subsequently dishonoured; and
- 1964 (2) the Secretary of State sends a notice by post to the person informing him that the licence is void as from the time when it was granted, the licence is void as from the time when it was granted⁴.

In a case where:

- 1965 (a) a vehicle licence or a trade licence is issued to a person on receipt of a cheque which is subsequently dishonoured;
- 1966 (b) the Secretary of State sends a notice by post to the person requiring him to secure that the duty payable on the licence is paid within such reasonable period as is specified in the notice;
- 1967 (c) the requirement in the notice is not complied with; and
- 1968 (d) the Secretary of State sends a further notice by post to the person informing him that the licence is void as from the time when it was granted, the licence is void as from the time when it was granted⁵.

Where a person applies for a vehicle licence or a trade licence, and the Secretary of State or an authorised body⁶ accepts a credit card⁷ payment in respect of the duty payable on the licence, the Secretary of State or that body must, before issuing the licence, require the applicant, or a person acting on behalf of the applicant, to pay to him or it such fee (if any) in respect of the acceptance of the credit card payment as may be prescribed by, or determined in accordance with, regulations⁸. In cases of such descriptions as the Secretary of State may, with the consent of the Treasury, determine, the whole or part of a fee so paid may be refunded⁹.

Where:

- 1978 (3) part of the rail transport of the vehicle takes place in the United Kingdom² at a time when a vehicle licence³ for it is in force, the holder of the licence is, on making a claim, entitled to receive from the Secretary of State, by way of rebate of the duty paid on the licence, an amount calculated by the method prescribed by regulations made by the Secretary of State⁴.

The Secretary of State may by regulations prescribe when and how a claim for a rebate under the above provisions is to be made and the evidence to be provided in support of such a claim⁵.

1 For these purposes, 'relevant goods vehicle' means any vehicle the rate of duty applicable to which is provided for in the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 2(1), Sch 1 Pt VIII paras 9-19 (as amended) (see PARA 732 et seq ante) or which would be such a vehicle if Sch 1 Pt VI para 6 (as amended) (see PARA 729 ante) did not apply to the vehicle: s 20(3) (substituted by the Finance Act 1995 s 19, Sch 4 paras 1, 16(1), (2), 21, 29). (vi) Offences

A. USING OR KEEPING UNLICENSED VEHICLE

(A) IN GENERAL

777. Using or keeping unlicensed vehicle.

If a person uses, or keeps, on a public road¹ a vehicle, not being an exempt vehicle², which is unlicensed³, he is guilty of an offence⁴.

1 For the meaning of 'keeping a vehicle on a public road' see PARA 718 note 2 ante; and for the meaning of 'vehicle' see PARA 718 note 4 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'exempt vehicle' see PARA 740 ante.

3 For these purposes, a vehicle is unlicensed if no vehicle licence or trade licence is in force for or in respect of the vehicle: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 29(2). Where a vehicle for which a vehicle licence is in force is transferred by the holder of the licence to another person, the licence is to be treated as no longer in force unless it is delivered to the other person with the vehicle: s 29(4). For the meaning of 'vehicle licence' see PARA 718 ante; and for the meaning of 'trade licence' see PARA 766 ante.

Where an application is made for a vehicle licence for any period and a temporary licence is issued pursuant to the application, s 29(4) does not apply to the licence applied for if, on a transfer of the vehicle during the currency of the temporary licence, the temporary licence is delivered with the vehicle to the transferee: s 29(5). For the meaning of 'temporary licence' see PARA 764 ante.

4 Ibid s 29(1). Such a person is liable on summary conviction to an excise penalty of level 3 on the standard scale or five times the amount of the vehicle excise duty chargeable in respect of the vehicle, whichever is the greater: see s 29(3) (amended by the Finance Act 1996 s 23, Sch 2 paras 1, 9(1), (2)). As to the standard scale see PARA 79 note 3 ante. The amount of the vehicle excise duty chargeable in respect of a vehicle is to be taken for these purposes to be an amount equal to the annual rate of duty applicable to the vehicle at the date on which the offence was committed: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 29(6). Where, in the case of a vehicle kept, but not used, on a public road, that annual rate differs from the annual rate by reference to which the vehicle was at that date chargeable under s 2(3)-(6) (as substituted) (see PARA 719 ante), the amount of the vehicle excise duty chargeable in respect of the vehicle is to be taken for those purposes to be an amount equal to the latter rate: s 29(7) (amended by the Finance Act 2002 s 19(1), Sch 5 paras 1, 7). In the case of a conviction for a continuing offence, the offence is to be taken for the purposes of the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 29(6), (7) (as amended) to have been committed on the date or latest date to which the conviction relates: s 29(8).

In the case of a person who: (1) has provided the Secretary of State with a declaration or statement, in pursuance of regulations under s 22 (registration regulations: see ROAD TRAFFIC vol 40(1) (2007 Reissue) PARAS 521, 523), that the vehicle will not during a period specified in the declaration or statement be used or kept on a public road; and (2) commits an offence under s 29(1), the provisions of s 29(3) (as amended) apply as if the reference to level 3 were a reference to level 4: s 29(3A) (added by the Finance Act 1996 Sch 2 paras 1, 9(1), (2)).

As to the duty to give information where it is alleged that a vehicle has been used in contravention of the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 29 (as amended) see PARA 791 post; as to the institution of proceedings for such an offence see PARA 793 post; as to evidence see PARA 796 post; and as to the burden of proof see PARA 798 post. As to additional liability for the keeper of an unlicensed vehicle see PARA 778 post. The offence is committed even if the vehicle is supported off the ground by something which is itself resting on the ground: Holliday v Henry [1974] RTR 101. See also Pilgram v Dean [1974] 2 All ER 751, [1974] 1 WLR 601, DC (a person convicted under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 29(1) may also be convicted under s 33(1) (see PARA 781 post) of using a vehicle without a licence being exhibited); Binks v Department of the Environment [1975] RTR 318, DC; Richardson v Baker [1976] RTR 56, DC (an employer may be guilty of an offence where his employee uses a vehicle on the road for his employer's business, albeit without his knowledge); McEachran v Hurst [1978] RTR 462, DC; Coote v Winfield [1980] RTR 42, DC.

Where, in the case of an offence under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 29 (as amended), there is made against a person an order under the Powers of Criminal Courts (Sentencing) Act 2000 s 12 (see SENTENCING AND DISPOSITION OF OFFENDERS vol 92 (2010) PARA 40) discharging him absolutely or conditionally, he is to be treated for the purposes of the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 29 (as amended) and ss 30, 31 (as amended) (see PARA 778 post) as having been convicted: s 32(1)(a) (amended by the Powers of Criminal Courts (Sentencing) Act 2000 s 165(1), Sch 9 para 158).

UPDATE

777-789 Using or keeping unlicensed vehicle, Forgery and fraud

Certain persons or indorsements mentioned in these paragraphs are specified for the purposes of Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 37, Schs 5, 6 (meaning of 'regulator' for the purposes of imposing civil sanctions): see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 196A.

777 Using or keeping unlicensed vehicle

TEXT AND NOTES--The reference in the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 29(1) is now merely to a 'vehicle': s 29(1) (amended by Finance Act 2008 Sch 45 para 2). That provision does not apply to a vehicle if (1) it is an exempt vehicle in respect of which regulations under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 requires a nil licence to be in force and a nil licence is in force in respect of that vehicle; (2) it is an exempt vehicle that is not one in respect of which a nil licence is so required; (3) the vehicle is being neither used nor kept on a public road and the particulars and declaration required to be furnished and made by regulations under s 22(1D) have been so furnished and made, and the terms of the declaration have at no time been breached; or (4) the vehicle is kept by a motor trader or vehicle tester at business premises: s 29(2A)-(2C) (s 29(2A)-(2E) added by Finance Act 2008 Sch 45 para 2(3)). The Secretary of State may by regulations make provision amending the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 29 for the purpose of providing further exceptions or varying or revoking any such further exceptions: s 29(2D). A person accused of an offence under s 29(1) is not entitled to the benefit of an exception unless evidence is adduced that is sufficient to raise an issue with respect to that exception; but where evidence is so adduced it is for the prosecution to prove beyond reasonable doubt that the exception does not apply: s 29(2E).

NOTE 4--For 'in respect of the vehicle' read 'in respect of using or keeping the vehicle on a public road': s 29(3) (amended by Finance Act 2008 Sch 45 para 2(4)). For 'kept (but not used)' read 'not being used': Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 29(7) (amended by Finance Act 2008 Sch 45 para 2(5)).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(12) VEHICLE EXCISE DUTY/(vi) Offences/A. USING OR KEEPING UNLICENSED VEHICLE/(A) In general/778. Additional liability for keeper of unlicensed vehicle.

778. Additional liability for keeper of unlicensed vehicle.

Where the person convicted of an offence of using or keeping an unlicensed vehicle¹ is the person by whom the vehicle in respect of which the offence was committed was kept at the time at which it was committed, the court must, in addition to any penalty which it may otherwise impose², order him to pay an amount equal to one-twelfth of the annual rate of vehicle excise duty³ appropriate to the vehicle for each month, or part of a month, in the relevant period⁴.

1 Ie an offence under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 29 (as amended): see PARA 777 ante.

2 Ie under ibid s 29 (as amended): see PARA 777 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'vehicle excise duty' see PARA 718 ante. As to the annual rates of duty see PARA 719 et seq ante. A vehicle is to be taken for these purposes to have belonged throughout the relevant period (see note 4 infra) to the description of vehicle to which it belonged for the purposes of vehicle excise duty at: (1) the date on which the offence was committed; or (2) if the prosecution so elects, the date when a vehicle licence for it was last issued, except so far as it is proved to have fallen within some other description for the whole of any month or part of a month in that period: ibid s 30(4).

4 Ibid s 30(1), (2). In the case of a conviction for a continuing offence, the offence is to be taken, for the purposes of s 30, to have been committed on the date or latest date to which the conviction relates: s 30(5).

For these purposes, 'the relevant period' is the period ending with the date on which the offence was committed and beginning as provided by s 31(2)-(4): s 31(1). Subject to s 31(4), if the person convicted has before the date of the offence notified the Secretary of State of his acquisition of the vehicle in accordance with regulations made by the Secretary of State, the relevant period begins with the date on which the notification was received by the Secretary of State or the expiry of the vehicle licence last in force for the vehicle, whichever is the later: s 31(2). Subject to s 31(4), in any other case the relevant period begins with the expiry of the vehicle licence last in force for the vehicle before the date on which the offence was committed or, if there has not at any time before that date been a vehicle licence in force for the vehicle, the date on which the vehicle was first kept by the person convicted: s 31(3). Where, however, the person convicted has been ordered to pay an amount under s 30 on the occasion of a previous conviction for an offence in respect of the same vehicle and that offence was committed after the date specified in s 31(2) or (3) as the date with which the relevant period begins, the relevant period instead begins with the month immediately following that in which the earlier offence was committed: s 31(4). Where the person convicted proves that throughout any month or part of a month in the relevant period the vehicle was not kept by him or that he has paid the duty due in respect of the vehicle for any such month or part of a month, any amount which the person is ordered to pay under s 30 is to be calculated as if that month or part of a month were not in the relevant period: s 31(5) (amended by the Finance Act 1995 ss 19, 162, Sch 4 paras 1, 35, Sch 29 Pt V). Where a person has previously been ordered under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 36 (as amended) (see PARA 784 post) to pay an amount for a month or part of a month in the case of a vehicle, any amount which he is ordered to pay under s 30 in the case of the vehicle is to be calculated as if no part of that month were in the relevant period: s 31(6). In s 31 (as amended), references to the expiry of a vehicle licence include a reference to its surrender and its being treated as no longer in force for the purposes of s 29(2) by s 29(4) (see PARA 777 note 3 ante): s 31(7). In the case of a conviction for a continuing offence, the offence is to be taken, for the purposes of s 31, to have been committed on the date or latest date to which the conviction relates: s 31(8).

In relation to any month or part of a month in the relevant period, the reference in s 30(2) to the annual rate of vehicle excise duty appropriate to the vehicle is a reference to the annual rate applicable to it at the beginning of that month or part: s 30(3).

Section 30 has effect subject to the provisions, applying with the necessary modifications, of any enactment relating to the imposition of fines by magistrates' courts and courts of summary jurisdiction, other than any conferring a discretion as to their amount: s 32(2). Where a sum is payable by virtue of an order under s 30, the sum is to be treated as a fine, and the order as a conviction, for the purposes of the Magistrates' Courts Act 1980 Pt III (ss 75-96A) (as amended) (see MAGISTRATES), including any enactment having effect as if contained in Pt III (as amended) and of any other enactment relating to the recovery or application of sums ordered to be paid by magistrates' courts: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 32(3)(a). See also PARA 777 note 5 ante.

NOTE 4--References to the expiry of a vehicle licence also include a reference to its ceasing to be in force under s 19 (see PARA 773): s 31(7) (amended by Finance Act 2008 s 144(5)).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(12) VEHICLE EXCISE DUTY/(vi) Offences/A. USING OR KEEPING UNLICENSED VEHICLE/(A) In general/779. Offence by registered keeper where vehicle unlicensed.

779. Offence by registered keeper where vehicle unlicensed.

If a registered¹ vehicle is unlicensed², the person in whose name it is registered is guilty of an offence³. Where a vehicle for which a vehicle licence is in force is transferred by the holder of the licence to another person, the licence is to be treated for this purpose as no longer in force unless it is delivered to the other person with the vehicle⁴.

However, a person ('the registered keeper') in whose name an unlicensed vehicle is registered at any particular time ('the relevant time') does not commit such an offence at that time if:

- 1979 (1) the registered keeper is not at the relevant time the person keeping the vehicle and, if previously he was the person keeping the vehicle, he has by the relevant time complied with any requirements⁵ that are prescribed for these purposes with which he is required to have complied by the relevant or any earlier time; or
- 1980 (2) the registered keeper is at the relevant time the person keeping the vehicle, at the relevant time the vehicle is neither kept nor used on a public road, and the registered keeper has at the relevant time complied with any requirements⁶ that are prescribed for these purposes and with which he is required to have complied by the relevant or any earlier time; or
- 1981 (3) the vehicle has been stolen before the relevant time, it has not been recovered by the relevant time, and any requirements⁷ that, in connection with the theft, are required to have been complied with by the relevant or any earlier time have been complied with by the relevant time; or
- 1982 (4) the relevant time falls with a period ('the grace days') beginning with the expiry⁸ of the last vehicle licence to be in force for the vehicle and of a prescribed length⁹, and a vehicle licence for the vehicle is taken out within the grace days for a period beginning with the grace days¹⁰.

A person guilty of such an offence is liable on summary conviction to a penalty¹¹.

If the person concerned was, at the time proceedings for the offence were commenced, the person in whose name the vehicle concerned was registered, and that vehicle was unlicensed throughout the period beginning with the commission of the offence and ending with the commencement of those proceedings, an additional penalty of a specified amount is due¹².

¹ le registered under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994: see s 21 (as amended); and ROAD TRAFFIC vol 40(1) (2007 Reissue) PARA 519.

4 Ibid s 31A(4) (as added: see note 2 supra). However, where an application is made for a vehicle licence for any period, and a temporary licence is issued pursuant to the application, s 31A(4) (as added) does not apply to the licence applied for if, on a transfer of the vehicle during the currency of the temporary licence, the temporary licence is delivered with the vehicle to the transferee: s 31A(5) (as so added). As to temporary licences see PARA 764 ante.

Where, in the case of an offence under s 31A (as added), there is made against a person an order under the Powers of Criminal Courts (Sentencing) Act 2000 s 12 (see SENTENCING AND DISPOSITION OF OFFENDERS vol 92 (2010) PARA 40) discharging him absolutely or conditionally, he is to be treated for the purposes of the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 31A (as added) and ss 31B, 31C (both as added) (see the text and notes 5-12 infra) as having been convicted: s 32(1)(a) (amended by the Powers of Criminal Courts (Sentencing) Act 2000 s 165(1), Sch 9 para 158; and the Finance Act 2002 Sch 5 para 9(1)).

9 Ie 14 days: Road Vehicles (Registration and Licensing) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/2742, reg 26A(4) (as added: see note 5 supra).

10 Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 31B(1)-(5) (as added: see note 2 supra). 'Prescribed' means prescribed by regulations made by the Secretary of State: s 31B(9)(b) (as so added). The Secretary of State may by regulations make provision: (1) for the purposes of s 31A(4)(c) (see head (3) in the text) as to the persons to whom, the times at which and the manner in which the theft of a vehicle is to be notified; (2) amending s 31B (as added) for the purpose of providing for further exceptions to s 31A(1) (as added) or varying or revoking any such further exceptions: s 31B(6), (7) (as so added). A person accused of an offence under s 31A(1) (as added) is not entitled to the benefit of an exception conferred by or under s 31B (as added) unless evidence is adduced that is sufficient to raise an issue with respect to that exception, but where evidence is so adduced it is for the prosecution to prove beyond reasonable doubt that the exception does not apply: s 31B(8) (as so added).

11 Ibid s 31C(1)(a) (as added: see note 2 supra). Such a person is liable to an excise penalty of level 3 on the standard scale or to five times the amount of vehicle excise duty chargeable in respect of the vehicle concerned, whichever is the greater: see s 31C(1)(a) (as so added). As to the standard scale see PARA 79 note 3 ante.

12 Ibid s 31C(1)(b), (3) (as added: see note 2 supra). The specified amount is an amount that complies with s 31C(2) (as added), ie an amount which: (1) is not less than the greater of the maximum of the penalty to which the person is liable under s 31C(1)(a) (as added) (see note 11 supra) and the amount of the supplement (if any) that became payable by him by reason of non-renewal of the vehicle licence for the vehicle that last expired before the commission of the offence; and (2) is not more than the greatest of: (a) the maximum of the penalty to which the person is liable under s 31C(1)(a) (as added) (see note 11 supra); (b) the supplement so payable; and (c) ten times the amount of vehicle excise duty chargeable in respect of the vehicle: s 31C(2) (as so added).

For this purpose, the amount of vehicle excise duty chargeable in respect of a vehicle is taken to be an amount equal to the annual rate of duty applicable to the vehicle at the date on which the offence was committed; and where in the case of a vehicle kept (but not used) on a public road that annual rate differs from the annual rate by reference to which the vehicle was at that date chargeable under s 2(3)-(6) (as substituted) (see PARA 719 ante), the amount of the vehicle excise duty chargeable in respect of the vehicle is taken to be an amount equal to the latter sum: s 31C(4), (5) (as so added). In the case of a conviction for a continuing offence, the offence is taken for the purposes of s 31C(4), (5) (as added) to have been committed on the date or latest date to which the conviction relates: s 31C(6) (as so added).

2 See ibid s 32A, Sch 2A (added by the Finance Act 1995 s 19, Sch 4 paras 1, 36(1), (2); and amended by the Finance Act 1997 s 20). A person authorised by the Secretary of State may affix an immobilisation device to an unlicensed vehicle: see the Vehicle Excise Duty (Immobilisation, Removal and Disposal of Vehicles) Regulations 1997, SI 1997/2439, reg 5 (amended by SI 1997/3063; SI 1998/1217). It is an offence to make a false or misleading declaration to obtain a voucher or a refund of any sum in respect of which a voucher was issued; or to forge, fraudulently alter, fraudulently use or fraudulently lend a voucher or fraudulently to allow a voucher to be used by another person: see reg 16. Any dispute about charges paid to secure the release of a vehicle from an immobilisation device, or to secure possession of it after its removal, is to be referred to a person authorised by the Secretary of State; and an appeal against the determination of the authorised person lies to a magistrates' court: see reg 17 (amended by SI 1997/3063; SI 1998/1217).

781 Not exhibiting licence

TEXT AND NOTES--A person is not guilty of an offence under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 33(1) or (1A) by using or keeping a vehicle on a public road during any of the five working days following the time when a licence or a nil licence for it, or a relevant declaration applying to it, ceases to be in force, if an application for such a licence for or in respect of the vehicle to run from that time has been received before that time: s 33(1B) (s 33(1B)-(1D) added by Finance Act 2008 s 147). 'Working day' means any day other than a Saturday, a Sunday, or a day which is Christmas Eve, Christmas Day, Good Friday or a bank holiday under the Banking and Financial Dealings Act 1971 in any part of the United Kingdom: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 33(1C). There is a relevant declaration applying to a vehicle if the particulars and declaration required to be furnished and made by regulations under s 22(1D) have been furnished and made in relation to the vehicle in accordance with the regulations; and the relevant declaration ceases to be in force if, after the particulars and declaration have been furnished and made (1) the vehicle is used or kept on a public road (otherwise than under a trade licence); or (2) the period of 12 months beginning with the day on which the particulars and declaration were furnished and made expires: s 33(1D).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(12) VEHICLE EXCISE DUTY/(vi) Offences/B. OTHER OFFENCES RELATING TO LICENCES/782. Penalties in respect of trade licences.

782. Penalties in respect of trade licences.

A person holding a trade licence¹ or trade licences is guilty of an offence if he:

- 1988 (1) uses at any one time on a public road² a greater number of vehicles³, not being vehicles for which vehicle licences⁴ are for the time being in force, than he is authorised to use by virtue of the trade licence or licences⁵;
- 1989 (2) uses a vehicle, not being a vehicle for which a vehicle licence is for the time being in force, on a public road for any purpose other than a prescribed purpose⁶; or
- 1990 (3) uses the trade licence, or any of the trade licences, for the purposes of keeping on a public road in any circumstances other than circumstances which have been prescribed⁷ a vehicle which is not being used on that road⁸.

A person guilty of an offence under the above provisions is liable on summary conviction to a penalty⁹.

1 For the meaning of 'trade licence' see PARA 766 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'public road' see PARA 718 note 2 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'vehicle' see PARA 718 note 4 ante.

4 For the meaning of 'vehicle licence' see PARA 718 ante.

5 Although two or more trade licences may be held by the same person (see the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 14(1); and PARA 766 ante), the holder of a trade licence is not entitled by virtue of the licence to use more than one vehicle at any one time (see s 12(1)(a); and PARA 767 head (1) ante).

6 I.e. a purpose prescribed under ibid s 12(2)(b): see PARA 767 head (b) ante.

7 I.e. circumstances prescribed under ibid s 12(1)(c): see PARA 767 head (3) ante.

8 Ibid s 34(1).

9 Ibid s 34(2). Such a person is liable to an excise penalty of level 3 on the standard scale or five times the amount of the vehicle excise duty chargeable in respect of (in the case of an offence under head (1) in the text) the vehicles which he is not authorised to use or (in the case of an offence under head (2) or head (3) in the text) the vehicle concerned, whichever is the greater: see s 34(2). As to the standard scale see PARA 79 note 3 ante.

As to the duty to give information where it is alleged that a vehicle has been used in contravention of s 34 see PARA 791 post; as to the institution of proceedings for such an offence see PARA 793 post; as to evidence see PARA 796 post; and as to the burden of proof see PARA 798 post.

The amount of the vehicle excise duty chargeable in respect of a vehicle is to be taken for the purposes of s 34(2) to be an amount equal to the annual rate of duty applicable to the vehicle at the date on which the offence was committed: s 34(3). Where in the case of a vehicle kept, but not used, on a public road that annual rate differs from the annual rate by reference to which the vehicle was at that date chargeable under s 2(3)-(6) (as substituted) (see PARA 719 ante), the amount of the vehicle excise duty chargeable in respect of the vehicle is to be taken for those purposes to be an amount equal to the latter rate: s 34(4) (amended by the Finance Act 2002 s 19(1), Sch 5 paras 1, 11). Certain persons or indorsements mentioned in these paragraphs are specified for the purposes of Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 37, Schs 5, 6 (meaning of 'regulator' for the purposes of imposing civil sanctions): see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 196A.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(12) VEHICLE EXCISE DUTY/(vi) Offences/B. OTHER OFFENCES RELATING TO LICENCES/784. Failure to deliver up void licence etc.

784. Failure to deliver up void licence etc.

In a case where a notice¹ or a further notice² sent by the Secretary of State informing a person that a vehicle licence³ or trade licence⁴ is void contains a relevant requirement⁵ and the person fails to comply with the requirement contained in the notice, he is liable on summary conviction to a penalty⁶.

Where a person has been convicted of an offence under the above provisions in relation to a vehicle licence or a trade licence, the court must, in addition to any penalty which it may impose thereunder, order him to pay an amount equal to one-twelfth of the appropriate annual rate of vehicle excise duty⁷ for each month, or part of a month, in the relevant period⁸.

1 le a notice sent as mentioned in the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 19A(2)(b) (as added) (see PARA 774 head (2) ante) or s 19B(2)(c) (as added) (see PARA 775 head (3) ante).

2 le a notice sent as mentioned in ibid s 19A(3)(d) (as added) (see PARA 774 head (d) ante) or s 19B(3)(d) (as added) (see PARA 775 head (d) ante).

3 For the meaning of 'vehicle licence' see PARA 718 ante.

4 For the meaning of 'trade licence' see PARA 766 ante.

5 For these purposes, a relevant requirement is: (1) a requirement to deliver up the licence within such reasonable period as is specified in the notice; or (2) a requirement to deliver up the licence within such reasonable period as is so specified and, on doing so, to pay an amount equal to one-twelfth of the appropriate annual rate of vehicle excise duty for each month, or part of a month, in the relevant period: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 35A(3), (4) (added by the Finance Act 1998 s 19(2), (5)). The reference to the appropriate annual rate of vehicle excise duty is a reference: (a) in the case of a vehicle licence, to the annual rate which at the beginning of the relevant period was applicable to a vehicle of the description specified in the application; or (b) in the case of a trade licence, to the basic goods vehicle rate (within the meaning of the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 13 (as amended): see PARA 768 ante) which was applicable at that time (or to the annual rate which at that time was applicable to a vehicle falling within s 2(1), Sch 1 para 2(1)(d) (as substituted and amended) (see PARA 721 head (4) ante) if the licence was to be used only for vehicles to which Sch 1 para 2 (as amended) (see PARA 721 ante) applies): s 35A(5) (added by the Finance Act 1998 s 19(2), (5); and amended by the Finance Act 2002 s 18(2); and the Finance Act 2005 s 7(1), (6)). The relevant period is the period beginning with the first day of the period for which the licence was applied for or, if later, the day on which the licence first was to have effect and ending with whichever is the earliest of:

121 (i) the end of the month during which the licence was required to be delivered up;

122 (ii) the end of the month during which the licence was due to expire;

123 (iii) the date on which the licence was due to expire; and

124 (iv) the end of the month preceding that in which there first had effect a new vehicle licence for the vehicle in question, and, in a case where there is a requirement to deliver up a trade licence, those times are the time specified in heads (i)-(iii) supra: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 35A(6), (7) (added by the Finance Act 1998 s 19(2), (5)).

6 Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 35A(1) (added by the Finance Act 1995 s 19, Sch 4 paras 1, 32(2), (4); and amended by the Finance Act 1997 s 19(2); and the Finance Act 1998 s 19(1)). He is liable to a penalty of an amount of level 3 on the standard scale or an amount equal to five times the annual rate of duty that was payable on the grant of the licence or would have been so payable if it had been taken out for a period of 12 months, whichever is the greater: see the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 35A(2) (added by the Finance Act 1995 Sch 4 paras 1, 32(2), (4)). As to the standard scale see PARA 79 note 3 ante. As to the institution of proceedings for such an offence see PARA 793 post.

7 For these purposes, the reference to the appropriate annual rate of vehicle excise duty is a reference: (1) in the case of a vehicle licence, to the annual rate which at the beginning of the relevant period (see note 8 infra) was applicable to a vehicle of the description specified in the application; or (2) in the case of a trade licence, to the basic goods vehicle rate (within the meaning of the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 13 (as amended): see PARA 768 ante) which was applicable at that time (or to the annual rate which at that time was applicable to a vehicle falling within s 2(1), Sch 1 para 2(1)(d) (as substituted and amended) (see PARA 721 head (4) ante) if the licence was to be used only for vehicles to which Sch 1 para 2 (as amended) (see PARA 721 ante) applies): s 36(3) (amended by the Finance Act 2002 s 18(2); and the Finance Act 2005 s 7(1), (6)). As to the annual rates of duty see PARA 719 et seq ante. For the meaning of 'vehicle' see PARA 718 note 4 ante.

8 Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 36(1), (2) (added by the Finance Act 1995 Sch 4 paras 1, 32(3), (4)). For these purposes, the relevant period is the period beginning with the first day of the period for which the licence was applied for or, if later, the day on which the licence first was to have effect and ending with whichever is the earliest of:

- 125 (1) the end of the month in which the order is made;
- 126 (2) the date on which the licence was due to expire;
- 127 (3) the end of the month during which the licence was delivered up; and
- 128 (4) the end of the month preceding that in which there first had effect a new licence for the vehicle in question, and, in the case of a trade licence, those times are the times specified in heads (1)-(3) supra: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 36(4) (substituted by the Finance Act 1998 s 19(3), (5)).

Where a person has previously been ordered under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 30 (see PARA 778 ante) to pay an amount for a month or part of a month in the case of a vehicle, any amount which he is ordered to pay under s 36 (as amended) in the case of a vehicle licence for the vehicle is to be calculated as if no part of that month were in the relevant period: s 36(5).

Where a person has been convicted of an offence under s 35A (as added and amended) in relation to a vehicle licence or a trade licence and a requirement to pay an amount with respect to that licence has been imposed on that person by virtue of s 35A(3)(b) (as added) (see note 5 head (2) supra), the order to pay an amount under s 36 (as amended) has effect instead of that requirement and the amount to be paid under the order must be reduced by any amount actually paid in pursuance of the requirement: s 36(6) (added by the Finance Act 1998 s 19(4), (5)).

Certain persons or indorsements mentioned in these paragraphs are specified for the purposes of Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 37, Schs 5, 6 (meaning of 'regulator' for the purposes of imposing civil sanctions): see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 196A.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(12) VEHICLE EXCISE DUTY/(vi) Offences/C. PENALTY FOR NOT PAYING DUTY CHARGEABLE AT HIGHER RATE/786. Additional liability for keeper of vehicle chargeable at higher rate.

786. Additional liability for keeper of vehicle chargeable at higher rate.

Where the person convicted of an offence of not paying duty chargeable at a higher rate¹ is the person by whom the vehicle² in respect of which the offence was committed was kept at the time at which it was committed, the court must, in addition to any penalty which it may otherwise impose³, order him to pay an amount equal to one-twelfth of the difference between the rate of duty at which the licence in relation to which the offence was committed was taken out and the relevant higher rate of duty⁴ in relation to the vehicle for each month, or part of a month, in the relevant period⁵.

Where a person is convicted of more than one offence of not paying duty chargeable at a higher rate in respect of the same vehicle, whether or not in the same proceedings, the court must, in calculating the amount payable under the above provisions in respect of any of the offences, reduce the amount in relation to any period by any amount so ordered to be paid in relation to the period in respect of any other such offence⁶.

1 le an offence under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 37 (as amended): see PARA 785 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'vehicle' see PARA 718 note 4 ante.

3 le under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 37 (as amended): see PARA 785 ante.

4 For these purposes, the relevant higher rate of duty in relation to a vehicle is the rate provided by the following provisions: ibid s 39(1).

Where: (1) at the time of the offence the vehicle had a revenue weight which exceeded that which it had when the licence in relation to which the offence was committed was taken out; and (2) the licence was taken out at the rate applicable to the previous weight, the relevant higher rate of duty is the rate which would have been applicable had the licence been taken out by reference to the higher weight: s 39(2) (amended by the Finance Act 1995 s 19, Sch 4 paras 1, 16(1), (2), 22, 29). For the meaning of 'revenue weight' see PARA 726 ante.

Where: (a) the vehicle is a tractive unit; (b) the licence in relation to which the offence was committed was taken out at a rate applicable to the use of the vehicle only with semi-trailers having not fewer than two axles or only with semi-trailers having not fewer than three axles; and (c) the offence consisted in using the vehicle with a semi-trailer with a smaller number of axles, the relevant higher rate of duty is the rate which would have been applicable had the licence been taken out by reference to the use of the vehicle which constituted the offence: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 39(3). For the meaning of 'tractive unit' see PARA 722 note 5 ante; and for the meaning of 'axle' see PARA 732 note 5 ante.

Where: (i) the licence in relation to which the offence was committed was taken out at a rate applicable, by virtue of Sch 1 para 13 (as amended) (see PARA 737 ante), to a weight lower than the revenue weight of the vehicle; and (ii) the offence consisted in using the vehicle in contravention of a condition imposed under or by virtue of Sch 1 para 13(2), the relevant higher rate of duty is the rate which would have been applicable had the licence been taken out by reference to the revenue weight of the vehicle: s 39(4) (amended by the Finance Act 1995 Sch 4 paras 1, 16(1), (2), 22, 29).

Where the licence in relation to which the offence was committed was taken out at a rate lower than that applicable to it by reference to its revenue weight and none of the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 39(2)-(4) (as amended) applies, the relevant higher rate of duty is the rate which would have been applicable had the licence been taken out by reference to the revenue weight of the vehicle: s 39(5) (amended by the Finance Act 1995 Sch 4 paras 1, 16(1), (2), 22, 29).

Where the licence in relation to which the offence was committed was taken out at a rate lower than that at which duty was chargeable in respect of the condition, manner or purpose of use of the vehicle which constituted the offence and none of the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 39(2)-(5) (as amended) applies, the relevant higher rate of duty is the rate which would have been applicable had the licence been taken out by reference to the condition, manner or purpose of use of the vehicle which constituted the offence: s 39(6).

5 Ibid s 38(1), (2). For these purposes, a vehicle is to be taken to have belonged throughout the relevant period to the description of vehicle to which it belonged for the purposes of vehicle excise duty at the date on which the offence was committed, except so far as it is proved to have fallen within some other description for the whole of any month or part of a month in that period: s 38(3). For the meaning of 'vehicle excise duty' see PARA 718 ante. As to the annual rates of duty see PARA 719 et seq ante.

For these purposes, the relevant period is the period ending with the date on which the offence was committed and beginning as provided by s 40(2) (as amended) or s 40(3): s 40(1). If the offence consists in the vehicle having a revenue weight which exceeds that which it had when the licence in relation to which the offence was committed was taken out, the relevant period begins with the date on which the vehicle became a vehicle with a higher revenue weight: s 40(2) (amended by the Finance Act 1995 Sch 4 paras 1, 16(1), (2), 23, 29). In any other case, the relevant period begins with the date on which the licence in relation to which the offence was committed first took effect: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 40(3). Where the person convicted proves: (1) that throughout any month or part of a month in the relevant period the vehicle was not kept by him; or (2) that he has paid the duty due, or an amount equal to the duty due, at the relevant higher rate in respect of the vehicle for any such month or part of a month, any amount which the person is ordered to pay under s 38 is to be calculated as if that month or part of a month were not in the relevant period: s 40(4).

Where, in the case of an offence under s 37 (as amended), there is made against a person an order under the Powers of Criminal Courts (Sentencing) Act 2000 s 12 (see SENTENCING AND DISPOSITION OF OFFENDERS vol 92 (2010) PARA 40) discharging him absolutely or conditionally, he is to be treated for the purposes of the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 38, s 39 (as amended) and s 40 (as amended) as having been convicted: s 41(1)(a) (amended by the Powers of Criminal Courts (Sentencing) Act 2000 s 165(1), Sch 9 para 159).

The Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 38 has effect subject to the provisions (applying with the necessary modifications) of any enactment relating to the imposition of fines by magistrates' courts and courts of summary jurisdiction, other than any conferring a discretion as to their amount: s 41(2).

Where a sum is payable by virtue of an order under s 38, the sum is to be treated as a fine, and the order as a conviction, for the purposes of the Magistrates' Courts Act 1980 Pt III (ss 75-96A) (as amended) (see MAGISTRATES vol 29(3) (Reissue) PARA 853 et seq), including any enactment having effect as if contained in Pt III (as amended), and of any other enactment relating to the recovery or application of sums ordered to be paid by magistrates' courts: Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 41(3)(a).

788. Offence of using an incorrectly registered vehicle.

A person is guilty of an offence if, on a public road¹ or in a public place, he uses a vehicle in respect of which the name and address of the keeper² are not recorded in the register³, or any of the particulars recorded in the register are incorrect⁴. This applies to a vehicle if vehicle excise duty⁵ is chargeable in respect of it, or it is an exempt vehicle⁶ in respect of which regulations⁷ require a nil licence⁸ to be in force⁹.

It is a defence for a person charged with such an offence to show, as the case may be, that there was no reasonable opportunity, before the material time, to furnish the name and address of the keeper of the vehicle, or that there was no reasonable opportunity, before the material time, to furnish particulars correcting the incorrect particulars¹⁰. It is also a defence for a person charged with such an offence to show that he had reasonable grounds for believing, or that it was reasonable for him to expect, that the name and address of the keeper or the other particulars of registration, as the case may be, were correctly recorded in the register, or that any exception prescribed in regulations under this provision is met¹¹.

801 Regulations and orders

NOTE 10--The Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 60(3) also applies to an order made under s 5(3) (see PARA 740): s 60(3) (amended by Finance Act 2007 s 106(2)).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(13) AIR PASSENGER DUTY/(i) In general/802. Air passenger duty.

(13) AIR PASSENGER DUTY

(i) In general

802. Air passenger duty.

Air passenger duty was introduced by the Finance Act 1994¹ and is chargeable on the carriage of chargeable passengers on a chargeable aircraft which began on or after 1 November 1994².

Air passenger duty is a duty of excise and accordingly is under the care and management of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs³.

¹ See the Finance Act 1994 Pt I Ch IV (ss 28-44) and Sch 6 (as amended); see PARA 803 et seq post.

Any amount which is due by way of air passenger duty from the debtor at the relevant date and which became due within the period of six months next before that date constitutes a preferential debt: see the Insolvency Act 1986 s 386, Sch 6 para 5C (as added); and COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY vol 7(4) (2004 Reissue) PARA 765.

² See the Finance Act 1994 ss 28(1), 44(1); and PARA 803 post. For the purpose of determining whether or not a person is a chargeable passenger in relation to any carriage on an aircraft on or after 1 November 1994, the provisions of s 31 (see PARA 805 post) and any order made by virtue of s 31 (as amended) are to be treated as having applied to any such carriage of that person which began on or before 31 October 1994 as they would apply to any such carriage of that person beginning on or after 1 November 1994: s 44(2).

For these purposes, 'order' means an order made by the Treasury: s 42(1). Orders may make different provision for different cases or circumstances and make incidental, supplemental, saving or transitional provision: s 42(2). Any power to make such an order is exercisable by statutory instrument: s 42(3). No order which appears to the Treasury to extend the circumstances in which passengers are to be treated as chargeable passengers is to be made unless a draft of the order has been laid before and approved by the House of Commons: s 42(4). Any other order is subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of the House of Commons: s 42(5). As to the Treasury see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARAS 512-517.

802 Air passenger duty

NOTES--See R (on the application of the Federation of Tour Operators) v HM Treasury [2007] EWCA Civ 752, [2008] STC 2524 (increase in air passenger duty not unlawful).

NOTE 2--The Finance Act 1994 s 42(4) also applies to an order to increase the rate of air passenger duty to be charged on the carriage of any chargeable passengers whose journeys end in a particular place: s 42(4) (amended by Finance Act 2009 Sch 5 para 4).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(13) AIR PASSENGER DUTY/(ii) Charge to Duty/803. Charge to duty.

(ii) Charge to Duty

803. Charge to duty.

Air passenger duty is chargeable on the carriage¹ on a chargeable aircraft² of any chargeable passenger³; and the duty in respect of any carriage on an aircraft of a chargeable passenger becomes due⁴ when the aircraft first takes off on the passenger's flight⁵.

1 For these purposes, 'carriage' means carriage wholly or partly by air; and 'carried' is to be read accordingly: Finance Act 1994 s 43(1).

2 For the meaning of 'chargeable aircraft' see PARA 804 post.

3 Finance Act 1994 s 28(1). For the meaning of 'chargeable passenger' see PARA 805 post.

4 Ie subject to the provisions of ibid Pt I Ch IV (ss 28-44) (as amended) about accounting and payment.

5 Ibid s 28(2)(a).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(13) AIR PASSENGER DUTY/(ii) Charge to Duty/804. Meaning of 'chargeable aircraft'.

804. Meaning of 'chargeable aircraft'.

Every aircraft¹ designed or adapted to carry persons in addition to the flight crew is² a chargeable aircraft³. Where, however, the authorised take-off weight⁴ in respect of an aircraft is less than ten tonnes⁵ or an aircraft is not authorised⁶ to seat 20 or more persons, excluding members of the flight crew and cabin attendants, the aircraft is not a chargeable aircraft⁷.

1 The expression 'aircraft' is not defined in the Finance Act 1994; but cf the classification of aircraft in the Air Navigation Order 2005, SI 2005/1970, art 155(6), Sch 2 Pt A (see AIR LAW vol 2 (2008) PARA 360).

2 The subject to the Finance Act 1994 s 29: see the text and notes 4-29 infra.

3 Ibid s 28(3).

4 For these purposes, 'take-off weight', in relation to an aircraft, means the total weight of the aircraft and its contents when taking off: ibid s 29(2).

5 For these purposes, the authorised take-off weight of an aircraft is less than ten tonnes if: (1) there is a certificate of airworthiness in force in respect of the aircraft showing that the maximum authorised take-off weight, assuming the most favourable circumstances for take-off, is less than ten tonnes; or (2) the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs are satisfied that the aircraft is not designed or adapted to take off when its take-off weight is ten tonnes or more, assuming the most favourable circumstances for take-off, or the aircraft belongs to a class or description of aircraft in respect of which the Commissioners are so satisfied: ibid s 29(2). As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post. 'Certificate of airworthiness' includes in the case of a national certificate of airworthiness any flight manual, performance schedule or other document, whatever its title, incorporated by reference in that certificate relating to the certificate of airworthiness: Air Navigation Order 2005, SI 2005/1970, art 155(1); applied by the Finance Act 1994 ss 29(4), 43(1). As to certificates of airworthiness see the Air Navigation Order 2005, SI 2005/1970, arts 8-10; and AIR LAW vol 2 (2008) PARA 376 et seq.

6 For these purposes, an aircraft is not so authorised if: (1) there is a certificate of airworthiness in force in respect of the aircraft showing that the maximum number of persons who may be seated on the aircraft, excluding members of the flight crew and cabin attendants, is less than 20; or (2) the Commissioners are satisfied that the aircraft is not designed or adapted to seat 20 or more persons, excluding members of the flight crew and cabin attendants, or the aircraft belongs to a class or description of aircraft in respect of which the Commissioners are so satisfied: Finance Act 1994 s 29(3).

805. Meaning of 'chargeable passenger'.

Every passenger¹ on an aircraft is a chargeable passenger² if his flight³ begins⁴ at an airport⁵ in the United Kingdom⁶.

A passenger is not, however, a chargeable passenger in relation to a flight if under his agreement for carriage⁷ (whether or not it is evidenced by a ticket⁸) the flight is to depart from an airport which is in a region of the United Kingdom designated by order⁹ (which may be made in respect of any region which has a population density of not more than 12.5 persons per square kilometre, a region being an area determined by the Treasury)¹⁰.

A passenger whose agreement for carriage is evidenced by a ticket is not a chargeable passenger in relation to a flight which is the second or a subsequent flight on his journey¹¹ if the prescribed¹² particulars of the flight are shown on the ticket and that flight and the previous flight are connected¹³.

A child who has not attained the age of two years and is not allocated a separate seat before he first boards the aircraft is not a chargeable passenger¹⁴.

A passenger is not a chargeable passenger in relation to a flight if under his agreement for carriage, whether or not it is evidenced by a ticket, the flight is to depart from and return to the same airport and the duration of the flight, excluding any period during which the aircraft's doors are open for boarding or disembarkation, is not to exceed 60 minutes¹⁵.

A passenger not carried for reward¹⁶ is not a chargeable passenger if he is carried in pursuance of any requirement imposed under any enactment or for the purpose only of inspecting matters relating to the aircraft or the flight crew¹⁷.

In the case of a person whose agreement for carriage is evidenced by a ticket:

2026 (1) where:

93

156. (a) at the time the ticket is issued or, if it is altered, at the time it is last altered, he would not, assuming there is no change of circumstances, be a chargeable passenger in relation to any flight in the course of his journey; and

157. (b) by reason only of a change of circumstances not attributable to any act or default of his, he arrives at or departs from an airport in the course of that journey on a flight the prescribed particulars¹⁸ of which were not shown on his ticket at that time,

2027 he is not by reason of the change of circumstances to be treated as a chargeable passenger in relation to that flight¹⁹;

2028 (2) where:

158. (a) at the time the ticket is issued or, if it is altered, at the time it is last altered, he would, assuming there is no change of circumstances, be a chargeable passenger in relation to one or more flights ('the proposed chargeable flights') in the course of his journey;

159. (b) by reason only of a change of circumstances not attributable to any act or default of his, he arrives at or departs from an airport in the course of that journey on a flight the prescribed particulars²⁰ of which were not shown on his ticket at that time; and

160. (c) he would otherwise, by reason of the change, be a chargeable passenger in relation to a number of flights exceeding the number of the proposed chargeable flights,

96

2029 he is not, by reason of the change of circumstances, to be treated as a chargeable passenger in relation to that flight²¹.

Where:

2030 (i) at the time a passenger's flight begins, he would not, assuming there is no change of circumstances, be²² a chargeable passenger in relation to the flight; and he is not, by reason of the change of circumstances, to be treated as a chargeable passenger in relation to that flight²³.

2031 (ii) by reason only of a change of circumstances not attributable to any act or default of his, the flight does not return to the airport from which it departed or exceeds 60 minutes in duration, excluding any period during which the aircraft's doors are open for boarding or disembarkation,

2 le subject to the Finance Act 1994 ss 31, 32 (as amended): see the text and notes 7-23 infra.

3 For these purposes, 'flight', in relation to any person, means his carriage on an aircraft: ibid ss 28(5), 43(1). For the meaning of 'carriage' see PARA 803 note 1 ante.

4 For these purposes, a passenger's flight is to be treated as beginning when he first boards the aircraft: ibid s 28(5).

7 For these purposes, 'agreement for carriage', in relation to the carriage of any person, means the agreement or arrangement under which he is carried, whether the carriage is by a single carrier or successive carriers: ibid s 43(1).

8 For these purposes, 'ticket' means a document or documents evidencing an agreement, wherever made, for the carriage of any person: ibid s 43(1). 'Document' includes information recorded in any form: s 43(1).

An order may make different provision for different cases or circumstances and make incidental, supplemental, saving or transitional provision: s 42(2). Any power to make such an order is exercisable by statutory instrument: s 42(3). No order which appears to the Treasury to extend the circumstances in which passengers are to be treated as chargeable passengers may be made unless a draft of the order has been laid before and approved by the House of Commons: s 42(4). Any other order is subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of the House of Commons: s 42(5). As to the Treasury see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARAS 512-517.

11 For these purposes, 'journey', in relation to a passenger whose agreement for carriage is evidenced by a ticket, means the journey from his original place of departure to his final place of destination; and 'original place of departure' and 'final place of destination' mean the original place of departure and the final place of destination indicated on his ticket: Finance Act 1994 s 43(2) (amended by the Finance Act 2000 ss 19(1), (5)(a), 156, Sch 40 Pt I(4)).

12 For these purposes, 'prescribed' means prescribed by regulations: Finance Act 1994 s 43(1). 'Regulations' means regulations made by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs: s 42(1). 16 For these purposes, 'reward', in relation to the carriage of any person, includes any form of consideration received or to be received wholly or partly in connection with the carriage, irrespective of the person by whom or to whom the consideration has been or is to be given: Finance Act 1994 s 43(1).

17 Ibid s 31(5).

18 The particulars of a flight so prescribed are: (1) the airport from which the passenger intends to depart; (2) the date and time of his intended departure; and (3) the airport at which he intends to arrive: Air Passenger Duty Regulations 1994, SI 1994/1738, reg 11(2).

806. Meaning of 'passenger'.

In relation to any aircraft, 'passenger' means:

2032 (1) where the operator¹ is an air transport undertaking², any person carried on the aircraft other than a member of the flight crew, a cabin attendant or a person who is not carried for reward³, who is an employee of any aircraft operator and who satisfies such other requirements as may be prescribed, that is to say:

161. (a) the employee is engaged in relevant duties⁴, or performing on-board services⁵, at the time he is carried;

162. (b) the employee will, within the 72 hours next following the end of his flight, act as a member of a flight crew, act as a cabin attendant, be engaged in relevant duties, or perform on-board services, on or in respect of any aircraft; or

163. (c) the employee is returning to his base⁶ and has, within the 72 hours immediately preceding the beginning of his flight, acted as a member of a flight crew, acted as a cabin attendant, been engaged in relevant duties, or performed on-board services, on or in respect of any aircraft; and

2033 (2) in any other case, any person carried on the aircraft for reward⁷.

1 For these purposes, 'operator', in relation to any aircraft, means the person having the management of the aircraft for the time being: Finance Act 1994 s 43(1).

2 For these purposes, 'air transport undertaking' means an undertaking whose business includes the undertaking of flights for the purpose of the public transport of passengers or cargo: ibid s 43(1); Air Navigation Order 2005, SI 2005/1970, art 155(1).

3 For the meaning of 'reward' see PARA 805 note 16 ante.

4 For these purposes, 'relevant duties' means: (1) repair, maintenance, safety or security work; or (2) ensuring the hygienic preparation and handling of food and drink: Air Passenger Duty Regulations 1994, SI 1994/1738, reg 12(2).

807. Meaning of 'connected flight'.

Successive flights¹ are connected if, and only if, they are treated under an order² as connected³; and the following provisions are to be used, in respect of the transfer of a passenger, for determining whether successive flights are to be treated⁴ as connected⁵.

In the case of a passenger who transfers to an aircraft on which he is carried domestically⁶ ('the Case A rule'), the passenger's previous flight ('flight A') and the next flight after it on his journey ('flight B') on which he is carried domestically are connected: (1) where the scheduled time⁷ of arrival of flight A falls in the period after midnight to 0400 hours, if the booked time of departure of flight B is by or at 1000 hours on the scheduled day⁸ of arrival of flight A (category number 1); (2) where the scheduled time of arrival of flight A falls in the period after 0400 hours to 1700 hours, if the booked time of departure of flight B is within the period of six hours of the scheduled time of arrival of flight A (category number 2); (3) where the scheduled time of arrival of flight A falls in the period after 1700 to midnight, if the booked time of departure of flight B is by or at 1000 hours on the day following the scheduled day of arrival of flight A (category number 3)⁹.

In the case of a passenger who transfers to an aircraft on which he is carried internationally¹⁰ ('the Case B rule'), the passenger's previous flight ('flight A') and the next flight ('flight B') on which he is carried internationally are connected if the booked time of departure of flight B falls within the period of 24 hours starting at the scheduled time of arrival of flight A¹¹.

1 For the meaning of 'flight' see PARA 805 note 3 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'order' see PARA 802 note 2 ante. As to the making of orders see PARA 802 note 2 ante.

3 Finance Act 1994 ss 30(8), 43(1).

4 Ie for the purposes of ibid s 30(6) (see PARA 808 post) and s 31(3) (see PARA 805 ante).

5 Air Passenger Duty (Connected Flights) Order 1994, SI 1994/1821, art 3.

6 For these purposes, a passenger is carried domestically where the booked airport for the beginning and ending of his flight is in the United Kingdom: ibid art 2, Schedule para 1 note (3) (amended by SI 2001/809). 'Booked', in relation to a time or an airport, means the time or the airport that is specified expressly and correctly on the passenger's ticket at the time it is issued or last amended, by reference to the journey to be undertaken by the passenger constituted wholly or partly by flight A and flight B: Air Passenger Duty (Connected Flights) Order 1994, SI 1994/1821, art 2, Schedule para 1 note (1). 'Ticket' means the ticket in the form of a coupon, or the coupon (as it is sometimes called in the airline industry), issued for the passenger in relation to his intended flight specifying the time of, and the airport of, departure for that flight: Schedule para 1 note (7). For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 note 6 ante.

7 For these purposes, 'scheduled', in relation to a time, means the time indicated in the operator's timetable for the flight in question at the time the passenger's ticket is issued or last amended: ibid Schedule para 1 note (4)(a).

8 For these purposes, 'scheduled', in relation to the day of arrival, means the day of arrival indicated in the operator's timetable for the flight in question at the time the passenger's ticket is issued or last amended: ibid Schedule para 1 note (4)(b).

9 Ibid Schedule para 1. If the ticket does not specify correctly and expressly the time or the airport in question, having regard to the journey undertaken by the passenger which is constituted wholly or partly by flight A or flight B (so that the flights in question are not connected), then those flights are nevertheless connected where the aircraft operator who would otherwise be liable for the air passenger duty in question satisfies the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs that, had the ticket in question been correctly and expressly specified with the time or the airport in question, the two flights A and B would have been connected by virtue of the Case A rule: Schedule para 1 note (2). As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

Notwithstanding the effect of the Case A rule that, but for this provision, would result, flight A and flight B are not connected: (1) where the booked airport of departure of flight A is the same airport as the booked airport of arrival of flight B; or (2) where the ticket for flight A and the ticket for flight B are not conjunction tickets: Schedule para 1 note (5). For the purpose of head (2) supra, the two tickets in question are only conjunction tickets at the time of issue or when last amended: (a) if those tickets are contained in one booklet of tickets; or (b) in the case of each of those tickets being contained in a separate booklet of tickets, if each of those booklets is referable to the other by virtue of a statement on each to the effect that each is to be read in conjunction with the other or each booklet or each ticket in question has as part of it a summary of the flights of the passenger constituting his journey, which includes the flights in question: Schedule para 1 note (6).

10 For these purposes, a passenger is carried internationally where his flight begins at an airport in one country and ends at an airport in another country; and for these purposes the United Kingdom is a country: ibid Schedule para 2 note (2).

11 Ibid Schedule para 2. The provisions in the Schedule para 1 notes (1), (2), (4)(a), (5)(b), (6), (7) are to be used for the interpretation and application of Schedule para 2: Schedule para 2 note (1). Notwithstanding the effect of the Case B rule, that, but for this provision, would result, flight A and flight B are not connected where the airport at which the passenger first boards the aircraft for flight A is in the same country as that at which the passenger finally disembarks from the aircraft for flight B: Schedule para 2 note (3).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(13) AIR PASSENGER DUTY/(iii) Rate of Duty/808. Rate of duty.

(iii) Rate of Duty

808. Rate of duty.

Air passenger duty is chargeable on the carriage¹ of each chargeable passenger² at the rate determined in accordance with the following provisions³:

- 2034 (1) if the place where the passenger's journey⁴ ends is in the area bounded by the meridians of longitude 32°W and 45°E and the parallels of latitude 26°N and 81°N and in the United Kingdom or another EEA state⁵ or any territory for whose external relations the United Kingdom or another member state is responsible or any qualifying territory⁶, then if the passenger's agreement for carriage provides for standard class travel⁷ in relation to every flight on his journey, the rate is £10 and otherwise it is £20⁸;
- 2035 (2) in a case not falling within head (1) above then if the passenger's agreement for carriage provides for standard class travel in relation to every flight on his journey, the rate is £40, and otherwise it is £80⁹.

2 For the meaning of 'chargeable passenger' see PARA 805 ante.

3 Finance Act 1994 s 30(1) (amended by the Finance Act 2000 s 18(1), (2)).

4 For the meaning of 'journey' see PARA 805 note 11 ante. A person's flight is to be treated as ending when he finally disembarks from the aircraft: Finance Act 1994 s 28(5). The journey of a passenger whose agreement for carriage is evidenced by a ticket ends at his final place of destination: s 30(5). Where, however, in the case of such a passenger, his journey includes two or more flights and any of those flights is not followed by a connected flight, his journey ends where the first flight not followed by a connected flight ends: s 30(6). The journey of any passenger whose agreement for carriage is not evidenced by a ticket ends where his flight ends: s 30(7). For the meaning of 'agreement for carriage' see PARA 805 note 7 ante; for the meaning of 'ticket' see PARA 805 note 8 ante; for the meaning of 'flight' see PARA 805 note 3 ante; and for the meaning of 'connected flight' see PARA 807 ante.

5 For these purposes, 'EEA state' means a state which is a contracting party to the EEA Agreement but until the EEA Agreement comes into force in relation to Liechtenstein does not include the state of Liechtenstein; and for these purposes 'EEA Agreement' means the Agreement on the European Economic Area signed at Oporto on 2 May 1992 (OJ L1, 3.1.94, p 3; Cm 2073) as adjusted by the Protocol signed at Brussels on 17 March 1993 (OJ L1, 3.1.94, p 572) (see PARA 8 ante); Finance Act 1994 s 30(9) (added with retrospective effect by the Finance Act 1995 s 15(1), (3)). For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 note 6 ante.

(iv) Persons liable for the Duty

A. AIRCRAFT OPERATORS

809. Registration of aircraft operators.

Air passenger duty is to be paid¹ by the operator² of the aircraft³.

The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs must keep a register of aircraft operators⁴. The operator of a chargeable aircraft⁵ becomes liable to be registered if the aircraft is used for the carriage⁶ of any chargeable passengers⁷; but a person who has become liable to be so registered ceases to be so liable if the Commissioners are satisfied at any time that he no longer operates any chargeable aircraft or that no chargeable aircraft which he operates will be used for the carriage of chargeable passengers⁸.

A person who is not so registered and has not duly given notice⁹ must, if he becomes liable to be so registered at any time, give written notice in such form, in such manner and containing such information as the Commissioners may direct of that fact to the Commissioners not later than the end of the seventh day following that on which he became liable to be registered¹⁰. If a person who is required so to give notice fails to do so, his failure attracts a civil penalty under the Finance Act 1994¹¹ which, if any amount of duty is then due from him and unpaid, must be calculated by reference to that amount¹².

Regulations¹³ may make provision as to the information to be included in, and the correction of, the register of aircraft operators¹⁴. In particular, the regulations may provide:

- 2036 (1) for the inclusion in the register of persons who have not given notice of their liability to register¹⁵ to the Commissioners but appear to the Commissioners to be liable to be registered;
- 2037 (2) for persons who are liable to be registered not to be included in, or to be removed from, the register in prescribed circumstances;
- 2038 (3) for the removal from the register of persons who have ceased to be so liable; and
- 2039 (4) for the time from which the entry in the register is to be effective, which may be earlier than the time when the entry is first made in the register¹⁶.

810. Registration of operators.

The register¹ must contain the following information:

- 2040 (1) a unique reference number assigned to the operator by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs;
- 2041 (2) the name and, if different, the trading name of the operator;
- 2042 (3) the address of the operator's principal or only place of business, including any postcode in the United Kingdom² or, if he does not have any place of business in the United Kingdom, elsewhere;
- 2043 (4) if he has one, the operator's telephone number and, if different, his telephone number for facsimile transmissions;
- 2044 (5) the date on which the Commissioners received any notice of liability to register given to them³ and the time from which the operator's entry in the register was effective;
- 2045 (6) if so required⁴, the name and, if different, the trading name of any fiscal representative appointed⁵ to act for the operator⁶.

Where an operator is included in the register, that entry is effective from the first day of the month in which he became liable to be registered⁷.

Where an operator has not given notice of his liability to be registered but it appears to the Commissioners that he is liable to be registered, they must include him in the register⁸.

Where an operator is included in the register, the Commissioners must furnish him with a certificate of registration containing the information included in the entry in the register relating to the operator to whom it is furnished ('relevant information')⁹.

A registered operator must give notice of any change in any relevant information within 30 days of the change by returning his certificate of registration to the Commissioners with the change recorded on it¹⁰. Where a certificate of registration is so returned to them, the Commissioners must correct the register and furnish the registered operator with a new certificate of registration¹¹.

1 For these purposes, 'the register' means the register of operators which the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs are required to keep by virtue of the Finance Act 1994 s 33(1) (see PARA 809 ante): Air Passenger Duty Regulations 1994, SI 1994/1738, reg 2(1). 811. Removal from the register.

Where:

2046 (1) a registered operator¹ gives the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs² notice in writing that he has ceased to operate chargeable aircraft³; or

2047 (2) a registered operator has not within the preceding six months operated chargeable aircraft and it appears to the Commissioners that he will not within the next 12 months operate chargeable aircraft, he must be removed from the register⁴.

A registered operator must not be removed from the register if he owes any air passenger duty to the Commissioners⁵.

B. FISCAL REPRESENTATIVES

812. Fiscal representatives.

An aircraft operator¹ who is or is liable to be registered is required to have a fiscal representative² unless:

- 2048 (1) he has any business establishment or other fixed establishment in the United Kingdom; or
- 2049 (2) if he is an individual, he has his usual place of residence in the United Kingdom³.

If any aircraft operator who is required to have a fiscal representative fails to appoint such a representative before the prescribed time, his failure attracts a civil penalty⁴ under the Finance Act 1994⁵.

Where any person is appointed to be the fiscal representative of any aircraft operator (his 'principal'), the fiscal representative:

- 2050 (a) is entitled to act on his principal's behalf for any of the purposes of the enactments relating to duty;
- 2051 (b) must, subject to such provisions as may be made by regulations⁶, secure, where appropriate by acting on his principal's behalf, his principal's compliance with and discharge of the obligations and liabilities to which his principal is subject by virtue of those enactments; and
- 2052 (c) is personally liable in respect of any failure of his principal to comply with or discharge any such obligation or liability as if the obligations and liabilities imposed on his principal were imposed jointly and severally on the fiscal representative and his principal⁷.

A fiscal representative is not, however, liable himself to be registered⁸, but regulations may:

- 2053 (i) require the names of fiscal representatives to be shown in such manner as may be prescribed against the names of their principals in the register of aircraft operators; and
- 2054 (ii) make it the duty of a fiscal representative, for the purposes of registration, to notify the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs, within such period as may be prescribed, that his appointment has taken effect or has ceased to have effect⁹.

Any failure of a fiscal representative to give any notice which he is required to give by regulations under head (ii) above attracts a civil penalty¹⁰ under the Finance Act 1994¹¹.

Regulations may make provision about the manner in which a person is to be appointed as a fiscal representative and the circumstances in which a person is to be treated as having ceased to be a fiscal representative¹².

- 1 For the meaning of 'operator' see PARA 806 note 1 ante.
- 2 For these purposes, 'fiscal representative', in relation to an aircraft operator, means a person who meets the requirements of the Finance Act 1994 s 34(3) (see heads (1)-(2) in the text) and stands appointed by the operator for the purposes of s 34: ss 34(2), 43(1).

Any decision under regulations made by virtue of the Finance Act 1994 s 33 (see PARA 809 ante) to show, or not to show, the name of any person as a fiscal representative in the register kept under s 33 or to remove a name from the register is subject to review and to appeal to a VAT and duties tribunal: see ss 14(1)(d), (2)-(7), 15, 16 (as amended), Sch 5 para 9(b); and PARAS 1240, 1242, 1252 et seq post.

813. Appointment of fiscal representatives.

An operator¹ who is required to have a fiscal representative must appoint such a representative:

- 2055 (1) within seven days of the day on which he is required² to have a fiscal representative; or
- 2056 (2) where a fiscal representative ceases to act for him and he continues to be required³ to have a fiscal representative, within seven days of the day on which his representative ceased to act for him⁴.

A fiscal representative must give to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs written notice of his appointment, within seven days of his being appointed⁵. Such a notice must contain the following information:

- 2057 (a) the name and, if different, the trading name of the fiscal representative;
- 2058 (b) the address of the fiscal representative's principal or only place of business in the United Kingdom⁶, including his postcode;
- 2059 (c) if he has one, the fiscal representative's telephone number and, if different, his telephone number for facsimile transmissions;
- 2060 (d) the name and, if different, the trading name of the operator for whom he is acting ('his principal');
- 2061 (e) the date on which he was appointed to act for his principal⁷.

Where the Commissioners receive notice that a person has been appointed as the fiscal representative of an operator, they must include his name in the entry in the register⁸ relating to that operator⁹.

814. Ceasing to act as a fiscal representative.

Where a person ceases to act as a fiscal representative for an operator¹, he must, within seven days, give written notice of that fact to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs².

A person is to be treated as having ceased to act as a fiscal representative if:

- 2062 (1) he gives notice in accordance with the above provisions;
- 2063 (2) his principal gives the Commissioners notice that his appointment is terminated;
- 2064 (3) he is imprisoned in pursuance of the order of any court, whether in the United Kingdom³ or elsewhere;

815. Fiscal representatives appointed for administrative purposes only.

Where:

- 2067 (1) the appointment of any person to be the fiscal representative¹ of an aircraft operator² contains a statement that the appointment is made for administrative purposes only;
- 2068 (2) the operator has complied with any obligations for the provision of security imposed, in relation to appointments containing such statements, by any general directions given by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs³; and
- 2069 (3) the operator is not for the time being in contravention of any requirement to provide any security that he is required to provide⁴, no requirement is to be taken to be imposed⁵ on the representative to secure the payment of amounts of duty⁶ which are or may become due from his principal or to make him personally liable either to pay any such amounts or in respect of any failure by his principal to pay them⁷.

1 For the meaning of 'fiscal representative' see PARA 812 note 2 ante.

3 The security that may be required by general directions given by the Commissioners for these purposes is any such security for the payment of amounts of duty which are or may become due from the person providing the security as may be determined in accordance with the directions: Finance Act 1994 s 34A(3) (s 34A added by the Finance Act 1998 s 15(1)). The power of the Commissioners under the Finance Act 1994 s 36 (see PARA 818 post) to require the provision of security does not include any power to require a fiscal representative of an aircraft operator whose appointment has effect in accordance with s 34A(2) (as added) to provide any security for the payment of amounts of duty which are or may become due from his principal: s 34A(4) (as so added). Where:

- 2070 (1) any amount of duty becomes payable at any time by the operator¹ of an aircraft and, within the period of 90 days beginning with that time, that amount, or any other amount which becomes payable by him within the period, is not paid²; or
- 2071 (2) any operator of an aircraft who is required to have a fiscal representative³ fails to appoint such a representative before the prescribed time⁴, the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may give notice under the following provisions to any handling agent⁵ of his⁶.

Such a notice:

- 2072 (a) may be given on the ground referred to in head (1) above only if the Commissioners consider it necessary to do so for the protection of the revenue; and
- 2073 (b) may at any time be withdrawn by the Commissioners⁷.

Such a notice becomes effective on the date stated in it or, if later, the time when the notice is received by the handling agent and continues to be effective until withdrawn⁸. If, where a notice so given to a handling agent is effective:

- 2074 (i) the allocation of seats to passengers on aircraft operated by his principal, or the supervision of the boarding of such aircraft by passengers, is carried out in pursuance of arrangements made by him under any agreement with his principal; and
- 2075 (ii) any duty payable in respect of those passengers is not paid, the handling agent is liable jointly and severally with his principal for the payment of the duty⁹.

Any person from whom any duty is due must pay the duty at such time and in such manner as may be prescribed or specified in a notice published by the Commissioners⁶.

818. Security for payment of duty.

The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs¹ may require any operator² of an aircraft who is or is liable to be registered³ or any fiscal representative⁴ to provide such security⁵, or further security, as they may think appropriate for the payment of any air passenger duty which is or may become due from the operator⁶. Returns must be furnished to the Commissioners at such place as they have⁷ specified⁸.

1 For the meaning of 'operator' see PARA 810 note 1 ante.

821. Schemes for simplifying operation of reliefs etc.

If, in the opinion of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs¹, it is expedient to do so in the light of difficulties encountered or expected to be encountered by any registered operator² in obtaining and recording information about passengers and their journeys³, they may, in accordance with the following provisions, prepare a scheme for the registered operator⁴.

Any scheme so prepared must specify the period for which it is to have effect⁵. A scheme may be either a standard scheme or an extended scheme⁶.

A standard scheme for a registered operator must relate only to passengers:

- 2080 (1) who are carried on chargeable aircraft⁷ operated by that operator;
- 2081 (2) whose flights begin in the United Kingdom⁸; and
- 2082 (3) who are not passengers⁹ who are children or not carried for reward¹⁰.

A standard scheme for a registered operator must provide, in relation to passengers who are relevant passengers of his¹¹ in the period specified in the scheme, for methods of calculating:

- 2083 (a) how many of those relevant passengers may be treated as passengers who are not chargeable passengers¹²; and
- 2084 (b) how many of them may be treated as passengers on the carriage¹³ of whom duty is chargeable¹⁴ at the rate of £10 and how many at the rate of £20¹⁵.

An extended scheme for a registered operator must relate to all persons who are carried on chargeable aircraft operated by that operator and in circumstances where the aircraft take off in the United Kingdom¹⁶; and it must provide, in relation to persons travelling with him¹⁷ in the period specified in the scheme, for methods of calculating:

- 2085 (i) how many of them may be treated as persons who are not passengers;
- 2086 (ii) how many of them may be treated as passengers who are not chargeable passengers; and
- 2087 (iii) how many of them may be treated as passengers on the carriage of whom duty is chargeable¹⁸ at the rate of £10 and how many at the rate of £20¹⁹.

A calculation provided for by the scheme may be provided by reference to such factors as appear to the Commissioners to be expedient in the circumstances, including, in particular, information derived from surveys of persons carried on chargeable aircraft operated by the operator for whom the scheme is prepared or relating to airports²⁰ and routes used by that operator²¹.

No scheme prepared in accordance with the above provisions is of any effect unless the registered operator for whom it is prepared elects in writing to be bound by it for the specified period²²; and, if the registered operator makes such an election, the scheme has effect for the specified period²³.

Regulations²⁴ may make further provision with respect to schemes under the above provisions, including, in particular, provision amending the above provisions²⁵.

UPDATE

821 Schemes for simplifying operation of reliefs etc

TEXT AND NOTES--Replaced. If the Commissioners for Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs consider that, having regard to difficulties encountered or expected to be encountered by any registered operator in obtaining and recording information about passengers and their journeys, it is appropriate for the Finance Act 1994 Pt I Ch IV (ss 28-44) to have effect in relation to that operator in accordance with a special accounting scheme: s 39(1) (s 39 substituted by Finance Act 2009 Sch 5 para 3). The Commissioners may agree with the registered operator that Pt I Ch IV is to have effect in relation to that operator in accordance with a special accounting scheme agreed between the Commissioners and the operator (but subject to s 39(4): s 39(2). A special accounting scheme is a scheme which makes provision for methods of calculating (1) how many persons are to be regarded for the purposes of Pt I Ch IV as chargeable passengers carried by chargeable aircraft operated by a registered operator; and (2) how many of those are to be so regarded as having been so carried on journeys in respect of which air passenger duty is chargeable at any particular rate: s 39(3). The Commissioners may publish a notice specifying terms and conditions subject to which special accounting schemes are to have effect: s 39(4). Where the Commissioners and the registered operator have agreed that Pt I Ch IV is to have effect in relation to that operator in accordance with a special accounting scheme, those provisions have effect in relation to that operator in accordance with the scheme (and with any notice under s 49(4) which has been published by the Commissioners and not withdrawn) for the period agreed by the Commissioners and that operator: s 39(5). The Commissioners and the registered operator may at any time agree to vary the special accounting scheme for the future: s 39(6). The Commissioners may at any time terminate the operation of the special accounting scheme (a) on the application of the registered operator; or (b) if they have reasonable grounds for doing so, by giving notice (see PARA 822 NOTE 7) to the registered operator: Finance Act 1994 s 39(7).

No agreement under the above provisions for a special accounting scheme to apply may have effect as respects the carriage of passengers beginning before 1 November 2009, and nothing in the Finance Act 2009 Sch 5 affects the continuing operation of, or of schemes prepared under, s 39 as it had effect immediately before the Finance Act 2009 was passed (ie 21 July 2009): Sch 5 para 8.

(vii) Administration and Enforcement

A. IN GENERAL

822. Application of excise enactments.

The Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 has effect for the purposes of the provisions as to air passenger duty¹ in relation to:

- 2088 (1) any person who is or is liable to be registered²;
- 2089 (2) any fiscal representative³; and
- 2090 (3) any handling agent⁴ where a notice given to him⁵ to pay any duty is effective, as it has effect in relation to revenue traders⁶, but subject to certain modifications⁷.

1. In relation to the purposes of the Finance Act 1994 Pt I Ch IV (ss 28-44), Sch 6 (as amended): see PARA 802 et seq ante.

2. As to registration see PARA 809 et seq ante.

3. For the meaning of 'fiscal representative' see PARA 812 note 2 ante.

4. For the meaning of 'handling agent' see PARA 816 note 5 ante.

5. In relation to the Finance Act 1994 s 37: see PARA 816 ante.

6. As to revenue traders see PARA 627 et seq ante.

7. Finance Act 1994 s 40(2), Sch 6 para 1(1). The modifications are those mentioned in Sch 6 paras 1(2), 2-4: Sch 6 para 1(1).

The Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 has effect, in relation to any person to whom the Finance Act 1994 Sch 6 para 1(1) applies, as if: (1) the reference in the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 112(1) (as amended) (power of entry: see PARA 631 ante) to vehicles included aircraft; (2) s 116 (as amended) (payment of duty: see PARA 635 ante) were omitted; (3) in s 117 (as amended) (execution and distress: see PARA 636 ante) the references to goods liable to any excise duty included tickets and the references to the trade in respect of which duty is imposed were to the trade or business by virtue of which the Finance Act 1994 Sch 6 para 1(1) applies to him; and (4) any power under the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 118B(1)(b) (as added) (see PARA 641 ante) to require any person who is or is liable to be registered to produce or cause to be produced any such documents as are referred to in s 118B(1) (as added and amended) included power to require his fiscal representative to produce them: Finance Act 1994 Sch 6 para 1(2). The Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 118B (as added and amended) has effect for the purposes of the Finance Act 1994 Pt I Ch I and Sch 6 (as amended) in relation to any person who, in the course of a trade or business carried on by him, issues or arranges for the issue of tickets as if he were a revenue trader and the references to services supplied by or to him in the course or furtherance of a business were to services supplied by or to him in the course of issuing or arranging for the issue of tickets: Sch 6 para 2. For the meaning of 'ticket' see PARA 805 note 8 ante.

A notice may require any person to whom Sch 6 para 1 applies to furnish, at specified times and in the specified form, any such information to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs as he could be required by the Commissioners to furnish under the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 118B(1) (as added and amended); and any such requirement has effect as a requirement under s 118B (as added and amended): Finance Act 1994 Sch 6 para 3(1). A notice may require any person to whom Sch 6 para 1 or Sch 6 para 2 applies to produce or cause to be produced for inspection by an officer, at specified places and times, any such documents as he could be required by the officer to produce under the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 118B(1) (as added and amended); and any such requirement has effect as a requirement under s 118B (as added and amended): Finance Act 1994 Sch 6 para 3(2). For these purposes, 'notice' means a notice published, and not withdrawn, by the Commissioners; and 'specified' means specified in such a notice: Sch 6 para 3(3). As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

In relation to any person to whom Sch 6 para 1 or Sch 6 para 2 applies: (a) the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 has effect as if 'document' had the same meaning as in the Finance Act 1994 Pt I Ch IV (as amended) (see PARA 805 note 8 ante); and (b) the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 and the Finance Act 1994 Sch 6 (as amended) have effect as if any reference to the production of any document, in the case of information recorded otherwise than in legible form, were to producing a copy of the information in legible form: Sch 6 para 4.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(13) AIR PASSENGER DUTY/(vii) Administration and Enforcement/A. IN GENERAL/823. Information.

823. Information.

Any person having the management of an airport¹ must, if required to do so by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs:

- 2091 (1) give notice to the Commissioners, within such time and in such form as they may reasonably require, stating whether or not he holds or has at any time held any information relating to the following matters:
- 99
- 164. (a) whether or not any aircraft is a chargeable aircraft²;
 - 165. (b) who is the operator³ of any aircraft;
 - 166. (c) whether or not any person is a handling agent⁴ of the operator of any aircraft; and
 - 167. (d) whether or not any air passenger duty is payable on the carriage⁵ of any person and, if so, the amount of duty,
- 100
- 2092 and, if he does or has done, stating the general nature of the information; and
- 2093 (2) furnish to the Commissioners, within such time and in such form as they may reasonably require, such information relating to such matters as they may reasonably specify⁶.

Any such person must, if required to do so by an officer⁷, produce any documents⁸ relating to the matters referred to in heads (1) and (2) above, or cause them to be produced, for inspection by that officer⁹. Documents so produced must be produced, at such time as the officer may reasonably require, at the principal place of business of the person required to produce them or cause them to be produced or at such other place as the officer may reasonably require¹⁰.

An officer may take copies of, or make extracts from, any document produced under the above provisions¹¹.

If it appears to an officer to be necessary to do so, he may, at a reasonable time and for a reasonable period, remove any document produced under the above provisions¹². Where an officer so removes a document, then:

- 2094 (i) if the person from whom it is removed so requests, the officer must give him a receipt for the document;
- 2095 (ii) if the document is reasonably required for the proper conduct of any business, the officer must, as soon as practicable, provide a copy of the document, free of charge, to the person by whom it was produced or caused to be produced; and
- 2096 (iii) if the document is lost or damaged, the Commissioners are liable to compensate the owner for any expenses reasonably incurred by him in replacing or repairing it¹³.

Any failure by a person having the management of an airport to comply with a requirement imposed under the above provisions attracts a civil penalty¹⁴ under the Finance Act 1994¹⁵.

825. Interest payable.

Where an assessment of air passenger duty due from any person ('the person assessed') is made¹ and any of the following conditions, that is to say:

2102 (1) that the assessment relates to an accounting period² in respect of which either a return has previously been made or an earlier assessment has already been notified to the person assessed; or is fulfilled, the whole of the amount assessed carries interest at the applicable rate³ from the reckonable date⁴ until payment⁵.

In a case where:

2104 (a) the circumstances are such that an assessment of duty due from any person could have been made and, if it had been made, the conditions in heads (1) and (2) above would have been fulfilled; but

2105 (b) before such an assessment was made the duty was paid (so that no such assessment was necessary),

Where, however, on an appeal by any person ('the appellant') to a tribunal⁹ against an assessment of duty, it is found that the whole or any part of the duty was due from him and the amount due, or any part of that amount, has not been paid and no cash security¹⁰ has been given for it, that amount or, as the case may be, that part of it carries interest at such rate as the tribunal may determine from the reckonable date¹¹ until payment¹²; and interest must be paid without any deduction of income tax¹³.

826. Assessment of interest.

Where air passenger duty due from any person for an accounting period carries interest¹, the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may assess that person to an amount of interest in accordance with the following provisions².

Notice of the assessment must be given to the person liable for the interest or to a representative³ of his⁴.

The amount of interest must be calculated by reference to a period ending on a date ('the due date') no later than the date of the notice⁵. The notice must specify:

- 2106 (1) the amount of the duty which carries the interest assessed ('the specified duty');
- 2107 (2) the amount of the interest assessed ('the specified interest');
- 2108 (3) the due date; and
- 2109 (4) a date by which that amount is required to be paid ('the payment date')⁶.

Where the specified duty or any part of it is unpaid on the date of the notice: (a) if the unpaid amount or any part of it is paid by the payment date, the payment is to be treated⁷ as made on the due date⁸; (b) to the extent that the unpaid amount is not paid by the payment date, an assessment may be made under these provisions in respect of any interest on the unpaid amount which accrues after the due date⁹.

A notice of interest assessed under the above provisions may be combined in one document with notification of an assessment by the Commissioners¹⁰ which relates to the specified duty¹¹. A notice which is so combined must comply with the above requirements which relate to a notice which is not so combined¹².

The specified interest is recoverable as if it were duty due from the person assessed to that interest¹³.

827. Setting of rates of interest.

The rate of interest payable to or by the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs in connection with air passenger duty¹ is the rate which is for those purposes provided for by regulations made by the Treasury².

Such regulations may:

- 2110 (1) make different provision for different enactments or for different purposes of the same enactment;
- 2111 (2) either themselves specify a rate of interest for the purposes of an enactment or make provision for any such rate to be determined, and to change from time to time, by reference to such rate or the average of such rates as may be referred to in the regulations;
- 2112 (3) provide for rates to be reduced below, or increased above, what they otherwise would be by specified amounts or by reference to specified formulae;
- 2113 (4) provide for rates arrived at by reference to averages or formulae to be rounded up or down;
- 2114 (5) provide for circumstances in which changes of rates of interest are or are not to take place; and
- 2115 (6) provide that changes of rates are to have effect for periods beginning on or after a day determined in accordance with the regulations in relation to interest running from before that day, as well as in relation to interest running from, or from after, that day³.

The power to make such regulations is exercisable by statutory instrument subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of the House of Commons⁴.

Where:

- 2116 (a) such regulations provide, without specifying the rate determined in accordance with the regulations, for a new method of determining the rate applicable for the purposes of any enactment; or
- 2117 (b) the rate which, in accordance with regulations under the above provisions, is the rate applicable for the purposes of any enactment changes otherwise than by virtue of the making of regulations specifying a new rate, the Commissioners must make an order specifying the new rate and the day from which, in accordance with the regulations, it has effect⁵.

The applicable rate of interest payable to the Commissioners in connection with air passenger duty⁶ is 8.5 per cent per annum⁷. Where, however, on any reference day⁸ on or after 6 July 1998 the reference rate⁹ found on that day differs from the established rate¹⁰, the applicable rate of interest is, from the next operative day, the percentage per annum determined in accordance with the prescribed formula¹¹.

The applicable rate of interest payable by the Commissioners in connection with air passenger duty¹² is 5 per cent per annum¹³. Where, however, on any reference day on or after 6 July 1998 the reference rate found on that date differs from the established rate, the applicable rate of interest is, from the next operative day, the percentage per annum determined in accordance with the prescribed formula¹⁴.

Where the applicable rate changes on an operative day, that charge has effect for periods beginning on or after the operative day in relation to interest running from before that day as well as in relation to interest running from, or from after, that day¹⁵. Where the applicable rate changes on an operative day, the rate in force immediately prior to any change continues to have effect for periods immediately prior to the change and so on in the case of any number of successive changes¹⁶.

- 2133 (b) a copy of the surveys of passengers by reference to which the calculation provided for by the scheme will be made;
- 2134 (c) such other documents as appear to the Commissioners to be relevant to the calculations provided for by the scheme and which are specified in a notice published by them and not withdrawn by a further notice⁸.

D. OFFENCES

833. Offences.

A person who is knowingly concerned in the fraudulent evasion, by him or another person, of air passenger duty or in taking steps with a view to such fraudulent evasion, is guilty of an offence and liable on conviction to a penalty¹.

A person who in connection with such duty:

2135 (1) makes a statement that he knows to be false in a material particular or recklessly makes a statement that is false in a material particular; or is guilty of an offence and liable on conviction to a penalty².

¹ Finance Act 1994 s 41(1). Such a person is liable on conviction on indictment to imprisonment for a term not exceeding seven years or to a penalty of any amount, or to both, or on summary conviction to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months or to a penalty of the statutory maximum or, if greater, treble the amount of the duty evaded or sought to be evaded, or to both: see s 41(2). As to the statutory maximum see PARA 539 note 15 ante.

² Ibid s 41(3). Such a person is liable on conviction on indictment to imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years or to a penalty of any amount, or to both, or on summary conviction to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months or to a penalty of the statutory maximum, or to both: s 41(4).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(14) AGGREGATES LEVY/834. Charge to aggregates levy.

(14) AGGREGATES LEVY

834. Charge to aggregates levy.

The charge to aggregates levy arises whenever a quantity of taxable aggregate is subjected, on or after the commencement date¹, to commercial exploitation in the United Kingdom², at the rate of £1.60 per tonne of aggregate so subjected; and the amount of levy charged on part of a tonne of aggregate³ is the proportionately reduced amount⁴. The person charged with the levy is the person responsible for the aggregate's being so subjected on the occasion concerned⁵.

'Aggregate' means any rock⁶, gravel⁷ or sand, together with whatever substances are for the time being incorporated in the rock, gravel or sand or naturally occur mixed with it; and any quantity of aggregate is, in relation to any occasion on which it is subjected to commercial exploitation, a quantity of taxable aggregate except to the extent that: (1) it is exempt⁸; (2) it has previously been used for construction purposes⁹ (whether before or after the commencement date); (3) it is or is derived from, any aggregate that has already been subjected to a charge to aggregates levy¹⁰; or (4) it is aggregate that on the commencement date is on a site other than: (a) its originating site¹¹; or (b) a site that is required to be registered under the name of a person who is the operator, or one of the operators, of that originating site¹². References to 'aggregate' include references to the spoil, waste, off-cuts and other by-products resulting from the application of any exempt process¹³ to any aggregate, but do not include references to anything else resulting from the application of any such process to any aggregate¹⁴.

Where an agreement to supply a quantity of aggregate to any person has been entered into at any time before the commencement date, and on or after that date aggregates levy is charged on that quantity of aggregate, so much of the agreement as requires any payment to be made to the supplier at the time when or after the charge to levy on that quantity of aggregate arises must be adjusted so as to secure that the cost of discharging the liability to pay the levy, to the extent that it would not otherwise have been borne by the supplier, is borne by the person making the payment¹⁵; and where: (i) an agreement with regard to any sum payable in respect of the use of land (whether the sum is called rent or royalty or otherwise) provides that the amount of the sum is to be calculated by reference to the turnover of the business, or the price received from minerals extracted from the land; (ii) the agreement was entered into before the commencement date; and (iii) the circumstances are such that (had the agreement been made on or after that date) it might reasonably be expected that it would have provided that aggregates levy charged in particular circumstances be ignored in calculating the turnover or price, the agreement is taken to provide that aggregates levy charged in those circumstances be so ignored¹⁶.

The levy imposed on aggregates is not incompatible with the Treaty establishing the European Community (Rome, 25 March 1957; TS 1 (1973); Cmnd 5179) (the 'EC Treaty') arts 25, 87, 90 and 92 (as renumbered): British Aggregates Associates v HM Treasury [2002] EWHC 926 (Admin), [2002] 2 CMLR 1281.

2 For the meaning of 'subjected to commercial exploitation' see PARA 835 post. Where a quantity of aggregate is subjected to exploitation, that exploitation is taken to be in the United Kingdom if, and only if, the aggregate is in the United Kingdom or United Kingdom waters when it is so subjected: Finance Act 2001 s 19(5). For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 note 6 ante.

3 The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may make regulations for determining the weight of any aggregate for the purposes of aggregates levy: ibid ss 23(1), 48(1). The regulations may: (1) prescribe rules for determining the weight; (2) authorise rules for determining the weight to be specified by the Commissioners in a prescribed manner; (3) authorise rules for determining the weight to be agreed between the person charged with the levy and a person acting under the authority of the Commissioners: s 23(2). The regulations may, in particular, provide for the rules so prescribed or authorised to include rules about the method by which, and the time by reference to which, the weight is to be determined, and the discounting of constituents (such as water): s 23(3). The regulations may also include provision that rules specified by virtue of head (2) supra are to have effect only in such cases as may be prescribed by the rules, and are not to have effect in particular cases unless the Commissioners are satisfied that such conditions as may be set out in the rules are met in those cases; and such conditions may be framed by reference to such factors as the Commissioners think fit (such as the consent, in a particular case, of a person acting under the authority of the Commissioners): s 23(4), (5). The regulations may further include provision that where rules are agreed as mentioned in head (3) supra, and the Commissioners believe that they should no longer be applied (whether because they do not give an accurate indication of the weight or are not being fully observed or for some other reason), the Commissioners may direct that the agreed rules no longer have effect: s 23(6). As to regulations generally see PARA 851 post. As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

4 Ibid s 16(1), (2), (4), (6) (amended by the Finance Act 2002 s 132(1), Sch 38 para 2).

5 Finance Act 2001 s 16(3). The persons to be taken for the purposes of these provisions to be responsible for subjecting a quantity of aggregate to exploitation are each of the following: (1) in a case of the exploitation of a quantity of aggregate by its removal from its originating site (see note 11 infra) or from a connected site, the operator (see note 12 infra) of that site; (2) in a case of the exploitation of a quantity of aggregate by its removal from a site falling within s 19(2)(c) (see PARA 835 head (1)(c) post), the operator of the site and, if different, the owner of the aggregate at the time when the removal takes place; (3) in the case of the exploitation of a quantity of aggregate: (a) by its being subjected, at a time when it is not on its originating site or a connected site, to any agreement; or (b) by its being used at such a time for construction purposes (see note 9 infra), the person agreeing to supply it or using it for construction purposes; (4) in the case of the exploitation of a quantity of aggregate: (a) by its being subjected, at a time when it is on its originating site or a connected site, to any agreement; or (b) by its being used at such a time for construction purposes, the person mentioned in head (3) supra and, if different, the operator of that site; (5) in a case of the exploitation of a quantity of aggregate by its being mixed at premises that are not comprised in its originating site or a connected site with any material or substance, the owner of the aggregate at the time when the mixing takes place, and the occupier of the premises where it takes place; (6) in a case of the exploitation of a quantity of aggregate by its being mixed at its originating site or a connected site with any material or substance, the owner of the aggregate at the time when the mixing takes place and, if different, the operator of the site: s 22(1). 'Connected site', in relation to any quantity of aggregate, means any site that falls, in relation to that quantity of aggregate, within s 19(2)(b) (see PARA 835 head (1)(b) post): s 22(4). For the meaning of 'agreement' see PARA 835 note 4 post. As to the supply of a quantity of aggregate see PARA 835 note 4 post. 'Mixed' includes blended; and cognate expressions are to be construed accordingly: s 48(1).

A person who is responsible for subjecting a quantity of aggregate to exploitation is not to be taken for the purposes of these provisions to be responsible for subjecting it to commercial exploitation unless that takes place in the course or furtherance of a business carried on by him: s 22(2). For this purpose, 'business' includes any activity of a government department, local authority or charity: s 22(2) (amended by the Finance Act 2002 Sch 38 para 6). Where by virtue of this provision more than one person is charged with aggregates levy, their liabilities under these provisions as persons charged with the levy are joint and several: Finance Act 2001 s 22(3).

6 'Rock' does not include any rock contained in a quantity of aggregate consisting wholly or mainly of gravel or sand: ibid s 48(1).

7 'Gravel' includes gravel comprising or containing pebbles or stones or both: ibid s 48(1).

8 Aggregate is exempt for these purposes if: (1) it consists wholly of aggregate won by being removed from the ground on the site of any building or proposed building in the course of excavations lawfully carried out: (a) in connection with the modification or erection of the building; and (b) exclusively for the purpose of laying foundations or laying any pipe or cable; (2) it consists wholly of aggregate won: (a) by being removed from the bed of any river, canal or watercourse (whether natural or artificial) or of any channel in or approach to any port or harbour (whether natural or artificial); and (b) in the course of the carrying out of any dredging undertaken exclusively for the purpose of creating, restoring, improving or maintaining that river, canal, watercourse channel or approach; (3) it consists wholly of aggregate won by being removed from the ground along the line or proposed line of any highway or proposed highway and in the course of excavations carried out: (a) for the purpose of improving or maintaining the highway or of constructing the proposed highway; and (b) not for the purpose of extracting that aggregate; (4) it consists wholly of the spoil, waste or other by-products (not including the overburden) resulting from the extraction or other separation from any quantity of aggregate of any china clay or ball clay; or (5) it consists wholly of the spoil from any process by which: (a) coal, lignite, slate or shale; or (b) a substance listed in ibid s 18(3) (see note 13 infra), has been separated from other rock after being extracted or won with that other rock: s 17(3) (amended by the Finance Act 2002 ss 130(1), 131(1), Sch 38 para 3(3)). See Humberside Aggregates and Excavations Ltd v Customs and Excise Comrs [2004] V & DR 388. As to the meaning of 'the site of any building or proposed building' for the purposes of head (1) supra see Customs and Excise Comrs v East Midlands Aggregates Ltd [2004] EWHC 856 (Ch), [2004] STC 1582 (under contract to remove spoil from construction project; building site was entire area on which builders would be working). A quantity of aggregate is also exempt for these purposes if it consists wholly or partly of any one or more of the following, or is part of anything so consisting, ie: (i) coal, lignite, slate or shale; (ii) the spoil or waste from, or other by-products of: (A) any industrial combustion process; or (B) the smelting or refining of metal; (iii) the drill-cuttings resulting from any operations carried out in accordance with a licence granted under the Petroleum Act 1998 (see FUEL AND ENERGY vol 19(3) (2007 Reissue) PARA 1639) or the Petroleum (Production) Act (Northern Ireland) 1964; (iv) anything resulting from works carried out in exercise of powers which are required to be exercised in accordance with, or are conferred by, provision made by or under the New Roads and Street Works Act 1991, the Roads (Northern Ireland) Order 1993, SI 1993/3160, or the Street Works (Northern Ireland) Order 1995, SI 1995/3210; or (v) clay, soil or vegetable or other organic matter: Finance Act 2001 s 17(4) (amended by the Finance Act 2002 Sch 38 para 3(4)). 'Highway' includes any road within the meaning of the Roads (Scotland) Act 1984 or the Road Traffic (Northern Ireland) Order 1995, SI 1995/2994; and 'coal' has the same meaning as in the Coal Industry Act 1994 (see MINES, MINERALS AND QUARRIES vol 31 (2003 Reissue) PARA 50): Finance Act 2001 s 17(7).

9 References to the use of anything for construction purposes are references to either of the following, except in so far as it consists in the application to it of an exempt process (see note 12 infra), ie: (1) using it as material or support in the construction or improvement of any structure; or (2) mixing it with anything as part of the process of producing mortar, concrete, tarmacadam, coated roadstone or any similar construction material: ibid s 48(1), (2). 'Structure' includes roads and paths, the way on which any railway track is, or is to be, laid, and embankments: s 48(1).

10 Aggregate subjected to exploitation in the United Kingdom is for this purpose aggregate that has already been subject to a charge to aggregates levy if, and only if: (1) there has been a previous occasion on which a charge to aggregates levy on that aggregate has arisen; and (2) at least some of the aggregates levy previously so charged is either: (a) levy in respect of which there is or was no entitlement to a tax credit; or (b) levy in respect of which any entitlement to a tax credit is or was an entitlement to a tax credit of an amount less than the amount of the levy charged on it: ibid s 17(5). For the purposes of head (b) supra, any credit the entitlement to which arises in a case which falls within s 30(1)(c) or s 30A (as added) (see PARA 840 post) and which is prescribed for the purposes of this provision is to be disregarded: s 17(6).

11 References, in relation to any aggregate, to its originating site are references: (1) in the case of aggregate which has been won from the seabed of any area of sea in the United Kingdom or United Kingdom waters, to the site where it is first landed after being so won; (2) in the case of aggregate which results from the application of an exempt process (see note 13 infra) to any aggregate, to the site where that process was so applied; (3) in the case of rock, to the site at which it was first subjected to an industrial crushing process; and (4) in any other case, to the site from which the aggregate was won or, as the case may be, from which it was most recently won: ibid s 20(1) (amended by the Finance Act 2002 s 131(3)(a)). Where any aggregate which is on its originating site on the commencement date has been mixed before that date with aggregate the originating site of which would otherwise be different, the site where the mixture is situated on that date is deemed for the purposes of these provisions to be the originating site of all the aggregate comprised in the mixture: Finance Act 2001 s 20(2). References for these purposes to winning any aggregate are references to winning it: (a) by quarrying, dredging, mining or collecting it from any land or area of the seabed; or (b) by separating it in any other manner from any land or area of the seabed in which it is comprised: Finance Act 2001 s 48(3). For these purposes, 'United Kingdom waters' means: (i) the territorial sea adjacent to the United Kingdom; or (ii) any area designated by Order in Council under the Continental Shelf Act 1964 s 1(7) (see FUEL AND ENERGY vol 19(3) (2007 Reissue) PARA 1636): Finance Act 2001 s 48(1). As to the boundaries of the originating site see PARA 836 note 6 post.

12 Ibid s 17(2) (amended by the Finance Act 2002 Sch 38 para 3(1)). For these purposes, the persons operating a site are each of the following: (1) the person who occupies the site; and (2) if a person other than the occupier exercises any right to exercise control over aggregate on that site, that other person; and 'operator' in relation to a site is to be construed accordingly: Finance Act 2001 s 21(1). The reference to exercising control over aggregate on a site is a reference to doing any of the following, ie: (a) winning aggregate from land at that time; (b) carrying out any exempt process at that site; and (c) storing aggregate at that site: s 21(2) (amended by the Finance Act 2002 s 131(3)(b)).

13 For this purpose, 'exempt process' means: (1) the cutting of any rock to produce stone with one or more flat surfaces; (2) any process by which a relevant substance is extracted or otherwise separated (whether as part of the process of winning it from any land or otherwise) from any aggregate; (3) any process for the production of lime or cement from limestone or from limestone and anything else: Finance Act 2001 s 18(2) (amended by the Finance Act 2002 Sch 38 para 4). 'Relevant substance' means anhydrite, ball clay, barites, china clay, feldspar, fireclay, fluorspar, fuller's earth, gems and semi-precious stones, gypsum, any metal or the ore of any metal, muscovite, perlite, potash, pumice, rock phosphates, sodium chloride, talc or vermiculite:

Finance Act 2001 s 18(3) (amended by the Finance Act 2002 Sch 38 para 4). 'Limestone' includes chalk and dolomite: Finance Act 2001 s 48(1). The Treasury may by order made by statutory instrument modify the list of relevant substances by adding any substance to that list or by removing any substance from it, and make any such transitional provision in connection therewith as they may think fit; however, the Treasury may not make such an order by virtue of which any substance ceases to be a relevant substance unless a draft of the order has been laid before Parliament and approved by resolution of the House of Commons; and a statutory instrument containing such an order that has not had to be approved in draft for this purpose is subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of the House of Commons: s 18(4)-(5). 834 Charge to aggregates levy

TEXT AND NOTE 3--Rate £2 per tonne with effect from 1 April 2009: Finance Act 2001 s 16(4) (amended by Finance Act 2008 s 20).

NOTE 8--Also, head (6) it consists wholly of aggregate won by being removed from the ground along the line or proposed line of any railway, tramway or monorail or proposed railway, tramway or monorail and in the course of excavations carried out (a) for the purpose of improving or maintaining the railway, tramway or monorail or of constructing the proposed railway, tramway or monorail, and (b) not for the purpose of extracting that aggregate: Finance Act 2001 s 17(3) (amended by Finance Act 2007 s 22). 'Spoil' in the context of mining and getting of minerals means a substance produced as result of mining or mineral extraction which is not the primary target of operations: MMC Midlands Ltd v Revenue and Customs Comrs [2009] EWHC 683 (Ch), [2009] STC 1969 (primary target of taxpayer's operation was quarrying of limestone and therefore did not fall within the exemption in s 17(3)(f)).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(14) AGGREGATES LEVY/835. Aggregate subjected to commercial exploitation.

835. Aggregate subjected to commercial exploitation.

A quantity of aggregate¹ is subject to exploitation if, and only if:

- 2137 (1) it is removed from: (a) its originating site²; (b) any site which is not its originating site but is registered under the name of a person under whose name that originating site is so registered³; or (c) any site not falling within head (a) or head (b) above to which the quantity of aggregate had been removed for the purposes of having an exempt process applied to it on that site but at which no such process has been applied to it;
- 2138 (2) it becomes subject to an agreement to supply it to any person⁴;
- 2139 (3) it is used for construction purposes⁵; or
- 2140 (4) it is mixed, otherwise than in permitted circumstances⁶, with any material or substance other than water⁷.

The exploitation to which a quantity of aggregate is subjected is taken to be commercial exploitation if, and only if: (i) it is subjected to exploitation in the course or furtherance of a business carried on by the person, or one of the persons, responsible for subjecting it to exploitation; (ii) the exploitation to which it is subjected does not consist in its removal from one registered site⁸ to another in a case where both sites are registered under the name of the same person; (iii) the exploitation to which it is subjected does not consist in or require its removal to a registered site for the purpose of having an exempt process applied to it on that site; (iv) the exploitation to which it is subjected does not consist in or require its removal to any premises for the purpose of having china clay or ball clay extracted or otherwise separated from it on that site; and (v) the exploitation to which it is subjected is not such that, as a result and without its being subjected to any process involving its being mixed with any other substance or material (apart from water) it again becomes part of the land at the site from which it was won⁹.

1 For the meaning of 'aggregate' see PARA 834 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'originating site' see PARA 834 note 11 ante.

3 As to registration see PARA 836 note 3 post.

4 For this purpose, a quantity of aggregate becomes subject to an agreement to supply it to any person: (1) except to the extent that it is not separately identifiable at the time when the agreement is entered into, at that time; and (2) to that extent, at the time when it is appropriated to the agreement; but references in these provisions to the supply of a quantity of aggregate do not include references to any supply which is effected, or is to be effected, by the transfer or creation of any interest or right in or over land: Finance Act 2001 s 19(6). 'Agreement' means any arrangement or understanding (whether or not legally enforceable); and cognate expressions are to be construed accordingly: s 48(1).

5 As to use for construction purposes see PARA 834 note 9 ante.

6 For this purpose, a quantity of aggregate is mixed with a material or substance in permitted circumstances if: (1) the material or substance with which it is mixed consists wholly of a quantity of taxable aggregate that has not previously been subjected to commercial exploitation in the United Kingdom; and (2) the mixing takes place on a site which, in a case where it falls within head (1) in the text in relation to any part of the aggregate included in the mixture, so falls in relation to every part of it: Finance Act 2001 s 19(2), (7). As to the meaning of 'mixed' see PARA 834 note 5 ante. For the meaning of 'taxable aggregate' see PARA 834 ante. For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 note 6 ante.

7 Ibid s 19(1), (2) (amended by the Finance Act 2002 s 132(1), Sch 38 para 5(2)).

8 Ie a site registered in the register maintained under Finance Act 2001 s 24: see PARA 836 post.

9 Ibid s 19(3). For this purpose, 'business' includes any activity of a government department, local authority or charity: s 19(3A) (added by the Finance Act 2002 Sch 38 para 5(3)). Where at the time when any aggregate is won from any site, the same person is in occupation of both that site and other land which is occupied, together with that site, for the purposes of carrying on any agricultural business, or for the purposes of carrying on any forestry business or otherwise for the purposes of forestry, head (v) in the text has effect as if the reference to the land at the site from which the aggregate was won included the other land, so long as it and that site continue to be occupied by that person for such purposes: Finance Act 2001 s 19(4) (amended by the Finance Act 2002 Sch 38 para 5(4)). 'Agricultural' means agricultural within the meaning of the Agriculture Act 1967 (see AGRICULTURAL LAND vol 1 (2008) PARA 324; AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTION AND MARKETING vol 1 (2008) PARA 901); and 'forestry' includes the cultivation, maintenance and care of trees or woodland of any description: Finance Act 2001 s 48(1).

835 Aggregate subjected to commercial exploitation

NOTES--Certain functions under provisions mentioned in this paragraph are 'relevant functions' for the purposes of the Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 4, Sch 3: see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 733.

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(14) AGGREGATES LEVY/836. Registration.

836. Registration.

Aggregates levy is under the care and management of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs¹. It is the duty of the Commissioners to establish and maintain a register of persons who are required to be registered for the purposes of aggregates levy; and a person is required to be so registered if he carries out taxable activities² and is not exempted from registration³. The Commissioners must register a person who is required to be registered for the purposes of aggregates levy with effect from the time when the requirement arose⁴; and where any two or more bodies corporate are members of the same group they must be registered together as one person in the name of the representative member⁵.

The Commissioners must keep such information in the register as they consider it appropriate so to keep for the purposes of the care and management of aggregates levy; and in particular, where it appears to the Commissioners that any person is operating or using any premises, or intends to operate or use any premises: (1) for winning any aggregate; (2) for applying an exempt process to any aggregate; (3) for mixing, otherwise than in permitted circumstances, any aggregate with any material or substance other than water; (4) for storing any aggregate; or (5) for the first landing in the United Kingdom of aggregate won from the seabed of any area of sea in the United Kingdom or United Kingdom waters, they may, if they think fit, register those premises, in any entry relating to that person and under his name, as a registered site⁶.

An unregistered person who: (a) is required to be registered for the purposes of aggregates levy; or (b) has formed the intention of carrying out taxable activities that are registrable, must notify the Commissioners of that fact; and an unregistered person who would be required to be so registered but for an exemption, or has formed the intention of carrying out taxable activities that would be registrable but for such an exemption, must notify the Commissioners of that fact in such circumstances as may be prescribed⁷. If he fails to do so, he is liable to a penalty equal to 5 per cent of the relevant levy⁸ or, if it is greater or the circumstances are such that there is no relevant levy, £250, unless he satisfies the Commissioners or, on appeal, an appeal tribunal⁹, that there is a reasonable excuse for the failure¹⁰. Similarly, a person who, having become liable to give a notification under this provision, ceases (whether before or after being registered) to have the intention of carrying out taxable activities must notify the Commissioners of that fact, on pain of a penalty of £50¹¹.

If the Commissioners are satisfied that a registered person has ceased to carry out taxable activities, and does not have the intention of carrying out such activities, they may cancel his registration with effect from such time after he last carried out such activities as appears to them to be appropriate, whether or not that person has given notification of cessation¹².

The Commissioners may publish, by such means as they think fit, any of the following information derived from the register: (i) the names of registered persons; (ii) particulars of registered sites; (iii) the fact (where it is the case) that a registered person is a body corporate which is a member of a group; (iv) the names of the other bodies corporate which are members of the group¹³.

¹ Finance Act 2001 s 16(5) (amended by virtue of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs Act 2005 s 50(1), (7)). As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

² For this purpose, a person carries out a taxable activity if a quantity of aggregate is subjected to commercial exploitation in the United Kingdom in circumstances in which he is responsible for its being so subjected: Finance Act 2001 s 24(3), (9), Sch 4 para 8. For the meaning of 'aggregate' see PARA 834 ante. As to the meaning of 'subject to commercial exploitation' see PARA 835 ante; and for the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 note 6 ante.

3 Ibid s 24(1), (2). The Commissioners may by regulations provide for persons carrying out taxable activities to be, to such extent and subject to such conditions as may be prescribed by such regulations, either: (1) exempt from the requirement of registration; or (2) exempt from such obligations or liabilities imposed by or under these provisions on persons required to be registered for the purposes of aggregates levy as may be prescribed: s 24(4). Where a registered person is so exempted, and the Commissioners are satisfied that he has been so exempted at all times since being registered, they must cancel his registration with effect from the date of his registration: Sch 4 para 4(7).

The Commissioners may by regulations make provision for and with respect to the correction of entries in the register; and such regulations may, to such extent as appears to the Commissioners appropriate for keeping the register up to date, make provision requiring: (a) registered persons; (b) persons who are required to be registered; and (c) persons who would be so required but for any exemption by virtue of regulations made under s 24(4), to notify the Commissioners of changes in circumstances relating to themselves, their businesses, or any other matter with respect to which particulars are contained in the register (or would be so contained, were the person registered): s 24(9), Sch 4 para 5. As to the regulations that have been made see the Aggregates Levy (Registration and Miscellaneous Provisions) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/4027 (amended by SI 2002/1929; SI 2003/465). As to regulations generally see PARA 851 post.

4 Ie retrospective registration is necessary, particularly in cases of failure to notify registrability.

5 Finance Act 2001 Sch 4 para 2(1), (2). For the meaning of 'representative member' see PARA 845 note 5 post. The registration of a body corporate carrying on a business in several divisions may, if the body corporate so requests and the Commissioners see fit, be in the names of those divisions; and the registration of any two or more persons carrying on a business in partnership, or of an unincorporated body, may be in the name of the firm or body concerned: Sch 4 para 2(3), (4).

6 Ibid s 24(5), (6) (amended by the Finance Act 2002 ss 131(3)(c), 132(1), Sch 38 para 7). For the meaning of 'rock' see PARA 834 note 6 ante; for the meaning of 'exempt process' see PARA 834 note 13 ante; and for the meaning of 'United Kingdom waters' see PARA 834 note 11 ante. For the meaning of 'operate' and related expressions see PARA 834 note 12 ante. As to the permitted circumstances see PARA 835 note 6 ante. Where any premises are so registered as a registered site, the particulars included in the register must set out as the boundaries of that site such boundaries as appear to the Commissioners best to secure that avoidance of levy is not facilitated by the registration of any part of any premises that is not so used or operated; and where any entry in the register at any time specifies that any premises registered under a person's name as a registered site are to be taken to be the originating site of: (1) any aggregate resulting from the carrying out of any exempt process there; or (2) any aggregate won or landed there, any question for the purposes of these provisions as to the boundaries at that time of the originating site of any such aggregate are to be conclusively determined in accordance with that entry: Finance Act 2001 s 24(7), (8) (amended by the Finance Act 2002 s 131(3)(c)). For the meaning of 'originating site' see PARA 834 note 11 ante. As to the inclusion in the register of the names of tax representatives see PARA 844 post.

7 The exemption referred to is any exemption by virtue of regulations made under the Finance Act 2001 s 24(4); and 'prescribed' means prescribed under such regulations: s 48(1). Taxable activities are 'registrable' if a person carrying them out is, by reason of doing so, required by s 24(2) (see the text and notes 2-3 supra) to be registered for the purposes of aggregates levy: Sch 4 para 1(1B) (added by the Finance Act 2002 Sch 38 para 9).

8 Ie the aggregates levy (if any) to which the person in question is liable in respect of aggregate subjected to commercial exploitation in the period which: (1) begins with the date from which he is required to be registered for the purposes of that levy or, as the case may be, would be so required but for an exemption by virtue of regulations under the Finance Act 2001 s 24(4); and (2) ends with the date on which the Commissioners received notification of, or otherwise first became aware of, the fact that that person was required to be registered or is a person who would be so required but for such an exemption: Sch 4 para 1(4).

10 Finance Act 2001 s 48(1), Sch 4 para 1(1)-(3), (5) (amended by the Finance Act 2002 Sch 38 para 9). Where, by reason of any failure to notify, a person is convicted of an offence (whether under the Finance Act 2001 or otherwise), or is assessed to a penalty under Sch 6 para 7 (see PARA 842 post), he may not by reason of that conduct also be liable to a penalty under this provision: Sch 4 para 1(6).

11 Ibid Sch 4 para 3. On receipt of such notification, the Commissioners must cancel the person's registration ab initio, provided that they are satisfied that (if he had not been registered) he would not have been required to be registered at any time since the time when he was registered: Sch 4 para 4(6). For the purposes of any provision made by or under s 24 or Sch 4 for any matter to be notified to the Commissioners, regulations made by the Commissioners may make provision:

- 129 (1) as to the time within which the notification is to be given;
- 130 (2) as to the form and manner in which the notification is to be given; and
- 131 (3) as to the information and other particulars to be contained in or provided with any notification, and the Commissioners may also by regulations impose obligations requiring a person who has given a notification to notify the Commissioners if any information contained in or provided in connection with that notification is or becomes inaccurate: Sch 4 para 6. Such regulations may extend the time for the giving of a notification: Sch 4 para 6. As to regulations generally see PARA 851 post.

12 Ibid Sch 4 para 4(1), (2). Where a registered person is exempted from the requirement to be registered by virtue of regulations under s 24(4) (see note 3 supra), the Commissioners may cancel his registration with effect from the time when he became so exempted or such later time as appears to them to be appropriate; and the Commissioners are under a duty to exercise this power, or that set out in the text, with effect from any time if, where the power is exercisable, they are satisfied that specified conditions are satisfied and were or will be satisfied at that time: Sch 4 para 4(3), (4). The specified conditions are: (1) that the person in question has given notification of cessation under Sch 4 para 3 (see the text and note 11 supra), or is exempted from the requirement to be registered by virtue of regulations under s 24(4) (see note 3 supra); (2) that no aggregates levy due from that person, and no amount recoverable as if it were such levy remains unpaid; (3) that no tax credit to which that person is entitled by virtue of any tax credit regulations (see PARA 840 post) is outstanding; and (4) that that person is not subject to any outstanding liability to make a return for the purposes of aggregates levy: Sch 4 para 4(5).

13 Ibid Sch 4 para 7(1), (2). Information may be so published notwithstanding any obligation not to disclose the information that would otherwise apply: Sch 4 para 7(3).

NOTE 10--Reference is also made to a penalty under the Finance Act 2007 Sch 24 (see INCOME TAXATION vol 23(2) (Reissue) PARA 1712A): Finance Act 2001 Sch 4 para 1(6) (amended by SI 2009/571).

837. Returns and payment; security.

The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may by regulations make provision: (1) for persons charged with aggregates levy to be liable to account for it by reference to such periods ('accounting periods') as may be determined by or under the regulations; (2) for persons who are or who are required to be registered¹ for the purposes of aggregates levy to be subject to such obligations to make returns for those purposes for such periods, at such times, and in such form, as may be so determined; and (3) for persons who are required to account for aggregates levy for any period to become liable to pay the amounts due from them at such times and in such manner as may be so determined².

If any person ('the taxpayer') fails to comply with so much of any such regulations as requires him at or before a particular time: (a) to make a return for any accounting period; or (b) to pay an amount of aggregates levy due from him, he is liable to a penalty of £250; unless he satisfies the Commissioners or, on appeal, an appeal tribunal³, that there is a reasonable excuse for the failure, and that there is not an occasion after the last day on which the return or payment was required by the regulations to be made when there was a failure without reasonable excuse to make it⁴.

Where it appears to the Commissioners necessary to do so for the protection of the revenue, they may require any person who is or is required to be registered⁵ to give security, or further security, for the payment of any aggregates levy which is or may become due from him⁶. A person who is responsible for any aggregate being subjected to commercial exploitation in the United Kingdom⁷ is guilty of an offence if, at the time it is so subjected, he has been so required to give security, and has not complied with that requirement, and is liable, on summary conviction, to a penalty⁸.

¹ ie including a person who would be so required but for any exemption conferred by regulations under the Finance Act 2001 s 24(4) (see PARA 836 ante).

² Ibid s 25(1), (6). Without prejudice to the generality of these powers, such regulations may contain provision: (1) for aggregates levy falling in accordance with the regulations to be accounted for by reference to one accounting period to be treated in prescribed circumstances, and for prescribed purposes, as levy due for a different period; (2) for the correction of errors made when accounting for aggregates levy by reference to any period; (3) for the entries to be made in any accounts in connection with the correction of any such errors and for the financial adjustments to be made in that connection; (4) for a person, for purposes connected with the making of any such entry or financial adjustment, to be required to provide to any prescribed person, or to retain, a document in the prescribed form containing prescribed particulars of the matters to which the entry or adjustment relates; (5) for enabling the Commissioners, in such cases as they may think fit, to dispense with or to relax a requirement imposed by regulations made by virtue of head (4) supra; (6) for the amount of levy which, in accordance with the regulations, is treated as due for a later period than that by reference to which it should have been accounted for to be treated as increased by an amount representing interest at the rate applicable under the Finance Act 1996 s 197 (as amended) (see PARA 827 ante) for such period as may be determined in accordance with the regulations: Finance Act 2001 s 25(2). Where, by reason of any such failure, a person is convicted of an offence (whether under the Finance Act 2001 or otherwise), or is assessed to a penalty under Sch 6 para 7 (see PARA 842 post), he may not, by reason of that conduct also be liable to a penalty under this provision: s 25(5).

NOTE 4--Reference is also made to a penalty under the Finance Act 2007 Sch 24 (see INCOME TAXATION vol 23(2) (Reissue) PARA 1712A): Finance Act 2001 s 25(5) (amended by SI 2009/571).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(14) AGGREGATES LEVY/838. Recovery and assessment.

838. Recovery and assessment.

Aggregates levy is recoverable as a debt due to the Crown¹.

Where it appears to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs: (1) that any period is an accounting period² by reference to which a person is liable to account for aggregates levy; (2) that any aggregates levy for which that person is liable to account by reference to that period has become due; and (3) that there has been a specified default³ by that person, they may assess the amount of the levy due from that person for that period to the best of their judgment⁴ and notify that amount to that person⁵. An amount so assessed and notified is recoverable on the basis that it is an amount of aggregates levy due from the person concerned⁶. If, where any assessment has been notified to any person⁷, it appears to the Commissioners that the amount which ought to have been assessed as due for any accounting period exceeds the amount that has already been assessed, the Commissioners may make a supplementary assessment of the amount of the excess and notify that person accordingly⁸.

No such assessment may be made more than two years after the end of the accounting period concerned (unless it is made within the period of one year after the evidence of facts sufficient in the Commissioners' opinion to justify the making of the assessment first came to their knowledge), and may in no event be made more than three years after the end of that period⁹.

Aggregates levy is a 'relevant tax' for the purposes of the provisions enabling the Commissioners to make regulations for enforcement by distress¹⁰; and where: (a) in accordance with regulations so made a distress is authorised to be levied on the goods and chattels of a person; (b) that person ('the person in default') has refused or neglected to pay an amount of aggregates levy due from him or an amount recoverable from him as if it were aggregates levy; and (c) the person levying the distress and the person in default have entered into a walking possession agreement¹¹, then if the person in default is in breach of the undertaking contained in such an agreement, he is liable to a penalty equal to one half of the levy or other amount referred to in head (b) above, unless he satisfies the Commissioners or, on appeal, an appeal tribunal that there is a reasonable excuse for the default in question¹².

Where either any amount has been paid at any time to any person by way of a repayment¹³ of aggregates levy, and the amount paid exceeded the amount which the Commissioners were liable at that time to pay to that person or: (i) any amount has been paid to any person by way of repayment of levy; (ii) the repayment is in respect of a tax credit the entitlement to which arose in connection with a bad debt¹⁴; (iii) the whole or any part of the credit is withdrawn on account of the payment of the whole or an part of the debt taken as bad; and (iv) the amount of the repayment exceeded the amount which the Commissioners would have been liable to repay had the withdrawal taken place before the determination of the amount of the repayment, the Commissioners may, to the best of their judgment, assess the excess paid to that person and notify it to him¹⁵.

Where any amount has been paid to any person by way of interest¹⁶, but that person was not entitled to that amount, the Commissioners may, to the best of their judgment, assess the amount so paid to which that person was not entitled and notify it to him¹⁷.

1 Finance Act 2001 s 27, Sch 5 para 1.

2 For the meaning of 'accounting periods' see PARA 837 ante.

3 The specified defaults are: (1) any failure to make a return required to be made by any provision made by or under the Finance Act 2001 Pt 2 (ss 16-49) (as amended); (2) any failure to keep any documents necessary to verify such returns; (3) any failure to afford the facilities necessary to verify such returns; (3) the making, in purported compliance with any requirement of any such provision to make a return, of an incomplete or incorrect return; and (4) any failure to comply with a requirement imposed by or under Sch 4: Sch 5 para 2(2).

4 In a case where: (1) the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs have made an assessment for any accounting period as a result of any person's failure to make a return for that period; (2) the levy assessed has been paid but no proper return has been made for that period; (3) as a result of a failure (whether by that person or a representative of his) to make a return for a later accounting period, the Commissioners find it necessary to make another assessment under ibid Sch 5 para 2 in relation to the later period; and (4) the Commissioners think it appropriate to do so in the light of the absence of a proper return for the earlier period, they may, in the assessment in relation to the later period, specify an amount of aggregates levy due that is greater than the amount that they would have considered to be appropriate had they had regard only to the later period: Sch 5 para 2(4). As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

5 Ibid Sch 5 para 2(1). Where it appears to the Commissioners that the specified default is a default by a person on whom the requirement to make a return is imposed in his capacity as the representative of another person, this provision applies as if the references to the amount of aggregates levy due included a reference to any aggregates levy due from that other person; and any notification of an assessment under any provision of Sch 5 to a person's representative is treated for the purposes of Pt 2 as notification to the person in relation to whom the representative acts: Sch 5 paras 2(3), 19(2). 'Representative', in relation to any person, means: (1) any of that person's personal representatives; (2) that person's trustee in bankruptcy or liquidator; (3) any person holding office as a receiver in relation to that person or any of his property; (4) that person's tax representative or any other person for the time being acting in a representative capacity in relation to that person: Sch 5 para 19(3). As to the giving, withdrawal and variation of notification see PARA 845 note 10 post.

6 Ibid Sch 5 para 2(5). This provision does not, however, apply if or to the extent that the assessment in question has been withdrawn or reduced: Sch 5 para 2(6).

7 Ie under ibid Sch 5 para 2 or 3.

8 Ibid Sch 5 para 3. See also the text and note 6 supra.

9 Ibid Sch 5 para 4(1), (2). However, where aggregates levy has been lost: (1) as a result of any conduct for which a person has been convicted of an offence involving fraud; (2) in circumstances giving rise to liability to a penalty under Sch 4 para 1 (see PARA 836 ante); or (3) as a result of conduct falling within Sch 6 para 7(1) (see PARA 842 post), that levy may be assessed under Sch 5 para 2 or 3 as if in Sch 5 para 4(1) for 'three years' there were substituted '20 years': Sch 5 para 4(3). Where, after a person's death, the Commissioners propose to assess an amount of aggregates levy as due by reason of some conduct of the deceased: (a) the assessment must not be made more than three years after the death; and (b) if the circumstances are as set out in Sch 5 para 4(3), the modification to Sch 5 para 4(1) made by that provision does not apply, but any assessment which (applying that modification) could have been made immediately after the death may be made at any time within three years after it: Sch 5 para 4(4). However, nothing in Sch 5 para 4 is to prejudice the powers of the Commissioners under Sch 5 para 2(4) (see note 4 supra).

10 Ie the Finance Act 1997 s 51(5): see PARA 1139 post. It is also included in the definition of 'relevant taxes' for the purposes of the provisions enabling the Commissioners to make regulations for enforcement by diligence (ie the Finance Act 1997 s 52(5)).

11 Ie an agreement under which, in consideration of the property distrained upon being allowed to remain in the custody of the person in default and of the delaying of its sale, the person in default: (1) acknowledges that the property specified in the agreement is under distraint and held in walking possession; and (2) undertakes that, except with the consent of the Commissioners and subject to such conditions as they may impose, he will not remove or allow the removal of any of the specified property from the premises named in the agreement: Finance Act 2001 Sch 5 para 15(2).

12 Ibid Sch 5 paras 14, 15(1), (3), (4), 16.

13 See PARA 840 post.

14 Ie in a case falling within the Finance Act 2001 s 30(1)(e): see PARA 840 post.

15 Ibid Sch 8 para 3(1), (2). Similarly, where any person is liable to pay any amount to the Commissioners in pursuance of the obligation imposed by virtue of Sch 8 para 1(4)(a) (see PARA 840 note 7 post), the Commissioners may, to the best of their judgment, assess the amount due from that person and notify it to him: Sch 8 para 3(3). An assessment made under these provisions may be combined with an assessment on the same person to an amount of aggregates levy due from him for the same accounting period, but such a combined assessment must separately identify the amount being assessed in respect of repayments of levy: Sch 8 para 3(4), (5). See also note 17 infra. For the meaning of 'accounting periods' see PARA 837 ante.

16 Ie under ibid Sch 8 para 2: see PARA 840 post.

17 Ibid Sch 8 para 4. An assessment under Sch 8 para 3 (see the text and note 15 supra) or para 4 may not be made more than two years after the time when evidence of facts sufficient in the opinion of the Commissioners to justify the making of the assessment comes to the knowledge of the Commissioners: Sch 8 para 5(1). An amount so assessed and notified to any person is recoverable as if it were aggregates levy due from him, unless and to the extent that the assessment has been withdrawn or reduced: Sch 8 para 5(2), (3). As to the notification of an assessment to a representative of the person liable see Sch 8 para 12; and see note 5 supra.

If it appears to the Commissioners that the amount which ought to have been assessed under Sch 8 para 3 (see the text and notes 13-15 supra) or Sch 8 para 4 exceeds the amount which was so assessed, then under the same provision as that assessment was made and on or before the last day on which that assessment could have been made, the Commissioners may make a supplementary assessment of the amount of the excess and notify the person concerned accordingly: Sch 8 para 8.

839. Interest on unpaid levy.

Where a person makes a return for the purposes of any regulations¹ (whether or not at the time required by the regulations), and the return shows that an amount of aggregates levy is due from him for the accounting period² for which the return is made, that amount carries penalty interest for the period which begins with the day after that on which the person is required in accordance with such regulations to pay aggregates levy due from him for the accounting period in question, and ends with the day before that on which the amount shown in the return is paid³.

Where the circumstances are such that there was a time when an assessment could have been made⁴ of an amount of levy due from any person but, before the making and notification to that person of any assessment of that amount, the amount was paid, the whole of the amount paid is taken to have carried interest for the period which begins with the day after that on which the person is required in accordance with such regulations to pay aggregates levy due from him for the accounting period to which the amount in question relates, and ends with the day before that on which that amount was paid⁵.

Where the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs make an assessment⁶ of an amount of aggregates levy due from any person for any accounting period and notify it to him, and the assessment is made at a time after that by which a return is required by such regulations to be made by that person for that accounting period and before any such return has been made, that amount carries penalty interest for the period beginning with the day after that on which the person is required in accordance with such regulations to pay aggregates levy due from him for the accounting period in question, and ends with the day before that on which the assessed amount is paid⁷.

Where: (1) the Commissioners make an assessment⁸ of an amount of aggregates levy due from any person for any accounting period and notify it to him; (2) the assessment is made after a return for the purposes of any such regulations has been made by that person for that period; and (3) the assessment is made on the basis that the amount ('the additional amount') is due from him in addition to any amount shown in the return, or in a previous assessment made in relation to the accounting period, the additional amount carries interest for the period which begins with the day after that on which the person is required in accordance with such regulations to pay aggregates levy due from him for the accounting period in question, and ends with the day before that on which the assessed amount is paid⁹.

Where the Commissioners make an assessment¹⁰ of an amount of interest payable at the normal rate¹¹, that amount carries penalty interest for the period which begins with the day on which the assessment is notified to the person on whom the assessment is made, and ends with the day on which the assessed interest is paid¹².

Where the Commissioners make an assessment to recover excessive repayments or overpayments of interest by the Commissioners to the person concerned¹³, the amount assessed carries interest for the period which begins with the day after that on which the person is notified of the assessment, and ends with the day before that on which payment is made of the amount assessed¹⁴.

Interest under any of the above provisions is payable without any deduction of income tax¹⁵.

Where a person is liable for interest under any of the above provisions, the Commissioners may assess the amount due by way of interest and notify it to him accordingly¹⁶, and an amount so assessed and notified is recoverable as if it were aggregates levy due from him¹⁷. Where a person is so assessed to an amount due by way of any interest, and is also assessed¹⁸ for the accounting period which is the relevant accounting period in relation to that interest, the assessments may be combined and notified to him as one assessment, but such a combined assessment must separately identify the interest being assessed¹⁹.

Interest so payable in respect of so much of the period as falls before the day on which the assessment is notified to the person is due at the rate applicable under the Finance Act 1996 s 197 (as amended) (see PARA 827 ante), whilst interest payable in respect of any remainder is due at that rate plus an additional ten percentage points (the 'penalty rate'); and interest at the penalty rate is compound interest calculated with monthly rests, and is known as 'penalty interest': Finance Act 2001 Sch 5 paras 8(3), 10(1), (1), 19(1), Sch 8 para 6(4), (5).

Where: (1) the Commissioners make an assessment under Sch 5 para 2 or 3 (see PARA 838 ante) of an amount of aggregates levy due from any person for any accounting period and notify it to him; (2) they also specify a date for this purpose; and (3) the amount is paid on or before that date, the only interest carried by that amount under Sch 5 para 8 is interest at the normal rate for the period before the day on which the assessment is notified (ie no penalty interest is chargeable for the balance of the period): Sch 5 para 8(4).

Where a person is liable under any of Sch 5 paras 5-9 to pay any penalty interest, the Commissioners or, on appeal, an appeal tribunal may reduce the amount payable to such amount (including nil) as they think proper; and where the person concerned satisfies the Commissioners or the appeal tribunal that there is a reasonable excuse for the conduct giving rise to the liability, that is a matter to be taken into account in their decision: Sch 5 para 10(3), (4), Sch 8 para 6(6), (7). However, in determining whether there is such a reasonable excuse, no account is to be taken of: (a) the insufficiency of the funds available to any person for paying any aggregates levy due or for paying the amount of the interest; (b) the fact that there has, in the case in question or in that case taken with any other cases, been no or no significant loss of aggregates levy; (c) the fact that the person liable to pay the interest or a person acting on his behalf has acted in good faith: Sch 5 para 10(5), Sch 8 para 6(8). In the case of interest reduced by the Commissioners, an appeal tribunal may, on an appeal relating to the interest, cancel the whole or part of any such reduction: Sch 5 para 10(6), Sch 8 para 6(9). The appeal tribunal is a VAT and duties tribunal: see PARA 1255 et seq post.

However, where: (1) the Commissioners make an assessment under Sch 5 para 12 (see the text and notes 16-19 infra) of an amount of interest due from any person; (2) they also specify a date for this purpose; and (3) the amount is paid on or before that date, the amount so paid does not carry penalty interest under this provision: Sch 5 para 9(2).

13 Ie an assessment under Sch 8 para 3 or 4: see PARA 838 ante.

14 Ibid Sch 8 para 6(1), (2). So much of that amount as represents the amount of a tax credit claimed by a person who was not entitled to it carries penalty interest, and the balance carries interest at the rate applicable under the Finance Act 1996 s 197 (as amended) (see PARA 827 ante): Finance Act 2001 Sch 8 para 6(1), (2).

15 Ibid Sch 5 para 11(1), Sch 8 para 6(3). Where an amount otherwise carries interest under any of Sch 5 paras 5-9, and all or part of the amount turns out not to be due: (1) the amount or part that turns out not to be due does not carry interest under the applicable provision and is treated as never having done so; and all such adjustments as are reasonable must be made, including (but subject to s 32 and Sch 8: see PARA 840 post) adjustments by way of repayment: Sch 5 para 11(2), (3). Interest paid under Sch 5 paras 5-9, Sch 8 para 6, or Sch 10 para 5 (see PARA 842 post) is not deductible in computing any income, profits or losses for any tax purpose: Income and Corporation Taxes Act 1988 s 827(1E) (added by the Finance Act 2001 s 49(3)).

16 Finance Act 2001 Sch 5 para 12(1), Sch 8 para 7(1). If, where an assessment has been notified under Sch 5 para 12(1) or (2), it appears to the Commissioners that the amount which ought to have been assessed exceeds the amount that has already been assessed, the Commissioners may make a supplementary assessment of the amount of the excess and notify that person accordingly: Sch 5 para 12(2), Sch 8 para 8. Schedule 5 para 4 (see PARA 838 ante) applies in relation to assessments under this provision as if an assessment to interest were an assessment under Sch 5 para 2 (see PARA 838 ante) to aggregates levy due for the period which is the relevant accounting period in relation to that interest: Sch 5 para 12(5). The 'relevant accounting period' is, in the case of interest on the levy due for any accounting period, that accounting period and, in the case of interest on interest, the period which is the relevant accounting period for the interest on which the interest is payable; in a case where the amount of any interest falls to be calculated by reference to aggregates levy which was not paid at the time when it should have been, and that levy cannot be attributed to any one or more accounting periods, that levy is treated, for the purposes of interest on any of that levy, as aggregates levy due for such period or periods as the Commissioners may determine to the best of their judgment and notify to the person liable: Sch 5 para 12(8), (9).

Without prejudice to the power to make assessments under Sch 8 para 7 for later periods, the interest to which an assessment under that provision may relate is confined to interest for a period of no more than two years ending with the time when the assessment in question is made: Sch 8 para 7(2).

17 Ibid Sch 5 para 12(3), Sch 8 para 7(3). However, Sch 5 para 12(3) does not apply so as to require any interest to be payable on interest, except in accordance with Sch 5 para 9 (see the text and notes 10-12 supra), or in so far as it falls to be compounded in accordance with Sch 5 para 10 (see note 9 supra); and neither Sch 5 para 12(3) nor Sch 8 para 7(3) has effect if, or to the extent that, the assessment in question has been withdrawn or reduced: Sch 5 para 12(4), Sch 8 para 7(4).

18 Ie under ibid Sch 5 para 2 or 3: see PARA 838 ante.

19 Ibid Sch 5 para 12(6), (7). Where an assessment is made under Sch 5 para 12 or Sch 8 para 7, the notice of assessment must specify a date, not later than the date of the notice of assessment, to which the amount of interest which is assessed is calculated, and if the interest continues to accrue after that date, a further assessment or further assessments may be so made in respect of the amounts so accruing: Sch 5 para 13(1), Sch 8 para 7(5). Where such an assessment is made specifying such a date, and within such period as may be notified for this purpose by the Commissioners to the person liable for the interest, the amount on which the interest is payable is paid, that amount is deemed for the purposes of any further liability to interest to have been paid on the specified date: Sch 5 para 13(2), Sch 8 para 7(6).

UPDATE

839 Interest on unpaid levy

TEXT AND NOTES 1-3--If (1) a person ('P') fails to pay aggregates levy when it becomes due and payable, (2) P makes a request to an officer of Revenue and Customs that payment of the surcharge be deferred, and (3) such an officer agrees that payment of that amount may be deferred for a period ('the deferral period'), P is not liable to penalty interest under the Finance Act 2001 Sch 5 para 5 f for failing to pay the amount concerned if P would otherwise become liable to such interest between the date on which he makes the request and the end of the deferral period: Finance Act 2009 s 108(1), (2), (5). However, if P breaks the agreement, and an officer of Revenue and Customs serves on P a notice specifying any interest to which P would become liable apart from the above provisions, P becomes liable, at the date of the notice, to that interest: s 108(3). P breaks an agreement for this purpose if he fails to pay the amount of tax in question when the deferral period ends, or the deferral is subject to P complying with a condition (including a condition that part of the amount be paid during the deferral period) and P fails to comply with it: s 108(4).

If the agreement mentioned above is varied at any time by a further agreement between P and an officer of Revenue and Customs, s 108 applies from that time to the agreement as varied: s 108(6). The Treasury may by order made by statutory instrument subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of the House of Commons, amend the taxes and penalties referred to above: s 108(7)-(9).

NOTE 15--Income and Corporation Taxes Act 1988 s 827(1E) now Corporation Tax Act 2009 s 1303(1), (2).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(14) AGGREGATES LEVY/840. Credit for aggregates levy; repayments.

840. Credit for aggregates levy; repayments.

The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may by regulations ('tax credit regulations') make provision in relation to cases where, after a charge to aggregates levy has arisen on any quantity of aggregate: (1) any of that aggregate is exported from the United Kingdom in the form of aggregate; (2) an exempt process is applied to any of that aggregate; (3) any of that aggregate is used in a prescribed industrial or agricultural process; (4) any of that aggregate is disposed of (by dumping or otherwise) in such manner not constituting its use for construction purposes as may be prescribed; or (5) the whole or any part of a debt due to a person responsible for subjecting the aggregate to commercial exploitation is written off in his accounts as a bad debt¹. The provision that may be made in relation to any such case is provision: (a) for such person as may be specified in the regulations to be entitled to a tax credit in respect of any aggregates levy charged on the aggregate in question; (b) for a tax credit to which any person is entitled under the regulations to be brought into account when he is accounting for aggregates levy due from him for such accounting period or periods² as may be determined in accordance with the regulations; and (c) for a person entitled to a tax credit to be entitled, in any prescribed case where he cannot bring the tax credit into account so as to set it against a liability to aggregates levy, to a repayment of levy of an amount so mentioned³. Such regulations may contain any or all of the following provisions: (i) provision making any entitlement to a tax credit conditional on the making of a claim by such person, within such period and in such manner as may be prescribed; (ii) provision making entitlement to bring a tax credit into account, or to receive a repayment in respect of such a credit, conditional on compliance with such requirements as may be determined in accordance with the regulations; (iii) provision requiring a claim for tax credit to be evidenced and quantified by reference to such records and other documents as may be so determined; (iv) provision requiring any person claiming entitlement to a tax credit to keep for such period and in such form and manner as may be so determined, those records and documents and a record of such information relating to the claim as may be so determined; (v) provision for the withdrawal of a tax credit where any requirement of the regulations is not complied with; (vi) provision for interest⁴ to be treated as added, for such period and for such purposes as may be prescribed, to the amount of any tax credit; and (vii) provision for anything falling to be determined in accordance with the regulations to be determined by reference to a general or specific direction given in accordance with the regulations by the Commissioners⁵.

Where a person has paid an amount to the Commissioners by way of aggregates levy which was not levy due to them, they are liable to repay the amount to him, but only on the making of a claim for that purpose⁶. However, the Commissioners are not so liable, on any such claim, to repay any amount paid to them more than three years before the making of the claim; and in the case of any claim for a repayment of an amount of aggregates levy other than a claim to a repayment to which a person is entitled by virtue of tax credit regulations, it is a defence to that claim that the repayment of that amount would unjustly enrich the claimant⁷.

Where, due to an error on the part of the Commissioners, a person: (A) has paid to them by way of aggregates levy an amount which was not levy due and which they are in consequence liable to repay to him⁸; (B) has failed to claim a repayment of levy to which he was entitled, under tax credit regulations, in respect of any tax credits; or (C) has suffered delay in receiving payment of an amount due to him from them in connection with aggregates levy⁹, then, if and to the extent that they would not otherwise be liable to do so, they must pay interest to him on that amount for the applicable period¹⁰.

The Commissioners may by regulations make provision in relation to any case where a person is under a duty to pay the Commissioners at any time an amount or amounts in respect of aggregates levy, and the Commissioners are under a duty to pay to that person at the same time an amount or amounts in respect of that levy or any of the other taxes under their care and management; and they may make provision that any such duty to pay be treated as discharged accordingly¹¹. They may also by regulations make provision in relation to any case where a person is under a duty to pay to the Commissioners at any time an amount or amounts in respect of any tax (or taxes) under their care and management, other than aggregates levy, and the Commissioners are under a duty, at the same time, to make any repayment of aggregates levy to that person or to make any other payment to him of any amount or amounts in respect of aggregates levy; and they may make provision that any such duty to pay be treated as discharged accordingly¹².

5 Finance Act 2001 s 30(3). Without prejudice to the generality of s 30(1)-(3), regulations under s 30 may also contain: (1) provision for ascertaining whether, when and to what extent an amount is to be taken for the purposes of any such regulations to have been written off in any accounts as a bad debt; (2) provision requiring a person who for the purposes of any such regulations is taken to have written off any amount as a bad debt to keep for such period and in such form and manner as may be prescribed, information relating to anything subsequently paid in respect of the amount written off; (3) provision for the withdrawal of the whole or an appropriate part of any tax credit relating to an amount taken to have been written off as a bad debt where the whole or part (or any further part) of the amount written off is subsequently paid; (4) provision for ascertaining whether, and to what extent, anything received by any person is to be taken as a payment of, or of a part of, an amount taken for the purposes of any such regulations, to have been written off; and (5) provision for determining the value for the purposes of provision made by virtue of head (4) supra of things received otherwise than in the form of money: s 30(4).

Any direction required or authorised by or under Pt 2 (ss 16-49) (as amended) to be given by the Commissioners may be given by sending it by post in a letter addressed to each person affected by it at his latest or usual residence or place of business: s 47(2). As to the withdrawal or variation of such a direction see PARA 845 note 10 post.

6 Ibid s 31(1), (2), (5). Such a claim must be made in such form and manner, and must be supported by such documentary evidence, as may be required by regulations made by the Commissioners: s 31(3). References in Pt 2 (as amended) to a repayment of aggregates levy or of an amount of aggregates levy are references to any repayment of an amount to any person by virtue of any tax credit regulations, s 31, Sch 5 para 11(3) (see PARA 839 ante), or Sch 10 para 6(3) (see PARA 842 post): s 48(5).

7 Ibid s 32(1), (2). Where: (1) there is an amount paid by way of aggregates levy which, apart from s 32(2), would fall to be the subject of a repayment of aggregates levy to any person ('the taxpayer'); and (2) the whole or a part of the cost of the payment of that amount to the Commissioners has, for practical purposes, been borne by a person other than the taxpayer; and (3) loss or damage has been or may be incurred by the taxpayer as a result of mistaken assumptions made in his case about the operation of any provisions relating to aggregates levy, that loss or damage must be disregarded, except to the extent of the quantified amount, in the making of any determination as to: (a) whether or to what extent the repayment of an amount to the taxpayer would enrich him; or (b) whether or to what extent any enrichment of the taxpayer would be unjust: s 32(3), (4). The 'quantified amount' means the amount (if any) which is shown by the taxpayer to constitute the amount that would appropriately compensate him for loss or damage shown by him to have resulted, for any business carried on by him, from the making of the mistaken assumptions: s 32(5). The reference to provisions relating to aggregates levy is a reference to any provisions of: (i) any enactment or subordinate legislation (whether or not still in force) which relates to that levy or to any matter connected with it; or (ii) any notice published by the Commissioners under or for the purposes of any enactment or subordinate legislation relating to aggregates levy: s 32(6). For the meaning of 'subordinate legislation' see the Interpretation Act 1978; and STATUTES vol 44(1) (Reissue) PARA 1381 (definition applied by the Finance Act 2001 s 48(1)).

The Commissioners may by regulations make provision for reimbursement arrangements made by any person to be disregarded for the purposes of the Finance Act 2001 s 32(2), except where the arrangements contain such provision as may be required by the regulations, and are supported by such undertakings to comply with the provisions of the arrangements as may be required by the regulations to be given to the Commissioners; and without prejudice to the generality of this provision, the provision which may be required by such regulations to be contained in reimbursement arrangements include: (A) provision requiring a reimbursement for which the arrangements provide to be made within such period after the repayment to which it relates as may be specified in the regulations; (B) provision for the repayment of amounts to the Commissioners where those amounts are not reimbursed in accordance with the arrangements; (C) provision requiring interest paid by the Commissioners on any amount repaid by them to be treated in the same way as that amount for the purposes of any requirement under the arrangements to make reimbursement or to repay the Commissioners; (D) provision requiring such records relating to the carrying out of the arrangements as may be described in the regulations to be kept and produced to the Commissioners, or to one of their officers: s 32(7), Sch 8 para 1(1), (3). Such regulations may impose obligations on such persons as may be specified in the regulations to make repayments to the Commissioners that they are required to make in pursuance of any provisions contained in any reimbursement arrangements by virtue of head (B) or head (C) supra, or to comply with any requirements contained in any such arrangements by virtue of head (D) supra: Sch 8 para 1(4). Such regulations may further make provision for the form and manner in which, and the times at which, undertakings are to be given to the Commissioners in accordance with the regulations; and any such provision may allow for those matters to be determined by the Commissioners in accordance with the regulations: Sch 8 para 1(5). 'Reimbursement arrangements' means any arrangements for the purposes of a claim to aggregates levy which are made by any person for the purpose of securing that he is not unjustly enriched by the repayment of any amount in pursuance of the claim, and which provide for the reimbursement of persons who have for practical purposes borne the whole or any part of the cost of the original payment of that amount to the Commissioners: Sch 8 para 1(2).

8 Head (A) in the text covers only so much of the amount in question as is the subject of a claim that the Commissioners are required to satisfy or have satisfied: ibid Sch 8 para 2(2).

9 The amounts referred to in head (C) in the text do not include any amount payable by way of interest under ibid Sch 8 para 2, or the amount of any interest for which provision is made by virtue of s 30(3)(f); but do include any amount due (in respect of an adjustment of overpaid interest) by way of a repayment under Sch 5 para 11(3) (see PARA 839 ante) or under Sch 10 para 6(3) (see PARA 842 post): Sch 8 para 2(3).

10 Ibid Sch 8 para 2(1). The 'applicable period' in a case falling within head (A) in the text is the period beginning with the date on which the payment is received by the Commissioners and ending with the date on which they authorise payment of the amount on which the interest is payable; and in a case falling within head (B) or head (C) in the text is the period beginning with the date on which, apart from the error, the Commissioners might reasonably have been expected to authorise payment of the amount on which the interest is payable, and ending with the date on which they in fact authorise payment of that amount: Sch 8 para 2(4), (5). In determining the applicable period in either case, there must be left out of account any period by which the Commissioners' authorisation of the payment of interest is delayed by circumstances beyond their control, including, in particular, any period which is referable to: (1) any unreasonable delay in the making of any claim for the payment or repayment of the amount on which interest is claimed; (2) any failure by any person to provide the Commissioners: (a) at or before the time of the making of a claim, or (b) subsequently in response to a request for information by the Commissioners, with all the information required by them to enable the existence and amount of the claimant's entitlement to a payment or repayment to be determined; and (3) the making, as part of or in connection with any claim for the payment or repayment of any amount on which interest is claimed, of a claim to anything to which the claimant was not entitled: Sch 8 para 2(6), (7). In determining for this purpose whether any period of delay is referable to a failure by any person to provide information in response to a request by the Commissioners, there must be taken to be so referable, except so far as may be provided for by regulations, any period which: (i) begins with the date on which the Commissioners require that person to provide information which they reasonably consider relevant to the matter to be determined; and (ii) ends with the earliest date on which it would be reasonable for the Commissioners to conclude: (A) that they have received a complete answer to their request for information; (B) that they have received all they need in answer to that request; or (C) that it is unnecessary for them to be provided with any information in answer to that request: Sch 8 para 2(8).

References to receiving payment of any amount from the Commissioners, or to the authorisation by the Commissioners of the payment of any amount, include references to the discharge by way of set-off (whether in accordance with regulations under Sch 8 para 9 or 10 or otherwise) of the Commissioners' liability to pay that amount: Sch 8 para 2(11).

The Commissioners are not liable to pay interest under this provision except on the making in writing of a claim for that purpose, not more than three years after the end of the applicable period to which it relates: Sch 8 para

2(9), (10). Such interest is payable at the rate applicable under the Finance Act 1996 s 197 (as amended) (see PARA 827 ante): Finance Act 2001 Sch 8 para 2(12).

11 Ibid Sch 8 para 9(1), (6). Such regulations may provide that: (1) if the total payments due to the Commissioners exceeds the total payments due from them, the latter must be set against the former; (2) if the latter exceeds the former, the Commissioners may set off the latter in paying the former; and (3) if the former and the latter are equal, no payment need be made in respect of either: Sch 8 para 9(2)-(4). Such regulations may also provide for any limitation on the time within which the Commissioners are entitled to take steps for recovering any amount due to them in respect of aggregates levy to be disregarded, in such cases as may be described in the regulations, in determining whether any person is under such a duty to pay as is mentioned in the text: Sch 8 para 9(5). For these purposes, 'tax' includes levy or duty: Sch 8 para 9(8). See also note 12 infra.

12 Ibid Sch 8 para 10(1), (6). Such regulations may contain provisions similar to those set out in note 11 heads (1)-(3) supra: Sch 8 para 10(2)-(5). References in the text to an amount in respect of a particular tax include references not only to an amount of tax itself but also to other amounts such as interest and penalties that are or may be recovered as if they were amounts of tax; and for these purposes 'tax' includes levy or duty: Sch 8 para 10(7), (8).

Regulations made under Sch 8 para 9 (see the text and note 11 supra) or Sch 8 para 10 may not require any amount or amounts due from the Commissioners ('the credit') to be set against any amount or amounts due to the Commissioners ('the debit') in any case where: (1) an insolvency procedure has been applied to a person entitled to the credit; (2) the credit became due after that procedure was so applied; and (3) the liability to pay the debit either arose before that procedure was so applied or (having arisen afterwards) relates to, or to matters occurring in the course of, the carrying on of any business at times before the procedure was so applied: Sch 8 para 11(1). For this purpose, an insolvency procedure is applied to a person if: (a) a bankruptcy order, winding-up order or administration order is made or an administrator is appointed in relation to that person or an award of sequestration is made on that person's estate; (b) that person is put into administrative receivership; (c) that person passes a resolution for voluntary winding up; (d) any voluntary arrangement approved in accordance with the Insolvency Act 1986 Pt I (ss 1-7B) (as amended) or Pt VIII (ss 252-263) (as amended) (see BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY vol 3(2) (2002 Reissue) PARA 91 et seq; COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY vol 7(3) (2004 Reissue) PARA 71 et seq) or with the Insolvency (Northern Ireland) Order 1989, SI 1989/2405 (NI 19), Pt II or Pt VIII Ch II comes into force in relation to that person; (e) a deed of arrangement registered in accordance with the Deeds of Arrangement Act 1914 (see BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY vol 3(2) (2002 Reissue) PARA 859 et seq) or with the Insolvency (Northern Ireland) Order 1989, SI 1989/2405 (NI 19), Pt VIII Ch I takes effect in relation to that person; or (f) that person's estate becomes vested in any other person as that person's trustee under a trust deed (within the meaning of the Bankruptcy (Scotland) Act 1985): Finance Act 2001 Sch 8 para 11(2) (amended by the Finance Act 2002 s 132(1), Sch 38 para 10; and the Enterprise Act 2002 (Insolvency) Order 2003, SI 2003/2096, art 4, Schedule paras 35, 37(a)). However, references, in relation to any person, to the application of an insolvency procedure to that person do not include: (i) the making of a bankruptcy order, winding-up order or award of sequestration or the appointment of an administrator at a time when any such arrangement or deed as is mentioned in head (d), (e) or (i) supra is in force in relation to that person; (ii) the making of a winding-up order at any of the following times, ie: (A) immediately upon the appointment of an administrator in respect of the person ceasing to have effect; (B) when that person is being wound up voluntarily; (C) when that person is in administrative receivership; or (iii) the making of an administration order in relation to that person at any time when that person is in administrative receivership: Finance Act 2001 Sch 8 para 11(3) (amended by the Finance Act 2002 Sch 38 para 10; and the Enterprise Act 2002 (Insolvency) Order 2003, SI 2003/2096, Schedule para 37(b), (c)). For this purpose, a person is regarded as being in administrative receivership throughout any continuous period for which (disregarding any temporary vacancy in the office of receiver) there is an administrative receiver of that person: Finance Act 2001 Sch 8 para 11(4). 'Administration order' means an administration order under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 8, Sch B1 (as added and amended) (see COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY vol 7(3) (2004 Reissue) PARA 212) or the Insolvency (Northern Ireland) Order 1989, SI 1989/2405 (NI 19), art 21; and 'administrative receiver' means an administrative receiver within the meaning of the Insolvency Act 1986 s 251 (see COMPANIES vol 15 (2009) PARA 1337) or the Insolvency (Northern Ireland) Order 1989, SI 1989/2405 (NI 19), art 5(1): Finance Act 2001 Sch 8 para 11(5) (amended by the Enterprise Act 2002 (Insolvency) Order 2003, SI 2003/2096, Schedule para 37(d)).

NOTE 10--The period of three years is increased to four: Finance Act 2001 Sch 8 para 2(10) (amended by Finance Act 2009 Sch 51 para 30).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(14) AGGREGATES LEVY/841. Criminal offences.

841. Criminal offences.

A person is guilty of an offence if he is knowingly concerned in, or in the taking of steps with a view to: (1) the fraudulent evasion by that person of any aggregates levy with which he is charged; or (2) the fraudulent evasion by any other person of any aggregates levy with which that other person is charged¹, and a person guilty of such an offence is liable on conviction to a penalty².

A person is guilty of an offence if: (a) with the requisite intent³ and for purposes connected with aggregates levy he produces or provides, or causes to be produced or provided, any document which is false in a material particular, or he otherwise makes use of such a document; (b) in providing any information under certain provisions⁴, he makes a statement which he knows to be false in a material particular or he recklessly makes a statement which is false in a material particular⁵, and a person guilty of such an offence is liable on conviction to a penalty⁶.

A person is guilty of an offence if his conduct during any particular period must have involved the commission by him of one or more offences⁷; and a person guilty of such an offence is liable on conviction to a penalty⁸. For the purposes of any proceedings for such an offence, it is immaterial whether the particulars of the offence or offences that must have been committed are known⁹.

Where a person becomes a party to any agreement under or by means of which a quantity of taxable aggregate¹⁰ is or is to be subjected to commercial exploitation in the United Kingdom¹¹, or makes arrangements for any other person to become a party to such an agreement, he is guilty of an offence if he does so in the belief that aggregates levy chargeable on the aggregate in question will be evaded; and a person guilty of such an offence is liable to a penalty¹².

Where an authorised person¹³ has reasonable grounds for suspecting that a fraud offence¹⁴ has been committed, he may arrest anyone whom he has reasonable grounds for suspecting to be guilty of the offence¹⁵.

1 Finance Act 2001 s 28, Sch 6 para 1. The references to evasion of aggregates levy include references to obtaining, in circumstances where there is no entitlement to it, either a tax credit or a repayment (see PARA 840 ante) of aggregates levy: Sch 6 para 1(2).

2 Ibid Sch 6 para 1(3). Such a person is liable on summary conviction to a penalty of the statutory maximum or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months or to both, and on conviction on indictment he is liable to a penalty of any amount or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding seven years or to both: see Sch 6 para 1(3). As to the statutory maximum see PARA 539 note 15 ante. However, in the case of any such offence, where the statutory maximum is less than three times the sum of the amounts of aggregates levy which are shown to be amounts that were or were intended to be evaded, the penalty on summary conviction is the amount equal to three times that sum (instead of the statutory maximum); and, for this purpose, the amounts of levy that were or were intended to be evaded are taken to include the amount of any tax credit and the amount of any repayment of aggregates levy, which was, or was intended to be, obtained in circumstances where there was no entitlement to it; and no account is to be taken of the extent (if any) to which any liability to aggregates levy of any person fell, or would have fallen, to be reduced by the amount of any tax credit or repayment of aggregates levy to which he was, or would have been, entitled: Sch 6 para 1(4)-(6).

References to obtaining a tax credit are references to bringing an amount into account as a tax credit for the purposes of aggregates levy on the basis that that amount may be so brought into account in accordance with tax credit regulations; and references to obtaining a repayment of aggregates levy are references to obtaining either: (1) the payment or repayment of any amount; or (2) the acknowledgement of a right to receive any amount, on the basis that that amount is the amount of a repayment of aggregates levy to which there is an entitlement: Sch 6 para 10(1), (2). For the meaning of 'tax credit regulations' see PARA 840 ante; and for the meaning of 'repayment' see PARA 840 note 6 ante.

3 le the intent to deceive any person or to ensure that a machine will respond to the document as if it were a true document: ibid Sch 6 para 2(1).

4 le any provision made by or under ibid Pt 2 (ss 16-49) (as amended).

5 Ibid Sch 6 para 2(1), (2).

6 Ibid Sch 6 para 2(3). Such a person is liable on summary conviction to a penalty of the statutory maximum or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months or to both, and on conviction on indictment he is liable to a penalty of any amount or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding seven years or to both: see Sch 6 para 2(3). However, where the document referred to in head (a) in the text is a return required under any provision made by or under Pt 2 (as amended), or the information referred to in head (b) in the text is contained in, or otherwise relevant to, such a return, the amount of the penalty on summary conviction is whichever is the greater of the statutory maximum and the amount equal to three times the sum of the amounts (if any) by which the return understates any person's liability to aggregates levy, ie the sum of: (1) the amount (if any) by which that person's gross liability was understated; and (2) the amount (if any) by which any entitlements of his to tax credits and repayments of aggregates levy were overstated: Sch 6 para 2(4), (5). 'Gross liability' means liability to aggregates levy before any deduction is made in respect of any entitlement to any tax credit or repayments of aggregates levy: Sch 6 para 2(6). As to the obtaining of a tax credit or a repayment of aggregates levy see note 3 supra.

7 Ibid Sch 6 para 3(1). The offences referred to in the text are offences under Sch 1 paras 1, 2: see the text to notes 1-6 supra.

8 Ibid Sch 6 para 3(3). Such a person is liable on summary conviction to a penalty of the statutory maximum or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months or to both, and on conviction on indictment he is liable to a penalty of any amount or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding seven years or to both: see Sch 6 para 3(3). However, in the case of any such offence, where the statutory maximum is less than three times the sum of the amounts of aggregates levy which are shown to be amounts that were or were intended to be evaded by the conduct in question, the penalty on summary conviction is the amount equal to three times that sum (instead of the statutory maximum); and, for this purpose, the amounts of levy that were or were intended to be evaded are taken to include the amount of any tax credit and the amount of any repayment of aggregates levy, which was, or was intended to be, obtained in circumstances where there was no entitlement to it; and no account is to be taken of the extent (if any) to which any liability to aggregates levy of any person fell, or would have fallen, to be reduced by the amount of any tax credit or repayment of aggregates levy to which he was, or would have been, entitled: Sch 6 para 3(4)-(6). As to the obtaining of a tax credit or a repayment of aggregates levy see note 3 supra.

9 Ibid Sch 6 para 3(2).

10 For the meaning of 'taxable aggregate' see PARA 834 ante.

11 For the meaning of 'commercial exploitation' see PARA 835 ante. For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 note 6 ante.

12 Finance Act 2001 Sch 6 para 4(1). The penalty on summary conviction is a penalty of level 5 on the standard scale: Sch 6 para 4(2). As to the standard scale see PARA 79 note 3 ante. However, in the case of any such offence, where level 5 on the standard scale is less than three times the sum of the amounts of aggregates levy which are shown to be amounts that were or were intended to be evaded in respect of the aggregate in question, the penalty is the amount equal to three times that sum (instead of level 5 on the standard scale); and, for this purpose, the amounts of levy that were or were intended to be evaded are taken to include the amount of any tax credit and the amount of any repayment of aggregates levy, which was, or was intended to be, obtained in circumstances where there was no entitlement to it; and no account is to be taken of the extent (if any) to which any liability to aggregates levy of any person fell, or would have fallen, to be reduced by the amount of any tax credit or repayment of aggregates levy to which he was, or would have been, entitled: Sch 6 para 4(3)-(5). As to the obtaining of a tax credit or a repayment of aggregates levy see note 3 supra.

The Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 ss 145-155 (as amended) (see PARA 1197 et seq post) apply in relation to offences and penalties under the Finance Act 2001 Pt 2 (as amended) as they apply in relation to offences and penalties under the customs and excise Acts: Sch 6 para 5. For the meaning of 'the customs and excise Acts' see PARA 413 note 1 ante.

13 le a person acting under the authority of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs. As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

14 le an offence under the Finance Act 2001 Sch 6 paras 1-3: see the text and notes 1-9 supra.

UPDATE

841 Criminal offences

TEXT AND NOTES 13-15--Finance Act 2001 Sch 6 para 6 repealed: Finance Act 2007 Sch 22 para 12, Sch 27 Pt 5(1).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(14) AGGREGATES LEVY/842. Civil penalties.

842. Civil penalties.

Where: (1) any person engages in any conduct for the purpose of evading aggregates levy; and (2) that conduct involves dishonesty (whether or not it is such as to give rise to criminal liability), that person is liable to a penalty equal to the amount of the levy evaded or, as the case may be, intended to be evaded by his conduct¹. However, where by reason of such conduct a person is convicted of an offence², he is not, by reason of that conduct, liable also to a penalty under these provisions³.

Where it appears to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs that a body corporate is liable to a penalty under the above provisions, and that the conduct giving rise to that penalty is, in whole or in part, attributable to the dishonesty of a person who is, or at the material time was, a director or managing officer⁴ of the body corporate (a 'named officer'), the Commissioners may serve a notice⁵ on the body corporate and on the named officer⁶. Where such a notice is served, the portion of the basic penalty specified therein is recoverable from the named officer as if he were personally liable under the above provisions to a penalty which corresponds to that portion⁷.

Where for an accounting period⁸: (a) a return is made which understates a person's liability to aggregates levy or overstates his entitlement to any tax credit or repayment of aggregates levy; or (b) at the end of the period of 30 days beginning on the date of the making of any assessment which understates a person's liability to aggregates levy, that person has not taken all such steps as are reasonable to draw the understatement to the attention of the Commissioners, the person concerned is liable to a penalty equal to 5 per cent of the amount of the understatement of liability or (as the case may be) overstatement of entitlement⁹. However, such conduct does not give rise to a liability to such a penalty if the person concerned provides the Commissioners with full information with respect to the inaccuracy concerned: (i) at a time when he has no reason to believe that inquiries are being made by the Commissioners into his affairs, so far as they relate to aggregates levy; and (ii) in such form and manner as may be prescribed by regulations made by the Commissioners or as specified by them in accordance with any such regulations¹⁰. Nor does such conduct give rise to such a penalty if the person concerned satisfies the Commissioners or, on appeal, an appeal tribunal¹¹ that there is a reasonable excuse for his conduct¹².

Where a person is liable to a civil penalty¹³, the Commissioners may assess the amount due by way of penalty and notify¹⁴ it to him accordingly; and if, where an assessment has been so notified, it appears to the Commissioners that the amount which ought to have been assessed exceeds the amount that has already been assessed, the Commissioners may make a supplementary assessment of the excess and notify that person accordingly¹⁵. An amount so assessed and notified is recoverable as if it were aggregates levy due from the person concerned¹⁶.

Where an assessment is made under the above provision to an amount of a civil penalty to which any person is liable¹⁷, the notice of assessment must specify a time, not later than the end of the day of the giving of that notice, to which the amount of any daily penalty¹⁸ is calculated; and if further penalties accrue in respect of a continuing failure after that date to provide the information or, as the case may be, produce the document, a further assessment or further assessments may be made under the above provision in respect of the amounts so accruing¹⁹. A penalty so assessed carries penalty interest²⁰ for the period which begins with the day on which the assessment is notified to the person on whom the assessment is made, and ends with the day before the day on which the assessed penalty is paid²¹.

An assessment under the above provision to a civil penalty may not be made more than three years after the conduct to which the penalty relates²².

Where a person is liable to a civil penalty, the Commissioners or, on appeal, an appeal tribunal may reduce the penalty to such amount (including nil) as they think proper, but on an appeal relating to any penalty reduced by the Commissioners, an appeal tribunal may cancel the whole or any part of the Commissioners' reduction²³.

If it appears to the Treasury that there has been a change in the value of money since the time when the amount of a civil penalty was fixed, it may by order made by statutory instrument substitute, for the amount for the time being specified as the amount of that penalty, such other sum as appears to it to be justified by the change²⁴.

1 Finance Act 2001 s 28, Sch 6 para 7(1) (amended by the Finance Act 2002 s 133(2)). The amount of the penalty is: (1) equal to the amount of the levy evaded, or (as the case may be) intended to be evaded, by the person's conduct if at the time of engaging in that conduct he was or was required to be registered; (2) equal to twice that amount if at that time the person neither was nor was required to be registered: Finance Act 2001 Sch 6 para 7(1A) (added by the Finance Act 2002 s 133(3)). As to registration see PARA 836 ante. The references to evading aggregates levy include references to obtaining, in circumstances where there is no entitlement to it, either a tax credit or a repayment of aggregates levy; and the amount of levy that was or was intended to be evaded by any conduct is taken to include the amount of any tax credit and the amount of any repayment which was, or was intended to be, obtained in circumstances where there was no entitlement to it: Finance Act 2001 Sch 6 para 7(2), (3) (amended by the Finance Act 2002 s 133(4)). For the meaning of 'repayment' see PARA 840 note 6 ante. In determining for this purpose how much aggregates levy (in addition to any amount falling within Sch 6 para 7(3) (as amended)) was, or was intended to be, evaded, no account is to be taken of the extent (if any) to which any liability to aggregates levy of any person fell, or would have fallen, to be reduced by the amount of any tax credit or repayments of aggregates levy to which he was, or would have been, entitled: Sch 6 para 7(4) (amended by the Finance Act 2002 s 133(4)).

2 Ie whether under the Finance Act 2001 or otherwise.

3 Ibid Sch 6 para 7(5).

4 Ie any manager, secretary or other similar officer of the body corporate, or any person purporting to act in any such capacity or as a director: ibid Sch 6 para 8(8). Where the affairs of a body corporate are managed by its members, these provisions apply in relation to the conduct of a member in connection with his functions of management as if he were a director of the body corporate: Sch 6 para 8(9).

5 Such a notice must state the amount of the penalty concerned ('the basic penalty'), and that the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs propose, in accordance with these provisions, to recover from the named officer such portion of the basic penalty (which may be the whole of it) as is specified in the notice: ibid Sch 6 para 8(2). As to the giving, withdrawal or variation of any such notice see PARA 845 note 10 ante. As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

6 Ibid Sch 6 para 8(1). The giving of a notice as such is not a decision which may be reviewed under s 40 (see PARA 850 post). However, where a body corporate is assessed to the balance of the basic penalty, the Commissioners' decision as to the liability of that body to a penalty, and as to the amount of the basic penalty specified in the assessment, may be so reviewed, and ss 41, 42 (see PARA 850 post) apply accordingly; and where an assessment is made on a named officer, the Commissioners' decision: (1) as to the liability of the relevant body corporate to a penalty, and as to the amount of the basic penalty specified in the assessment on that body; (2) that the conduct of that body is, in whole or in part, attributable to the dishonesty of that officer; and (3) as to the portion of the penalty which they propose to recover from that officer, may be so reviewed at the request of the named officer, and ss 41, 42 apply accordingly: Sch 6 para 8(5)-(7).

7 Ibid Sch 6 para 8(3). In such a case, the amount which may be assessed under Sch 10 (see the text and notes 13-22 infra) as the amount due by way of penalty from the body corporate is only so much of the basic penalty (if any) as is not assessed on and notified to a named officer; and that body is treated as discharged from liability for so much of the basic penalty as is so assessed and notified: Sch 6 para 8(4).

8 For the meaning of 'accounting period' see PARA 837 ante.

9 Finance Act 2001 Sch 6 para 9(1). However, where by reason of such conduct a person is convicted of an offence, whether under the Finance Act 2001 or otherwise, or is assessed to a penalty under Sch 6 para 7 (see the text and notes 1-3 supra), he is not by reason of that conduct also liable to a penalty under Sch 6 para 9: Sch 6 para 9(5).

Where a return for an accounting period:

132 (1) overstates or understates to any extent a person's liability to aggregates levy, or understates or overstates to any extent his entitlement to any tax credits or repayments of aggregates levy; and

133 (2) that return is corrected:

3. (a) in such circumstances as may be prescribed by regulations made by the Commissioners; and

.4

4. (b) in accordance with such conditions as may be so prescribed,

.5

134 by a return for a later accounting period which understates or overstates, to the corresponding extent, any liability or entitlement for the later period, it is to be assumed for this purpose that the statement made by each such return is a correct statement for the accounting period to which the return relates: Sch 6 para 9(2).

10 Ibid Sch 6 para 9(3).

11 Ie a VAT and duties tribunal: see PARA 1255 et seq post.

12 Finance Act 2001 Sch 6 para 9(4). For the meaning of 'reasonable excuse' see s 46(3); and PARA 839 note 9 ante.

Where: (1) a claim is made for a tax credit in such a case as is mentioned in s 30(1)(c) (see PARA 840 ante) or s 30A (as added); (2) a record or other document is provided to the Commissioners as evidence for the claim; and (3) the record or document is incorrect, the person who provided the document to the Commissioners, and any person who provided it to anyone else with a view to its being used as evidence for a claim for a tax credit, is liable to a penalty equal to 105% of the difference between: (a) the amount of tax credit that would have been due on the claim if the record or document had been correct; and (b) the amount (if any) of tax credit actually due on the claim: Sch 7 para 9A(1)-(3) (Sch 7 para 9A added by the Finance Act 2002 s 133(5)). The providing of a record or other document does not give rise to such a penalty if the person who provided it satisfies the Commissioners or, on appeal, a VAT and duties tribunal, that there is a reasonable excuse for his having provided it: Finance Act 2001 Sch 7 para 9A(4) (as so added). Where by reason of providing a record or other document: (i) a person is convicted of an offence (whether under the Finance Act 2001 or otherwise); or (ii) a person is assessed to a penalty under Sch 7 para 7 or 9, that person is not, by reason of the providing of the record or document, liable also to a penalty under this provision: Sch 7 para 9A(5) (as so added).

13 Ie a penalty liability to which is imposed by or under ibid Pt 2 (ss 16-49) (as amended), and arises otherwise than in consequence of a person's conviction for a criminal offence: s 46(4), Sch 10 para 1(1). References to a person's being liable to a civil penalty include references to his being a person from whom the whole or any part of a civil penalty is recoverable by virtue of Sch 6 para 8; and references, in relation to a person from whom the whole or part of a civil penalty is so recoverable, to the penalty to which he is liable, are references to so much of the penalty as is recoverable from him: Sch 10 para 1(2).

14 Any notification of an assessment under any provisions of ibid Sch 10 to a person's representative is treated for the purposes of Pt 2 (as amended) as notification to the person for whom the representative acts: Sch 10 para 1(3). For the meaning of 'representative' see Sch 10 para 1(4), (5); and PARA 838 note 5 ante.

15 Ibid Sch 10 para 2(1), (2). The fact that any conduct giving rise to a civil penalty may have ceased before an assessment is made under Sch 10 para 2 does not affect the power of the Commissioners to make such an assessment: Sch 10 para 2(3). Where a person is so assessed to an amount due by way of penalty, and is also assessed under any one or more provisions of Sch 5 (see PARAS 838-839 ante) for an accounting period to which the conduct attracting the penalty is referable, the assessments may be combined and notified to him as one assessment; but such a notice of combined assessment must separately identify the penalty being assessed: Sch 10 para 2(6), (7).

The power to make an assessment under Sch 10 para 2 is subject to Sch 6 para 8(4): see note 7 supra.

16 Ibid Sch 10 para 2(4). This provision does not, however, apply so as to require any interest to be payable on a penalty otherwise than in accordance with Sch 10, and does not have effect if, or to the extent that, the assessment in question has been withdrawn or reduced: Sch 10 para 2(5).

17 Ie under ibid Sch 7 para 1(3) or 4(4): see PARA 843 post.

18 Ie a penalty imposed by ibid Sch 7 para 1(3)(b) or 4(4)(b), as the case may be: see PARA 843 post.

19 Ibid Sch 10 para 3(1)-(4). Where an assessment to a civil penalty is made specifying such a date, and the failure in question is remedied within such period as may for this purpose have been notified by the Commissioners to the person liable for the penalty, the failure is deemed for the purposes of any further liability to civil penalties to have been remedied on that date: Sch 10 para 3(5).

20 For the meaning of 'penalty interest', and for the rights of appeal against an assessment thereto, see ibid Sch 10 para 5(3)-(8). Such interest is payable without any deduction of income tax: Sch 10 para 6(1).

21 Ibid Sch 10 para 5(1). Where the Commissioners make an assessment under Sch 10 para 2 (see the text and notes 13-16 supra) of an amount of any civil penalty, and they specify a date for this purpose on or before which the amount of the penalty is paid, no penalty interest is chargeable: Sch 10 para 5(2). Where an amount would otherwise carry interest under Sch 10 para 5, and all or part of the amount turns out not to be due, the amount or part which turns out not to be due does not carry such interest (and is treated as never having done so), and all such adjustments as are reasonable must be made, including (subject to s 32 and Sch 8: see PARA 840 ante) adjustments by way of repayment: Sch 10 para 6(2).

The Commissioners may assess the amount of penalty interest for which a person is liable and notify it to him; and if it appears to them that the amount which ought to have been assessed exceeds the amount which has already been assessed, they may make a supplementary assessment of the amount of the excess and notify that person accordingly; and Sch 10 para 4 (see the text and note 22 infra) applies to such an assessment as if it were an assessment under Sch 10 para 2 (see the text and notes 13-16 supra): Sch 10 para 7(1), (2), (5). An amount so assessed and notified is recoverable as if it were an amount of aggregates levy due from the person concerned: Sch 10 para 7(3), (4). As to combined assessments see Sch 10 para 7(6), (7); and note 15 supra. Where an assessment is made under Sch 10 para 7, the notice of assessment must specify a date, not later than the date of the notice, to which the amount of interest assessed has been calculated, and if interest continues to accrue after that date, a further assessment or further assessments may be so made in respect of the amounts so accruing; but if a date is so specified and, within such period as may be specified for the purpose by the Commissioners to the person liable for the interest, the amount of the interest so assessed is paid, that amount is deemed for the purposes of any further liability to interest to have been paid on the specified date: Sch 10 para 8.

22 Ibid Sch 10 para 4(1). However, if aggregates levy has been lost: (1) as a result of any conduct for which a person has been convicted of an offence involving fraud; (2) in circumstances giving rise to liability to a penalty under Sch 4 para 1 (see PARA 836 ante); or (3) as a result of conduct falling within Sch 6 para 7(1) (as amended) (see the text and note 1 supra), an assessment may be made for any civil penalty relating to that conduct as if, in Sch 10 para 4(1), for 'three years', there were substituted '20 years'; but where, after a person's death, the Commissioners proposed to assess an amount of civil penalty due by reason of some conduct of the deceased, the assessment may not be made more than three years after the death; and if the circumstances set out in heads (1)-(3) supra apply, the modification of Sch 10 para 4(1) does not apply, but any assessment which (applying that modification) could have been made immediately after the death may be made at any time within three years after it: Sch 10 para 4(2), (3).

23 Ibid s 46(1). For the matters which may not be taken into account in deciding on whether a reduction is appropriate see s 46(2); and PARA 839 note 9 heads (a), (c) ante.

24 Ibid s 46(5). The reference to the time when the amount of a civil penalty was fixed is a reference, in the case of a penalty which has not previously been modified under this provision, to the time of the passing of the Finance Act 2001 (ie 11 May 2001); and in any other case, the time of the making of the order that made the most recent modification of the amount of the penalty: s 46(6). Such an order may not be made unless a draft thereof has been laid before Parliament and approved by resolution of the House of Commons, and may not apply to the penalty for any conduct before the coming into force of the order: s 46(7). 'Civil penalty', for these purposes, means any penalty liability to which arises otherwise than in consequence of a person's liability for a criminal offence: s 46(8). As to the Treasury see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARAS 512-517.

No penalty under any provision of Pt 2 (as amended) is deductible in computing any income, profits or losses for any tax purpose: Income and Corporation Taxes Act 1988 s 827(1E) (added by the Finance Act 2001 s 49(3)).

843. Information and evidence.

Every person involved (in whatever capacity) in subjecting any aggregate to exploitation¹ in the United Kingdom², or in any connected activities³ must provide the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs with such information relating to the matters in which he is or has been involved as the Commissioners may reasonably require⁴.

The Commissioners may by regulations impose obligations to keep records on persons who are or who are required to be registered⁵ and on persons who would be so required but for an exemption⁶, and such regulations may be framed by reference to such records as may be stipulated in any notice published by the Commissioners in pursuance of the regulations and not withdrawn by a further notice⁷. A person who fails to preserve any record in compliance with any such regulations or with any notice, direction or requirement given or imposed thereunder, is liable to a penalty of £250⁸.

Every person involved (in whatever capacity) in subjecting any aggregate to exploitation in the United Kingdom, or in any connected activities, must, upon demand made by an authorised person⁹ produce, at such time and place as the authorised person may reasonably require, or cause to be so produced for inspection by that person any documents relating to the matters in which he is or has been involved; and an authorised person has power under this provision to require production of the documents concerned from any other person who appears to him to be in possession of them, and the production by that other person in pursuance of such a requirement is without prejudice to any lien claimed by that other person on that document¹⁰. The authorised person may take copies of, or make extracts from, any document so produced; and, if it appears to him necessary to do so, he may, at a reasonable time and for a reasonable period, remove any document so produced, but if he does so he must: (1) provide a receipt for the document so removed; and (2) if the document is reasonably required for any purpose, provide a copy of it, free of charge and as soon as practicable, to the person by whom it was produced or caused to be produced¹¹.

Where a justice of the peace is satisfied on information on oath that there is reasonable ground for believing that a fraud offence¹² which appears to be of a serious nature is being, has been, or is about to be, committed on any premises or that evidence of the commission of such an offence is to be found there, he may issue a warrant in writing authorising any authorised person to enter those premises, if necessary by force, at any time within one month from the date of issue of the warrant, and to search them¹³.

Where, on an application by an authorised person, a justice of the peace is satisfied that there are reasonable grounds for believing that an offence in connection with aggregates levy is being, has been, or is about to be, committed; and that any recorded information (including any document of any nature at all) which may be required as evidence for the purpose of any proceedings in respect of such an offence is in the possession of any person, he may make an order that the person who appears to the justice to be in possession of that information must: (a) give an authorised person access to it; and (b) permit an authorised person to remove and take away any of it which he reasonably considers necessary, not later than the end of the period of seven days beginning with the date of the order, or the end of such longer period as the order may specify¹⁴.

An authorised person who removes anything in the exercise of any power conferred by such a warrant or order must, if so requested by a person showing himself to be the occupier of premises from which it was removed, or to have had custody or control thereof immediately before the removal, provide that person with a record of what he removed; and such record must be provided within a reasonable time from the making of the request¹⁵.

An authorised person, if it appears to him necessary for the protection of the revenue against mistake or fraud, may at any time take, from material which he has reasonable cause to believe is aggregate which is intended to be, is being, or has been, subjected to exploitation in the United Kingdom, such samples as he may require with a view to determining how the material ought to be treated, or to have been treated, for the purpose of aggregates levy; and any sample so taken may be disposed of in such manner as the Commissioners may direct¹⁶.

In any proceedings, a certificate of the Commissioners: (i) that a person was or was not at any time registered; (ii) that any return required by regulations¹⁷ has not been made or had not been made at any time; (iii) that any levy shown as due in a return made in pursuance of such regulations has not been paid; or (iv) that any amount shown as due in any assessment¹⁸ has not been paid, is evidence of that fact; and in any proceedings, any document purporting to be such a certificate is taken to be such unless the contrary is shown¹⁹.

Statements made or documents produced or provided by or on behalf of a person are not inadmissible in any proceedings²⁰ by reason only that a specified matter²¹ has been drawn to that person's attention, and that he was or may have been, as a result, induced to make the statements or to produce or provide the documents²².

Notwithstanding any obligation not to disclose information that would otherwise apply, the Commissioners may disclose any information obtained or held by them in or in connection with the carrying out of their functions in relation to aggregates levy to any of the following: (A) any minister of the Crown; (B) the Scottish Ministers; (C) any minister²³ or any Northern Ireland department; (D) the National Assembly for Wales; (E) the Environment Agency; (F) the Scottish Environment Protection Agency; (G) a mineral planning authority in England and Wales²⁴; (H) a planning authority in Scotland; (I) a district council in Northern Ireland; (J) an authorised officer of any person mentioned in heads (A) to (I) above²⁵. Information which has been disclosed to a person under these provisions must not be disclosed by him, except to another person to whom (instead of him) such disclosure could have been made, or for the purpose of any proceedings connected with the operation of any provision made by or under any enactment relating to the environment or to aggregates levy²⁶.

1 For the meaning of 'aggregate' see PARA 834 ante. For the meaning of 'commercial exploitation' see PARA 835 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 note 6 ante.

3 The activities carried out for purposes connected with the carrying out of any such exploitation or with any transaction involving the carrying out of such exploitation; or for the purposes of, in connection with, or in relation to, the carrying on of any business involving any such exploitation: Finance Act 2001 s 29, Sch 7 para 15.

4 Ibid Sch 7 para 1(1). Such information must be provided to the Commissioners within such period after being required, and in such form, as the Commissioners may reasonably require: Sch 7 para 1(2). As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post. If a person fails to provide such information, he is liable to a penalty of £250, and to a further penalty of £20 for every day after the last relevant date and before the day after that on which the required information is provided, unless the person concerned satisfies the Commissioners or, on appeal, an appeal tribunal that there is a reasonable excuse: (1) in the case of the fixed penalty, for the initial failure to provide the information on or before the last relevant date, and for every subsequent failure to do so; or (2) in the case of the continuing penalty, for the failure to provide the information on or before the day on which it was actually provided: Sch 7 para 1(3), (4). Where, by reason of any failure by any person to provide the required information, that person is convicted of an offence (whether under the Finance Act 2001 or otherwise), or is assessed to a penalty under Sch 6 para 7 (see PARA 842 ante), that person is not by reason of that failure also liable to a penalty under this provision: Sch 7 para 1(5). 'The last relevant date' is the last day of the period within which the person in question was required to provide the information: Sch 7 para 1(6). As to the power to increase the penalties see PARA 842 ante. The appeal tribunal is a VAT and duties tribunal: see s 48(1); and PARA 1255 et seq post.

5 As to the requirement to be registered see PARA 836 ante.

6 Ie an exemption by virtue of regulations under the Finance Act 2001 s 24(4): see PARA 836 ante.

7 Ibid Sch 7 para 2(1), (2). Such regulations may: (1) require any records kept in pursuance thereof to be preserved for such period, not exceeding six years, as may be specified therein; (2) authorise the Commissioners to direct that any such records need only be preserved for a shorter period than that so specified; (3) authorise a direction to be made so as to apply generally or in such cases as the Commissioners may stipulate: Sch 7 para 2(3). Any duty under such regulations to preserve records may be discharged by the preservation of the information contained in them by such means as the Commissioners may approve; and the Commissioners may, as a condition of such approval, impose such reasonable requirements as appear to them necessary for securing that the information will be as readily available to them as if the records themselves had been preserved: Sch 7 para 2(4), (5). The Commissioners may if they think fit at any time modify or withdraw any approval or requirement given or imposed for these purposes: Sch 7 para 2(8). As to regulations generally see PARA 851 post.

Where any obligation to preserve records is so discharged, a copy of any document forming part of the records is admissible in evidence in any proceedings, whether civil or criminal, to the same extent as the records: Sch 7 para 3(1).

8 Ibid Sch 7 para 2(6). However, such failure does not give rise to any such penalty if the person concerned satisfies the Commissioners or, on appeal, an appeal tribunal that there is a reasonable excuse for the failure; and where that person is convicted of an offence (whether under the Finance Act 2001 or otherwise), or is assessed to a penalty under Sch 6 para 7 (see PARA 842 ante), in respect of that failure, he is not by reason of that failure also liable to a penalty under this provision: Sch 7 para 2(7), (8). As to the power to increase the penalties see PARA 842 ante.

9 Ie any person acting under the authority of the Commissioners: ibid Sch 7 para 15.

10 Ibid Sch 7 para 4(1)-(3). A person who fails to comply with such a requirement is liable to a penalty of £250, and to a further penalty of £20 for every day after the last relevant date and before the day after that on which the document is produced: Sch 7 para 4(4). For the cases where a penalty is not due under this provision, and for the meaning of 'the last relevant date', see Sch 7 para 4(5)-(7); and cf note 4 supra. As to the power to increase the penalties see PARA 842 ante.

11 Ibid Sch 7 para 5(1)-(3), (5). Where a lien is claimed on a document so produced, the removal of that document is not regarded as breaking the lien; but where any document so removed is lost or damaged, the Commissioners are liable to compensate the owner thereof for any expenses reasonably incurred by him in replacing or repairing the document: Sch 7 para 5(4), (6). For the purpose of exercising any powers under Pt 2 (ss 16-49) (as amended), an authorised person may at any reasonable time enter and inspect premises used in connection with the carrying on of a business: Sch 7 para 6.

12 Ie an offence under any of ibid Sch 6 paras 1-3: see PARA 841 ante.

13 Ibid Sch 7 para 7(1)(a), (6). A person who enters the premises under the authority of a warrant so issued may: (1) take with him such other persons as appear to him to be necessary; (2) seize and remove any such documents or other things at all found on the premises as he has reasonable cause to believe may be required as evidence for the purposes of proceedings in respect of a fraud offence which appears to him to be of a serious nature; (3) search or cause to be searched any person found on the premises whom he has reasonable cause to believe to be in possession of any documents or other things which may be so required; but nothing in this provision authorises any person to be searched by a member of the opposite sex: Sch 7 para 7(2), (3). The powers conferred by such a warrant are not exercisable: (a) by more than such number of authorised persons as may be specified therein; (b) outside such periods of the day as may be so specified; or (c) if the warrant so provides, otherwise than in the presence of a constable in uniform: Sch 7 para 7(4). An authorised person seeking to exercise such powers or, if there is more than one such authorised person, such one of them as is in charge of the search, must provide a copy of the warrant, indorsed with his name: (i) to the occupier of the premises concerned, if he is present at the time the search is to begin; (ii) if at that time the occupier of the premises is not present, but a person who appears to the authorised person to be in charge of the premises is present, to that person; and (iii) if neither head (i) nor head (ii) supra applies, the copy must be left in a prominent place on the premises: Sch 7 para 7(5).

14 Ibid Sch 7 para 8(1), (2). The reference to giving an authorised person access to the recorded information to which the application relates includes a reference to permitting him to take copies of it or to make extracts from it; and where the information consists of information contained in a computer, an order under this provision has effect as an order to produce the information in a form in which it is visible and legible and, if the authorised person wishes to remove it, in a form in which it can be removed: Sch 7 para 8(3), (4). This power is without prejudice to those conferred by Sch 7 paras 1-6: Sch 7 para 8(1), (5).

15 Ibid Sch 7 para 9(1), (2). If: (1) a request for permission to be allowed access to anything which has been removed by an authorised person, and is retained by the Commissioners for the purposes of investigating an offence, is made to the officer in overall charge of the investigation by a person who had custody or control of the thing immediately before it was so removed, or by someone acting on behalf of such a person, the officer must allow the person who made the request access to it under the supervision of an authorised person; or (2) a request for a photograph or copy of any such thing is made to the officer in overall charge of the investigation by a person who had custody or control of the thing immediately before it was so removed, or by someone acting on behalf of such a person, the officer must allow the person who made the request access to it under the supervision of an authorised person for the purpose of photographing it or copying it, or must photograph or copy it, or cause it to be photographed or copied and supply the photograph or copy, or cause it to be supplied, within a reasonable time from the making of the request, to the person who made the request: Sch 7 para 9(3)-(6). However, heads (1) and (2) supra do not apply if the officer in overall charge of the investigation for the purposes of which the thing was removed has reasonable grounds for believing that to allow access, or to supply or cause to be supplied a photograph or copy, would prejudice: (a) that investigation; (b) the investigation of an offence other than the offence for the purposes of the investigation of which the thing was removed; or (c) any criminal proceedings which may be brought as a result of the investigation of which he is in charge or any such investigation as is mentioned in head (b) supra: Sch 7 para 9(7). Any reference to the officer in overall charge of the investigation is a reference to the person whose name and address are indorsed on the warrant concerned as being the officer so in charge: Sch 7 para 9(8).

Where the appropriate judicial authority is satisfied, on application, that a person has failed to comply with a requirement imposed by Sch 7 para 9, the authority may order that person to comply therewith within such time and in such manner as may be specified in the order; but an application under this provision may not be made except: (i) in the case of a failure to comply with any of the requirements imposed by Sch 7 para 9(1), (2), by the occupier of the premises from which the thing in question was removed or by the person who had custody or control of the thing immediately before it was so removed; and (ii) in any other case, by the person who had such custody or control: Sch 7 para 10(1), (2). The 'appropriate judicial authority' means, in England and Wales, a magistrates' court: Sch 7 para 10(3)(a). An application for such an order must be made by way of complaint: Sch 7 para 10(4).

16 Ibid Sch 7 para 11.

17 Ie regulations made under ibid s 25: see PARA 837 ante.

18 Ie any assessment made under ibid Pt 2 (as amended).

19 Ibid Sch 7 para 12(1), (3). A photograph of any document provided to the Commissioners for the purposes of Pt 2 (as amended) and certified by them to be such a photograph is admissible in any proceedings, whether civil or criminal, to the same extent as the document itself; and in any proceedings, any document purporting to be such a certificate is taken to be such unless the contrary is shown: Sch 7 para 12(2), (3).

20 Ie any criminal proceedings against a person in respect of an offence in connection with or in relation to aggregates levy, and any proceedings against a person for the recovery of any sum due from him in connection with or in relation to that levy: ibid Sch 7 para 13(1).

21 The specified matters are: (1) that, in relation to aggregates levy, the Commissioners may assess an amount due by way of a civil penalty instead of instituting criminal proceedings; (2) that it is the practice of the Commissioners (without giving any undertaking as to whether they will make such an assessment in any case) to be influenced by whether a person: (a) has made a full confession of any dishonest conduct to which he has been a party; and (b) has otherwise co-operated in full with any investigation; and (3) the fact that the Commissioners or, on appeal, an appeal tribunal have power under any provisions of Pt 2 (as amended) to reduce a penalty: Sch 7 para 13(3), (4). The appeal tribunal is a VAT and duties tribunal (see PARA 1255 et seq post): s 48(1).

22 Ibid Sch 7 para 13(2).

23 Ie a minister within the meaning of the Northern Ireland Act 1998.

24 Ie within the meaning of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990: see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(1) (2006 Reissue) PARA 29.

25 Finance Act 2001 Sch 7 para 14(1). Information must not, however, be so disclosed except for the purpose of assisting a person falling within heads (A)-(J) in the text in the performance of his duties: Sch 7 para 14(2). Notwithstanding any obligation not to disclose information that would otherwise apply, any person mentioned in heads (A)-(J) in the text may disclose information to the Commissioners, or to an authorised officer of the Commissioners, for the purpose of assisting the Commissioners in the performance of duties in relation to aggregates levy: Sch 7 para 14(3). No charge may be made for any disclosure made by virtue of Sch 7 para 14: Sch 7 para 14(7). References to an authorised officer of any person ('the principal') are to any person who has been designated by the principal as a person to and by whom information may be disclosed by virtue of these provisions; and where the principal is a person falling within any of paragraphs (A)-(C) in the text, the principal must notify the Commissioners in writing of the name of any person so designated: Sch 7 para 14(5), (6).

26 Ibid Sch 7 para 14(4). For these purposes, 'enactment' includes an enactment contained in an Act of the Scottish Parliament or in any Northern Ireland legislation: Sch 7 para 14(8).

844. Non-resident taxpayers.

The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may by regulations make provision for securing that every non-resident taxpayer¹ has a person resident in the United Kingdom to act as his tax representative for the purposes of aggregates levy². Such regulations may, in particular, contain any or all of the following: (1) provision requiring notification to be given to the Commissioners where a person becomes a non-resident taxpayer; (2) provision requiring the appointment of tax representatives by non-resident taxpayers; (3) provision for the appointment of a person as a tax representative to take effect only where the person appointed is approved by the Commissioners; (4) provision authorising the Commissioners to give a direction requiring the replacement of a tax representative; (5) provision authorising the Commissioners to give a direction requiring a person specified therein to be treated as the appointed tax representative of a non-resident taxpayer so specified; (6) provision about the circumstances in which a person ceases to be a tax representative and about the withdrawal by the Commissioners of their approval of a tax representative; (7) provision enabling the tax representative to act on behalf of the person for whom he is the tax representative through an agent of the representative; (8) provision for the purposes of any provision made by virtue of heads (1) to (7) above regulating the procedure to be followed in any case and imposing requirements as to the information and other particulars to be provided to the Commissioners; and (9) provision as to the time at which things done under or for the purposes of the regulations are to take effect³.

The tax representative of a non-resident taxpayer: (a) is entitled to act on the latter's behalf⁴; and (b) is under a duty, except to such an extent as the Commissioners by regulations otherwise provide, to secure the latter's compliance with, and discharge of, the obligations and liabilities to which the latter is subject⁵ (including obligations and liabilities arising or incurred before he became the non-resident taxpayer's tax representative)⁶. A person who is or has been the tax representative of a non-resident taxpayer is personally liable in respect of any failure, while he is or was the non-resident taxpayer's tax representative, to secure compliance with, or the discharge of, any such obligation or liability; and in respect of anything done in the course of, or for purposes connected with, acting on the non-resident's behalf, as if those obligations and liabilities were imposed jointly and severally on the tax representative and the non-resident taxpayer⁷.

A tax representative is not by virtue of these provisions to be guilty of any offence except in so far as: (i) he has consented to, or connived in, the commission of the offence by the non-resident taxpayer; (ii) the commission of the offence by the non-resident taxpayer is attributable to any neglect on the part of the tax representative; or (iii) the offence consists in a contravention by the tax representative of an obligation which is imposed⁸ both on the tax representative and the non-resident taxpayer⁹.

¹ I.e. a person who: (1) is or is required to be registered for the purposes of aggregates levy, or would be so required but for an exemption by virtue of regulations under the Finance Act 2001 s 24(4) (see PARA 836 ante); and (2) is not resident in the United Kingdom: s 48(1). A person is resident in the United Kingdom at any time if, at that time: (a) that person has an established place of business in the United Kingdom; (b) that person has a usual place of residence in the United Kingdom; or (c) that person is a firm or unincorporated body which (without being resident in the United Kingdom by virtue of head (a) supra) has amongst its partners or members at least one individual with a usual place of residence in the United Kingdom: s 48(6). For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 note 6 ante.

- 2 Ibid s 33(1). In Pt 2 (ss 16-49) (as amended), 'tax representative', in relation to any person, means the person who, in accordance with the regulations, is for the time being that person's tax representative for the purposes of aggregates levy: s 48(1). As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.
- 3 Ibid s 33(2). Unless there is reasonable excuse, a person who becomes subject, in accordance with the regulations, to an obligation to request the Commissioners' approval for any person's appointment as his tax representative, but fails (with or without making the appointment) to make the request as required by the regulations, is liable to a penalty of £10,000: s 33(3), (4). As to the power to increase the penalties see PARA 842 ante. As to regulations generally see PARA 851 post.

- 5 Ie by virtue of any provision referred to in note 4 supra.
- 6 Finance Act 2001 s 34(1), (2).
- 7 Ibid s 34(3). However, a tax representative is not liable, by virtue of s 34, to be registered for the purposes of aggregates levy, but the Commissioners may by regulations require the registration of the names of tax representatives against the names of the non-resident taxpayers of whom they are the representatives, and make provision for the deletion of the names of persons who cease to be tax representatives: s 34(4).
- 8 Ie by virtue of ibid s 34.

845. Groups of companies.

Any aggregates levy with which a body corporate is charged in respect of aggregate¹ subjected to commercial exploitation² at a time when the body is a member of a group³ is treated⁴ as if it were the representative member⁵ of the group (instead of that body) which is charged with the levy⁶.

Application must be made⁷ for this treatment to apply; and where any bodies corporate are treated as members of a group for this purpose, and an application is made to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs for the addition to the group of a body corporate that is eligible to be so treated, then that body is to be included among the bodies so treated, from the specified time⁸. Similarly, application may be made: (1) for a body corporate to be excluded from the bodies so treated; (2) for another body corporate to be substituted for a body so treated; or (3) for the cessation of group treatment. In each case, the application is operative from the specified date⁹.

If it appears to the Commissioners necessary to do so for the protection of the revenue, they may, by notice¹⁰ given to any body corporate that is treated as a member of a group and to the representative member, terminate that treatment from such time (which must not be earlier than the day on which the notice is given to the representative member) as may be specified in the notice¹¹.

1 For the meaning of 'aggregate' see PARA 834 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'commercial exploitation' see PARA 835 ante.

3 For these purposes, a body corporate is a member of a group at any time in relation to which it falls to be treated as such a member in accordance with the Finance Act 2001 Sch 9: ss 35(6)(a), 48(1). Two or more bodies corporate are eligible to be treated as members of a group if: (1) each of them has an established place of business in the United Kingdom; and (2) they are all under the same control: s 35(1), Sch 9 para 1. Two or more bodies are under the same control if: (a) one of them controls each of the others; (b) one person, whether a body corporate or an individual, controls all of them; or (c) two or more individuals carrying on business in partnership control all of them: Sch 9 para 8(1). A body corporate is taken to control another body corporate if, and only if:

135 (i) it is empowered by statute to control that body's activities; or

136 (ii) it is that body's holding company within the meaning of the Companies Act 1985 s 736 (as substituted) (see COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 25), and an individual or individuals are taken to control a body corporate if, and only if (were he or they a company) he or they would be that body's holding company as so defined: Finance Act 2001 Sch 9 para 8(2), (3). For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 note 6 ante.

Where it appears to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs that an application has been made for these purposes for a body corporate to be treated as a member of a group, but that body is not eligible to be so treated, the Commissioners must give notice to the applicant that the application is ineffective: Sch 9 para 2(4). As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

4 Ie for the purposes of ibid Pt 2 (ss 16-49) (as amended).

5 For these purposes, the body corporate which is taken to be the representative member for a group at any time is the member of the group which in relation to that time is the representative member under ibid Sch 9 in relation to that group: ss 35(6)(b), 48(1). Where an application is made to the Commissioners with respect to two or more bodies corporate, and those bodies are all eligible to be treated as members of the same group for these purposes, then, from the specified time, they are to be so treated for those purposes, and such one of them as is specified in the application is to be the representative member: Sch 9 para 2(1). Such an application must be made by one of the bodies corporate concerned, or by the person controlling them: Sch 9 para 5. The 'specified time' means the beginning of such accounting period as may be specified in the notice: Sch 9 para 8(4). For the meaning of 'accounting period' see PARA 837 ante. As to applications generally see note 8 infra. For the Commissioners' powers to substitute the representative member see note 11 infra.

A body corporate which is designated as representative member in relation to any other bodies corporate may not cease to have an established place of business in the United Kingdom without first notifying the Commissioners of that fact; and failure to do so is visited with a fine of £250: Sch 9 para 6(2), (3). As to the power to increase the penalties see PARA 842 ante.

6 Ibid s 35(2). However, all the bodies corporate who are members of a group when any aggregates levy becomes due from the representative member, together with any bodies corporate who become members of the group while any such levy remains unpaid, are jointly and severally liable for any aggregates levy due from the representative member: s 35(3). References to aggregates levy being or becoming due from the representative member include references to any amounts being or becoming recoverable as if they were aggregates levy due from that member: s 35(5).

Subject to s 35(2), (3), the Commissioners may by regulations make such provision as they consider appropriate about the person by whom any obligation or liability imposed by or under Pt 2 (as amended) is to be performed or discharged, and the manner in which it is to be performed and discharged, in a case where the person who would otherwise be subject to the obligation or liability is one of a number of bodies corporate registered in the name of the representative member for a group: s 35(4). As to regulations generally see PARA 851 post.

7 See note 5 supra.

8 Finance Act 2001 Sch 9 para 2(2). The application must be made by one of the bodies corporate or by the person controlling them: Sch 9 para 5. As to the specified time see note 5 supra. The Commissioners may refuse an application under Sch 9 para 2(1) or (2) if, and only if, it appears to them necessary to do so for the protection of the revenue; and any such refusal must be given before the end of the period of 90 days beginning with the day on which the application is received by the Commissioners: Sch 9 para 2(3), (5). An application so refused is, and is treated as always having been, ineffective: Sch 9 para 2(3).

For the purposes of any provision made by or under Sch 9 for an application to be made to the Commissioners, regulations made by the Commissioners may make provision:

- 137 (1) as to the time within which the application is to be made (but the Commissioners may be authorised by the regulations to extend the time limit for the making of an application);
- 138 (2) as to the form and manner in which the application is to be made;
- 139 (3) as to the information and other particulars to be contained in or provided with any application, and the Commissioners may also by regulations impose obligations requiring a person who has made an application to notify the Commissioners if any information contained in or provided in connection with that application is or becomes inaccurate: Sch 9 para 7(1)-(3). This provision applies for the purposes of any provision made by or under Sch 9 for any matter to be notified to the Commissioners as it applies for the purposes of any provision so made for an application to be made to them; and, for this purpose, references to the making of the application are to be construed as references to the giving of the notification: Sch 9 para 7(4). As to regulations generally see PARA 851 post.

9 Ibid Sch 9 para 3(1). The Commissioners may refuse an application made under head (1) or (3) in the text if, and only if: (1) the case is not one appearing to them to fall within Sch 9 para 4(2)(a), (b) (see note 11 infra); and (2) it appears to them necessary for the protection of the revenue: Sch 9 para 3(2). They may refuse an application made under head (2) in the text only on the latter ground: Sch 9 para 3(3). In either case, an application so refused is, and is treated as always having been, ineffective: Sch 9 para 3(4). The 'specified time' means the beginning of such accounting period as may be specified in the notice, but may not be before the beginning of the accounting period which is current when the application is made: Sch 9 paras 3(5), 8(4). For the meaning of 'accounting period' see PARA 837 ante. As to applications generally see note 8 supra.

10 Any notice, notification or requirement that is to be or may be served on, given to, or imposed on, any person for the purposes of any provision made by or under ibid Pt 2 (as amended) may be served, given or imposed by sending it to that person or his tax representative by post in a letter addressed to that person or representative at the latest or usual residence or place of business of that person or representative: s 47(1). Any direction, notice or notification required or authorised by or under Pt 2 (as amended) may be withdrawn or varied by them by a direction, notice or notification given in the same manner as the one withdrawn or varied: s 47(3).

11 Ibid Sch 9 para 4(1), (4). Where: (1) a body corporate is treated as a member of a group; and (2) it appears to the Commissioners that it is not eligible to be so treated, they must, by notice given to the body corporate and the representative member, terminate that treatment from such time as may be specified in the notice; and where: (a) a body corporate ceases as from any time to be treated as a member of a group; (b) immediately before that time that body was the representative member; (c) there are two or more other bodies corporate which will continue to be so treated; and (d) none of those bodies is substituted from that time, or from before that time, as the representative member of the group, the Commissioners must, by notice given to such one of the bodies mentioned in head (c) supra as they think fit, substitute that body corporate as the representative member from that time: Sch 9 para 4(2), (3). The time specified in a notice under Sch 9 para 4(2), (3) may be a time before the giving of the notice, except that in the case of a notice given under Sch 9 para 4(2), the time so specified must not be before the time when the body corporate concerned ceased to be eligible to be treated as a member of a group: Sch 9 para 4(5), (6).

Where two or more bodies corporate are treated as members of a group for these purposes, and any of those bodies ceases to be eligible to be so treated, that body must notify the Commissioners of that fact, on pain of a penalty of £250: Sch 9 para 6(1), (3). As to the power to increase the penalties see PARA 842 ante.

846. Partnerships and other unincorporated bodies.

The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs¹ may by regulations make provision for determining by what persons anything required to be done² is to be done where, apart from these regulations, that requirement would fall on:

- 2141 (1) persons carrying on business in partnership; or
- 2142 (2) persons carrying on business together as an unincorporated body, but such regulations must be construed subject to the following provisions³.

In determining for these purposes who at any time is the person chargeable with any aggregates levy where the persons responsible for subjecting aggregate⁴ to commercial exploitation⁵ are persons carrying on business in partnership or as an unincorporated body, the firm or body is to be treated, for the purposes of that determination (and notwithstanding any changes from time to time in the members of the firm or body), as the same person and as separate from its members⁶.

Where persons have been carrying on in partnership any business in the course or furtherance of which any aggregate has been subjected to commercial exploitation, and a person ceases to be a member of the firm, that person is regarded for these purposes as continuing to be a partner until the date on which the change in the partnership is notified to the Commissioners⁷. Where a person ceases to be a member of a firm during an accounting period⁸, any notice, whether of assessment or otherwise, which is served on the firm under or for the purposes of any provision⁹, and relates to, or to any matter arising in, that period or any earlier period during the whole or part of which he was a member of the firm, is treated as served also on him¹⁰.

Where a person is a partner in a firm during part only of an accounting period, his personal liability for aggregates levy incurred by the firm in respect of aggregate subjected to commercial exploitation in that period includes, but does not exceed, such proportion of the firm's liability as may be just and reasonable in the circumstances¹¹.

847. Insolvency.

The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may by regulations make provision for the application of the statutory provisions relating to aggregates levy¹ in cases in which an insolvency procedure is applied to a person or to a deceased person's estate².

The provision that may be contained in such regulations may include any or all of the following: (1) provision requiring any such person as may be prescribed to give notification to the Commissioners, in the prescribed manner, of the prescribed particulars of any relevant matter³; (2) provision requiring a person to be treated⁴, to the prescribed extent, as if he were the same person as the subject of the procedure; and (3) provision for securing continuity⁵ where, by virtue of any such regulations, any person is treated as if he were the same person as the subject of the procedure⁶. Such regulations may also: (a) include provision for a person to cease, on the occurrence of such an event as may be prescribed therein, to be treated as if he were the same person as the object of the procedure; and (b) provide that the extent to which, and the purposes for which, a person is to be treated under the regulations as if he were the same person as the subject of the procedure may be determined by reference to a notice given in accordance with the regulations to the person so treated⁷.

² Ibid s 37(1). As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

For this purpose, an insolvency procedure is applied to a person if: (1) a bankruptcy order, winding-up order or administration order is made or an administrator is appointed in relation to that person or a partnership of which he is a member; (2) an award of sequestration is made in relation to that person's estate or the estate of a partnership of which he is a member; (3) that person is put into administrative receivership; (4) that person passes a resolution for voluntary winding up; (5) any voluntary arrangement approved in accordance with the Insolvency Act 1986 Pt I (ss 1-7B) (as amended) or Pt VIII (ss 252-263) (as amended) (see BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY vol 3(2) (2002 Reissue) PARA 91 et seq; COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY vol 7(3) (2004 Reissue) PARA 71 et seq) or with the Insolvency (Northern Ireland) Order 1989, SI 1989/2405 (NI 19), Pt II or Pt VIII Ch II comes into force in relation to that person or a partnership of which that person is a member; (6) a deed of arrangement registered in accordance with the Deeds of Arrangement Act 1914 (see BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY vol 3(2) (2002 Reissue) PARA 859 et seq) or the Insolvency (Northern Ireland) Order 1989, SI 1989/2405 (NI 19), Pt VIII Ch I takes effect in relation to that person; or (7) that person's estate becomes vested in any other person as that person's trustee under a trust deed (within the meaning of the Bankruptcy (Scotland) Act 1985): Finance Act 2001 s 37(7) (amended by the Finance Act 2002 s 132(1), Sch 38 para 8; and the Enterprise Act 2002 (Insolvency) Order 2003, SI 2003/2096, art 4, Schedule paras 35, 36(a)). In the Finance Act 2001 s 37(7) (as amended), the reference to any administration order is a reference to an administration order under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 8, Sch B1 (as added and amended) (see COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY vol 7(3) (2004 Reissue) PARA 212) or the Insolvency (Northern Ireland) Order 1989, SI 1989/2405 (NI 19), art 21; the reference to a person being put into administrative receivership is a reference to the appointment in relation to him of an administrative receiver, within the meaning of the Insolvency Act 1986 s 251 (see COMPANIES vol 15 (2009) PARA 1337) or the Insolvency (Northern Ireland) Order 1989, SI 1989/2405 (NI 19), art 5(1); and references to a member of a partnership include references to any person who is liable as a partner under the Partnership Act 1890 s 14 (see PARTNERSHIP vol 79 (2008) PARA 24 et seq): Finance Act 2001 s 37(9) (amended by the Enterprise Act 2002 (Insolvency) Order 2003, SI 2003/2096, Schedule para 36(b)).

An insolvency procedure is applied to a deceased person's estate if: (a) after that person's death a bankruptcy order, or an order with corresponding effect but a different name, is made in relation to that person's estate under any of the provisions of the Insolvency Act 1986 (see BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY) or the Insolvency (Northern Ireland) Order 1989, SI 1989/2405 (NI 19), as they are applied to the administration of the insolvent estates of deceased persons; or (b) an award of sequestration is made on that person's estate after his death: Finance Act 2001 s 37(8). For further matters relating to insolvency see PARA 840 note 12 ante.

3 'Relevant matter', in relation to a case in which an insolvency procedure is applied to any person or estate, means: (1) the application of that procedure to that person or estate; (2) the appointment of any person for the purposes of the application of that procedure; (3) any other matter relating to: (a) the application of that procedure to the subject of the procedure or to his estate; (b) the holding of an appointment made for the purposes of that procedure; or (c) the exercise or discharge of any powers or duties conferred or imposed on any person by virtue of such an appointment: ibid s 37(3).

Such regulations prescribing the manner in which any notification is to be given to the Commissioners may require it to be given in such manner and to contain such particulars as may be specified in a general notice published by the Commissioners in accordance with the regulations: s 37(5). 848. Death and incapacity.

The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs¹ may by regulations make provision for the purposes of aggregates levy in relation to cases where a person carries on a business of an individual who has died or become incapacitated; and the provisions which may be contained in such regulations are: (1) provision requiring the person who is carrying on the business to inform the Commissioners of the fact that he is carrying on the business and of the event that has led to his carrying it on; (2) provision allowing that person to be treated for a limited time as if he and the person who has died or become incapacitated were the same person; and (3) such other provision as the Commissioners may think fit for securing continuity² where a person is so treated³.

849. Transfer of a business as a going concern.

The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs¹ may by regulations make provision for securing continuity² in cases where any business carried on by a person is transferred to another person as a going concern; and such regulations may, in particular, include all or any of the following: (1) provision requiring the transferor to inform the Commissioners of the transfer; (2) provision for liabilities and duties³ of the transferor to become, to such extent as may be provided by such regulations, liabilities and duties of the transferee; (3) provision for any right of either of them to a tax credit or repayment of aggregates levy to be satisfied by allowing the credit or making the repayment to the other; (4) provision as to the preservation of any records or accounts relating to the business which are required⁴ to be preserved for any period after the transfer⁵.

850. Review and appeal.

The following provision applies to any decision of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs with respect to any of the following matters: (1) whether or not a person is charged in any case with an amount of aggregates levy; (2) the amount of aggregates levy charged in any case and the time when the charge is to be taken as having arisen; (3) the registration of any person or premises for the purposes of aggregates levy or the cancellation of any registration; (4) the person liable to pay the aggregates levy charged in any case, the amount of a person's liability to aggregates levy and the time by which he is required to pay an amount of that levy; (5) the imposition of a requirement on any person to give security, or further security¹ and the amount and manner of providing any such security; (6) whether or not liability to a penalty or to interest on any amount arises in any person's case², and the amount of such liability; (7) any matter the decision as to which is reviewable under this provision³; (8) the extent of any person's entitlement to any tax credit or to a repayment in respect of a tax credit and the extent of any liability⁴ of the Commissioners to pay interest on any amount; (9) whether or not a person is required to have a tax representative⁵; (10) the giving, withdrawal or variation⁶ of any approval or direction with respect to a person who is to act as another's tax representative; (11) whether a body corporate is to be treated, or is to cease to be treated, as a member of a group, the times at which a body corporate is to be so treated and the body corporate which is, in relation to any time, to be the representative member for the group; and (12) any matter not falling within heads (1) to (11) above the decision with respect to which is contained in any⁷ assessment⁸.

Any person who is or will be affected by any decision falling within heads (1) to (12) above may by notice in writing to the Commissioners require them to review the decision; and it is then the Commissioners' duty to do so, unless the notice requiring the review is given before the end of the period of 45 days beginning with the day on which written notification of the decision, or of an assessment containing or giving effect to the decision, was first given to the person requiring the review⁹. A person is entitled to give a notice under this provision requiring a decision to be reviewed for a second or subsequent time only if: (a) the grounds on which he requires the further review are that the Commissioners did not, on any previous review, have the opportunity to consider certain facts or other matters; and (b) he does not, on the further review, require the Commissioners to consider any facts or matters which were considered on a previous review except in so far as they are relevant to any issue to which the facts or matters not previously considered relate¹⁰.

On a review under this provision, the Commissioners may withdraw, vary or confirm the decision reviewed; but where they decide that a liability to a penalty or to an amount of interest arises, they are not entitled to modify the amount payable in respect of that liability except in specified circumstances¹¹. Where the Commissioners are under a duty to review a decision and they do not, within the period of 45 days beginning with the day on which the review was required, give notice to the person requiring it of their determination of the review, they are taken to have confirmed the decision¹².

An appeal lies to an appeal tribunal¹³ with respect to any decision by the Commissioners on such a review¹⁴. Where the appeal relates to a decision (whether or not contained in an assessment) that an amount of aggregates levy is due from any person, that appeal is not to be entertained unless: (i) the amount which the Commissioners have determined to be due has been paid or deposited with them; or (ii) on being satisfied that the appellant would otherwise suffer hardship, the Commissioners agree or the tribunal decides otherwise¹⁵.

Where, on appeal, it is found that an assessment of the appellant made, confirmed or treated as confirmed by the Commissioners on a review ('the original assessment') is an assessment for an amount that is less than it ought to have been, and the tribunal gives a decision specifying the correct amount, the assessment has effect as an assessment of the amount so specified, and as if it were an assessment notified to the appellant in that amount at the same time as the original assessment¹⁶.

On an appeal, the powers of the appeal tribunal in relation to any decision of the Commissioners include a power, where the appeal is allowed on the ground that the Commissioners could not reasonably have arrived at the decision, either to direct that the decision, so far as it remains in force, is to cease to have effect from such time as the tribunal may direct, or to require the Commissioners to conduct, in accordance with the direction of the tribunal, a further review of the original decision¹⁷.

Where, on appeal, it is found that the whole or part of any amount due to the appellant by way of any repayment in respect of a tax credit has not been paid, so much of that amount as is found not to have been paid is to be paid with interest at such rate as the tribunal may determine¹⁸.

For this purpose, it is the duty of the Commissioners to give written notification of any decision to which s 40 applies to any person who: (1) requests such a notification; (2) has not previously been given written notification of that decision; and (3) if given such a notification, will be entitled to require a review of the decision under this provision: s 40(4). As to the mode of giving notification see PARA 845 note 10 ante. The Commissioners may, however, agree to conduct a review even if the time limits are not met.

Similarly, if on an appeal under s 41 (see text and notes 13-15 infra) the tribunal finds that a liability to a penalty or to an amount of interest arises, it may not give any direction for the modification of the amount payable except in those circumstances: s 42(3).

15 Ibid s 41(2). On an appeal under s 41 relating to a penalty under Sch 6 para 7 (see PARA 842 ante), the burden of proof as to the matters specified in Sch 6 para 7(1)(a)-(c) lies upon the Commissioners: s 41(3). Where an appeal has been entertained notwithstanding that an amount determined by the Commissioners to be payable as aggregates levy has not been paid or deposited, and it is found on the appeal that that amount is due, the tribunal may, if it thinks fit, direct that that amount be paid with interest at such rate as may be specified in the direction: s 42(6). By the same token, where it is found on appeal that the whole or part of any amount paid or deposited in pursuance of s 41(2) is not due, so much of that amount as is found not to be due is to be repaid with interest at such rate as the tribunal may determine: s 42(4).

UPDATE

850 Review and appeal

TEXT AND NOTES 1-12--Subject to the Finance Act 2001 s 41, an appeal now lies to an appeal tribunal from any person who is or will be affected by any decision of Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs with respect to any of the matters referred to in heads (1)-12), and in head (7) for 'reviewable' read 'appealable': s 40(1) (amended by SI 2009/56). Detailed provisions as to review by Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs of their decisions, similar to those set out in PARA 1240, apply: Finance Act 2001 ss 40A-40F (added by SI 2009/56).

An appeal under the Finance Act 2001 s 40 must be made to the appeal tribunal before the end of the period of 30 days beginning with (1)(a) in a case where the appellant is the person (P) to whom notice of the decision has been given, the date of the document in which he was so notified; and (b) in any other case, the date when the person concerned became aware of the decision; or (2) if later, the end of the relevant period (ie the period of 30 days from the acceptance of Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs' offer of a review or from the appellant's request for a review): s 40G(1) (s 40G added by SI 2009/56). In a case where Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs is required to undertake a review under the Finance Act 2001 s 40C, an appeal may not be made until the conclusion date; and must then be made within the period of 30 days beginning with that date; and where a review is requested under s 40E, an appeal may not be made unless Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs has decided not to undertake a review or, if a review is undertaken, until the conclusion date, and must then be made within the period of 30 days beginning with the date on which the decision was made or, as the case may be, with the conclusion date: s 40G(3), (4). Where no notice is of the conclusions of a review by Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs, it is treated as having confirmed the decision and Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs is then required to give notice of the conclusion which is treated as having been so reached. In such a case, an appeal may be made at any time from the end of the period of 45 days (or such longer period as Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs may allow) beginning with the date on which the offer of review was accepted, the request for review was made, or the decision not to review was taken, to the date 30 days after the conclusion date. In each case, the appeal tribunal may extend the period: s 40G(5), (6). 'Conclusion date' means the date of the document notifying the conclusion of the review: s 40G(7).

NOTE 7--The reference is now to an assessment under the Finance Act 2001 Sch 5 para 2 or 3 in respect of an accounting period in relating to which any return required to be made by virtue of regulations under s 25 (see PARA 837) has been made, or any assessment under any provision of Sch 5 other than para 2 or 3: s 40(1)(l) (amended by SI 2009/56).

TEXT AND NOTES 11-18--The rate of interest is now that applicable under the Finance Act 1996 s 197; and interest due to Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs is payable without deduction of income tax: Finance Act 2001 s 42(4)-(6A) (s 42(4)-(6) amended, s 45(6A) added, by SI 2009/56). The Value Added Tax Act 1994 ss 85, 85B (see VALUE ADDED TAX vol 49(1) (2005 Reissue) PARA 368A) have effect as if the references to s 83 included references to the Finance Act 2001 s 40, and the references to value added tax included references to aggregates levy: s 45(7) (substituted by SI 2009/56). The 'appeal tribunal' is now the First-tier Tribunal or, where determined by or under Tribunal Procedure Rules, the Upper Tribunal: Finance Act 2001 s 48(2) (amended by SI 2009/56).

TEXT AND NOTES 13-15--Finance Act 2001 s 41(1) repealed: SI 2009/56. Where an appeal under the Finance Act 2001 s 40 relates to a decision (whether or not contained in an assessment) that an amount of aggregates levy is due from any person, it must not be entertained unless the amount which Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs have determined to be due has been paid or deposited with them. However, where no such payment or deposit has been made, an appeal may still be entertained if Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs (on the application of the appellant) are satisfied (or, if they are not so satisfied, the appeal tribunal, again on the application of the appellant, decides) that the requirement to pay or deposit the amount determined would cause the appellant to suffer hardship: s 41(2), (2A) (s 41(2)-(2B) substituted by SI 2009/56). Notwithstanding the provisions of the Tribunals, Courts and Inquiries Act 2007 ss 11 (see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 13A.7) and 13 (see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 13A.8) the decision of the appeal tribunal on the issue of hardship is final: s 41(2B). Section 41(3) now refers to an appeal under s 41: s 41(3) (amended by SI 2009/56).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/2. EXCISE DUTIES/(14) AGGREGATES LEVY/851. Regulations and orders.

851. Regulations and orders.

The powers of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs¹ to make regulations are exercisable by statutory instrument subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of the House of Commons².

Where regulations so made impose a relevant requirement³ on any person, they may provide that if the person fails to comply with the requirement he is liable to a penalty of £250⁴.

Such a power to make any provision by order or regulations:

2143 (1) may be exercised so as to apply the provision only in such cases as may be described in the order or regulations;

2144 (2) may be exercised so as to make different provision for different cases or descriptions of case, and includes power to make such supplementary, incidental, consequential or transitional provision as the Treasury⁵ or, as the case may be, the Commissioners, may think fit⁶.

¹ ie under the Finance Act 2001 Pt 2 (ss 16-49) (as amended). As to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs see PARA 900 et seq post.

² Ibid s 45(1).

³ A 'relevant requirement' is any requirement other than one the penalty for a contravention of which is specified in ibid s 25(3) (see PARA 837 ante), s 33(3) (see PARA 844 ante), or Sch 7 para 2 (see PARA 843 ante): s 45(4).

⁴ Ibid s 45(2). However, where by reason of any conduct: (1) a person is convicted of any offence (whether under the Finance Act 2001 or otherwise); or (2) a person is assessed to a penalty under Sch 6 para 7 (see PARA 842 ante), that person may not, by reason of that conduct, be liable also to a penalty under any such regulations: s 45(3). As to the power to increase penalties see PARA 842 ante.

⁵ As to the Treasury see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARAS 512-517.

⁶ Finance Act 2001 s 45(5). This provision does not, however, apply to an order under s 16(6) (see PARA 834 ante) or s 24(10) (commencement of s 24): s 45(6).

(15) LANDFILL TAX

852. Landfill tax.

A tax, known as landfill tax, is charged in accordance with Part III¹ of the Finance Act 1996². The tax is under the care and management of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs³. Landfill tax is charged on a taxable disposal⁴. A disposal is a taxable disposal if: (1) it is a disposal of material as waste; (2) it is made by way of landfill; (3) it is made at a landfill site; and (4) it is made on or after 1 October 1996⁵. The person liable to pay landfill tax charged on a taxable disposal is the landfill site operator⁶, but there is a secondary liability of the controller of a landfill site if that is a different person from the operator⁷.

(16) CLIMATE CHANGE LEVY

853. Climate change levy.

A tax, known as climate change levy, is charged on supplies for industrial and commercial purposes of energy in the form of electricity, gas, petroleum gas and other gaseous hydrocarbons supplied in a liquid state, and any other taxable commodity¹. The levy is under the care and management of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs² who are empowered to make regulations avoiding a double charge to levy³.

A supply of a taxable commodity is a taxable supply⁴. Taxable commodities are: (1) electricity; (2) any gas in a gaseous state that is of a kind supplied by a gas utility; (3) any petroleum gas or other gaseous hydrocarbon, in a liquid state; (4) coal and lignite; (5) coke, and semi-coke, of coal or lignite; or (6) petroleum coke⁵.

Each of the following supplies of a taxable commodity (or part of such a supply) is a taxable supply for the purposes of climate change levy: (a) a supply of electricity made by an electricity utility to a person who is not an electricity utility or to the utility itself⁶; (b) a supply of gas made by a gas utility to a person who is not a gas utility or to the utility itself⁷; and (c) a supply of any taxable commodity, other than electricity or gas in a gaseous state, which is made in the course or furtherance of a business⁸.

The person liable to account for the levy charged on a taxable supply is the person making the supply, except in the case of a taxable supply made by a person who is not resident in the United Kingdom and is neither an electricity nor a gas utility, when the person so liable is the person to whom the supply is made⁹. Provision is made for reduction of the amount of levy where the taxable supply is made to a horticultural producer in specified circumstances¹⁰, or where a climate change agreement is in force¹¹. Certain supplies are excluded supplies¹², or exempt supplies¹³.

The Commissioners may by regulations make provision for persons liable to account for climate change levy to make payment and returns of it¹⁴. Provision is also made as to repayment, recovery, interest and penalties¹⁵, and for review of and appeal against decisions¹⁶.

(17) LORRY ROAD USER CHARGE

854. Lorry road-user charge.

A tax, known as lorry road-user charge, is charged in respect of use of roads by lorries; and such charge is under the care and management of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs¹. The persons by whom lorry road-user charge is to be payable, the rates at which it is to be charged, and the lorries, roads and use in respect of which it is to be charged, are to be such as Parliament may determine². The amount of the charge made in respect of the use of any roads by a lorry is to be calculated in such manner as Parliament may determine, by reference to the distance travelled on those roads by the lorry³.

(18) INSURANCE PREMIUM TAX

855. Insurance premium tax.

Insurance premium tax is charged on the receipt of a premium by an insurer under a taxable insurance contract on or after 1 October 1994¹. The tax is under the care and management of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs². Tax is charged by reference to the chargeable amount, which is such amount as, with the addition of the tax chargeable, is equal to the amount of the premium³. Tax is charged at the higher rate of 17.5 per cent in the case of a premium which is liable to tax at that rate and at the standard rate of 5 per cent in any other case⁴. The tax is payable by the person who is the insurer in relation to the contract under which the premium is received⁵.

Registrable persons must account for the tax⁶, and where:

- 2145 (1) a person has failed to make any returns required to be made;
- 2146 (2) a person has failed to keep any documents necessary to verify returns required to be made;
- 2147 (3) a person has failed to afford the facilities necessary to verify returns; or
- 2148 (4) it appears to the Commissioners that returns required to be made are incomplete or incorrect, the Commissioners may assess the amount of tax due from the person concerned to the best of their judgment and notify it to him⁷.

Provision is made for the repayment of overpayments of tax, with interest if appropriate⁸. Decisions of the Commissioners are subject to review and appeal⁹.

(19) GAME LICENCES

856. In general.

The duties chargeable by the Game Licences Act 1860 are excise duties¹. Game licences are now granted in England by district councils, London borough councils and the Common Council of the City of London and in Wales by county councils and county borough councils; and they are normally issued by the post office on the council's request to act as its agent². A game licence and an excise licence to deal in game must denote the amount of duty charged on it³.

The provisions of the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 relating to excise do not apply⁴ in relation to the excise duties on licences to kill game and on licences to deal in game which are leviable⁵ by local authorities⁶.

The Treasury⁷ may by order provide that, subject to such modifications, if any, as may be specified in the order, any provision of the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 so specified which confers or imposes powers, duties or liabilities with respect to excise duties and to the issue and cancellation of excise licences on which those duties are imposed and to other matters relating to excise duties and licences is to have effect in relation to a local authority and its officers with respect to the excise duties on licences to kill game and on licences to deal in game as it has effect in relation to the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs⁸ and officers with respect to other excise duties and licences; and such provisions and, subject as aforesaid, any provisions relating to punishments and penalties in connection therewith have effect accordingly⁹.

At the date at which this volume states the law no such order had been made but, by virtue of the Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2)(b) and the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 s 177(5), the Transferred Excise Duties (Application of Enactments) Order 1952, SI 1952/2205, and the Transferred Excise Duties (Application of Enactments) Order 1963, SI 1963/2014, have effect as if so made.

857. The legislation.

Certain reliefs are available under the Customs and Excise Duties (General Reliefs) Act 1979¹.

The Customs and Excise Duties (General Reliefs) Act 1979 and the other Acts included in the Customs and Excise Acts 1979² are to be construed as one Act; but, where a provision of the Customs and Excise Duties (General Reliefs) Act 1979 refers to that Act, that reference is not to be construed as including a reference to any of the others³.

Any expression used in the Customs and Excise Duties (General Reliefs) Act 1979 or in any instrument made under that Act to which a meaning is given by any other Act included in the Customs and Excise Acts 1979 has, except where the context otherwise requires, the same meaning in the Customs and Excise Duties (General Reliefs) Act 1979 or in any such instrument as in that Act⁴.

(2) CUSTOMS DUTIES

858. Reliefs from customs duty for conformity with Community obligations and other international obligations etc.

The Secretary of State may by order provide for relieving goods¹ from the whole or part of any customs duty chargeable on goods imported into the United Kingdom².

Goods of any description may be relieved from customs duty if and in so far as the relief appears to the Secretary of State to be necessary or expedient with a view to:

- 2149 (1) conforming with any Community obligations; or
- 2150 (2) otherwise affording relief provided for by or under the Community Treaties³ or any decisions of the representatives of the governments of the member states of the Coal and Steel Community⁴ meeting in Council⁵.

Goods of any description may be relieved from customs duty if and in so far as the relief appears to the Secretary of State to be necessary or expedient with a view to conforming with an international agreement relating to matters other than commercial relations⁶.

Exposed cinematograph film may be relieved from customs duty if certified as provided by the order to be of an educational character⁷. Relief so given in respect of exposed cinematograph film may be restricted with a view to securing reciprocity in countries or territories outside the United Kingdom⁸.

Articles recorded with sound, other than exposed cinematograph film, may be relieved from customs duty, other than duty chargeable on similar articles not so recorded, if the articles are not produced in quantity for general sale as so recorded⁹.

1 For these purposes, 'goods' has the same meaning as in the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 (see PARA 413 note 1 ante): Customs and Excise Duties (General Reliefs) Act 1979 s 18(2).

2 Ibid s 1(1). For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 note 6 ante.

In exercise of the power so conferred the Secretary of State has made the Customs and Import Duty Reliefs (Revocation) Order 1984, SI 1984/810, and the Import Duty Reliefs (Revocation) Order 1987, SI 1987/1785; and, by virtue of the Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2)(b), the Import Duty Reliefs Order 1963, SI 1963/2013 (relief from import duty on goods furnished under arrangements with the government of the United States of America for the production, maintenance, repair and overhaul of equipment and materials for common defence), the Import Duty Reliefs (No 1) Order 1965, SI 1965/1664 (relief from import duty on goods imported for the development and construction of European space vehicle launchers), the Import Duty Reliefs (No 2) Order 1965, SI 1965/1665 (relief from import duty on goods imported for the development and construction of European space research vehicles), the Import Duties Reliefs (No 2) Order 1970, SI 1970/1497 (relief from import duty on goods imported under arrangements with the United States of America regarding co-operation in defence satellite communications) and the Import Duties Reliefs (No 3) Order 1970, SI 1970/1617 (relief from import duty on goods imported under arrangements with the Kingdom of Belgium for the development and production of a family of light tracked vehicles) have effect as if so made. As to the power to amend or repeal the Customs and Excise Duties (General Reliefs) Act 1979 s 1 see PARA 859 text and note 2 post.

Any power to make orders or regulations under the Customs and Excise Duties (General Reliefs) Act 1979 is exercisable by statutory instrument: s 17(1). Any statutory instrument containing an order under s 1, s 4 (see PARA 861 post), s 7 (as substituted) (see PARA 864 post), s 11A (as added) (see PARA 871 post), s 13 (as amended) (see PARA 875 post) or s 13A (as added) (see PARA 887 post) or regulations under s 14(3) (see PARA 891 post) is subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of the House of Commons: s 17(3) (amended by the Finance Act 1984 s 14(2), (3); the Finance Act 1988 s 5(2)(a); and the Finance Act 1989 s 28(3)). Where, however, an order under the Customs and Excise Duties (General Reliefs) Act 1979 s 1, s 4, s 11A (as added), s 13(1) or s 13A (as added) restricts any relief from duty or tax, the statutory instrument containing the order must be laid before the House of Commons after being made and, unless the order is approved by that House before the end of the period of 28 days beginning with the day on which it was made, it ceases to have effect at the end of that period but without prejudice to anything previously done under the order or to the making of a new order: s 17(4) (amended by the Finance Act 1988 s 5(2); and the Finance Act 1989 s 28(3)). In reckoning that period of 28 days, no account is to be taken of any time during which Parliament is dissolved or prorogued or during which the House of Commons is adjourned for more than four days: Customs and Excise Duties (General Reliefs) Act 1979 s 17(4) (as so amended). Section 17(4) (as amended) does not apply in the case of an instrument containing an order under s 1, s 4 or s 11A (as added) which states that it does not restrict any relief otherwise than in pursuance of a Community obligation: s 17(5) (amended by the Finance Act 1988 s 5(2) (b)). For these purposes, restricting any relief includes removing or reducing any relief previously conferred: Customs and Excise Duties (General Reliefs) Act 1979 s 17(6).

859. Reliefs from customs duty referable to Community practices.

The Secretary of State may by regulations make such provision as regards reliefs from customs duty chargeable on goods imported into the United Kingdom¹ as appears to him to be expedient having regard to the practices adopted or to be adopted in other member states, whether by law or administrative action and whether or not for conformity with Community obligations².

¹ As to the meaning of 'goods' see PARA 858 note 1 ante. For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 1 note 6 ante.

² Customs and Excise Duties (General Reliefs) Act 1979 s 2(1). Regulations under s 2 may amend or repeal accordingly any of s 1 (see PARA 858 ante), s 3 (see PARA 860 post), s 4 (see PARA 861 post) and s 15 (as amended) (see PARA 895 post): s 2(2). In exercise of the power so conferred the Secretary of State has made the Inward Processing Relief (Revocation) Regulations 1986, SI 1986/2141, and the Customs Duties (Standard Exchange Relief and Outward Processing Relief) (Revocation) Regulations 1989, SI 1989/116.

As to the making of regulations see PARA 858 note 2 ante. Any statutory instrument containing regulations under the Customs and Excise Duties (General Reliefs) Act 1979 s 2 is subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament, except where a draft of the regulations has been approved by resolution of each House of Parliament: s 17(2).

Halsbury's Laws of England/CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (VOLUME 12(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-619; VOLUME 12(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 620-1288)/3. RELIEFS/(2) CUSTOMS DUTIES/860. Power to exempt particular importations of certain goods from customs duty.

860. Power to exempt particular importations of certain goods from customs duty.

The Secretary of State may direct that payment is not to be required of the whole or part of any customs duty which is chargeable on any goods imported or proposed to be imported into the United Kingdom¹ if he is satisfied that the goods qualify for relief under these provisions and that in all the circumstances it is expedient for the relief to be given².

The following goods so qualify for relief, that is to say articles intended and reasonably required:

- 2151 (1) for the purpose of subjecting the articles, or any material or component in the articles, to examination or tests with a view to promoting or improving the manufacture in the United Kingdom of goods similar to those articles or to that material or component, as the case may be; or
- 2152 (2) for the purpose of subjecting goods capable of use with those or similar articles, including goods which might be used as materials or components in such articles or in which such articles might be used as materials or components, to examination or tests with a view to promoting or improving the manufacture in the United Kingdom of those or similar goods³.

Any direction of the Secretary of State under these provisions may be given subject to such conditions as he thinks fit⁴. Where a direction so given by the Secretary of State is subject to any conditions, and it is proposed to use or dispose of the goods in any manner for which the consent of the Secretary of State is required by the conditions, the Secretary of State may consent to the goods being so used or disposed of subject to payment of the duty which would have been payable but for the direction or such part of the duty as the Secretary of State thinks appropriate in the circumstances⁵.

The Secretary of State must not so give a direction except on a written application made by the importer⁶; and a direction so given has effect to such extent, if any, as the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may allow if the goods have been released from customs and excise control⁷ without the importer having given to the Commissioners notice of the direction or of his application or intention to apply for it⁸. Any such notice to the Commissioners must be in such form as they may require; and the Commissioners, on receiving any such notice or at any time afterwards, may impose any such conditions as they see fit for the protection of the revenue, including conditions requiring security for the observance of any conditions subject to which relief is granted⁹.

A direction of the Secretary of State under the above provisions has effect only if, and so long as, any conditions of the relief, including any conditions imposed by the Commissioners¹⁰, are complied with; but where any customs duty is paid on the importation of any goods, and the Commissioners are satisfied that, by virtue of a direction subsequently given and having effect under the above provisions, payment of the duty is not required, the duty must be repaid¹¹.

861. Administration of reliefs; administration or implementation of similar Community reliefs.

The Secretary of State may by order make provision for the administration of any relief from customs duty for conformity with Community obligations and other international obligations¹ or for the implementation or administration of any like relief provided for by any Community instrument².

Such an order may in particular:

- 2153 (1) impose or authorise the imposition of conditions for securing that goods³ relieved from duty as being imported for a particular purpose are used for that purpose or such other conditions as appear expedient to secure the object or prevent abuse of the relief;
- 2154 (2) where the relief is limited to a quota of imported goods, provide for determining the allocation of the quota or for enabling it to be determined by the issue of certificates or licences or otherwise;
- 2155 (3) confer on a government department or any other authority or person functions in connection with the administration of the relief or the enforcement of any condition of relief;
- 2156 (4) authorise any government department having any such functions to make payments, whether for remuneration or for expenses, to persons advising the department or otherwise acting in the administration of the relief;
- 2157 (5) require the payment of fees by persons applying for the relief or applying for the registration of any person or premises in connection with the relief;
- 2158 (6) authorise articles for which relief is claimed to be sold or otherwise disposed of if the relief is not allowed and duty is not paid⁴.

Any expenses incurred by a government department by virtue of any order under the above provisions must be defrayed out of money provided by Parliament; and any fees received by a government department by virtue of any such order must be paid into the Consolidated Fund⁵.

862. Annual reports to Parliament.

As soon as may be after the end of each financial year the Secretary of State must lay before each House of Parliament a report on the exercise during that year of the powers conferred on him¹ with respect to the allowance of exemptions and reliefs from customs duties, including the power to amend or revoke orders providing for any exemption or relief from customs duties².

863. Relief from customs duty of certain goods from the Channel Islands.

Any goods¹ which are the produce or growth of any of the Channel Islands or which have been manufactured in any of those islands from:

- 2159 (1) materials which are such produce or growth; or
- 2160 (2) materials not chargeable with any duty in the United Kingdom²; or
- 2161 (3) materials so chargeable upon which that duty has been paid and not drawn back³, may be imported without payment of any customs duty chargeable thereon⁴.

The above provisions do not apply in relation to any goods unless the master of the ship⁵ or commander⁶ of the aircraft in which the goods are imported produces to the proper officer⁷ at the place of importation a certificate from the Lieutenant-Governor or other proper authority of the island from which the goods are imported that a declaration in such form and containing such particulars as the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs may direct has been made before a magistrate of that island by the person exporting the goods therefrom that the goods are goods to which these provisions apply⁸. The Commissioners for Revenue and Customs¹ may by order make provision for conferring reliefs from duty and VAT² in respect of goods imported into the United Kingdom by or for any person who has become entitled to them as legatee³. Any such relief may take the form either of an exemption from payment of duty and tax or of a provision whereby the sum payable by way of duty or tax is less than it would otherwise be⁴.

The Commissioners may by order make provision supplementing any Community relief⁵, in such manner as they think necessary or expedient⁶.

An order under the above provisions:

- 2162 (1) may make any relief for which it provides or any Community relief subject to conditions, including conditions which are to be complied with after the importation of the goods to which the relief applies;
- 2163 (2) may, in relation to any relief conferred by order made under these provisions, contain such incidental and supplementary provisions as the Commissioners think necessary or expedient; and
- 2164 (3) may make different provision for different cases⁷.
